INFORMATION ABOUT ADMINISTRATIVE RULES

General Information

The Administrative Rules Unit, Archives Division, Secretary of State publishes the Oregon Administrative Rules Compilation and the online Oregon Bulletin. The Oregon Administrative Rules Compilation is an annual print publication containing complete text of Oregon Administrative Rules (OARs) filed through November 15 of the previous year. The Oregon Bulletin is a monthly online supplement that contains rule text adopted or amended after publication of the print Compilation, as well as Notices of Proposed Rulemaking and Rulemaking Hearing. The Bulletin also includes certain non-OAR items when they are submitted, such as Executive Orders of the Governor, Opinions of the Attorney General and Department of Environmental Quality cleanup notices.

Background on Oregon Administrative Rules

ORS 183.310(9) defines "rule" as "any agency directive, standard, regulation or statement of general applicability that implements, interprets or prescribes law or policy, or describes the procedure or practice requirements of any agency." Agencies may adopt, amend, repeal or renumber rules, permanently or temporarily (up to 180 days), using the procedures outlined in the Oregon Attorney General's Administrative Law Manual. The Administrative Rules Unit assists agencies with the notification, filing and publication requirements of the administrative rulemaking process.

OAR Citations

Every Administrative Rule uses the same numbering sequence of a three-digit chapter number followed by a three-digit division number and a four-digit rule number (000-000-0000). For example, Oregon Administrative Rules, chapter 166, division 500, rule 0020 is cited as OAR 166-500-0020.

Understanding an Administrative Rule's "History"

State agencies operate in an environment of ever-changing laws, public concerns and legislative mandates which necessitate ongoing rulemaking. To track changes to individual rules and organize the original rule documents for permanent retention, the Administrative Rules Unit maintains history lines for each rule, located at the end of the rule text. OAR histories contain the rule's statutory authority, statutes implemented and dates of each authorized modification to the rule text. Changes are listed chronologically in abbreviated form, with the most recent change listed last. In the history line "OSA 4-1993, f. & cert. ef. 11-10-93," for example, "OSA" is short for Oregon State Archives; "4-1993" indicates this was 4th administrative rule filing by the Archives in 1993; "f. & cert. ef. 11-10-93" means the rule was filed and certified effective on November 10, 1993.

Locating Current Versions of Administrative Rules

The online version of the OAR Compilation is updated on the first of each month to include all rule actions filed with the Administrative Rules Unit by the 15th of the previous month. The annual printed OAR Compilation volumes contain text for all rules filed through November 15 of the previous year. Administrative Rules created or changed after publication in the print Compilation will appear in a subsequent edition of the online Bulletin. These are listed by rule number in the Bulletin's OAR Revision Cumulative Index, which is updated monthly. The listings specify each rule's effective date, rulemaking action, and the issue of the Bulletin that contains the full text of the adopted or amended rule.

Locating Administrative Rule Publications

Printed volumes of the Compilation are deposited in Oregon's Public Documents Depository Libraries listed in OAR 543-070-0000. Complete sets and individual volumes of the printed OAR Compilation may be ordered from the Administrative Rules Unit, Archives Division, 800 Summer Street NE, Salem, Oregon 97301, (503) 373-0701.

Filing Adminstrative Rules and Notices

All hearing and rulemaking notices, and permanent and temporary rules, are filed through the Administrative Rules Unit's online filing system. To expedite the rulemaking process, agencies are encouraged to file a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Hearing specifying hearing date, time and location, and to submit their filings early in the submission period. All notices and rules must be filed by the 15th of the month to be included in the next month's Bulletin and OAR Compilation postings. Filings must contain the date stamp from the deadline day or earlier to be published the following month.

Administratrative Rules Coordinators and Delegation of Signing Authority

Each agency that engages in rulemaking must appoint a rules coordinator and file an Appointment of Agency Rules Coordinator form with the Administrative Rules Unit. Agencies that delegate rulemaking authority to an officer or employee within the agency must also file a Delegation of Rulemaking Authority form. It is the agency's responsibility to monitor the rulemaking authority of selected employees and keep the forms updated. The Administrative Rules Unit does not verify agency signatures as part of the rulemaking process.

Publication Authority

The Oregon Bulletin is published pursuant to ORS 183.360(3). Copies of the original Administrative Orders may be obtained from the Archives Division, 800 Summer Street, Salem, Oregon, 97310; (503) 373-0701. The Archives Division charges for such copies.

The official copy of an Oregon Administrative Rule is contained in the Administrative Order filed at the Archives Division. Any discrepancies with the published version are satisfied in favor of the Administrative Order.

DIVISION OF MEDICAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS (DMAP) PROPOSES TO AMEND THE DURABLE MEDICAL EQUIPMENT (DME) FEE SCHEDULE TO A PERCENTAGE OF 2012 MFS THAT WILL APPROXIMATE MAINTENANCE OF BUDGET NEUTRALITY

COMMENTS DUE: February 7, 2014
PROPOSAL: A State Plan Amendment will be filed with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid in order for DMAP to amend the DME fee schedule to a percentage of 2012 MFS that will approximate maintenance of budget neutrality. Some DMEPOS categories are at a higher rate of reimbursement than others, as negotiated by those particular provider groups and taking rates history into consideration. Rates for items not covered by Medicare will remain unchanged. This includes incontinent supplies, dialysis supplies, vision services, EPIV services/supplies billed by non-EPIV providers. Payment methodology on miscellaneous codes (E1399, K0108, A4649) and items that are manually priced will also remain unchanged.

REQUEST FOR COMMENTS
PROPOSED APPROVAL OF CLEANUP AT FLORAGON-NORTHERN PARCELS

COMMENTS DUE: March 2, 2014
PROJECT LOCATION: South Molalla Avenue at South Molalla Forest Road, Molalla, Oregon.
PROPOSAL: The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) is proposing to issue a No Further Action (NFA) determination for the approximately 83-acre northern portion of the Floragon site in Molalla, Oregon (the Northern Parcels). DEQ is proposing the NFA because residual contamination does not exceed acceptable risk levels.
HIGHLIGHTS: Lumber mills formerly occupied the Floragon site. Environmental contamination related to former mill operations, in particular wood treating at former dip tanks, has been found, primarily in the southern portion of the site (the Southern Parcels). The Southern Parcels consist of Bear Creek and approximately 22 acres south of the creek, where environmental work continues with DEQ oversight. North of the creek in the Northern Parcels, sampling and risk analysis identified little contamination in upland soil, but elevated levels of some contaminants in the stormwater system and ditches. Storm system and ditch sediment cleanout were completed in late 2013 and early 2014 under DEQ oversight, in order to further reduce contaminant levels. Remaining contamination in the Northern Parcels does not pose a significant risk to public health or the environment. A NFA decision is therefore proposed for the Northern Parcels.
HOW TO COMMENT: The project file may be reviewed by appointment at DEQ's Northwest Region Office at 2020 SW 4th Avenue, Suite 400, Portland, OR 97201. To schedule an appointment to review the file, please contact Dawn Weinberger at (503) 229-6729. To access site summary information and the Site Closure Memorandum in DEQ's Environmental Cleanup Site Information (ECSI) database on the Internet, go to http://www.deq.state.or.us/lq/ECSI/ecsiquery.asp, then enter 0009 in the Site ID box and click "Submit" at the bottom of the page. Next, click the link labeled 0009 in the Site ID/Info column. Written comments may be sent to Dan Hafley, Project Manager, by e-mail or regular mail to the addresses listed above. Upon written request by ten or more persons or by a group with a membership of 10 or more, a public meeting will be held to receive verbal comments. Comments must be received by 4:30 PM on March 2, 2014 in order to be considered in DEQ's decision.
THE NEXT STEP: DEQ will consider all public comments received by the close of the comment period before making a final decision regarding the "No Further Action" determination. A public notice announcing the final decision will be published in this publication.
ACCESSIBILITY INFORMATION: DEQ is committed to accommodating people with disabilities. Please notify DEQ of any special physical or language accommodations or if you need information in large print, Braille or another format. To make these arrangements, contact DEQ Communications & Outreach (503) 229-5696 or toll free in Oregon at (800) 452-4011; fax to 503-229-6762; or e-mail to deqinfo@deq.state.or.us.

People with hearing impairments may call DEQ's TTY number, (503) 229-5471.

Notices of Proposed Rulemaking and Proposed Rulemaking Hearings

The following agencies provide Notice of Proposed Rulemaking to offer interested parties reasonable opportunity to submit data or views on proposed rulemaking activity. To expedite the rulemaking process, many agencies have set the time and place for a hearing in the notice. Copies of rulemaking materials may be obtained from the Rules Coordinator at the address and telephone number indicated.

Public comment may be submitted in writing directly to an agency or presented orally at the rulemaking hearing. Written comment must be submitted to an agency by 5:00 p.m. on the Last Day for Comment listed, unless a different time of day is specified. Oral comments may be submitted at the appropriate time during a rulemaking hearing as outlined in OAR 137-001-0030.

Agencies providing notice request public comment on whether other options should be considered for achieving a proposed administrative rule's substantive goals while reducing negative economic impact of the rule on business.

In Notices of Proposed Rulemaking where no hearing has been set, a hearing may be requested by 10 or more people or by an association with 10 or more members. Agencies must receive requests for a public rulemaking hearing in writing within 21 days following notice publication in the Oregon Bulletin or 28 days from the date notice was sent to people on the agency mailing list, whichever is later. If sufficient hearing requests are received by an agency, notice of the date and time of the rulemaking hearing must be published in the Oregon Bulletin at least 14 days before the hearing.

Auxiliary aids for persons with disabilities are available upon advance request. Contact the agency Rules Coordinator listed in the notice information.*

Last Date for Comment: 2-27-14, Close of Business
Summary: The agency proposes to amend OAR 436-009, "Oregon Medical Fee and Payment Rules," to:

- Substantially revise and reorganize division 009, including deleting obsolete and otherwise unnecessary wording, and duplicating provisions found in other parts of OAR chapter 436, to make the rules more comprehensive and to facilitate consistent understanding;
- Adopt updated medical fee schedules (Appendices B, C, D, and E) and resources for the payment of health care providers;
- Adopt the National Council for Prescription Drug Programs (NCPDP) universal claim form for workers' compensation/property casualty and the implementation guide;
- Amend dispute resolution standards to be more consistent with OAR 436-010 (rules governing medical services);
- Explain time frames when medical providers must switch from ICD-9-CM to ICD-10-CM codes to describe a worker's medical condition;
- Remove the requirement that any service not identifiable with a code number must be described by report (because all services billed must be accompanied by a report documenting the services billed);
- Require that medical providers use the appropriate modifiers found in CPT® 2014, HCPCS' level II national modifiers, or anesthesia modifiers, when applicable;
- Specify billing requirements for modifier 22, involving medical services that require significantly greater effort than typically required, and require greater payment amounts for services codes with added modifier 22;
- Provide consistent requirements for payment of "no-show" appointments for arbiter exams, director-required medical exams, independent medical exams, worker-requested medical exams, and closing exams;
- Clarify that the health care provider's license number and NPI are not required to be printed on providers' chart notes;
- Provide more latitude for the timing of mechanical muscle testing;
- Provide that insurers may apply discounts to medical fees for all medical providers, including rural hospitals, other than medical service providers and clinics, if a written or verbal contract exists;
- Clarify that the maximum allowable payment for Oregon hospitals that are not listed in Bulletin 290, which lists hospitals' cost-to-charge ratios, is 80 percent of the amount billed;
- Require that insurers pay ambulatory surgery centers separately for surgical implants when the cost of components of an implant adds up to $100 or more;
- Describe how a worker may request advance payment for transportation and lodging necessary to attend a medical appointment;
- Require that specific, legible information be given to workers to explain reimbursements of their out-of-pocket expenses;
- Clarify that the time needed to obtain additional information is not counted in the 14 days allowed to reimburse a workers' out-of-pocket expenses upon acceptance of the workers' compensation claim;
- Allow insurers and "medical providers" (not just "medical service providers") to agree to send and receive payment information by email;
- Increase the maximum allowable payments for four chiropractic manipulation CPTÂ® codes: 98940, 98941, 98942, and 98943;
- Clarify that the payment limitation of three separate CPTÂ®-coded physical medicine and rehabilitation modalities and therapeutic procedures per day applies per provider (and therefore not per worker);
- Clarify that prescription medications do not require prior approval even after the worker is medically stationary;
- Specify billing requirements and time frames for interpreters to make them consistent with timeframes and processes applicable to other providers.

Specify that an insurer may not reduce payment due to late billing by an interpreter if the bill is submitted within 12 months of the date of service;

- Require insurers to pay interpreters within the same time frames as other medical providers;
- Increase the hourly maximum payment rate for American sign language interpreters from $60 to $70 per hour (minimum); and
- Require payment for interpreter services above one hour in 15-minute increments

The agency proposes to amend OAR 436-010, "Medical Services," to:

- Establish a process for a health care provider to request an insurer's pre-authorization for diagnostic studies, as well as a time frame for the insurer to respond; and

Summary: The Oregon Department of Energy proposes draft rules for the Small Scale Local Energy Loan Program to formalize the Small Scale Local Energy Project Advisory Committee (SELPAC) recruitment and appointment process, set committee term limits and create an ex-officio seat for an Oregon State Treasurer representative. The draft rule proposes a formal recruitment announcement and process to seek potential members and reserves the right for the director to remove members upon missing a certain number of committee meetings or other causes. By statute, committee members may serve four-year terms. The rule proposes setting a two-term limit, allowing members to serve eight years in total. Lastly, the draft rule proposes creating an ex-officio seat on the committee occupied by a designated representative of the Oregon State Treasurer. The ex-officio member would be a non-voting member of the committee and may not be counted for establishing a quorum. The department requests public comment on these draft rules.

Stats. Implemented: ORS 468A
Proposed Amendments: 340-200-0040
Last Date for Comment: 3-12-14, 5 p.m.
Summary: The Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF) and DEQ recently reviewed the Oregon Smoke Management Plan to evaluate the effectiveness of the smoke management program. As a result, ODF and DEQ are proposing changes to the plan under their respective authority:

1. ODF is proposing amendments to their smoke management rules under OAR 629-048 and Operational Guidance for the Oregon Smoke Management Program, directive 1-4-1-601, which together comprise the plan.

2. To incorporate ODF's amendments into the federally approved Oregon Clean Air Act State Implementation Plan, DEQ proposes amending OAR 340-200-0040.

ODF and DEQ review the Oregon Smoke Management Plan about every five years. For the most recent review, ODF convened the Smoke Management Review Committee that met eight times during 2012 and 2013. Committee recommendations are the basis for ODF's proposed amendments to the Oregon Smoke Management Plan:

1. Adopt additional voluntary provisions to provide greater visibility protection when burning near Crater Lake National Park and the Kalmiopsis Wilderness, both Oregon Class I areas. These provisions would help meet the federal Regional Haze Rule implemented under DEQ's 2010 Oregon Regional Haze Plan.

2. Adopt additional voluntary provisions to encourage greater use of alternatives to burning and emission reduction techniques.

3. For Special Protection Zone requirements adopted in 1992 to provide extra smoke management protection during the winter months for communities that exceeded federal air quality health standards:

a. Eliminate the La Grande Special Protection Zone. DEQ determined there is no longer a need for the La Grande Special Protection Zone (see below).

b. Reduce the size of the Special Protection Zone boundary for the Medford area, based on local topography and meteorology, to reflect the Medford airshed. Inside the boundary, prescribed burning would continue to follow the daily green, yellow, and red woodstove restrictions. Outside the boundary, prescribed burning would be prioritized to reduce burning on "red" woodstove days by only allowing smaller burn units that are farther away from Medford.

Both communities receive year-round smoke management protection under the plan. The Special Protection Zones ensure that any wintertime prescribed burning within 10-20 miles complies with local residential woodstove curtailment programs. In both communities, air quality levels have improved significantly and the communities now meet air standards. Around La Grande there is very little wintertime prescribed burning occurring. In the Medford area, there is considerably more burning in the winter, which justifies keeping the Special Protection Zone but changing to the boundary size, given the air quality improvements and burning prioritization noted above.

4. Allow ODF, rather than DEQ, to regulate a very small amount of prescribed burning on forestlands currently outside forest protection districts. The proposed ODF rule amendment would manage this burning under an interagency agreement between ODF and DEQ subject to the same requirements for all prescribed burning under the plan.

5. Require smoke monitoring for prescribed burns over 2000 tons in size following existing language in ODF guidance. This will allow the landowner the ability to cease lighting or burn a smaller amount if air quality conditions change.

6. Other miscellaneous revisions to ODF rules including clarification to Special Protection Zone language, and flexibility to the 5-year time period for plan review to allow an earlier or later time, but not to exceed 10 years if ODF and DEQ mutually agree.

Brief history:

ODF operates a smoke management program for prescribed burning in Oregon to eliminate unwanted forest debris, restore forest health, and reduce the potential for major wildfires. Each year approximately 150,000 acres are burned in Oregon forests through the practice of prescribed burning. Smoke from this burning can occasionally pose a risk to public health and result in air quality levels exceeding the federal air quality standard for fine particulate matter also called PM2.5. Even brief exposures to smoke can cause health problems for persons with asthma, emphysema, congestive heart disease and other existing medical conditions. The elderly, pregnant women and young children are especially high-risk groups. Smoke from forest burning also affects visibility in national parks and wilderness areas, as well as general outdoor recreation activities.

State law ORS 477.013 directs ODF to develop a smoke management plan for prescribed forestry burning in Oregon and to promulgate rules to carry out this plan. Consistent with the law, ODF developed the Oregon Smoke Management Plan, which consists of rules under OAR 629-048 and the Operational Guidance for the Oregon Smoke Management Program in directive 1-4-1-601. ODF implements the plan through a smoke management program for prescribed burning on federal, state and private forestland.

Adopted as a regulatory program in 1972, the objective of the smoke management program is to maximize burning opportunities, reduce the risk of wildfire, and minimize smoke impacts on the public. Most of the larger cities and heavily populated areas in Oregon are designated as Smoke Sensitive Receptor Areas by ODF, and have greater restrictions on prescribed burning to prevent smoke intrusions. ODF's smoke management office in Salem conducts daily weather forecasts to determine areas in the state suitable for forestry burning, then issues daily burning instructions for those areas, that include size limits in tons, how far apart to space the burning and distance from Smoke Sensitive Receptor Areas. The forest district level makes the actual decision on which units to burn based on the burning instructions. Each burn unit has a burn plan and pays burn fees. After burning, the district reports back to State Forestry in Salem on the burning accomplished.

As directed under state law, ODF adopts all rules associated with the plan through their Board of Forestry. State law ORS 477.013 does provide DEQ with joint approval authority of the plan and cites the need to "meet the air quality objectives of the federal Clean Air Act". To ensure prescribed burning meets the federal Clean Air Act, DEQ previously adopted the plan into the Oregon Clean Air Act State Implementation Plan as provided in DEQ rule OAR 340-200-0040, and any changes to the Oregon Smoke Management Plan require DEQ approval as a State of Oregon Clean Air Act Implementation Plan revision.

ORS 477.552 states the need to "improve the management of prescribed burning as a forest management and protection practice" and to "minimize emissions from prescribed burning consistent with the air quality objectives of the federal Clean Air Act and the State of Oregon State Implementation Plan." In order to improve the management of prescribed burning, every five years DEQ and ODF conduct a review of the plan to evaluate the effectiveness of the smoke management program. The last plan review was in 2007. Improvements included increasing the number of Smoke Sensitive Receptor Areas in the state. There are currently 23 Smoke Sensitive Receptor Areas that include both individual communities and larger urbanized areas, such as the entire Willamette Valley and Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area.

In addition to Smoke Sensitive Receptor Areas protection, there is also additional wintertime smoke management protection called "Special Protection Zones." There is typically limited prescribed burning during the winter months. Winter is also when many communities experience high smoke levels typically from woodstoves. Currently, Special Protection Zone requirements apply to five communities: Klamath Falls, Lakeview, Oakridge, Medford and La Grande, which have a history of exceeding the federal health standard for particulate matter and rely heavily on wintertime residential woodstove curtailment programs to improve air quality. The Special Protection Zone requirements restrict prescribed burning within 10-20 miles on the "green", "yellow" and "red" woodstove curtailment days. A red day means there can be no woodstove burning and no prescribed burning within the Special Protection Zone.

As noted above, the proposed plan amendments would eliminate the La Grande Special Protection Zone and reduce the size of the Medford Special Protection Zone. DEQ supports these changes, for the reasons cited.

Summary: The Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF) has initiated permanent rulemaking for the above administrative rules adopted under the Forest Practices Act (FPA). The primary rule change within this rulemaking process is reflected in Oregon Administrative Rule (OAR) 629-028-0005 Definitions, where the rule number will be renumbered and amended to include the definition of special forest products. These proposed rule amendments also include the process someone would need to follow to add or delete products from the definition. In 2013, House Bill (HB) 2615 passed, allowing the State Forester, acting under the authority of the Oregon Board of Forestry (BOF), to define special forest products in rule, which will include the change in identifying mushrooms and truffles as "wild, edible fungi". An emergency was declared under the HB requiring ODF to modify forms available for private landowners to use when allowing others permission to harvest special forest products on their land. The rules require revision prior to July 1, 2014 to meet requirements in the amended statute ORS 164.813.

Review of this proposed rulemaking package may be accessed on the Department's web page at: http://www.oregon.gov/odf/Pages/lawsrules.aspx#Proposed_Rules or at the office of the State Forester, and are available upon request. Associated supporting materials presented at the November 2013 Board of Forestry meeting are available online. They may be accessed through the Board of Forestry website: www.oregonforestry.gov.

Two public information meetings regarding the bill and the rulemaking process will be held at ODF offices in Forest Grove and Salem in February 2014. Two formal hearings will be held at ODF offices in March 2014: March 4th in Springfield at 6:00 p.m. (3150 Main Street) and March 18th in Salem at 6:00 p.m. (2600 State Street). Notice of the meetings and hearings will be promoted via flyers, email, media releases, and our website prior to the meeting dates.

Written comments must be received by 5:00 p.m. on April 1st, 2014. Submissions should be addressed to:

Private Forest HB 2615 Rulemaking, Oregon Department of Forestry, 2600 State Street, OR 97310; or send to ODFPF Comments@odf.state.or.us, or via fax 503-945-7490.

Comments received by 5:00 p.m. on April 1st, 2014, will be compiled and incorporated into information presented to the Board of Forestry for their review. From this information and the prior work with this rulemaking process, the Board of Forestry will decide whether to approve this proposed rulemaking package. The Department is planning to present this information at the June Board of Forestry meeting. The Department will propose an effective date for these rules which will be announced in the Secretary of State's Oregon Bulletin if the Board gives approval.

Summary: OAR 461-001-0000 about definitions used in various DHS program rules is being amended to revise the definitions of "legally married", "marriage", "parent", and "spouse" so that the Department recognizes as being legally married those same-sex couples who have been united in marriage according to the law of the state or country in which the marriage occurred. The definitions of "legally married" and "spouse" are also being updated and clarified for the ERDC and SNAP programs to prevent unnecessary training in the context of this change.

OAR 461-025-0310 about hearing requests is being amended as part of the implementation of the federal Affordable Care Act and HB 2859 to address the statutory changes to the definition of "public assistance", and align the time periods for DHS medical programs with OHA OCCS medical programs, establishing 90 days to request a hearing, a good cause window, and allowing oral hearing requests. This amendment makes permanent a temporary rule change effective October 2, 2013.

OAR 461-025-0316 about Intentional Program Violation (IPV) Hearings for the SNAP Program is being amended to state that if the signature on the hearing waiver was obtained by fraud, the individual may obtain an IPV hearing on the merits. This rule is also being amended to state that the hearing may be conducted without the individual if the notice of hearing was sent using first class and returned as undeliverable; and to revise the policy about when an individual who misses the IPV hearing may obtain a hearing on the merits.

OAR 461-135-0505 about categorical eligibility for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) is being amended make permanent a temporary rule change effective January 1, 2014 that implemented a $25,000 liquid asset test for some households to be determined categorically eligible. Liquid assets are assets that are easily accessible like a bank account or cash on hand. The asset test does not include currently excluded resources for the SNAP program such as a person's home, retirement accounts, or earned income tax refunds. The intent of the policy change is to identify individuals with large windfalls such as a lottery winning that exceeds $25,000 in order to exclude them from receiving SNAP benefits and focus benefits on individuals who need them.

OAR 461-135-0750 about the eligibility of individuals in long-term care or home and community-based care for the OSIPM program is being amended to indicate that individuals in a psychiatric institution do not need to qualify for DHS APD long term care services to qualify for Medicaid reimbursement while they are in the State Hospital. This rule is also being amended to clarify current policy which applies this rule to individuals applying for and receiving long-term care services.

OAR 461-135-0950 about eligibility for inmates and residents of state hospitals is being amended to correctly state the requirements to determine eligibility for an individual in the State Hospital by expanding Medicaid eligibility.

OAR 461-145-0280 about the treatment of in-kind income in determining eligibility for several DHS programs is being amended to make permanent temporary rule changes effective January 1, 2014 that remove the rule's coverage of the EXT, MAA, MAF, OHP, and SAC programs. The policies about financial eligibility for medical assistance have been moved from OAR 461 (DHS) into the OAR 410-200 (under OHA), and as part of the implementation efforts for the federal Affordable Care Act (ACA). For applications for medical assistance starting on October 1, 2013, financial eligibility policies are set out in OAR 410-200.

OAR 461-155-0150 about the child care eligibility standard, payment rates, and copayments is being amended to make permanent temporary rule changes effective October 1, 2013 and November 1, 2013 that increased child care provider rates and updated child age categories definitions. These amendments updated references to the Child Care Division to state the office's new name as the Oregon Office of Child Care; updated the Infant age category for licensed providers and the provider rates for Registered Family and Certified Family care providers as determined by the Final Memorandum of Agreement with the AFSCME provider union; updated the provider rates for Standard and Enhanced Family care providers as determined through SEIU provider bargaining agreements; supported provider rate increases for Standard, Enhanced and Certified child care centers; and stated that providers are not reimbursed more than they charge.

OAR 461-155-0290 about income standards for QMB-BAS, OAR 461-155-0291 about income standards for QMB-DW, and OAR 461-155-0295 about income standards for QMB-SMB and QMB-SMF are being amended to adjust these standards to reflect the annual updates to the federal poverty level that will occur March of 2014. These amendments keep Oregon aligned with current federal standards for Department Medicaid programs and changes in the federal poverty level.

OAR 461-175-0230 about notices sent to clients in nonstandard living situations is being amended to set the policy for the type of notice needed when ending Medicaid benefits for a person who has been committed to an institution. This amendment establishes that a basic decision notice is sent to terminate, suspend, or reduce Medicaid benefits in this situation

OAR 461-195-0501, 461-195, 0521, 461-195-0541, 461-195-0561 about overpayment definitions, calculations, liability, and compromise of claims are being amended to align with the October 1, 2013 rule changes to the OCCS Medical programs for the Oregon Health Authority. OAR 461-195 0501 is also being amended to state the Department's overpayment minimum threshold practices below which the Department does not pursue overpayments. This rule amendment supersedes prior statements on this topic in the Family Services Manual and states that there are no minimums in the SNAP program, if the overpayment was identified in a quality control review; in all programs, if the overpayment was caused by a client's receipt of continuing benefits in a contested case; and in all programs, if the overpayment caused by possible fraud by a client or provider.

In addition, the above rules may also be changed to reflect new Department terminology and to correct formatting and punctuation.

Summary: The Oregon Attorney General encourages state agencies to periodically review all agency rules. The review should ensure the rules have the intended effect, continue to be necessary, if the agency correctly estimated the fiscal impact and if subsequent law changes require a change in the rule.

DMV recently completed a review of OAR chapter 735, Division 18 (Acceptance and Verification of Information Submitted by Electronic Means). DMV concluded the rules comply with the factors described above. However, DMV is updating the rules to add definitions and to make other non-substantive changes to make terms consistent and improve readability.

Summary: Amendments have been made to the Distressed Areas methodology as it pertains to determining whether or not a city in a non-distressed county ought to be considered distressed. The four variables in 123-024-0031(2) remain unchanged, but the way that thresholds for all four variables are calculated will change from a method based on quartiles to a simpler method based on statewide averages. This change is being done because the existing methodology based on quartiles was resulting in thresholds that were too low to be considered distressed. The changes also make the methodology more simple and easy to understand.

In 123-024-0031(1)(a), is amended to fix a mistake in the wording of the Distressed Areas methodology as it pertains to determining whether or not a county ought to be considered distressed. This will have no effect on how counties are determined to be distressed.

Summary: The Oregon Health Authority (Authority), Office of Equity and Inclusion is proposing to adopt Oregon Administrative Rules in chapter 943, division 70 relating to the standardization of demographic data categories collected by the Authority, the Department of Human Services, and agency contractors.

In HB 2134, the Legislature required the Authority to convene an advisory group and develop rules to standardize the collection of demographic information related to race, ethnicity, written, signed or spoken language and disability status.

The proposed rules provide for the standardization of response options when demographic data is being collected and the creation of implementing policies, procedures and training within the agencies.

Implementation of the rules will improve the ability of the Authority, Department, community stakeholders, elected officials, and other decision makers to recognize, address, target and eliminate inequities experienced by distinct racial, cultural, and linguistic communities, and by people with disabilities. Based on local, state, and national best practices, these standards allow the Authority and Department to meet federal reporting expectations; compare Oregon's progress with national trends; improve quality service delivery; and ensure equitable allocation of resources.

Last Date for Comment: 2-20-14, 5 p.m.
Summary: Immunizations and immune glogulins are covered by OHP. This rule explains how providers are reimbursed for administering these services. It addresses billing for providers that are participating in the state's Vaccines for Children (VFC) program, a program that provides vaccine serum at no cost to the medical professional. Providers that participate in the VFC program are reimbursed for their time. Providers not participating in the program are reimbursed for both their time and the expense of obtaining serums. The current revision is to improve readability and the phrase "religious exemption" needed to be replaced with "non-medical exemption" to conform to recent statutory changes. Additionally a table of medical codes included in the rule was problematic because it needed frequent updating. Having the codes in rule necessitated formal rule changes for even minor change to the medical code set. The revised rule will remove the table and instead include a link to the code set that will be easier to maintain.

Summary: With passage of the Affordable Care Act (ACA), Medicaid and CHIP eligibility methodologies are mandated to be changed January 1, 2014 to use Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI) methodologies. Oregon was approved for early implementation of the MAGI income and eligibility methodologies, an option provided by CMS to the states. These rules were adopted and effective on October 1, 2013 to explain the new household groups, whose income must be counted, and what income is considered in determining medical eligibility, time frames for determining medical eligibility, hearing processes, and processes for coordination when an individual must be referred to Cover Oregon.

Additional provisions of the ACA require that the above referenced rules be updated to reflect new policy effective January 1, 2014.

Proposed Amendments: 845-005-0331
Last Date for Comment: 3-13-14, 5 p.m.
Summary: Proposed new rule OAR 845-005-0329 establishes licensing qualification standards for outdoor areas that do not abut applicant's or licensee's previously licensed building or other similarly enclosed structure (i.e., food carts). This rule is designed to operate in conjunction with proposed new rule OAR 845-006-0309, which establishes operating requirements for outdoor areas that do not abut applicant's or licensee's previously licensed building or other similarly enclosed structure (i.e., food carts).

Existing rule OAR 845-005-0331 currently establishes licensing qualification standards that apply to all exterior areas. The proposed amendments clarify that going forward, this rule will only apply to outdoor areas that abut an applicant's or licensee's previously licensed building (i.e., patios and sidewalk cafes). The proposed amendments do not substantively change the qualification or operating standards that currently apply to these outdoor areas (i.e., patios and sidewalk cafes).

Summary: With the passage of Senate Bill 270 (2013) and the substantial change in the governance of Oregon's public universities, it is vital that the OSBHE and the Chancellor's Office make every reasonable effort to ensure that adequate staff are retained in order to make transition to Oregon State University, Portland State University, and the University of Oregon, as well as any possible change to the governance of the remaining OUS institutions, as seamless as possible. Under current administrative rules, as a general matter, full-time unclassified OUS employees accrue 15 hours of vacation each month; however, these employees may not accrue more than 260 hours of vacation leave and, upon separation of service, may not cash out more than 180 hours of vacation leave. In order to incent Chancellor's Office employees to remain at OUS during the critical period of transition facing public higher education in the state over the next 18 months and, after consulting other public sector vacation leave schemes in Oregon, including those for state employees under the purview of DAS, the OSBHE approved that payment for accrued vacation leave be increased for a specific period of time for unclassified employees in the Office of the Chancellor.

Stamps, Seals and Signatures

(1) Every registered architect shall have a stamp or seal bearing the name of the registrant only, together with the city and state in which the architect's principal office is located. The stamp or seal may include the architect's registration number issued by the Oregon Board.

(2) The seal must be one of crimp type, rubber stamp type; computer generated type, or may be electronic.

(3) All technical submissions which are required by public authorities for building permits or regulatory approvals, or are intended for construction purposes, including all addenda and other changes to such submissions, shall be sealed and signed by the architect.

(4) The term "signature" or "signed" as used in ORS Chapter 671 means the following:

(a) A handwritten or digital representation of your handwritten identification that represents the act of putting your name on a document to attest to its validity. The handwritten or digital representation must be:

(A) An original written by hand;

(B) A scanned image of an original, handwritten identification; or

(C) A digital identification that is an electronic authentication process attached to or logically associated with an electronic document.

(b) Signatures must be:

(A) Permanently affixed to the document(s) being certified;

(B) Applied to the document by the identified licensee;

(C) Placed across the seal/stamp of the licensee.

(D) Unique to the licensee using it;

(E) Capable of independent verification;

(F) Under the exclusive control of the licensee using it.

(5) The stamp with the registrant's manual or digital signature must appear on the original title page of specifications and on every sheet of the drawings intended for permit and construction, whether or not the project is exempt under ORS 671.030, and must be the stamp of a registered, legally responsible member or employee of the firm. The originals may be reproduced for permit and construction purposes.

(6) By signing and sealing a technical submission the architect represents that the architect was in responsible control over the content of such technical submissions during their preparation and has applied the required professional standard of care.

(7) An architect may not seal and sign, or countersign, or allow his or her seal or signature to be affixed to any architectural plans, drawings, documents, specifications or reports not prepared by him or her or under his or her responsible control and supervision.

(a) Reviewing, or reviewing and editing, specifications and documents intended for permit and construction after they have been prepared by others does not constitute the exercise of responsible control and supervision because the reviewer has neither control over nor detailed knowledge of the content of such submissions throughout their preparation.

(b) Any architect signing or sealing technical submissions not prepared by that architect, but prepared under the architect's responsible control by persons not regularly employed in the office where the architect is resident, will maintain and make available to the Board, upon request, adequate records to demonstrate the nature and extent of the architect's control over, and detailed knowledge of, such technical submissions throughout their preparation.

(8) Notwithstanding other sections of this rule, a successor registered architect may complete a deceased or disabled architect's drawings and specifications intended for permitting and construction as though they were the successor's original, but must perform a thorough review and will become fully responsible for the content. The successor registered successor architect must use his or her own title block, seal, and signature, and must remove the title block, seal, and signature of the deceased or disabled architect.

Definitions

As used in ORS 653.010 to 653.261 and these rules, unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) "Administrator" means the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division.

(2) "Adult" means an individual of 18 years of age or more.

(3) "Adult foster home" means any family home or facility in which residential care is provided in a homelike environment for five or fewer adults who are not related to the provider by blood or marriage.

(4) "Agriculture" includes farming in all its branches and among other things includes the cultivation and tillage of the soil, dairying, the production, cultivation, growing, and harvesting of any agricultural or horticultural commodities, the raising of livestock, bees, fur-bearing animals, or poultry and any practices performed by a farmer or on a farm as an incident to or in conjunction with such farming operations, including preparation for market, delivery to storage or to market or to carriers for transportation to market. "Agricultural employment" is employment in "Agriculture" as herein defined.

(5) "Bureau" means Bureau of Labor and Industries.

(6) "Casual basis" as used in ORS 653.020(2) and these rules means employment which is irregular and intermittent and which is not performed by an individual whose vocation is providing domestic services.

(7) "Child care service person" means an individual who performs child care services in the home of the individual or the child and who during any part of a 24 hour period provides custodial care and protection to infants or children.

(8) "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor and Industries.

(10) "Companionship services", as used in ORS 653.020(14) and in these rules, means those services which provide fellowship, care and protection for a person who, because of advanced age or physical or mental infirmity, cannot care for his or her own needs. Such services may include household work related to the care of the elderly or infirm person such as meal preparation, bed making, washing of clothes and other similar services. They may also include the performance of general household work: provided, however, that such work is incidental, i.e., does not exceed 20 percent of the total weekly hours worked. Individuals employed in domestic service employment in or about a family home to provide companionship services are not required to be employed by the individual for whom they provide such services. The term "companionship services" does not include services relating to the care and protection of the elderly or infirm which require and are performed by trained personnel, such as a registered or practical nurse. While such trained personnel do not qualify as companions, this fact does not remove them from the category of covered domestic service employees when employed in or about a family home.

(11) "Division" means the Wage and Hour Division of the Bureau of Labor and Industries.

(12) "Domestic service" means services of a household nature performed by an employee in or about a family home (permanent or temporary) of the person by whom the employee is employed. The term includes, but is not limited to, employees such as cooks, waiters, butlers, valets, maids, housekeepers, governesses, nurses, janitors, gardeners, and companions to the elderly and infirm.

(13) "Domicile" means the permanent residence of a person or the place to which that person intends to return even though that person may actually reside elsewhere.

(14) "Employed on a seasonal basis at", as used in ORS 653.020(10) and in these rules, means employment that occurs during the time the organized camp provides services to campers at the camp site where campers are located. The term includes employment at the camp site in duties preparatory to the opening or closing of the camp site. The term includes employment during the camping season only and does not include full time, year around employment.

(15) "Employer" has the same meaning as that in ORS 653.010(3).

(16) "Fair market value" means an amount not to exceed the retail price customarily paid by the general public for the same or similar meals, lodging or other facilities or services provided to the employee by the employer. In determining the fair market value of meals, lodging and other facilities and services, the bureau will be guided by these rules and by Title 29, CFR Part 531 — Wage Payments under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, where applicable.

(17) "Family home", as used in ORS 653.020(2) and this section, means a residence, the purpose of which is to provide an abode for the owner or renter of the residence and family members of the owner or renter. For example, a boarding house or an adult foster care home are not family homes for purposes of ORS 653.020(2) and these rules. However, when casual domestic service work is performed in structures where the owner or renter resides and operates a business, such work may qualify as exempt under ORS 653.020(2) depending upon all the facts of the particular arrangement.

(18) "Homeworker" means any employee suffered or permitted to produce goods or services for an employer in or about a home, apartment or room in a residence in which that employee or other employees of an employer resides, regardless of the source of the materials used by the homeworker in such production.

(19) "Hours worked" means all hours for which an employee is employed by and required to give to the employer and includes all time during which an employee is necessarily required to be on the employer's premises, on duty or at a prescribed work place and all time the employee is suffered or permitted to work. "Hours worked" includes "work time" as defined in ORS 653.010(11).

(20) "Immediate family" means grandfather, grandmother, father, mother, son, daughter, sister, brother, uncle or aunt.

(21) "Minimum wage" means the rate of pay prescribed in ORS 653.025 and 653.030.

(22) "Minor" means an individual of 17 years of age or less.

(23) "Organized camp" has the same meaning as that in ORS 653.010(6).

(24) "Primary duty" means, as a general rule, the major part, or over 50 percent, of an employee's time. However, a determination of whether an employee has management as the employee's primary duty must be based on all the facts of a particular case. Time alone is not the sole test and in situations where the employee does not spend over 50 percent of the employee's time in managerial duties, the employee might have management as a primary duty if other pertinent factors support such a conclusion. Factors to be considered include, but are not limited to, the relative importance of the managerial duties as compared with other duties, the frequency with which the employee exercises discretionary powers, the relative freedom from supervision and the relationship between the salary paid the employee and wages paid other employees for the kind of non-exempt work performed by the supervisor.

(25) "Primary school" means a learning institution containing any combination of grades Kindergarten - 8 or age level equivalent.

(26) "Reside" means a personal presence at some place of abode with no present intention of definite and early removal and with the intent to remain for an undetermined period, but not necessarily combined with the intent to stay permanently.

(27) "Resident manager" means an employee of an adult foster home who is domiciled at the home and who is directly responsible for the care of residents in the home on a day to day basis.

(28) "Salary" means a predetermined amount constituting all or part of the employee's compensation paid for each pay period of one week or longer (but not to exceed one month). The predetermined amount may not be any amount less than the equivalent of a monthly salary calculated by multiplying the wage set pursuant to ORS 653.025 by 2,080 hours per year, then dividing by 12 months.

(29) "Salary basis" means a salary as defined in section (28) of this rule, which is not subject to deduction because of lack of work for part of a work week, however, deductions for absences of one day or more may be made if the employee is absent for other reasons. Deductions may not be made for absences of less than one day, except as permitted for employers covered by the federal Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, Public Law 103-3, for part-day absences due to leave pursuant to that law. Employees who are not paid for workweeks in which they performed no work are considered to be on a salary basis provided they are paid on a salary basis in workweeks when work is performed.

(a) Payment of additional compensation is not inconsistent with the salary basis of payment.

(b) Compensation paid in the form of fees is not inconsistent with the salary basis of payment, provided the fees paid in each pay period are not less than the amount required to be paid pursuant to ORS 653.025 and meet the requirements for fee payments under Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 541.605 and related regulations as amended April 23, 2004.

(30) "Secondary school" means a learning institution containing any combination of grades 9–12 or age level equivalent and includes those institutions that provide junior high schools which include 9th grade.

(31) "Violation" means a transgression of any statute or rule, or any part thereof and includes both acts and omissions.

(32) "Willfully" means knowingly. An action is done knowingly when it is undertaken with actual knowledge of a thing to be done or omitted or action undertaken by a person who should have known the thing to be done or omitted. A person "should have known the thing to be done or omitted" if the person has knowledge of facts or circumstances which, with reasonably diligent inquiry, would place the person on notice of the thing to be done or omitted to be done. A person acts willfully if the person has the means to inform himself or herself but elects not to do so. For purposes of these rules, the employer is presumed to know the requirements of ORS 653.010 to 653.261 and these rules.

Deductions for Meals, Lodging, Facilities or Other Services

(1) The fair market value of meals, lodging and other facilities or services furnished by the employer to the employee for the private benefit of the employee may be deducted from the minimum wage. The employer has the burden of establishing the fair market value (See also OAR 839-020-0004(16)).

(2) "Fair market value" may be established in either of the following ways:

(a) The amount actually and customarily charged for comparable meals, lodging, facilities or services to consumers who are not employees of the employer; or

(b) The actual cost to the employer in purchasing, preparing or providing the meals, lodging or other facilities or services.

(3) The provisions of section (1) of this rule do not prohibit the payment of wages as meals, lodging and other facilities or services furnished to employees either as additions to wages or as items for which deductions from wages will be made. These provisions apply to all facilities or services furnished by the employer as compensation to the employee regardless of whether the employer calculates charges for such facilities or services as additions to or deductions from wages. In order for the employer to be able to claim credit toward the minimum wage for providing meals, lodging or other facilities or services furnished to an employee, the deduction of these costs from the employee's wages must have been authorized by the employee in writing, the deduction must have been for the private benefit of the employee, and the deduction must be recorded in the employer's books, or the deduction of these costs must be authorized by a collective bargaining agreement, in accordance with the provisions of ORS 652.610.

(4) Full settlement of sums owed to the employer by the employee because of meals, lodging and other facilities or services furnished by the employer shall be made on each regular payday.

(5) The provisions of section (1) of this rule apply only when the following conditions are continuously met:

(a) The employer has met the conditions of ORS 652.610(3); and

(b) The employee actually receives the meals, lodging or other facilities or services; and

(c) The meals, lodging or other facilities or services are furnished by the employer for the private benefit of the employee; and

(d) The meals, lodging or other facilities and services are provided in a lawful manner. No deduction from the minimum wage may be made for alcohol provided without applicable permits, for illegal substances or services, such as drugs or prostitution, or for any other substance, facility or service which is provided in a manner determined by a court or appropriate administrative agency to have been unlawful.

(6) As used in this rule, meals actually received by the employee and furnished by the employer are regarded as being for the private benefit of the employee except when meal expenses are incurred by an employee while traveling away from the employee's home on the employer's business.

(7) Lodging or other facilities or services are furnished for the private benefit of the employee when such lodging or other facilities or services are not required by the employer. For purposes of this rule, lodging or other facilities or services are required by the employer when:

(a) Acceptance of the lodging or other facilities or services is a condition of the employee's employment; or

(b) The expense is incurred by an employee who must travel away from the employee's home on the employer's business; or

(c) The acceptance of the lodging or other facilities or services is involuntary or coerced; or

(d) The provision of lodging or other facilities or services is necessary in order for the employer to maintain an adequate work force at the times and locations the employer needs them.

Hours Worked — Generally

(1) OAR 839-020-0040 to 839-020-0047 deals with hours worked as defined by OAR 839-020-0004(19) and discusses principles involved in determining what constitutes working time for purposes of ORS 653.010 to 653.261 and these rules.

(2) Work requested or required is considered work time. Work not requested, but suffered or permitted is considered work time.

(3) Work performed for the employer but away from the employer's premises or job site is considered work time. If the employer knows or has reason to believe that work is being performed, the time spent must be counted as hours worked.

(4) It is the duty of the employer to exercise control and see that the work is not performed if it does not want the work to be performed. The mere promulgation of a policy against such work is not enough.

Meal and Rest Periods

(1) The purpose of this rule is to prescribe minimum meal periods and rest periods for the preservation of the health of employees.

(2)(a) Except as otherwise provided in this rule, every employer shall provide to each employee, for each work period of not less than six or more than eight hours, a meal period of not less than 30 continuous minutes during which the employee is relieved of all duties.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this rule, if an employee is not relieved of all duties for 30 continuous minutes during the meal period, the employer must pay the employee for the entire 30-minute meal period.

(c) An employer is not required to provide a meal period to an employee for a work period of less than six hours. When an employee's work period is more than eight hours, the employer shall provide the employee the number of meal periods listed in Appendix A of this rule.

(d) Timing of the meal period: If the work period is seven hours or less, the meal period is to be taken after the conclusion of the second hour worked and completed prior to the commencement of the fifth hour worked. If the work period is more than seven hours, the meal period is to be taken after the conclusion of the third hour worked and completed prior to the commencement of the sixth hour worked.

(3) If an employer does not provide a meal period to an employee under section (2) of this rule, the employer has the burden to show that:

(a) To do so would impose an undue hardship on the operation of the employer's business as provided in section (4), and that the employer has complied with section (5) of this rule;

(b) Industry practice or custom has established a paid meal period of less than 30 minutes (but no less than 20 minutes) during which employees are relieved of all duty; or

(c) The failure to provide a meal period was caused by unforeseeable equipment failures, acts of nature or other exceptional and unanticipated circumstances that only rarely and temporarily preclude the provision of a meal period required under section (2) of this rule. If an employee is not relieved of all duties for 30 continuous minutes during the meal period, the employer must pay the employee for the entire 30-minute meal period.

(4) As used in section (3)(a) of this rule, "undue hardship" means significant difficulty or expense when considered in relation to the size, financial resources, nature or structure of the employer's business. For the purpose of determining whether providing a meal period requires significant difficulty or expense, the following factors may be considered:

(a) The employer's cost of complying with the requirement to provide a meal period under section (2) of this rule.

(b) The overall financial resources of the employer.

(c) The number of persons employed at the particular worksite and their qualifications to relieve the employee; the total number of persons employed by the employer; and the number, type and geographic separateness of the employer's worksites.

(d) The effect of providing the meal period required under section (2) of this rule on worksite operations involving: the startup or shutdown of machinery in continuous-operation industrial processes; intermittent and unpredictable workflow not in the control of the employer or employee; the perishable nature of materials used on the job; and the safety and health of other employees, patients, clients or the public.

(5) When an employer does not provide a meal period to an employee under section (2) of this rule, and is able to make the required showing under section (3)(a) of this rule:

(a) The employer shall instead provide the employee adequate paid periods in which to rest, consume a meal, and use the restroom; and

(b) The employer shall first provide to each employee a notice provided by the commissioner of the Bureau of Labor and Industries regarding rest and meal periods in the language used by the employer to communicate with the employee. The employer shall retain and keep available to the commissioner a copy of the notice for the duration of the employee's employment and for no less than six months after the termination date of the employee. Notices that comply with this subsection are available upon request from the bureau. This subsection takes effect on March 16, 2009.

(6)(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, every employer shall provide to each employee, for each segment of four hours or major part thereof worked in a work period, a rest period of not less than ten continuous minutes during which the employee is relieved of all duties, without deduction from the employee's pay.

(A) As the nature of the work allows, the employer shall provide the rest period approximately in the middle of each segment of four hours or major part thereof worked in a work period. When the employee's work period is more than eight hours, the employer shall provide the employee the number of rest periods listed in Appendix A of this rule.

(B) The employer shall provide rest periods in addition to and taken separately from the time provided for a meal period. An employer may not require or allow an employee to add the rest period to a meal period or deduct the rest period from the beginning or end of the employee's work period to reduce the overall length of the work period.

(C) An employer has the burden to show that the employer provided the rest periods required under this section.

(b) An employer is not required to provide a rest period to an employee when all of the following conditions are met:

(A) The employee is 18 years of age or older;

(B) The employee works less than five hours in any period of 16 continuous hours;

(C) The employee is working alone;

(D) The employee is employed in a retail or service establishment, i.e., a place where goods and services are sold to the general public, not for resale; and

(E) The employee is allowed to leave the employee's assigned station when the employee must use the restroom facilities.

(7) The provisions of this rule regarding meal periods and rest periods may be modified by the terms of a collective bargaining agreement if the provisions of the collective bargaining agreement entered into by the employees specifically prescribe rules concerning meal periods and rest periods.

(8)(a) Pursuant to the provisions of ORS 653.261(5), if an employer agrees, an employee may waive a meal period if all of the following conditions are met:

(A) The employee is employed to serve food or beverages, receives tips, and reports the tips to the employee's employer;

(B) The employee is at least 18 years of age;

(C) The employee voluntarily requests to waive the employee's meal periods no less than seven calendar days after beginning employment;

(D) The employee's request to waive the employee's meal periods is in writing in the language used by the employer to communicate with the employee, on a form provided by the commissioner, and is signed and dated by both the employee and employer;

(E) The employer retains and keeps available to the commissioner a copy of the employee's request to waive the employee's meal period during the duration of the employee's employment and for no less than six months after the termination date of the employee;

(F) The employee is provided with a reasonable opportunity to consume food during any work period of six hours or more while continuing to work;

(G) The employee is paid for any and all meal periods during which the employee is not completely relieved of all duties;

(H) The employee is not required to work longer than eight hours without receiving a 30-minute meal period during which the employee is relieved of all duties;

(I) The employer makes and keeps available to the commissioner accurate records of hours worked by each employee that clearly indicate whether or not the employee has received meal periods; and

(J) The employer posts a notice provided by the commissioner regarding rest and meal periods in a conspicuous and accessible place where all employees can view it.

(b) Either the employer or employee may revoke the agreement for the employee to waive the employee's meal periods by providing at least seven (7) calendar days written notice to the other.

(c) Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, an employee who has requested to waive meal periods under this section may request to take a meal period without revoking the agreement to waive such periods. The request to take a meal period must be submitted in writing to the employer no less than 24 hours prior to the meal period requested.

(d) An employer may not coerce an employee into waiving a meal period.

(e) An employer will be considered to have coerced an employee into waiving the employee's meal period under the following circumstances:

(A) The employer requests or requires an employee to sign a request to waive meal periods;

(B) An employee is required to waive meal periods as a condition of employment at the time of hire or at any time while employed;

(C) The employer requests or requires any person, including another employee, to request or require an employee to waive meal periods; or

(D) The employee signs a form requesting to waive meal periods prior to being employed for seven calendar days.

(f) Employee waiver forms and notices regarding rest and meal periods that comply with this section are available upon request from the bureau.

(9) Rest and meal period requirements specific to minors under 18 years of age are provided in OAR 839-021-0072.

(10) As used in this rule:

(a) "Work period" means the period between the time the employee begins work and the time the employee ends work.

(b) "Work period" includes a rest period as provided in section (6) of this rule, and any period of one hour or less (not designated as a meal period) during which the employee is relieved of all duties.

(c) "Work period" does not include a meal period unless the meal period is paid work time as provided in section (2) or (5) of this rule.

Rule Caption: Implements legislation related to prevailing wage law; clarifies fringe benefit contribution requirements

Adm. Order No.: BLI 9-2013

Filed with Sec. of State: 12-18-2013

Certified to be Effective: 1-1-14

Notice Publication Date: 11-1-2013

Rules Amended: 839-025-0004, 839-025-0010, 839-025-0013, 839-025-0020, 839-025-0035, 839-025-0043, 839-025-0085, 839-025-0090, 839-025-0095, 839-025-0230, 839-025-0530

Subject: The 2013 Regular Session of the Oregon Legislature enacted two pieces of legislation which require amendments to be made to the administrative rules governing the payment of prevailing wage rates on public works projects. First, the rule amendments add any member or manager of a limited liability company who is responsible for certain violations of the prevailing wage rate regulations to those persons who may be made ineligible to receive a public works contract. Second, the definition of a public works is modified to include projects for the construction, reconstruction, major renovation or painting of a road, highway, building, structure, or improvement of any type that occurs, with or without using funds of a public agency, on real property that the Oregon University System or an institution of the Oregon University System owns. Additionally, revisions are made to rules addressing the frequency of payments to fringe benefit plans. Under existing rule, contributions made by contractors to a bona fide fringe benefit plan are required to be made on a regular basis and not less often than quarterly. 839-025-0043 is amended to define the terms "regular basis" and "not less often than quarterly;" 839-025-0530 makes clear that the failure to contribute fringe benefit wages timely to a plan on a "regular basis" and "not less often than quarterly" is a violation of the prevailing wage rate regulations for which a civil penalty may be assessed. 839-025-0035(8) clarifies that persons employed on a public works project for personal services, as that term is defined in ORS 279C.100(5), are not workers required to be paid the prevailing rate of wage.

(b) A person in probationary employment as an apprentice in such an apprenticeship program, but who is not individually registered in the program, but who has been certified by the OA or a state apprenticeship agency to be eligible for probationary employment as an apprentice, and who is employed by a registered training agent pursuant to ORS 660.010 (10) and is working pursuant to the standards of the apprentice's apprenticeship program.

(3) "Bureau" means the Bureau of Labor and Industries.

(4) "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor and Industries, or designee.

(5) "Construction" means the initial construction of buildings and other structures, or additions thereto, and of highways and roads. "Construction" does not include the transportation of material or supplies to or from the public works project by employees of a construction contractor or construction subcontractor.

(6) "Division" means the Wage and Hour Division of the Bureau of Labor and Industries.

(7) "Employ" includes to suffer or permit to work.

(8) "Fringe benefits" means the amount of:

(a) The rate of contribution irrevocably made on a "regular basis" and "not less often than quarterly," as those terms are defined in OAR 839-025-0043, by a contractor or subcontractor to a trustee or to a third person pursuant to a plan, fund or program; and

(b) The rate of costs to the contractor or subcontractor which may be reasonably anticipated in providing benefits to workers pursuant to an enforceable commitment to carry out a financially responsible plan or program which is committed in writing to the workers affected, for medical or hospital care, pensions on retirement or death, compensation for injuries or illness resulting from occupational activity, or insurance to provide any of the foregoing, for unemployment benefits, life insurance, disability and sickness insurance or accident insurance, for vacation and holiday pay, for defraying costs of apprenticeship or other similar programs or for other bona fide fringe benefits, but only where the contractor or subcontractor is not required by other federal, state or local law to provide any of such benefits. Other bona fide fringe benefits do not include reimbursement to workers for meals, lodging or other travel expenses, nor contributions to industry advancement funds (CIAF for example).

(9)(a) "Funds of a public agency" includes any funds of a public agency that are directly or indirectly used, as described below.

(A) "Directly used funds of a public agency" means revenue, money, or that which can be valued in money collected for a public agency or derived from a public agency's immediate custody and control, and, except as provided in ORS 279C.810(1)(a)(H) and (J) and subsection (b) of this section, includes but is not limited to any money loaned by a public agency, including the loan of proceeds from the sale of conduit or pass-through revenue bonds for the specific purpose of financing a project, and public property or other assets used as payment for all or part of a project.

A public agency does not indirectly use funds of a public agency when it elects not to collect land rent that is due. Examples of when an agency "ultimately bears the cost" of all or part of a project include but are not limited to:

(i) Amortizing the costs of construction over the life of a lease and paying these costs with funds of a public agency during the course of the lease;

(ii) A public agency subsidizing the costs of construction that would normally be borne by the contractor;

(1) The form required by ORS 279C.845 is the Payroll and Certified Statement form, WH-38. This form must accurately and completely set out the contractor's or subcontractor's payroll records, including the name and address of each worker, the worker's correct classification, rate of pay, daily and weekly number of hours worked and the gross wages the worker earned each week during which the contractor or subcontractor employs a worker upon a public works project.

(2) The contractor or subcontractor may submit the weekly payroll on the WH-38 form or may use a similar form providing such form contains all the elements of the WH-38 form. When submitting the weekly payroll on a form other than WH-38, the contractor or subcontractor must attach the certified statement contained on the WH-38 form to the payroll forms submitted.

(3) Each Payroll and Certified Statement form must be submitted by the contractor or subcontractor to the public agency by the fifth business day of each month following a month in which workers were employed upon a public works project.

(4) The Payroll and Certified Statement forms received by the public agency are public records subject to the provisions of ORS 192.410 to 192.505. As such, they must be made available upon request. Pursuant to ORS 279C.845(4), information submitted on certified statements may be used only to ensure compliance with the provisions of ORS 279C.800 through 279C.870.

(5) If the contractor fails to submit its payroll and certified statement forms to the public agency as required by subsection (3) of this rule, the public agency must retain 25 percent of any amount earned by the contractor until the contractor has submitted the required payroll and certified statements to the public agency.

(a) The amount to be retained shall be calculated at 25 percent of the unpaid amount earned by the contractor at the time each payroll and certified statement are due. For example, if the contractor fails to submit its payroll and certified statement by the fifth of the month and the contractor earned $100,000 in the period since its last payroll and certified statement were submitted to the public agency, the public agency must retain 25 percent of $100,000 ($25,000), until such time as the required payroll and certified statement are submitted.

(b) When calculating the amount to be retained, amounts previously retained shall not be included as amounts earned by the contractor.

(c) Once the required payroll and certified statement have been submitted to the public agency, the public agency must pay the amount retained to the contractor within 14 days.

(6) If a first-tier subcontractor fails to submit a payroll and certified statement form to the public agency as required by subsection (3) of this rule, the contractor must retain 25 percent of any amount earned by the first-tier subcontractor until the first-tier subcontractor has submitted the required payroll and certified statements to the public agency.

(a) The amount to be retained shall be calculated at 25 percent of the unpaid amount earned by the first-tier subcontractor at the time each payroll and certified statement are due. For example, if the first-tier subcontractor fails to submit the payroll and certified statement by the fifth of the month and the first-tier subcontractor earned $100,000 in the period since the last payroll and certified statement were submitted to the public agency, the contractor must retain 25 percent of $100,000 ($25,000), until such time as the required payroll and certified statement are submitted.

(b) When calculating the amount to be retained, amounts previously retained shall not be included as amounts earned by the first-tier subcontractor.

(c) The contractor must verify that the first-tier subcontractor has filed the required payroll and certified statement(s) with the public agency before the contractor may pay the first-tier subcontractor any amount retained under this section.

(d) Once the first-tier subcontractor has filed the required payroll and certified statement with the public agency, the contractor must pay the amount retained to the first-tier subcontractor within 14 days.

(7) Notwithstanding ORS 279C.555 or 279C.570(7), amounts retained pursuant to the provisions of this rule shall be in addition to any other amounts retained.

(8)(a) If a project is a public works of the type described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(B), and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the contractors and any subcontractors employing workers upon the public works project shall submit weekly payrolls as required by ORS 279C.845 and this rule to the public agency or agencies providing funds for the project.

(b) When more than one public agency provides funds for a project, the public agencies may designate one agency to receive the contractor's and any subcontractors' payrolls.

(9)(a) If a project is a public works of the type described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(C), and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the contractors and any subcontractors employing workers upon the public works project shall submit weekly payrolls as required by ORS 279C.845 and this rule to the public agency or agencies that will occupy or use the completed project.

(b) When more than one public agency will occupy or use the completed project, the public agencies may designate one agency to receive the contractor's and any subcontractors' payrolls.

(10) If a project is a public works of the type described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(D), and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the contractors and any subcontractors employing workers upon the public works project shall submit weekly payrolls as required by ORS 279C.845 and this rule to the public agency that owns the land, premise(s), structure(s) or building(s) on which the solar radiation device(s) will be constructed or installed.

(11) If a project is a public works of the type described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(E), and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the contractors and any subcontractors employing workers upon the public works project shall submit weekly payrolls as required by ORS 279C.845 and this rule to the Oregon University System or an institution in the Oregon University System that owns the real property.

(d) A condition that the contractor must promptly, as due, make payment to any person, co-partnership, association or corporation, furnishing medical, surgical and hospital care or other needed care and attention, incident to sickness or injury, to employees of such contractor, of all sums which the contractor agrees to pay for such services and all moneys and sums which the contractor collected or deducted from the wages of the contractor's employees pursuant to any law, contract or agreement for the purpose of providing or paying for such service (Reference: ORS 279C.530); and

(e) A condition or clause that requires the contractor to:

(A) Have a public works bond filed with the Construction Contractors Board before starting work on the project, unless exempt under ORS 279C.836(4), (7), (8) or (9).

(b) If a public works project is subject to both ORS 279C.800 to ORS 279C.870 and to the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 3141 et seq.), every public works contract and subcontract must provide that the worker whom the contractor, subcontractor or other person who is a party to the contract uses in performing all or part of the contract, must be paid not less than the higher of the applicable state prevailing rate of wage for each trade or occupation as defined by the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor and Industries

(b) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section and sections (6) and (7) of this rule, the existing state prevailing rate of wage and the applicable publication entitled Definitions of Covered Occupations for Public Works Contracts in Oregon are those in effect at the time the initial specifications were first advertised for bid solicitations.

(c) If a public agency is required under subsection (a) of this section or section (6) of this rule to include the state and federal prevailing rates of wage in the specifications for a contract for public works, the public agency shall also include in the specifications the requirement that the contractor pay the higher of the applicable state or federal prevailing rate of wage to all workers on the public works project.

(d) Pursuant to ORS 279C.838(4) and notwithstanding ORS 279C.830(1), if the contract is subject to both ORS 279C.800 to 279C.870 and the Davis Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 3141 et seq.), the public agency may provide in the specifications for the contract a single date to be used to establish the "existing state prevailing rate of wage," the applicable publication entitled Definitions of Covered Occupations for Public Works Contracts in Oregon, and the "applicable federal prevailing rate of wage" that is consistent with the federal requirements under 29 CFR 1.6.

(e) The specifications for a contract for public works must provide that the contractor and every subcontractor must have a public works bond filed with the Construction Contractors Board before starting work on the project, unless exempt under ORS 279C.836(4), (7), (8) or (9).

(5)(a) The provisions described in sections (3) and (4), and sections (6) and (7) if applicable, must be included in all specifications for each contract awarded on the project, regardless of the price of any individual contract, so long as the combined price of all contracts awarded on the project is $50,000 or more (Reference: ORS 279C.830).

(b) A statement incorporating the applicable state prevailing wage rate publication and any amendments thereto into the specifications by reference will satisfy these requirements. Except as provided in subsection (c), such reference must include the title of the applicable wage rates publication or determination and the date of the publication or determination as well as the date of any applicable amendments.

(c) When the prevailing wage rates are available electronically or are accessible on the Internet, the rates may be incorporated into the specifications by referring to the electronically accessible or Internet-accessible rates and by providing adequate information about how to access the rates. Such reference must include the title of the applicable wage rates publication or determination and the date of the publication or determination as well as the date of any applicable amendments. The reference requirements of this subsection will be satisfied if such reference includes Uniform Resource Locator (URL) information for a webpage or webpages showing the title of each applicable wage rates publication or determination and the date of each publication or determination as well as the date of any applicable amendments.

(6)(a) When a public agency is a party to a CM/GC contract, the CM/GC contract becomes a public works contract either when the contract first constitutes a binding and enforceable obligation on the part of the CM/GC to perform or arrange for the performance of construction, reconstruction, major renovation or painting of an improvement that is a public works or when the CM/GC contract enters the construction phase, whichever occurs first.

(b) For example, the CM/GC will have a binding and enforceable obligation to perform or arrange for the performance of construction, reconstruction, major renovation or painting of an improvement after the public agency and CM/GC commit to the guaranteed maximum price.

(c) For purposes of this rule, the CM/GC contract enters the construction phase when the agency first authorizes the performance of early construction, reconstruction, major renovation or painting work directly related to the improvement project.

(d) The publication entitled Definitions of Covered Occupations for Public Works Contracts in Oregon and the prevailing wage rate in effect at the time the CM/GC contract becomes a public works contract shall apply and the applicable prevailing wage rates must be included with the construction specifications for the CM/GC contract.

(7) A public works project described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(B), (C), (D), or (E) that is not a CM/GC contract subject to section (6) of this rule is subject to the publication entitled Definitions of Covered Occupations for Public Works Contracts in Oregon and the existing state prevailing rate of wage or, if applicable, the federal prevailing rate of wage required under the Davis-Bacon Act that are in effect at the time a public agency enters into an agreement with a private entity for the project. (Note: The effective date of the applicable federal prevailing rate of wage may be different under federal law.) After that time, the specifications for any contract for the public works shall include the applicable prevailing rate of wage.

(8) If a project is a public works of the type described in ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(B), (C), (D), or (E) a public agency will be deemed to have complied with the provisions of ORS 279C.830 if the public agency requires compliance with the provisions of section (5) of this rule in any agreement entered into by the public agency committing to provide funds for the project, to occupy or use the completed project, or authorizing the construction or installation of a solar radiation device.

(9) Public agencies may obtain, without cost, a copy of the existing state prevailing rate of wages for use in preparing the contract specifications by contacting the Prevailing Wage Rate Unit or any office of the bureau.

Payment of Prevailing Rate of Wage

(1) Every contractor or subcontractor employing workers on a public works project must pay to such workers no less than the applicable prevailing rate of wage for each trade or occupation, as determined by the commissioner, in which the workers are employed. Additionally, all wages due and owing to the workers shall be paid on the regular payday established and maintained under ORS 652.120.

(2) When a public works project is subject to the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U.S.C. 3141 et seq.), if the state prevailing rate of wage is higher than the federal prevailing rate of wage, the contractor and every subcontractor on the project shall pay no less than the state prevailing rate of wage as determined under ORS 279C.815.

(3) Every person paid by a contractor or subcontractor in any manner for the person's labor in the construction, reconstruction, major renovation or painting of a public work is employed and must receive no less than the applicable prevailing rate of wage, regardless of any contractual relationship alleged to exist. Thus, for example, if partners are themselves performing the duties of a worker, the partners must receive no less than the prevailing rate of wage for the hours they are so engaged.

(4) Persons employed on a public works project and who are spending more than 20% of their time during any workweek in performing duties which are manual or physical in nature as opposed to mental or managerial in nature are workers and must be paid the applicable prevailing rate of wage. Mental or managerial duties include, but are not limited to, administrative, executive, professional, supervisory or clerical duties.

(5) Persons employed on a public works project for the manufacture or furnishing of materials, articles, supplies or equipment (whether or not a public agency acquires title to such materials, articles, supplies or equipment during the course of the manufacture or furnishing, or owns the materials from which they are manufactured or furnished) are not workers required to be paid the applicable prevailing rate of wage unless the employment of such persons is performed in connection with and at the site of the public works project.

(6) Except as provided in ORS 279C.838, persons employed on a public works project who are employed by a commercial supplier of goods or materials must be paid no less than the applicable prevailing rate of wage when the work is performed at the "site of work" as that term is defined in OAR 839-025-0004(25) or when the work is performed in fabrication plants, batch plants, borrow pits, job headquarters, tool yards or other such places that are dedicated exclusively or nearly so to the public works project.

(7) Except as provided in ORS 279C.838, persons employed on a public works project by the construction contractor or construction subcontractor to transport materials or supplies to or from the public works project are required to be paid the applicable prevailing wage rate for work performed in connection with the transportation of materials or supplies at the "site of work" as that term is defined in OAR 839-025-0004(25).

(8) Persons employed on a public works project for personal services, as that term is defined in ORS 279C.100(5), as opposed to construction work, are not workers required to be paid the prevailing rate of wage.

(9) Every apprentice, as defined in OAR 839-025-0004(1), must be paid not less than the appropriate percentage of the applicable journeyman's wage rate and fringe benefits as determined pursuant to ORS 279C.800 to 279C.870. Any worker on a public works project who is not an apprentice as defined in OAR 839-025-0004(1), or who is not employed by a registered training agent pursuant to ORS 660.010(10), or who is not working pursuant to the standards of the apprentice's apprenticeship program, must be paid not less than the applicable prevailing rate of wage for the classification of work actually performed. In addition, if the total number of apprentices employed exceeds the ratio permitted in the applicable standards, all apprentices so employed must be paid not less than the applicable journeyman's prevailing wage rate for work actually performed.

(10) Every trainee, as defined in OAR 839-025-0004(28), must be paid not less than the appropriate percentage of the applicable journeyman's wage rate and fringe benefits determined pursuant to ORS 279C.800 to 279C.870. Any worker on a public works project who is not a trainee as defined in OAR 839-025-0004(28), or who is not employed by a registered training agent pursuant to ORS 660.010(10), or who is not working pursuant to the standards of the trainee's program, must be paid not less than the applicable prevailing rate of wage for the classification of work actually performed. In addition, if the total number of trainees employed exceeds the ratio permitted in the applicable standards, all trainees so employed must be paid not less than the applicable journeyman's prevailing wage rate for work actually performed.

Frequency of Payment of Fringe Benefits

(1) Contributions made by a contractor or subcontractor to a bona fide fringe benefit plan, fund, or program must be made on a regular basis and not less often than quarterly.

(a) "Regular basis" means either the schedule of contribution as provided in writing in the plan, fund or program, or if none, the regular contribution schedule established by the contractor or subcontractor pursuant to subsection (b) of this section. For example, if the plan specifies that contributions to a bona fide fringe benefit fund be made by the fifteenth calendar day of each month following the month the wages were earned, then contributions to the fund must be made by that date.

(b) If the plan, fund or program does not specify a contribution date, or if the specified contribution date as written in the plan, fund or program does not meet the meaning of "not less often than quarterly," as defined below, the contractor or subcontractor must establish and maintain a contribution date by which payment to the plan, fund or program will be made on a regular basis and not less often than quarterly.

(c) "Not less often than quarterly" means that the fringe benefit portion of wages must be contributed to a bona fide fund, plan or program at least once every three months within an established consecutive twelve month period. The contribution must represent payment to the fund, plan or program for amounts earned in the three month period immediately prior to the contribution date.

(A) An established twelve month period may be a calendar year, fiscal year, plan year, or other consecutive twelve month period as determined by the employer. The beginning of the twelve month period may be changed only if the change is intended to be permanent, and is not designed to evade the timely payment of contributions into a bona fide fund, plan or program. If an employer does not determine a consecutive twelve month period, the default period shall be a calendar year; that is, from 12:00 midnight on January 1 to 11:59 p.m. December 31, each year.

(B) As an example, using the calendar year as the established consecutive twelve month period, a contractor or subcontractor establishes a contribution date of April 15 for the payment of fringe benefits earned between January 1 and March 31 into the plan, fund or program; consequently, amounts earned between April 1 and June 30 must be contributed into the plan, fund or program on or before July 15; amounts earned between July 1 and September 30 must be contributed into the plan, fund or program on or before October 15; and amounts earned between October 1 and December 31 must be contributed into the plan, fund or program on or before January 15.

(2) Payments of fringe benefits made directly to the worker in lieu of payment of fringe benefits to a plan, fund, or program must be paid to the worker as wages on the regularly scheduled pay date.

(3) As used in section (2) of this rule, any corporate officer or agent of the corporation or any member or manager of the limited liability company responsible for failing or refusing to pay or post the prevailing wage rates, failing to pay to a subcontractor's employees amounts required under ORS 279C.840 that the contractor pays on the subcontractor's behalf or intentionally falsifying information in the certified statements the contractor or subcontractor submits under ORS 279C.845, includes, but is not limited to, the following individuals when the individuals knew or should have known the amount of the applicable prevailing wages or that such wages must be posted:

(5) Before placing a name on the ineligible list referred to in section (4) of this rule, the commissioner will serve a notice of intended action upon the contractor or subcontractor in the same manner as service of summons or by certified mail, return receipt requested. The notice will include:

(d) A statement that the party's name will be published on a list of persons ineligible to receive public works contracts or subcontracts, unless the party requests a contested case hearing as provided in section (5)(c) of this rule;

(e) A statement that failure to make written request to the commissioner for a contested case hearing within the time specified will constitute a waiver of the right thereto; and

(f) A statement that if a hearing is requested, the contractor or subcontractor will be given information on procedures and rights as required by ORS 183.413(2).

(6) Upon the failure of the contractor or subcontractor to request a contested case hearing within the time specified, the commissioner or the commissioner's designee will enter an order supporting the bureau's action.

Special Circumstances

(1) When a public agency enters into an agreement for construction management services or chooses to act as its own general contractor or construction manager in connection with a public works project subject to ORS 279C.800 to 279C.870, the contract price for purposes of determining whether the project is regulated under the law shall be the sum of all contracts associated with the project or, if the actual sums are not known at the time work begins, the contract price shall be the guaranteed maximum amount for the project or the agency's good faith estimate of the contract price of the project if there is no guaranteed maximum amount.

(2) When a public agency contracts with a contractor to act as the general manager of a public works project, the contract for general manager services is a public works contract for purposes of these rules and a fee is required just as it is for any other public works contract, since the contract would not have been entered into but for the public works project.

(3) When a public agency acts as its own general contractor and enters into one or several contracts in connection with a public works project subject to ORS 279C.800 to 279C.870, the public agency is required to pay the fee in connection with each contract awarded to each contractor. The fee is required on all contracts, regardless of the contract price of any individual contract, so long as the combined price of all contracts awarded on the project is $50,000 or more.

(4) When a project is a public works project pursuant to ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(B) and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the public agency or agencies providing public funds for the project shall pay the required fee at the time the public agency or agencies commit(s) to the provision of funds for the project. The amount of the fee shall be based on the total project amount. When the amount of the project is not known by the public agency or agencies providing public funds for the project, the public agency or agencies shall pay the required fee pursuant to the provisions of OAR 839-025-0220.

(5) When a project is a public works project pursuant to ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(C) and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the public agency or agencies that will occupy or use the completed project shall pay the required fee when the agency or agencies enter(s) into an agreement to occupy or use the completed project. The amount of the fee shall be based on the total project amount. When the amount of the project is not known by the public agency or agencies that will occupy or use the completed project, the public agency or agencies shall pay the required fee pursuant to the provisions of OAR 839-025-0220.

(6) When a project is a public works project pursuant to ORS 279C.800(6)(a)(D) and no public agency awards a contract to a contractor for the project, the public agency that owns the land, premise(s), structure(s), or building(s) on which the solar radiation device will be constructed or installed shall pay the required fee at the time the public agency enters into an agreement authorizing the construction or installation of the solar radiation device. The amount of the fee shall be based on the total project amount. When the amount of the project is not known by the public agency, the public agency shall pay the required fee pursuant to the provisions of OAR 839-025-0220.

Hours of Employment for Minors Under 16 Years of Age

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this rule, employment of minors under 16 years of age must be confined to the following periods:

(a) Outside school hours;

(b) Not more than 40 hours in any one week when school is not in session;

(c) Not more than 18 hours in any one week when school is in session;

(d) Not more than eight hours in any one day when school is not in session;

(e) Not more than three hours in any one day when school is in session;

(f) Between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., except that during the summer (June 1 through Labor Day) the minor may work until 9:00 p.m.

(2) In the case of enrollees in work training programs conducted under Part B of Title I of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, there is an exception to the requirement of subsection (1)(a) of this rule if the employer has on file with the records kept pursuant to OAR 839-021-0170 an unrevoked written statement of the Regional Manpower Administrator of the U.S. Department of Labor or representative setting out the periods which the minor will work and certifying that the minor's employment confined to such periods will not interfere with the minor's health and well-being, countersigned by the principal of the school which the minor is attending with the principal's certificate that such employment will not interfere with the minor's schooling.

(3) In the case of students enrolled in a career exploration or other work experience program, there is an exception to subsection (1)(a) of this rule when:

Insofar as these provisions are inconsistent with the provisions of section (1) of this rule, this section will be controlling.

(6) The employment of a minor enrolled in a program pursuant to sections (2), (3), and (4) of this rule must not have the effect of displacing a worker employed in the establishment of the employer.

(7) The Bureau may waive the provisions of section (1)(f) of this rule and OAR 839-021-0246(4)(d) and authorize minors under 16 years of age employed by their parent(s) or person(s) standing in the place of their parent(s) to work as late as 9:00 p.m. when the Bureau determines that such hours of work will not be detrimental to the health, safety or education of the children so employed and the minor is supervised by the minor's parent(s) or person(s) standing in the place of their parent(s) during the extended hours employed. No minor may be employed to work in violation of the provisions of (1)(a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) of this rule or, in the case of minors under 14 years of age, in violation of OAR 839-021-0246(4)(a), (b), and (c).

Employment Certificates for the Employment of Minors 14 through 17 Years of Age

(1) Unless otherwise provided by rule, no minor 14 through 17 years of age may be employed or permitted to work unless the employer:

(a) Verifies the minor's age by requiring the minor to produce acceptable proof of age as prescribed by these rules; and

(b) Complies with the provisions of this rule.

(2) An employer may not employ a minor without having first obtained a validated employment certificate from the Bureau. Application forms for an employment certificate may be obtained from any office of the Bureau or by contacting the Child Labor Unit, Wage and Hour Division, Bureau of Labor and Industries, 800 NE Oregon Street Suite 1045, Portland OR 97232, 971-673-0836, www.oregon.gov/BOLI.

(a) The Bureau will issue a validated employment certificate upon review and approval of the application. The validated employment certificate will be effective for one year from the date it was issued, unless it is suspended or revoked.

(b) If, after the issuance of a validated employment certificate, the duties of the minors are changed from those originally authorized under the employment certificate or the employer wishes to employ minors at an additional establishment, the employer must submit a "Notice of Change (to Annual Employment Certificate)" form to the Child Labor Unit, Wage and Hour Division of the Bureau of Labor and Industries. The "Notice of Change (to Annual Employment Certificate)" form must be submitted within 15 days of the change on a form provided by the Bureau. The Bureau will approve or deny any change(s) in duties and notify the employer. If the Bureau denies the changes, the employer must immediately reassign any affected minor to approved duties or terminate the minor's employment.

(3) The employer must post the validated employment certificate in a conspicuous place where all employees can readily see it. When the employer employs minors in more than one establishment, a copy of the validated employment certificate must be posted at each establishment. As used in this rule, "establishment" means a distinct physical place of business. If a minor is employed by one employer to perform work in more than one location, the minor will be considered employed in the establishment where the minor receives management direction and control.

(4) If the employer employs minors at more than one establishment, a copy of the Summary of Child Labor Laws provided to the employer by the Bureau pursuant to OAR 839-021-0221(4) must be provided by the employer to the manager of each establishment where minors will be employed.

(5) The employer must apply for a validated employment certificate once each year by filing a renewal application on a form provided by the Bureau. The renewal application must be received by any office of the Bureau no later than the expiration date of the validated employment certificate.

(6) If the Bureau's review of any application indicates a failure to comply with any law or rule pertaining to the employment of minors or any order of the commission, the Bureau may deny the application and inform the employer of the reason(s) for the denial.

Filing a Complaint Under the Oregon Safe Employment Act

(1) A person or the person's attorney may file a complaint under the Oregon Safe Employment Act (OSEA), in person or by mail, with the division at any bureau office in the state of Oregon. Complaint means a written statement signed by the complainant that:

(a) Gives the name and address of the complainant and the respondent;

(b) Identifies the protected class basis of the complaint;

(c) Is signed by the complainant;

(d) Describes the actions complained of, including:

(A) The date(s) of occurrence;

(B) What the action was and how it harmed the aggrieved person; and

(C) The causal connection between the aggrieved person's protected class and the alleged harm.

(2) A person alleging discrimination for reporting or opposing unsafe or unhealthy work conditions under ORS 654.062 must contact the division within 90 days of having reasonable cause to believe that such violation has occurred. An employee would have reasonable cause to believe a violation has occurred on the earliest date that the employee:

(a) Believed retaliation had occurred against the employee for opposing employee health and safety hazards; and

(b) Knew or should have known of the right to file a complaint with the division and of the requirement that the complaint be filed within 90 days of the alleged retaliation.

(A) If a notice required by OSEA, as provided in OAR 437-001-0275(2)(a), was properly posted in the employee's workplace, continuously on and following the date of the alleged retaliation, the division will find that the employee knew or should have known of the 90-day filing requirement.

(B) If the employer failed to post the required OSEA poster, the 90-day filing requirement will begin on the date the employee learned of the right to file a complaint and of the 90-day filing requirement. The employee may establish this date based on the employee's own statement or other evidence offered by the employee.

(C) If the employer disagrees with the employee's presented date as the date the employee learned of the right to file a complaint, the burden is on the employer to show that the employee knew or should have known on an earlier date.

(D) If extenuating circumstances exist, the division may extend the 90-day period as provided in 29 CFR §1977.15(3).

Remedy

This section does not apply to housing discrimination complaints under ORS 659A.145 or 659A.421 or federal housing law. Remedies in complaints of housing discrimination are addressed in OAR 839-003-0230.

(1) In cases of employment discrimination remedy includes, but is not limited to:

(a) Employment or reemployment;

(b) Wages or other benefits lost due to the practice;

(c) Out-of-pocket expenses attributable to the practice;

(d) Compensation for emotional distress and impaired personal dignity; and

(e) Interest.

(2) Consideration of all acts alleged to comprise a hostile work environment in a complaint, including alleged acts occurring outside the one year statute of limitations for filing a complaint, is permissible for the purposes of assessing liability, so long as any act contributing to that hostile work environment takes place within the statutory period.

(3) In order to recover damages for lost wages, the aggrieved person will generally be required to mitigate damages by seeking employment.

(a) Earned income from employment may be deducted from lost wage damages.

(b) In most cases, unearned income such as unemployment or public assistance benefits will not be deducted from lost wage damages.

(4) Settlements of complaints and the awards in commissioner's Final Orders do not necessarily include all possible remedies named in sections (1) and (2) of this rule. Nothing in this rule will be construed to limit or alter the statutory powers of the commissioner to protect the rights of persons similarly situated to the aggrieved person or to order the performance of an act or a series of acts designed to eliminate the effect of any unlawful practice found.

(5) The commissioner may order the respondent to eliminate the effects of any unlawful practice found and may require respondent to:

(a) Perform a designated act or series of acts that are calculated to carry out the policy of these rules in order to eliminate the effects of an unlawful practice and to protect the rights of those affected;

(b) Take action and submit reports to the commissioner on the manner of compliance with the terms and conditions specified in the commissioner's order or agreement;

(c) Refrain from any action prohibited by the order or agreement that would jeopardize the rights of the individuals or groups named in the complaint or would frustrate the purpose and the policy of these rules and relevant statutes.

(6) When the respondent makes an offer of remedy, the division will inform the aggrieved person of the offer. If the aggrieved person does not accept an offer that the division has determined will eliminate the effects of the unlawful practice, the division may dismiss the complaint.

(7) Any agreement or order issued by the commissioner may be enforced by mandamus or injunction or by suit in equity to compel specific performance.

Constructive discharge occurs when an individual leaves employment because of unlawful discrimination. The elements of a constructive discharge are:

(1) The employer intentionally created or intentionally maintained discriminatory working conditions related to the individual's protected class status;

(2) The working conditions were so intolerable that a reasonable person in the individual's circumstances would have resigned because of them;

(3) The employer desired to cause the individual to leave employment as a result of those working conditions, or knew or should have known that the individual was certain, or substantially certain, to leave employment as a result of the working conditions; and

(4) The individual left employment as a result of the working conditions.

Sexual Harassment

(1) Sexual harassment is unlawful discrimination on the basis of sex and includes the following types of conduct:

(a) Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other conduct of a sexual nature when such conduct is directed toward an individual because of that individual's sex and:

(A) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of employment; or

(B) Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting that individual.

(b) Any unwelcome verbal or physical conduct that is sufficiently severe or pervasive to have the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with work performance or creating a hostile, intimidating or offensive working environment.

(2) The standard for determining whether harassment based on an individual's sex is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create a hostile, intimidating or offensive working environment is whether a reasonable person in the circumstances of the complaining individual would so perceive it.

(3) Employer proxy: An employer is liable for harassment when the harasser's rank is sufficiently high that the harasser is the employer's proxy, for example, the respondent's president, owner, partner or corporate officer.

(4) Harassment by Supervisor plus Tangible Employment Action: An employer is liable for sexual harassment by a supervisor with immediate or successively higher authority over an individual when the harassment results in a tangible employment action that the supervisor takes or causes to be taken against that individual. A tangible employment action includes but is not limited to the following:

(a) Terminating employment, including constructive discharge;

(b) Failing to hire;

(c) Failing to promote; or

(d) Changing a term or condition of employment, such as work assignment, work schedule, compensation or benefits or making a decision that causes a significant change in an employment benefit.

(5) Harassment by Supervisor, No Tangible Employment Action: When sexual harassment by a supervisor with immediate or successively higher authority over an individual is found to have occurred, but no tangible employment action was taken, the employer is liable if:

(a) The employer knew of the harassment, unless the employer took immediate and appropriate corrective action.

(b) The employer should have known of the harassment. The division will find that the employer should have known of the harassment unless the employer can demonstrate:

(A) That the employer exercised reasonable care to prevent and promptly correct any sexually harassing behavior; and

(B) That the aggrieved person unreasonably failed to take advantage of any preventive or corrective opportunities provided by the employer or to otherwise avoid harm.

(6) Harassment by Co-Workers or Agents: An employer is liable for sexual harassment by the employer's employees or agents who do not have immediate or successively higher authority over the aggrieved person when the employer knew or should have known of the conduct, unless the employer took immediate and appropriate corrective action.

(7) Harassment by Non-Employees: An employer is liable for sexual harassment by non-employees in the workplace when the employer or the employer's agents knew or should have known of the conduct unless the employer took immediate and appropriate corrective action. In reviewing such cases the division will consider the extent of the employer's control and any legal responsibility the employer may have with respect to the conduct of such non-employees.

(8) Withdrawn Consent: An employer is liable for sexual harassment of an individual by the employer's supervisory or non-supervisory employees, agents or non-employees, even if the acts complained of were of a kind previously consented to by the aggrieved person, if the employer knew or should have known that the aggrieved person had withdrawn consent to the offensive conduct.

(9) When employment opportunities or benefits are granted because of an individual's submission to an employer's sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other sexual harassment, the employer is liable for unlawful sex discrimination against other individuals who were qualified for but denied that opportunity or benefit.

Discrimination Theories: Housing

(1) For the purposes of housing discrimination complaints under ORS 659A.145 or 659A.421 or discrimination complaints under federal housing law, a complainant need not be a member of a protected class. An aggrieved person may file a complaint of housing discrimination.

(2) Substantial evidence of intentional unlawful discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals reasonable cause for the Commissioner to believe the facts concerning the alleged discriminatory housing practice are sufficient to warrant the initiation of a civil action in circuit court under one of the following theories:

(a) Specific Intent Theory: The respondent knowingly and purposefully discriminates against an individual because of that individual's membership in a protected class.

(b) Different or Unequal Treatment Theory: The respondent treats members of a protected class differently than others who are not members of that protected class. When the respondent makes this differentiation because of the individual's protected class and not because of legitimate, non-discriminatory reasons, unlawful discrimination exists. In establishing a case of different or unequal treatment:

(A) There must be substantial evidence that the individual was harmed or was about to be harmed by the action of the respondent under circumstances that make it appear that the respondent treated the individual differently than comparably situated individuals who were not members of the individual's protected class. Substantial evidence of discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support that protected class membership was a motivating factor for the respondent's alleged unlawful action. If the respondent fails to rebut this evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, the division will conclude that substantial evidence of discrimination exists.

(i) Pretext: If the respondent rebuts the evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, but there is substantial evidence that the respondent's reason is a pretext for discrimination, the division will conclude there is substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination.

(ii) Mixed Motive: If the respondent presents substantial evidence that a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason contributed to the respondent's action, but the division finds the individual's protected class membership was also a substantial factor in the respondent's action, the division will determine there is substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination.

(B) The complainant at all times has the burden of proving that the individual's protected class was the motivating factor for the respondent's unlawful action.

(3) Adverse Impact Discrimination in Housing:

(a) For the purposes of interpreting ORS 90.390, a court or the commissioner may find that a person has violated or is going to violate 659A.145 or 659A.421 if:

(A) The person applies a facially neutral housing policy to a member of a protected class;

(B) Application of the policy adversely impacts members of the protected class to a greater extent than the policy impacts persons generally.

(b) In determining under subsection (a) of this section whether a violation has occurred or will occur and, if it is determined that a violation has occurred or will occur, what relief should be granted, a court or the commissioner will consider:

(A) The significance of the adverse impact on the protected class;

(B) The importance and necessity of any business purpose for the facially neutral housing policy; and

(C) The availability of less discriminatory alternatives for achieving the business purpose for the facially neutral housing policy.

(4) As used in enforcing ORS 659A.145 or 659A.421 or federal housing law, harassment on the basis of a protected class is an unlawful practice in housing when:

(a) Conduct of a verbal or physical nature relating to protected classes is unlawful when substantial evidence of the elements of intentional discrimination, as described in section (2) of this rule is shown; and

(A) Such conduct is sufficiently severe or pervasive to have the purpose or effect of creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment; or

(B) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of housing; or

(C) Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for housing decisions affecting that individual.

(b) The standard for determining whether harassment is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create a hostile, intimidating or offensive environment is whether a reasonable person in the circumstances of the individual against whom the harassment is directed would so perceive it.

(5) Tenant-on-tenant harassment: A housing provider is liable for a resident's harassment of another resident when the housing provider knew or should have known of the conduct, unless the housing provider took immediate and appropriate corrective action.

(6) Harassment by Employees or Agents: A housing provider is liable for harassment of a resident by the housing provider's employees or agents when the housing provider knew or should have known of the conduct, unless the housing provider took immediate and appropriate corrective action.

(7) Discrimination based on disability may involve intentional discrimination, including harassment, or discrimination that need not be intentional, including adverse impact, or the failure to permit reasonable modifications, the refusal to make reasonable accommodations or the failure to design and construct covered buildings under applicable rules. To be protected from discrimination based on disability, an individual must have a disability, as described in ORS 659A.104 and the relevant rules. Reasonable accommodation in real property transactions is covered by 659A.145 and OAR 839-005-0220. Reasonable modifications in housing and the design and construction of covered buildings are covered by ORS 659A.145. Claims of disability discrimination brought under federal housing law are defined under that law.

Discrimination Theories for Career Schools

(1) Intentional Unlawful Discrimination: Substantial evidence of intentional unlawful discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support the following elements:

(a) The respondent is a respondent as defined by ORS 659A.001(10) and OAR 839-005-0003(12) of these rules;

(b) The complainant is a member of a protected class;

(c) The complainant was harmed by an action of the respondent; and

(d) The complainant's protected class was the motivating factor for the respondent's action. In determining whether the complainant's protected class was the reason for the respondent's action, the division uses whichever of the following theories applies:

(A) Specific Intent Theory: The respondent knowingly and purposefully discriminates against an individual because of that individual's membership in a protected class, unless the respondent can show that a bona fide voluntary, court-ordered affirmative action plan (OAR 839-005-0013(3)) allows the action.

(B) Different or Unequal Treatment Theory: The respondent treats members of a protected class differently than others who are not members of that protected class. When the respondent makes this differentiation because of the individual's protected class and not because of legitimate, non-discriminatory reasons, unlawful discrimination exists. In establishing a case of different or unequal treatment:

(i) There must be substantial evidence that the complainant was harmed by an action of the respondent under circumstances that make it appear that the respondent treated the complainant differently than comparably situated individuals who were not members of the complainant's protected class. Substantial evidence of discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support that protected class membership was a motivating factor for the respondent's alleged unlawful action. If the respondent fails to rebut this evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, the division will conclude that substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination exists.

(I) Pretext: If the respondent rebuts the evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, but there is substantial evidence that the respondent's reason is a pretext for discrimination, the division will conclude there is substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination.

(II) Mixed Motive: If the respondent presents substantial evidence that a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason contributed to the respondent's action, but the division finds the individual's protected class membership was also a substantial factor in the respondent's action, the division will determine there is substantial evidence of discrimination.

(ii) The complainant at all times has the burden of proving that the complainant's protected class was the reason for the respondent's unlawful action.

(2) Harassment based on an individual's protected class is a type of intentional unlawful discrimination.

(a) Conduct of a verbal or physical nature relating to protected classes other than sex is unlawful when substantial evidence of the elements of intentional discrimination, as described in section (1) of this rule, is shown and:

(A) Such conduct is sufficiently severe or pervasive to have the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive environment;

(B) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of enrollment; or

(C) Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for enrollment decisions affecting that individual.

(b) The standard for determining whether harassment is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create a hostile, intimidating or offensive environment is whether a reasonable person in the circumstances of the complaining individual would so perceive it.

(3) Adverse Impact Discrimination: Substantial evidence of adverse impact discrimination does not require establishment of intentional discrimination as provided in (1) of this rule. Adverse impact discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support the following elements:

(a) The respondent is a respondent as defined by ORS 659A.001(10) and OAR 839-005-0003(10) of these rules;

(b) The respondent has a standard or policy that is applied equally.

(c) The standard or policy has the effect of screening out or otherwise affecting members of a protected class at a significantly higher rate than others who are not members of that protected class; and

(d) The complainant is a member of the protected class adversely affected by the respondent's standard or policy and has been harmed by the respondent's application of the standard or policy.

(4) Reasonable Accommodation of Religion: A career school must reasonably accommodate a student's or applicant's religious belief, observance or practice unless the career school can demonstrate that such accommodation would cause it undue hardship.

Authority of Superintendent of Public Instruction Related to Complaints Under ORS 345.240

(1) Pursuant to ORS 345.120, the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Oregon has authority to suspend or revoke licenses of career schools violating 345.010 to 345.450 or any applicable rule. A certified copy of a finding by the Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor and Industries in a contested case proceeding under 659A.850 that the school has violated 345.240 is adequate proof of the violation.

(2) Pursuant to ORS 345.060, the Superintendent of Public Instruction may accept service of all actions or proceedings brought against a career school not domiciled in Oregon.

Unlawful Employment Practice

(1) It is an unlawful employment practice for an employer to:

(a) Require or request an employee or an applicant for employment to disclose or to provide access through the employee's or applicant's user name and password, password or other means of authentication that provides access to a personal social media account;

(b) Compel an employee or applicant for employment to add the employer or an employment agency to the employee's or applicant's list of contacts associated with a social media website;

(c) Except as provided in subsection (4)(b) of this section, compel an employee or applicant for employment to access a personal social media account in the presence of the employer and in a manner that enables the employer to view the contents of the personal social media account that are visible only when the personal social media account is accessed by the account holder's user name and password, password or other means of authentication;

(d) Take, or threaten to take, any action to discharge, discipline or otherwise penalize an employee for the employee's refusal to disclose, or to provide access through, the employee's user name and password, password or other means of authentication that is associated with a personal social media account, to add the employer to the employee's list of contacts associated with a social media website or to access a personal social media account as described in paragraph (c) of this subsection; or

(e) Fail or refuse to hire an applicant for employment because the applicant refused to disclose, or to provide access through, the applicant's user name and password, password or other means of authentication that is associated with a personal social media account, to add the employer to the applicant's list of contacts associated with a social media website or to access a personal social media account as described in paragraph (c) of this subsection.

(2) An employer may require an employee to disclose any username and password, password or other means for accessing an account provided by, or on behalf of, the employer or to be used on behalf of the employer.

(3) An employer may not be held liable for the failure to request or require an employee or applicant to disclose the information specified in subsection (1)(a) of this section.

(4) Nothing in this section prevents an employer from:

(a) Conducting an investigation, without requiring an employee to provide a user name and password, password or other means of authentication that provides access to a personal social media account of the employee, for the purpose of ensuring compliance with applicable laws, regulatory requirements or prohibitions against work-related employee misconduct based on receipt by the employer of specific information about activity of the employee on a personal online account or service.

(b) Conducting an investigation permitted under this subsection that requires an employee, without providing a user name and password, password or other means of authentication that provides access to a personal social media account of the employee, to share content that has been reported to the employer that is necessary for the employer to make a factual determination about the matter.

(c) Complying with state and federal laws, rules and regulations and the rules of self-regulatory organizations.

(5) Nothing in this section prohibits an employer from accessing information available to the public about the employee or applicant that is accessible through an online account.

(6) If an employer inadvertently receives the user name and password, password or other means of authentication that provides access to a personal social media account of an employee through the use of an electronic device or program that monitors usage of the employer's network or employer-provided devices, the employer is not liable for having the information but may not use the information to access the personal social media account of the employee.

(7) As used in this section, "social media" means an electronic medium that allows users to create, share and view user-generated content, including, but not limited to, uploading or downloading videos, still photographs, blogs, video blogs, podcasts, instant messages, electronic mail or Internet website profiles or locations.

Notice Publication Date: 11-1-2013
Rules Adopted: 839-006-0291, 839-006-0292, 839-006-0345
Rules Amended: 839-006-0205, 839-006-0212, 839-006-0270, 839-006-0290, 839-006-0295, 839-006-0305

Rules Ren. & Amend: 839-006-0307 to 839-006-0340
Subject: Amendments to 839-006-0205 and 839-006-0212 make the rules consistent with newly enacted legislation regarding substantial limitations.

Amendments to 839-006-0270 and 839-006-0295 and adoption of 839-006-0292 provide definitions for auxiliary aids and services for state government. Adoption of 839-006-0291 would provide clarification for reasonable modifications by state government. These are all consistent with the Americans with Disabilities Act and ORS 659A.139. Amendments to 839-006-0290 implement newly enacted legislation regarding places of public accommodation and state government.

Amendments to 839-006-0305 modify the definition of place of public accommodation consistent with newly enacted legislation.

Amendments and renumbering of 839-006-0307 to 839-006-0340 reorganize the rule as theories of discrimination that apply to state government and places of public accommodation. The amendments would also replace the term "complainant" with "individual" because the Commissioner and the Attorney General may bring complaints on behalf on individuals with disabilities

Adoption of 839-006-0345 provides information on assistance animals in places of public accommodation and state government, consistent with newly enacted legislation.

Renumbering of 839-006-0332 to 839-006-0350 moves the existing rule without amendments, as the subject of the rule, requirements for transient lodging, is separate and not a part of the Oregon disability statutes.

(12) "Substantially limits" means that an individual has an impairment, had an impairment or is perceived as having an impairment that restricts one or more major life activities of the individual as compared to most people in the general population.

(a) An impairment need not prevent, or significantly or severely restrict, the individual from performing a major life activity in order to be considered substantially limiting.

(b) An impairment that substantially limits one major life activity of the individual need not limit other major life activities of the individual.

(c) In determining whether an impairment substantially limits a major life activity, the ability of the individual with the impairment to perform that major life activity is compared to that of individuals in the general population.

(d) Factors that could affect whether an impairment "substantially limits a major life activity" include, but are not limited to, the presence of other impairments that combine to make the impairment disabling.

(e) An impairment that is episodic or in remission is considered to substantially limit a major life activity of the individual if the impairment would substantially limit a major life activity of the individual when the impairment is active. Nonetheless, not every impairment will constitute a disability within the meaning of this section.

(1) When determining whether an impairment substantially limits a major life activity of an individual, the determination shall be made without regard to the ameliorative effects of mitigating measures, including:

(a) Medication;

(b) Medical supplies, equipment or appliances;

(c) Low vision devices or other devices that magnify, enhance or otherwise augment a visual image, except that ordinary eyeglasses or contact lenses or other similar lenses that are intended to fully correct visual acuity or eliminate refractive error may be considered when determining whether an impairment substantially limits a major life activity of an individual;

(d) Prosthetics, including limbs and devices;

(e) Hearing aids, cochlear implants or other implantable hearing devices;

(f) Mobility devices;

(g) Oxygen therapy equipment or supplies;

(i) Reasonable accommodations or auxiliary aids or services; or

(j) Learned behavioral or adaptive neurological modifications.

(2) The non-ameliorative effects of mitigating measures, such as negative side effects of medication or burdens associated with following a particular treatment regimen, may be considered when determining whether an individual's impairment substantially limits a major life activity.

(3) The determination of whether a person is substantially limited in a major life activity shall be made on a case-by-case basis.

Discrimination Theories: Discrimination Against Individuals with Disabilities by State Government or Places of Public Accommodation

(1) A violation of discrimination laws against individuals with disabilities may involve either intentional or unintentional discrimination. Discrimination against individuals with disabilities need not be intentional to be unlawful. Unintentional discrimination may occur, for example, in situations involving adverse impact. To be protected from discrimination based on disability, an individual must have a disability, as defined in ORS 659A.104 and the relevant rules.

(2) Substantial evidence of intentional unlawful discrimination against an individual exists if the investigation of the Civil Rights Division ("division") reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support the following elements:

(a) The respondent is a respondent as defined by ORS 659A.001(10) and OAR 839-005-0003(12) of these rules;

(b) The individual has a disability;

(c) The individual was harmed by an action of the respondent; and

(d) The individual's disability was the motivating factor for the respondent's action. In determining whether the individual's disability was the motivating factor for the respondent's action, the division uses whichever of the following theories applies:

(A) Specific Intent Theory: The respondent knowingly and purposefully discriminates against an individual because that individual has a disability.

(B) Different or Unequal Treatment Theory: The respondent treats individuals with disabilities differently than others who do not have disabilities. When the respondent makes this differentiation because of the individual's disability and not because of legitimate, non-discriminatory reasons, unlawful discrimination exists. In establishing a case of different or unequal treatment:

(i) There must be substantial evidence that the individual was harmed by an action of the respondent under circumstances that make it appear that the respondent treated the individual differently than comparably situated individuals who do not have disabilities. Substantial evidence of discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support that an individual's disability was a motivating factor for the respondent's alleged unlawful action. If the respondent fails to rebut this evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, the division will conclude that substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination exists.

(I) Pretext: If the respondent rebuts the evidence with evidence of a legitimate non-discriminatory reason, but there is substantial evidence that the respondent's reason is a pretext for discrimination, the division will conclude there is substantial evidence of unlawful discrimination.

(II) Mixed Motive: If the respondent presents substantial evidence that a legitimate, non-discriminatory reason contributed to the respondent's action, but the division finds the individual's disability was also a substantial factor in the respondent's action, the division will determine there is substantial evidence of discrimination.

(ii) The individual with a disability at all times has the burden of proving that the individual's disability was the motivating factor for the respondent's unlawful action.

(3) Adverse impact by a place of public accommodation or by state government on the basis of disability: Substantial evidence of adverse impact discrimination does not require establishment of intentional discrimination as provided in (2) of this rule. Adverse impact discrimination exists if the division's investigation reveals evidence that a reasonable person would accept as sufficient to support the following elements:

(a) The respondent is a respondent as defined by ORS 659A.001(10) and OAR 839-005-0003(12) of these rules;

(b) The respondent has a standard or policy that is applied equally.

(c) The standard or policy has the effect of screening out or otherwise affecting members of a protected class at a significantly higher rate than others who are not members of that protected class; and

(d) The complainant is a member of the protected class adversely affected by the respondent's standard or policy and has been harmed by the respondent's application of the standard or policy.

(4) Harassment by a place of public accommodation or by state government on the basis of disability:

(a) Conduct of a verbal or physical nature on the basis of disability is unlawful when substantial evidence of the elements of intentional discrimination, as described in section (2) of this rule, is shown and:

(A) Such conduct is sufficiently severe or pervasive to have the purpose or effect of creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive environment; or

(B) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of receiving services, accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges from a place of public accommodation or services, programs or activities of state government; or

(C) Submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as the basis for decisions affecting that individual.

(b) The standard for determining whether harassment is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create a hostile, intimidating or offensive environment is whether a reasonable person in the circumstances of the individual against whom the harassment is directed would so perceive it.

(1) "Assistance animal" means a dog or other animal designated by administrative rule that has been individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual.

(2) "Assistance animal trainee" means an animal that is undergoing a course of development and training to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual that directly relate to the disability of the individual.

(3) "Assistance animal trainer" means an individual exercising care, custody and control over an assistance animal trainee during a course of training designed to develop the trainee into an assistance animal.

(4) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may not:

(a) Ask an individual about the nature or extent of a disability that the individual has or may have;

(b) Require an individual to provide documentation proving that an animal is an assistance animal or an assistance animal trainee; or

(c) Notwithstanding any fee or admission charge imposed for pets, require that a person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer pay a fee or admission charge for an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee.

(5) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may:

(a) Ask whether an animal is required due to a disability; and

(b) Ask about the nature of the work or task that an animal is trained to do or perform or is being trained to do or perform, unless it is readily apparent that the animal performs or is being trained to perform work or a task for the benefit of a person with a disability.

(6) If a place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities customarily charges a person for damages that the person causes to the place, the place may charge a person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer for damages that an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee causes to the place.

(7) A person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer must maintain control of an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee.

(a) Except as provided in this subsection, control shall be exerted by means of a harness, leash or other tether.

(b) If the use of a harness, leash or other tether would interfere with the ability of the animal to do the work or perform the tasks for which the animal is trained or is being trained, control may be exerted by the effective use of voice commands, signals or other means.

(c) If an animal is not under control as required in this subsection, a place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may consider the animal to be out of control for purposes of subsection (8) of this section.

(8)(a) Except as provided in this subsection, a place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may not deny a person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer the right to be accompanied by an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee in any area of the place that is open to the public or to business invitees.

(b) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may require a person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer to remove an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee if:

(A) The animal is not housebroken; or

(B) The animal is out of control and effective action is not taken to control the animal.

(c) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities may impose legitimate requirements necessary for the safe operations of the place of public accommodation or the services, programs or activities. The place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities shall ensure that the safety requirements are based on actual risks, not on speculation, stereotypes or generalizations about persons with disabilities.

(9) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities shall make reasonable modifications as necessary to allow an opportunity for a person with a disability who is benefited by the use of an assistance animal to obtain goods, services and the use of the advantages, facilities and privileges of the place or the advantages, facilities and privileges of the state government services, programs or activities. For purposes of this subsection, except as provided in subsections (5) and (7) of this section, in addition to any other applicable accommodation requirement, allowing the presence of the assistance animal is a reasonable modification.

(10) If a place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities requires a person with a disability to remove an assistance animal under subsection (8) of this section, the place or state government shall give the person with a disability a reasonable opportunity to obtain goods, services and the use of the advantages, facilities and privileges of the place or the advantages, facilities and privileges of the state government services, programs or activities without the assistance animal's presence.

(11) A place of public accommodation or of access to state government services, programs or activities is not required to provide care or supervision for an assistance animal or assistance animal trainee.

(12) The protection granted under this section to a person with a disability or an assistance animal trainer does not invalidate or limit the remedies, rights and procedures of any other federal, state or local laws that provide equal or greater protection of the rights of a person with a disability, an assistance animal trainer or individuals associated with a person with a disability.

(1) "Alternate duty" means work assigned to an employee that may consist of:

(a) The employee's same duties worked on a different schedule; or

(b) Different duties worked on the same or different schedule.

(2) "Child," for the purposes of parental and sick child leave only (not for the purposes of serious health condition leave), means a biological, adopted, foster or stepchild, the child of an employee's same-gender domestic partner or a child with whom the employee is or was in a relationship of in loco parentis. The child must be:

(a) Under the age of 18; or

(b) An adult dependent child substantially limited by a physical or mental impairment as defined by ORS 659A.104(1)(a), (3), and (4).

(3) "Covered employer" means any employer employing 25 or more persons in the state of Oregon for each working day during each of 20 or more calendar work weeks in the calendar year in which the leave is to be taken or in the calendar year immediately preceding the year in which the leave is to be taken.

(4) "Domestic partner" means an individual joined in a domestic partnership.

(5) "Domestic partnership" for the purposes of ORS Chapter 659A means two individuals of the same sex who have received a Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership from the State of Oregon in compliance with 432.405(1) and rules adopted by the State Registrar of the Center for Health Statistics.

(6) "Eligible employee" means an employee employed in the state of Oregon on the date OFLA leave begins. For eligibility of employees reemployed following a period of uniformed service, see subsections (c) and (d) of this section.

(a) For the purpose of taking parental leave, an employee must be employed by a covered employer for at least 180 calendar days immediately preceding the date on which OFLA leave begins.

(b) For purposes of taking all other types of OFLA leave, including pregnancy disability leave, an employee must have worked for a covered employer for an average of at least 25 hours per week during the 180 calendar days immediately preceding the date OFLA leave begins.

(A) In determining that an employee has been employed for the preceding 180 calendar days, the employer must count the number of days an employee is maintained on the payroll, including all time paid or unpaid. If an employee continues to be employed by a successor in interest to the original employer, the number of days worked are counted as continuous employment by a single employer.

(B) In determining 25 hours average per week, the employer must count actual hours worked using guidelines set out pursuant to the Fair Labor Standards Act (See 29 CFR § 785).

(c) The federal Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act, 38 USC §43 (USERRA) provides that an employee reemployed following a period of uniformed service is entitled to the seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee had on the date the uniformed service began, plus any seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee would have attained if the employee had remained continuously employed. Federal Department of Labor regulation 20 CFR §1002.210 provides that in determining entitlement to seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits, the period of absence from employment due to or necessitated by uniformed service is not considered a break in employment. The rights and benefits protected by USERRA upon reemployment include those provided by the employer and those required by statute. Under USERRA, a reemployed service member would be eligible for leave under OFLA if the number of days and the number of hours of work for which the service member was employed by the civilian employer, together with the number of days and number of hours of work for which the service member would have been employed by the civilian employer during the period of uniformed service, meet OFLA's eligibility requirements. In the event that a service member is denied OFLA leave for failing to satisfy the OFLA days and hours of work requirement due to absence from employment necessitated by uniformed service, the service member may have a cause of action under USERRA but not under OFLA.

NOTE: USERRA also applies to leave under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993, 29 USC §2601-2654 (FMLA).

(d) ORS 659A.082–659A.088 provides that an employee reemployed following a period of uniformed service is entitled to the seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee had on the date the uniformed service began, plus any seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee would have attained if the employee had remained continuously employed. In determining entitlement to seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits, the period of absence from employment due to or necessitated by uniformed service is not considered a break in employment. If a reemployed service member was eligible for leave under OFLA prior to the date uniformed service began, OFLA's eligibility requirements are considered met.

(e) For the purpose of qualifying as an eligible employee, the employee need not work solely in the state of Oregon.

(7) "Family member" means the spouse, same-gender domestic partner, custodial parent, non-custodial parent, adoptive parent, foster parent, biological parent, parent-in-law, parent of same-gender domestic partner, grandparent or grandchild of the employee, or a person with whom the employee is or was in a relationship of in loco parentis. It also includes the biological, adopted, foster or stepchild of an employee or the child of an employee's same-gender domestic partner. For the purposes of OFLA, an employee's child in any of these categories may be either a minor or an adult at the time serious health condition leave is taken.

(8) "FMLA" is the federal Family and Medical Leave Act, 29 USC §2601.

(13) "Gender identity" means an individual's gender-related identity, whether or not that identity is different from that traditionally associated with the individual's assigned sex at birth, including, but not limited to, a gender identity that is transgender or androgynous.

(M) A physician's assistant licensed under ORS 677.512.

(b) A person who is primarily responsible for the treatment of an eligible employee or a family member of an eligible employee solely through spiritual means, including but not limited to a Christian Science practitioner.

(15) "In loco parentis" means in the place of a parent, having financial or day-to-day responsibility for the care of a child. A legal or biological relationship is not required.

(16) "Intermittent leave" means leave taken in multiple blocks of time and/or requiring an altered or reduced work schedule.

(17) "OFLA" is the Oregon Family Leave Act, ORS 659A.150 to 659A.186.

(18) "OFLA leave" means a leave of absence for purposes described in ORS 659A.159, HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or. 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230(1) through (5). Except that "OFLA leave" does not include leave taken by an eligible employee who is unable to work because of a disabling compensable injury, as defined in ORS 656.005, unless the employee has refused a suitable offer of light duty or modified employment under ORS 659A.043(3)(a)(D) or 659A.046(3)(d). See 659A.162, OAR 839-006-0131(2) and 839-006-0136(4).

(19) "OFLA leave year," for calculating the OFLA leave year entitlement, means a calendar year (January to December), a fixed 12-month period such as a fiscal year, a 12-month period measured forward from the date of the employee's first OFLA leave, or a 12-month period measured backward from the date the employee uses any OFLA leave. The option selected must be applied to all employees. In the absence of an employer policy or collective bargaining agreement defining how an OFLA leave year will be measured, a calendar year will be used.

(20) "Serious health condition" means an illness, injury, impairment or physical or mental condition of an employee or family member:

(a) That requires inpatient care in a medical care facility such as a hospital, hospice or residential facility such as a nursing home. When a family member resides in a long-term residential care facility, leave applies only to:

(A) Transition periods spent moving the family member from one home or facility to another, including time to make arrangements for such transitions;

(B) Transportation or other assistance required for a family member to obtain care from a physician; or

(C) Serious health conditions as described in (b) through (h) of section (20) of this rule.

(c) That requires constant or continuing care such as home care administered by a health care professional;

(d) That involves a period of incapacity. Incapacity is the inability to perform at least one essential job function, or to attend school or perform regular daily activities for more than three consecutive calendar days and any subsequent required treatment or recovery period relating to the same condition. This incapacity must involve:

(A) Two or more treatments by a health care provider; or

(B) One treatment plus a regimen of continuing care.

(e) That results in a period of incapacity or treatment for a chronic serious health condition that requires periodic visits for treatment by a health care provider, continues over an extended period of time, and may cause episodic rather than a continuing period of incapacity, such as asthma, diabetes or epilepsy;

(f) That involves permanent or long-term incapacity due to a condition for which treatment may not be effective, such as Alzheimer's disease, a severe stroke or terminal stages of a disease. The employee or family member must be under the continuing care of a health care provider, but need not be receiving active treatment;

(g) That involves multiple treatments for restorative surgery or for a condition such as chemotherapy for cancer, physical therapy for arthritis, or dialysis for kidney disease that if not treated would likely result in incapacity of more than three days; or

(h) That involves any period of disability of a female due to pregnancy or childbirth or period of absence for prenatal care.

(21) "Unforeseeable leave" means leave taken as a result of:

(a) An unexpected serious health condition of an employee or family member of an employee; or

(d) The death of a family member.

(22) "Spouse" includes individuals in same sex marriages validly performed in other jurisdictions.

Purposes for Taking OFLA Leave

Eligible employees may take OFLA leave for the purposes commonly referred to as parental leave, serious health condition leave, pregnancy disability leave, sick child leave, and the death of a family member.

(1) Parental leave is leave taken to care for the employee's newborn, newly adopted or newly placed foster child under 18 years of age or for a newly adopted or newly placed foster child 18 years of age or older who is incapable of self care because of a physical or mental impairment. It includes leave time to effectuate the legal process required for placement of a foster child or the adoption of a child.

(2) Serious health condition leave is leave taken:

(a) To provide care for a family member with a serious health condition as defined in 839-009-0210(20); or

(b) To recover from or seek treatment for a serious health condition that renders an employee unable to perform at least one essential function of the employee's regular position.

(3) Pregnancy disability leave is leave taken by a female employee for a disability related to pregnancy or childbirth, occurring before or after the birth of the child, or for prenatal care. Pregnancy disability leave is a form of serious health condition leave.

(4) Sick child leave is leave taken to care for an employee's child suffering from an illness or injury that requires home care but is not a serious health condition. An employer is not required to grant leave for routine medical or dental appointments.

(5) Leave to deal with the death of a family member is leave taken to attend the funeral or alternative to a funeral of the family member, to make arrangements necessitated by the death of the family member, or to grieve the death of the family member.

Length of Leave and Other Conditions of OFLA Leave

(1) An eligible employee is entitled to up to a total of 12 weeks of OFLA leave in any one-year period.

(2) In addition to the 12 weeks of leave authorized by ORS 659A.162 (1), a female eligible employee may take a total of 12 weeks of leave within the same leave year for an illness, injury or condition related to pregnancy or childbirth that disables the employee from performing any available job duties offered by the employer. The employee may use all or part of the 12 weeks of leave authorized by 659A.162(1) and all or part of the 12 weeks of pregnancy disability leave in any order. The employee need not exhaust either type of leave in order to use the other.

(3) An eligible employee taking the entire 12 weeks of OFLA leave authorized by ORS 659A.162 (1) for parental leave may take an additional 12 weeks of sick child leave within the same leave year. If the employee uses less than 12 weeks of parental leave, however, no additional sick child leave is available, except that the balance of the 12 weeks of OFLA leave authorized by 659A.162 may be used for sick child leave or for any OFLA leave purpose.

(4) A female eligible employee may take up to 36 weeks of OFLA leave in one leave year that includes up to 12 weeks of pregnancy disability leave, 12 weeks of parental leave, and up to 12 weeks of sick child leave.

(5) An eligible employee may take up to 24 weeks of OFLA leave in one leave year under the following circumstances:

(a) The employee takes 12 weeks of parental leave, followed by:

(b) Up to 12 weeks of sick child leave.

(6) An eligible employee taking leave under HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230(5) to deal with the death of a family member is entitled to take up to a total of two weeks of OFLA leave for that purpose.

(a) An eligible employee is entitled to take up to two weeks of OFLA leave upon the death of each family member of the employee within any one-year period, except that the leave taken to deal with the deaths of family members may not exceed the total in ORS 659A.159(1) and subsection (1) of this rule.

(b) A covered employer may not require an eligible employee to take multiple leave periods concurrently if more than one family member of the employee dies during the one year period. If multiple family members of an eligible employee die concurrently, an eligible employee may take up to two weeks of leave for the death of each family member.

(c) All leave taken under HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230(5) shall be counted toward the total period of OFLA leave authorized in ORS 659A.159(1) and subsection (1) of this rule.

(d) All leave taken for the death of a family member must be completed within 60 days of the date on which the eligible employee receives notice of the death of the family member. Notice of the death of a family member may be by any means and from any source.

(7) Two or more eligible employees who are family members of each other as defined in OAR 839-009-0210(7), working for the same covered employer, may take OFLA leave at the same time with that covered employer only under the following circumstances:

(a) One eligible family member needs to care for another eligible family member who is suffering from a serious health condition;

(b) One eligible family member needs to care for a child suffering from a serious or nonserious health condition while another eligible family member is suffering from a serious health condition;

(c) Two or more eligible family members are suffering from one or more serious health conditions;

(d) The employer allows family members to take concurrent leave; or

(e) The eligible family members are taking leave described in HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or. 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230 (5).

(8) Unless the covered employer approves otherwise, parental leave shall be taken in one uninterrupted period, and shall be completed within 12 months of the birth, adoption or placement of the child. An exception shall be made to allow intermittent parental leave to effectuate adoption or foster placement of the child. Parental leave taken to effectuate adoption or foster placement of a child is part of the total amount of parental leave available to the employee, but need not be taken in one, uninterrupted period with any remaining parental leave taken after the actual placement of the child.

(9) The birth, adoption or foster placement of multiple children at one time entitles the employee to take only one 12-week period of parental leave.

(10) Sick child leave need not be provided to an eligible employee by a covered employer if another family member of the child, including a noncustodial biological parent, is willing and able to care for the child.

(11) A covered employer may not reduce the amount of OFLA leave available to an eligible employee under this section by any period the employee is unable to work because of a disabling compensable injury as defined in ORS 656.005.

(a) If an employee uses OFLA leave for a workplace injury pending acceptance of a workers' compensation claim, upon acceptance of the claim any OFLA leave used for the workplace injury must be restored to the employee. If the claim is denied, OFLA leave will be deducted from the employee's entitlement. If the employer uses a rolling forward leave year, a fixed leave year or a calendar leave year, and a worker's compensation claim is first denied and then accepted, the employer must restore any OFLA leave taken in the leave year in which the worker's compensation claim is accepted.

(b) An employee must be eligible under OAR 839-009-0210(6) in order to use OFLA leave following a period the employee is unable to work because of a disabling compensable injury as defined in ORS 656.005.

(12) Notwithstanding section (11) of this rule, the employer may reduce the amount of OFLA leave available to an eligible employee under this section by any period the employee is unable to work because of a disabling compensable injury as defined in ORS 656.005 after the employee has refused a suitable offer of light duty or modified employment under 659A.043(3)(a)(D) or 659A.046(3)(d). See 659A.043(4), 659A.046(5), 659A.162, OAR 839-006-0131(2) and 839-006-0136(4).

(13) For the purpose of intermittent leave, OFLA leave entitlement is calculated for an employee by multiplying the number of hours the employee normally works per week by 12. (For example, an employee normally employed to work 30 hours per week is entitled to 12 times 30 hours, or a total of 360 hours OFLA leave.)

(a) If an employee's schedule varies from week to week, a weekly average of the hours worked over the 12 months worked prior to the beginning of the leave period must be used for calculating the employee's normal work week. (For example, an employee working an average of 25 hours per week is entitled to 12 times 25 hours, or a total of 300 hours OFLA leave.)

(b) If an employee takes intermittent or reduced work schedule OFLA leave, only the actual number of hours of leave taken may be counted toward the 12 weeks of OFLA leave to which the employee is entitled.

(14) An employee who has previously qualified for and taken some portion of OFLA leave must requalify as an "eligible employee" as defined in OAR 839-009-0210(6) each time the employee begins additional OFLA leave within the same leave year. Exceptions:

(a) An employee who has been granted OFLA leave for a qualifying serious health condition of the employee or family member need not requalify under OAR 839-009-0210(6) each time the employee takes leave for the same individual and the same serious health condition during the same leave year.

(b) A female eligible employee taking, in any order, some or all of 12 weeks of OFLA pregnancy disability leave and some or all of 12 weeks of OFLA leave for any other purpose, need not requalify under OAR 839-009-0210(6) each time she takes OFLA leave within the same leave year.

(c) An employee who has taken 12 weeks of OFLA parental leave, need not requalify under OAR 839-009-0210(6) for up to an additional 12 weeks of leave within the same leave year when used for the purposes of OFLA sick child leave.

(15) An exempt employee is a salaried executive, administrative or professional employee under the federal Fair Labor Standards Act (see 29 CFR § 541 through 541.315) or the state minimum wage and overtime laws (ORS chapters 652 and 653).

(a) When OFLA leave is also covered by FMLA and the employee takes intermittent leave in blocks of less than one day, the employer may reduce the employee's salary for the part-day absence without the loss of the employee's exempt status in accordance with OAR 839-020-0004(30)(a).

(b) When OFLA leave is not covered by FMLA (e.g., the employer has 25 to 49 employees, the leave is taken for a sick child, for the serious health condition of a parent-in-law, for the serious health condition of a registered domestic partner or for the serious health condition of a registered domestic partner's parents), and the employee takes intermittent leave in blocks of less than one day, an employer will jeopardize the employee's exempt status if the employer reduces the employee's salary for the part-day absence.

(16) The requirements of OFLA do not apply to any employer offering eligible employees a nondiscriminatory cafeteria plan, as defined by section 125 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, that provides as one of its options employee leave at least as generous as the leave required by OFLA.

(17) ORS 659A.150 to 659A.186 and these rules do not limit any right of an employee to any leave that is similar to the leave described in 695A.159(1) and OAR 839-009-0230 and to which the employee may be entitled under any agreement between the employer and the employee, collective bargaining agreement or employer policy.

OFLA Leave: Notice by Employee; Designation by Employer; Notice by Employer Regarding Eligibility or Qualification

(1) Except in situations described in sections (2) and (3) of this rule, a covered employer may require an eligible employee to give 30 days written notice of the need for foreseeable leave, including an explanation of the need for leave, before starting OFLA leave. The employee is not required to specify that the request is for OFLA leave.

(a) An employee able to give advance notice of the need to take OFLA leave must follow the employer's known, reasonable and customary procedures for requesting any kind of leave, absent unusual circumstances.

(b) An employer may request additional information to determine that a requested leave qualifies for designation as OFLA leave, except in cases of parental leave.

(c) The employer may provisionally designate an absence as OFLA leave until sufficient information is received to make a determination. An employee who calls in sick without providing further information will not be considered to have provided sufficient notice to trigger an employer's obligations under OFLA.

(d) An employee on OFLA leave who needs to take more leave than originally authorized must give the employer reasonable notice prior to the end of the authorized leave, following the employer's known, reasonable and customary procedures for requesting any kind of leave. However, when an authorized period of OFLA leave has ended and an employee does not return to work, an employer having reason to believe the continuing absence may qualify as OFLA leave must request additional information, and may not treat a continuing absence as unauthorized unless requested information is not provided or does not support OFLA qualification.

(2) When an employee is unable to give the employer 30 days notice but has some advance notice of the need for leave, the employee must give the employer as much advance notice as is practicable.

(3) When taking OFLA leave in an unforeseeable situation, an employee must give verbal or written notice within 24 hours before or after commencement of the leave. This notice may be given by any other person on behalf of an employee taking unforeseeable OFLA leave. The employer may require written notice by the employee within three days of the employee's return to work.

(4) If an employee fails to give notice as required by sections (1), (2), and (3) of this rule or the employer's policies:

(a) The employer may reduce the total period of unused OFLA leave by an amount no greater than the number of days of leave the employee has taken without providing timely notice of leave. This reduction of leave may not exceed three weeks in a one-year leave period (see ORS 659A.165(4); and

(b) The employee may also be subject to disciplinary action under an employer's uniformly applied policy or practice. This practice must be consistent with the employer's discipline for similar violations of comparable rules.

(c) A reduction of OFLA leave under this rule may not limit leave under HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or. 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230(5) for the death of a family member.

(5) Except in the case of sick child leave and leave for the death of a family member, when an employee requests OFLA leave, or when the employer acquires knowledge that an employee's leave may be for an OFLA-qualifying reason, the employer must provide the employee within five business days a written request for information to verify whether the leave is OFLA-qualifying. Within five business days of receiving the requested information, the employer must notify the employee whether or not the employee is eligible and qualifies to take OFLA leave absent extenuating circumstances. All OFLA absences for the same qualifying reason are considered a single leave event and employee qualification as to that reason for leave does not change during the applicable 12-month period unless the reason is no longer qualifying. If an employer determines that an employee does not qualify for OFLA leave for the reason requested, the employer must notify the employee in writing that the employee does not qualify.

(a) The written notice that the employee does not qualify must state that the employee is ineligible or the reason for requested leave does not qualify for OFLA leave and at least one reason why the employee is not eligible or the reason does not qualify for leave.

(b) If an employer determines that an employee does not qualify for OFLA leave for the reason requested because a medical verification is incomplete or insufficient, the written notice that the employee does not qualify must state what additional information is required to make the verification complete or sufficient, and the employee must be afforded a reasonable period of time to correct the deficiency.

(6) An employer may not request medical verification of the need for sick child leave until after an employee's third occurrence of sick child leave in the same OFLA leave year.

(7) When an employee fails to respond to reasonable employer requests for medical verification of the employee's requested reason for leave to determine whether the leave is OFLA qualifying, the employer may deny use of OFLA leave until medical verification is received.

(8) An employer may not request medical verification of the need for OFLA leave under HB 2950, 77th Leg., Reg. Session (Or. 2013) and OAR 839-009-0230(5) for the death of a family member.

(9) An employer may not reduce an employee's available OFLA leave or take disciplinary action unless the employer has posted the required Bureau of Labor and Industries Family Leave Act notice or the employer can otherwise establish that the employee had actual knowledge of the notice requirement.

(10) Federal regulations prohibit reducing the leave period under FMLA, but allow an employer to delay the start of leave because of improper notice (see 29 CFR Section 825.304).

(11) When an employee is subject to both FMLA and OFLA, the employer must apply the discipline available under (4)(a), (b) or (6) of this rule that is most beneficial to the employee's individual circumstances.

(12) An employee who refuses an offer of employment under ORS 659A.043(3)(a)(D) or 659A.046(3)(d) and who otherwise is entitled to OFLA leave under 659A.150 to 659A.186:

(a) Automatically commences a period of OFLA leave upon refusing the offer of employment; and

(b) Need not give notice to the employer that would otherwise be required by this rule that the employee is commencing a period of leave. See ORS 659A.162, OAR 839-006-0131(2) and 839-006-0136(4).

Job Protection

(1) An employer must restore an employee returning from OFLA leave, including intermittent and alternative duty leave, to the employee's former position if the job still exists, even if it has been filled during the employee's OFLA leave. The former position is the position held by the employee at the time OFLA leave began, regardless of whether the job has been renamed or reclassified. (For example, a delivery driver must be returned to the same route, at the same rate of pay and benefits, driving the same truck, delivering the same goods, on the same shift and working from the same location as when the driver started OFLA leave.)

(2) Any worker hired during an eligible employee's leave to perform the same work that the eligible employee performed before the leave was taken is a replacement worker. When the eligible employee notifies the employer that the employee is ready to return to work, the employer must give that employee the opportunity to work any hours that the replacement worker would otherwise have been scheduled to work.

(3) The employee is not entitled to return to the former position if the employee would have been bumped if OFLA leave had not been taken.

(4) If the position held by the employee at the time OFLA leave began has in fact been eliminated and not merely renamed or reclassified, the employer must restore the employee to any available, equivalent position.

(a) An available position is a position that is vacant or not permanently filled.

(b) An equivalent position is a position that is the same as the former position in as many aspects as possible. If an equivalent position is not available at the employee's former job site, the employee may be restored to an equivalent position within 20 miles of the former job site.

(5) Unless the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, other agreement or the employer's policy provide otherwise:

(a) An employee on OFLA leave does not accrue seniority, production bonuses or other benefits that would accrue while the employee is working;

(b) An employee has no greater right to a job or other employment benefits than if the employee had not taken OFLA leave; and

(c) An employee is subject to layoff the same as similarly situated employees not taking OFLA leave.

(6) Except for benefits used while on OFLA leave, benefits an employee was entitled to prior to starting OFLA leave must be restored in full upon the employee's return to work. (For example, an employer's medical insurance requires a three-month waiting period for health insurance coverage. An employee works seven months, takes OFLA leave for 12 weeks and returns to work with health problems. The employee must be covered immediately at the same level of coverage, with the same benefits as before the commencement of the OFLA leave.) The benefits do not have to be restored, however, if such benefits have been eliminated or changed for similarly situated employees. This applies to all benefit provisions.

(a) An employer electing to continue health or other insurance coverage for an employee on OFLA leave may require that the employee pay only the same share of health or other insurance premium during the leave that the employee paid prior to the leave.

(b) If an employee cannot or will not pay such costs, the employer may elect to discontinue benefit coverage, unless to do so would render the employer unable to restore the employee to full benefit coverage as required in section (6) of this rule.

(c) If an employer pays any portion of any employee's benefit coverage for employees on non-OFLA leave, the employer electing to continue benefits during OFLA leave must pay that portion during OFLA leave.

(d) If the employer pays (directly or indirectly, voluntarily or as required by state or federal statute) any part of the employee's share of health or other insurance premium while an employee is on OFLA leave, the employer may deduct up to 10 percent of the employee's gross pay each pay period after the employee returns to work until the amount is repaid.

(e) If an employee fails to return to work — unless the failure to return to work is because of a serious health condition for which the employee would be entitled to OFLA leave or another circumstance beyond the employee's control — the employer may recover the employee's share of benefits paid by the employer. The employer may use any legal means to collect the amount owed for the employee's share of benefits paid by the employer, including deducting the amount from the employee's final paycheck.

(7) An employer may require an employee to follow the employer's established leave policy regarding periodic reporting to the employer of the employee's current status. Before restoring the employee to work after taking OFLA leave for the employee's own serious health condition, the employer may require the employee to present verification from the employee's health care provider that the employee is able to resume work, provided such requirement is applied pursuant to a uniformly applied practice or policy of the employer.

(a) Pursuant to ORS 659A.168(1), the employer is responsible for any co-pay or other out-of-pocket costs incurred by the employee in providing the verification.

(b) The employer may not require the employee to obtain a second opinion.

(8)(a) If an employee gives unequivocal notice of intent not to return to work from OFLA leave:

(b) The employee is entitled to complete the approved OFLA leave, providing that the original need for OFLA leave still exists. The employee remains entitled to all the rights and protections under OFLA, including but not limited to, the use of vacation, sick leave and health benefits pursuant to OAR 839-009-0270 and 839-009-0280, except that:

(A) The employer's obligations under OFLA to restore the employee's position and to restore benefits upon the completion of leave cease, except as required by federal COBRA law, 29 USC 1161 et seq.; and

(B) The employer is not required to hold a position vacant or available for the employee who gives unequivocal notice of intent not to return.

(9) An employer may not use the provisions of this section as a subterfuge to avoid the employer's responsibilities under OFLA.

Use of Paid Leave: OFLA

(1) Except as provided in this rule or the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, an agreement between the eligible employee and the covered employer, or an employer policy, OFLA leave is not required to be granted with pay.

(2) An employee eligible to take OFLA leave is entitled to use accrued paid sick leave, personal leave, vacation leave or any other paid leave that is offered in lieu of vacation leave, during the period of OFLA leave. As used in this rule, accrued paid sick leave does not include disability insurance or disability benefits.

(3) An employer may require an employee to use accrued paid leave during OFLA leave that would otherwise be unpaid, and may determine the order in which paid leave is to be used if to do so is consistent with a collective bargaining agreement or other written agreement between the eligible employee and the covered employer or an employer policy. The employer may exercise these prerogatives only if:

(a) Prior to the commencement of OFLA leave, the employer provides written notice to the employee that accrued paid leave is to be used during OFLA leave; or

(b) Within five business days of the employee's notice of unforeseeable leave, the employer provides written notice to the employee.

(4) An eligible employee or covered employer may choose to have the employee's OFLA leave run concurrently with a type of paid or unpaid leave not referenced in these rules, as provided or allowed under an employer policy, except that a covered employer may not reduce the amount of OFLA leave available to an eligible employee by any period the employee is unable to work because of a disabling compensable injury which entitles the employee to compensation from the covered employer. (1) An eligible employee seeking leave under ORS 659A.270 to 659A.285 for victims of domestic violence, harassment, sexual assault or stalking will give the covered employer reasonable advance notice of the employee's intention to take leave unless giving the advance notice is not feasible.

(2) When taking leave in an unanticipated or emergency situation, an eligible employee must give oral or written notice as soon as is practicable. This notice may be given by any other person on behalf of an eligible employee taking unanticipated leave.

(3) An eligible employee able to give advance notice of the need to take leave must follow the covered employer's known, reasonable and customary procedures for requesting any kind of leave;

(4) The covered employer may require the eligible employee to provide certification that:

(a) The eligible employee or the eligible employee's minor child or dependent is a victim of domestic violence, harassment, sexual assault or stalking as defined in OAR 839-009-0340(14), (15), (16) and (17); and

(b) The leave taken is for one of the purposes identified in OAR 839-009-0345.

(5) Any of the following constitutes sufficient certification:

(a) A copy of a police report indicating that the eligible employee or the eligible employee's minor child or dependent was a victim or alleged victim of domestic violence, harassment, sexual assault or stalking as defined in OAR 839-009-0340(14), (15), (16) and (17); or

(b) A copy of a protective order or other evidence from a court or attorney that the eligible employee appeared in or is preparing for a civil or criminal proceeding related to domestic violence, harassment, sexual assault or stalking as defined in OAR 839-009-0340(14), (15), (16) and (17); or

If the covered employer requests additional information the eligible employee will provide the requested information as soon as is practicable. The covered employer may not treat a continuing absence as unauthorized unless requested information is not provided or does not support leave qualification.

(10) All records and information kept by a covered employer regarding an eligible employee's leave under ORS 659A.270 to 659A.285 for victims of domestic violence, harassment, sexual assault or stalking, including the fact that the eligible employee has requested or obtained such leave, are confidential and may not be released without the express permission of the eligible employee, unless otherwise required by law.

(a) The state, and a department, agency, board or commission of the state; and

(b) A local government, including but not limited to a county, city, town, municipal corporation, independent public corporation or political subdivision of the state.

(c) A person, firm, corporation, partnership, legal representative, or other business entity that engages in any business, industry, profession, or activity in the state of Oregon and that employs 25 or more individuals in the state of Oregon for each working day during each of 20 or more calendar workweeks in the year in which an eligible employee takes OMFLA leave or in the year immediately preceding the year in which an eligible employee takes OMFLA leave;

(3) "Domestic partner" means an individual joined in a domestic partnership.

(4) "Domestic partnership" for the purposes of ORS chapter 659A means two individuals of the same sex who have received a Certificate of Registered Domestic Partnership from the State of Oregon in compliance with ORS 432.405(1) and rules adopted by the State Registrar of the Center for Health Statistics.

(5) "Eligible employee" means an individual who performs services for compensation for an employer for an average of at least 20 hours per week and includes all individuals employed at any site owned or operated in Oregon by an employer, but does not include independent contractors.

(a) In determining an average of at least 20 hours per week, the employer must count actual hours worked using guidelines set out pursuant to the Fair Labor Standards Act. (See 29 CFR § 785)

(b) For the purpose of qualifying as an eligible employee, the employee need not perform services solely in the state of Oregon.

(c) Eligibility of employees reemployed following a period of uniformed service: The federal Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act, 38 USC 43 (USERRA) provides that an employee reemployed following a period of uniformed service is entitled to the seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee had on the date the uniformed service began, plus any seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee would have attained if the employee had remained continuously employed. Federal Department of Labor regulation 20 CFR 1002.210 provides that in determining entitlement to seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits, the period of absence from employment due to or necessitated by uniformed service is not considered a break in employment. The rights and benefits protected by USERRA upon reemployment include those provided by the employer and those required by statute. Under USERRA, a reemployed service member would be eligible for OMFLA leave if the number of days and the number of hours of work for which the service member was employed by the civilian employer, together with the number of days and number of hours of work for which the service member would have been employed by the civilian employer during the period of uniformed service, meet the eligibility requirements of these rules. In the event that a service member is denied OMFLA leave for failing to satisfy the days and hours of work requirement due to absence from employment necessitated by uniformed service, the service member may have a cause of action under USERRA but not under OMFLA.

(d) ORS 659A.082–659A.088 provides that an employee reemployed following a period of uniformed service is entitled to the seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee had on the date the uniformed service began, plus any seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits that the employee would have attained if the employee had remained continuously employed. In determining entitlement to seniority and seniority-based rights and benefits, the period of absence from employment due to or necessitated by uniformed service is not considered a break in employment. If a reemployed service member was eligible for leave under OMFLA prior to the date uniformed service began, OMFLA's eligibility requirements are considered met.

(6) "Intermittent leave" means leave taken in multiple blocks of time and/or requiring an altered or reduced work schedule.

(7) "Period of Military Conflict" means a period of war:

(a) Declared by the United States Congress;

(b) Declared by executive order of the President of the United States; or

(c) In which a reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States is ordered to active duty pursuant to Title 32 of the United States Code or section 12301 or 12302 of Title 10 of the United States Code.

(8) "Spouse" includes individuals in same sex marriages validly performed in other jurisdictions.

Length of Leave: OMFLA

(1) During a period of military conflict, an employee who is a spouse or domestic partner of a member of the Armed Forces of the United States, the National Guard or the military reserve forces of the United States who has been notified of an impending call or order to active duty or who has been deployed, is entitled to a total of 14 days of unpaid leave per deployment that may be taken:

(a) After the military spouse or domestic partner has been notified of an impending call or order to active duty and before deployment; and/or

(b) When the military spouse or domestic partner is on leave from deployment.

(2) The 14 day entitlement is per deployment. If multiple deployments occur in an employee's leave year, the employee is entitled to use 14 days of Oregon Military Family Leave Act ("OMFLA") leave for each deployment.

(3) The 14 days of unpaid leave to which the employee is entitled are individual days on which the employee, if working their normal schedule, would otherwise perform services for compensation for the employer. (Example: Employee normally works Monday through Friday. Employee is entitled to 14 days of leave, which if taken consecutively would be Monday through Friday on two consecutive weeks plus Monday through Thursday of the third week.)

(4) OMFLA leave need not be taken in one, uninterrupted period, but may be taken intermittently.

(a) For the purpose of intermittent leave, OMFLA leave is calculated for an employee by multiplying the number of hours the employee normally works per day by 14. (For example, an employee normally employed to work eight hours per day is entitled to 14 times eight hours, or a total of 112 hours of OMFLA leave.)

(b) If an employee's schedule varies from day to day, a daily average of the employee's hours must be used for calculating the employee's normal work day. For example, an employee working an average of six hours per day is entitled to 14 times six hours, or a total of 84 hours of OMFLA leave. An employee working an average of 10 hours per day is entitled to 14 times 10 hours, or 140 hours.

(c) If an employee takes intermittent OMFLA leave, only the actual number of hours of leave taken may be counted toward the hours of OMFLA leave to which the employee is entitled.

Notice by Employee: OMFLA

(1) An eligible employee seeking Oregon Military Family Leave must provide the employer with notice of the intention to take leave within five business days of receiving official notice of an impending call or order to active duty or of a leave from deployment, or as soon as is practicable when official notice is provided fewer than five days before commencement of the leave.

(2) The active duty orders of a covered military member will generally specify if the service member is serving in support of a period of military conflict by citation to the relevant section of Title 10 of the United States Code and/or by reference to the specific name of the military conflict (see OAR 839-009-0380(7)).

(3) An eligible employee's notice of intention to take OMFLA leave must follow the covered employer's known, customary, and uniformly applied procedures for requesting any kind of leave. A covered employer may provide an OMFLA leave request form. An example is found at Appendix A of this rule.

(a) The covered employer may require in writing that the eligible employee provide a photocopy of the service member's orders to verify that the leave is for the purpose defined in OAR 839-009-0380(7).

(b) The eligible employee will provide any required photocopy of the service member's orders within a reasonable time after receiving the covered employer's written request.

(c) The covered employer may provisionally designate an absence as OMFLA leave until any requested photocopy of the service member's orders is received.

Independent Contractor

(1) Purpose of Rule. The Landscape Contractors Board, Department of Revenue, Department of Consumer and Business Services, Employment Department, and Construction Contractors Board must adopt rules together to carry out ORS 670.600. ORS 670.600 defines "independent contractor" for purposes of the programs administered by these agencies. This rule is intended to ensure that all five agencies apply and interpret 670.600 in a consistent manner; to clarify the meaning of terms used in 670.600; and, to the extent possible, to enable interested persons to understand how all five agencies will apply 670.600.

(2) Statutory Context.

(a) ORS 670.600 generally establishes three requirements for "independent contractors". One requirement is that an "independent contractor" must be engaged in an "independently established business." Another requirement is related to licenses and certificates that are required for an "independent contractor" to provide services. A third requirement is that an "independent contractor" must be "free from direction and control over the means and manner" of providing services to others.

(b) The specific focus of this rule is the "direction and control" requirement. See ORS 670.600 for the requirements of the "independently established business" test and for licensing and certification requirements.

(3) Direction and Control Test.

(a) ORS 670.600 states that an "independent contractor" must be "free from direction and control over the means and manner" of providing services to others. The agencies that have adopted this rule will use the following definitions in their interpretation and application of the "direction and control" test:

(A) "Means" are resources used or needed in performing services. To be free from direction and control over the means of providing services an independent contractor must determine which resources to use in order to perform the work, and how to use those resources. Depending upon the nature of the business, examples of the "means" used in performing services include such things as tools or equipment, labor, devices, plans, materials, licenses, property, work location, and assets, among other things.

(B) "Manner" is the method by which services are performed. To be free from direction and control over the manner of providing services an independent contractor must determine how to perform the work. Depending upon the nature of the business, examples of the "manner" by which services are performed include such things as work schedules, and work processes and procedures, among other things.

(C) "Free from direction and control" means that the independent contractor is free from the right of another person to control the means or manner by which the independent contractor provides services. If the person for whom services are provided has the right to control the means or manner of providing the services, it does not matter whether that person actually exercises the right of control.

(b) Right to specify results to be achieved. Specifying the final desired results of the contractor's services does not constitute direction and control over the means or manner of providing those services.

(4) Application of "direction and control" test in construction and landscape industries.

(a) The provisions of this section apply to:

(A) Architects registered under ORS 671.010 to 671.220;

(B) Landscape architects licensed under ORS 671.310 to 671.479;

(C) Landscape contracting businesses licensed under ORS 671.510 to 671.710;

(D) Engineers licensed under ORS 672.002 to 672.325; and

(E) Construction contractors licensed under ORS chapter 701.

(b) A licensee described in (4)(a), that is paying for the services of a subcontractor in connection with a construction or landscape project, will not be considered to be exercising direction or control over the means or manner by which the subcontractor is performing work when the following circumstances apply:

(A) The licensee specifies the desired results of the subcontractor's services by providing plans, drawings, or specifications that are necessary for the project to be completed.

(B) The licensee specifies the desired results of the subcontractor's services by specifying the materials, appliances or plants by type, size, color, quality, manufacturer, grower, or price, which materials, appliances or plants are necessary for the project to be completed.

(C) When specified by the licensee's customer or in a general contract, plans, or drawings and in order to specify the desired results of the subcontractor's services, the licensee provides materials, appliances, or plants, including, but not limited to, roofing materials, framing materials, finishing materials, stoves, ovens, refrigerators, dishwashers, air conditioning units, heating units, sod and seed for lawns, shrubs, vines, trees, or nursery stock, which are to be installed by subcontractors in the performance of their work, and which are necessary for the project to be completed.

(D) The licensee provides, but does not require the use of, equipment (such as scaffolding or forklifts) at the job site, which equipment is available for use on that job site only, by all or a significant number of subcontractors requiring such equipment.

(E) The licensee has the right to determine, or does determine, in what sequence subcontractors will work on a project, the total amount of time available for performing the work, or the start or end dates for subcontractors working on a project.

(F) The licensee reserves the right to change, or does change, in what sequence subcontractors will work on a project, the total amount of time available for performing the work, or the start or end dates for subcontractors working on a project.

(5) As used in ORS Chapters 316, 656, 657, 671 and 701, an individual or business entity that performs labor or services for remuneration shall be considered to perform the labor or services as an "independent contractor" if the standards of 670.600 are met.

(6) The Construction Contractors Board, Employment Department, Landscape Contractors Board, Workers Compensation Division, and Department of Revenue of the State of Oregon, under authority of ORS 670.605, will cooperate as necessary in their compliance and enforcement activities to ensure among the agencies the consistent interpretation and application of 670.600.

(7) The Board adopts the form "Independent Contractor Certification Statement" as revised January 17, 2006. An applicant must use this form to meet the requirements of ORS 701.046(1)(k).

(B) Individual Representation;

(C) Forms of Delegations and Revocations of Authority;

(D) Changes in Individual Representation;

(E) Procedural Requirements;

(F) Signature; and

(G) Commitment of Funds.

(b) This Rule applies to all delegations and sub-delegations of Authority (collectively, Delegations), modifications of Delegations, and revocations of Delegations under OAR 125-246-0170. This Rule does not delegate authority. All delegations by authority under the Rules are found solely in OAR 125-246-0170.

(2) Policy of the Code. The policy of the Code is to clarify responsibilities, instill public confidence, promote efficient use of resources, implement socioeconomic programs, allow meaningful competition, and provide a structure that supports evolving procurement methods, according to ORS 279A.015. These Rules support this policy of the Code.

(3) Individual Representation. Public Contracting may be delegated only to an individual, representing the State's interests. Authority under these Rules may be delegated only to individuals acting on behalf of the Agencies and in accordance with this Rule. All individual delegatees must hold and use this Authority within the scope of their employment by the Agency and act on behalf of the Agency as the Agency's representative. Sub-delegations may be in whole or in part according to ORS 279A.075. Any individual may decline a sub-delegation in whole or in part. A delegator or delegatee may also be referred to in this Rule as an "Authorized Individual."

(4) Forms of Delegations and Revocations of Authority. ORS 279A.075 provides that the exercise of all authorities in the Code may be delegated and sub-delegated in whole or in part. The form of a Delegation or revocation of Authority by an Authorized Individual may be by:

(b) A Written external or internal policy by an authorized delegator or revoker;

(c) An Interagency Agreement, signed by the Chief Procurement Officer and the Authorized Agency; or

(d) A letter or memorandum signed by an authorized delegator or revoker.

(5) Changes in Individual Representation. If an Agency determines that an Authorized Individual has ceased to represent that Agency for Procurement (Absent Individual), then:

(a) The Authority of the Absent Individual automatically reverts back to the individual who originally delegated the Authority to the Absent Individual. The Agency must determine who receives the reverted Authority in accordance with this Rule. If the Absent Individual is a head of an Agency or Designated Procurement Officer, the delegator of authority to that individual must notify the Chief Procurement Officer within thirty (30) days after the change in representation.

(b) Sub-delegations, if any, by an Absent Individual remain in effect unless and until the Authority of any sub-delegatees is modified or revoked by an Authorized Individual.

(6) Procedural Requirements.

(a) Compliance. Authorized Agencies must maintain good contracting procedures in accordance with the Public Contracting Code, related Rules and policies of the Department. Delegation of Authority does not exempt anyone from the requirements of the Public Contracting Code, related Rules, and policies of the Department. Any individual receiving delegated Authority is responsible for following the Public Contracting Code, related Rules, and policies of the Department.

(b) Modifications or Revocations.

(A) Authority. Subject to the conditions of Subsection (ii) below, a Delegation may be modified or revoked by:

(c) Maintenance of Documents. The Authorized Agency must maintain copies of letters, memoranda, or agreements granting a Delegation.

(7) Signature. When an Authorized Agency has delegated Authority according to OAR 125-246-0170, the Authorized Agency's signature constitutes both the execution and approval of the Contract, except as described in subsections (1)(h), (2)(a)(B), and (2)(b)(F).

(8) Commitment of Funds. ORS 291 and 293, together with the policies of the State Controller's Division of the Department, provide for public financial administration, including: appropriations, allotments by the Department, and an individual's authority to commit or encumber funds, financially obligate the Agency, and decide to expend funds. This type of authority may be referred to as commitment, expenditure, obligation, expenditure decision or signature authority (collectively, Commitment of Funds).

(9) Requests for Delegations. Any Agency may submit a delegation request through ORPIN to the Chief Procurement Officer for authority in accordance with the Public Contracting Code, this Rule, and any related policy of the Department. All requested Delegations must be approved in Writing by the Chief Procurement Officer and based upon a consideration of relevant criteria as follows:

(a) The nature of the Supplies and Services to be provided;

(e) The available resources of the Department to conduct the purchasing activities if authority is revoked; and

(f) The degree of economy and efficiency to be achieved in meeting the state's requirements if authority is revoked.

(11) Return of Delegations from Agencies to the Chief Procurement Officer. If an Agency needs assistance, an Agency may request that the Chief Procurement Officer reclaim the authority previously delegated to the Agency. With sole discretion, the Chief Procurement Officer may accept the reclamation request for assistance according to the responsibilities, resources, and needs of the Department and the Agency.

(c) Authority of the Chief Procurement Officer. The Director of the Department delegates Authority to the Chief Procurement Officer in Section (3) of this Rule.

(d) Authority of the Director. According to ORS 279A.140, the Department must conduct all Procurements, including Contract Administration, for the Agencies. Other Sections of the Code authorize specific actions by the Director of the Department. According to ORS 279A.050(1) and (2), this Authority of the Department vests only in the Director of the Department. The Director is ultimately responsible for the Procurement of the Agencies.

(2) Delegation to Individuals in Agencies.

(a) Chain of Delegation and Responsibilities.

(A) Head and Designated Procurement Officer of the Agency.

(i) Conditional Delegation. The Director delegates Authority, only as set forth in this Section (2), to the heads of Authorized Agencies, on the condition that the heads of Authorized Agencies subdelegate such Authority to their Agencies' Designated Procurement Officers, who may further subdelegate such Authority in accordance with policies of their Agencies (Chain of Delegation). Every Authorized Agency must appoint a Designated Procurement Officer to serve that Authorized Agency; if none is appointed, the head of the Agency is deemed to be the Designated Procurement Officer and assumes the Authority, duties and responsibilities of the Designated Procurement Officer (collectively, "Designated Procurement Officer"). The heads of the Agencies may not subdelegate Authority outside this Chain of Delegation, except as provided in Subsection (2)(a)(B).

(ii) Manner of Appointment. The Authorized Agency determines its procedure for appointing its Designated Procurement Officer, and this Rule does not require or imply any inherent Authority in individual(s) or the Agency in order to make this appointment. The Agency must send a Written notice of its appointment of the Designated Procurement Officer to the Chief Procurement Officer.

(B) Exceptions: Head and Other Individuals of the Agency.

(i) Execution of Contracts. Heads of Authorized Agencies may subdelegate the Authority to execute Contracts, as described in Subsection (2)(b)(F), to other individuals within their respective Agency, provided this subdelegation is in accordance with a Written alternative subdelegation plan, maintained on file with the Agency's Designated Procurement Officer.

(ii) Special Procurements of General or Special Counsel Authorized by the Attorney General, according to OAR 125-247-0295. Heads of Authorized Agencies may subdelegate the Authority to procure general or special counsel authorized by the Attorney General, as described in Subsection (2)(d)(L), to other individuals within their respective Agency, provided the head of the Authorized Agency has determined that the individual receiving the subdelegation has the requisite skills and knowledge to carry out the subdelegation. Such subdelegations may be further subdelegated within that Authorized Agency, provided the subdelegator has determined that each individual receiving the Delegation has the requisite skills and knowledge to carry out the subdelegation.

(iii) Chain of Delegation. Authorized Individuals in accordance with Subsections (2)(a)(B)(i) and (ii) are included in the Chain of Delegation.

(C) Responsibilities. Each individual in the Chain of Delegation remains responsible for the exercise of Authority by that individual's subdelegatees, and subdelegation does not waive this responsibility. Each delegator must determine and document that the delegatee is capable and accountable for the Procurement. The Designated Procurement Officer, appointed within each Authorized Agency, is responsible for all delegated procurement activity on behalf of the Authorized Agency, as described in this Section (2), except as provided in Subsection (2)(a)(B).

(b) Duties and Responsibilities of Designated Procurement Officers. The Authority, duties and responsibilities of the Designated Procurement Officer, according to (2)(a)(A), are as follows:

(c) Authority for Cooperative Procurements.

(A) The Chief Procurement Officer will enter into Cooperative Procurements on behalf of Agencies, unless an Authorized Agency receives a delegation of authority according to OAR 125-246-0170 to act as an Administrator or Participant.

(B) Subject to a delegation of authority described in subsection (2)(c)(A) of this Rule, an Administrator or Participant may participate in, sponsor, conduct or administer Joint Cooperative Procurements, Permissive Cooperative Procurements and Interstate Cooperative Procurements in accordance with ORS 279A.200 through 279A.225 and these Rules.

(C) For Permissive Cooperative Procurements, each Participant that participates after the Award of the Original Contract must determine, in Writing, whether the Solicitation and award process for the Original Contract arising out of a Cooperative Procurement is substantially equivalent to those identified in ORS 279B.055, 279B.060 or 279B.085, consistent with 279A.200(2). The Participant must maintain this Written determination in the Participant's Procurement File.

(d) Responsibilities.

(A) The Administrator of a Cooperative Procurement may establish any terms and conditions necessary to allow other Participating Authorized Agencies or Cooperative Procurement Groups of which the Participant is a member (collectively, "Participant") to participate in a Cooperative Procurement. The Administrator may require Participants to enter into a Written agreement that establishes the terms and conditions for participation in a Cooperative Procurement. These terms and conditions may include, but are not limited to: the establishment of any administrative fees for the Administrator, whether each Person must enter into a Written agreement with the Administrator, and any other matters related to the administration of the Cooperative Procurement source selection and the resulting Original Contract. The Administrator may include provisions in the Solicitation Document for a Cooperative Procurement and advertise the Solicitation Document in a manner to assist Participants' compliance with the Code and these Rules.

(B) In administering or applying these Rules, the Administrator must collaboratively review and compare the procurement needs and requirements of both the Administrator and the respective Participant(s) for the purpose of using a Cooperative Procurement to achieve cost savings (for examples: lowest total cost of acquisition, least time to procure, process streamlining, Return on Investment calculation based on a comparison of the total costs of individual Authorized Agency Procurements versus a Cooperative Procurement).

(C) If a Participant enters into a Contract based on a Cooperative Procurement, the Participant must comply with the Code, these Rules, and any terms and conditions set out by the Administrator, including:

(i) The extent to which the Participant may participate in the Cooperative Procurement;

(ii) The advertisement of the Solicitation Document for the Cooperative Procurement; and

(iii) Public notice of the Participant's intent to establish Contracts based on a Cooperative Procurement.

(D) Joint, Permissive, and Interstate Cooperative Procurement Solicitations must comply with OAR 125-247-0305.

(e) Amendments of Cooperative Procurements must comply with OAR 125-247-0805.

Reinstatement of Expired Contract; Retroactive Approval of Existing Contract

(1) Application. This Rule applies to the reinstatement of expired or terminated Contracts (expired Contracts) and the retroactive approval of existing Contracts procured by Authorized Agencies for Supplies and Services and for Architectural, Engineering and Land Surveying Services or Related Services ("Contracts"). This Rule does not apply to mistakes that may occur in the solicitation process (see OAR 125-247-0470).

(2) Requirements to Reinstate an Expired Contract.

(a) Before expiration, the Contract was properly signed by all parties;

(b) Then the signed Contract expired;

(c) The Agency reinstates the Contract:

(A) To fulfill its term, up to the maximum time period provided in the Contract; or

(B) To complete one or more deliverable(s) included within the Contract's Scope at the time of its expiration;

(d) The Agency documents in the Procurement File the deliverable(s) to be completed at the time of the expired Contract's reinstatement; and

(e) If the Contractor has performed work under the Contract, the reinstatement does not apply to payments made for work performed between the expiration of the Contract and the date of any reinstatement.

(3) Requirements to Retroactively Approve an Existing Contract.

(a) The Contract exists and has not expired;

(b) The Contract was signed by all parties except that the required approval of the DPO or CPO was lacking;

(c) If the Contractor has performed work under the Contract, the retroactive approval does not apply to payments made for work performed between the start of the Contract and the date of any retroactive approval.

(4) Process. For either a reinstatement of an expired Contract or retroactive approval of an existing Contract, the requesting Agency must meet the following conditions:

(a) The Agency must submit a Written request to the Agency's Designated Procurement Officer (DPO) if the Agency is authorized under OAR 125-246-0170, or if not, to the Chief Procurement Officer (CPO) with authority under 125-246-0170 (Request). If the Request is submitted to the DPO, the Agency must also follow its internal procedures.

(b) The Request must explain the following:

(A) The proposed reinstatement of the expired Contract or retroactive approval of the existing Contract.

(B) The background facts that led to the Request;

(C) The good faith basis for making the Request;

(D) The need for reinstatement of an expired Contract or retroactive approval of an existing Contract due to unforeseen or unavoidable conditions;

(E) The steps to prevent a reoccurrence. For examples:

(i) Improvement of Agency's internal policies and procedures; and

(ii) Provision of new training or retraining; and

(F) Acknowledgement that the Request is in the best interest of the Agency.

(c) Obtain all other approvals required for the Contract, including but not limited to: Attorney General's approval of legal sufficiency under ORS 291.047 or ratification under 291.049. The Authorized Agency must obtain all other approvals required for the Contract before any reinstatement, extension of time under Subsection (6), or retroactive approval becomes binding.

(d) The DPO or CPO, as described in Subsection (3)(a), must approve the Request.

(5) Effect of Approval.

(a) An approved reinstatement of an expired Contract makes the Contract in full force and effect, as if it had not expired.

(b) An approved retroactive approval of an existing Contract makes the Contract in full force and effect, as if it had been approved by the DPO or CPO when the Contract was formed.

(c) The DPO or CPO, as appropriate, may create any related Contract documents to implement the reinstatement or retroactive approval.

(d) The Agency may make an approved payment after any related Contract documents are signed by the necessary parties.

(6) Amendments of a Reinstated Contract.

(a) If the Agency requests reinstatement of an expired Contract, the Request of the Agency may also include a request to amend the reinstated Contract for time only. The DPO or CPO, as appropriate, may approve this Request, including the amendment.

(b) The Agency may amend a reinstated or retroactively approved Contract for purposes other than time in accordance with OAR 125-247-0805.

(7) An Authorized Agency may combine in one document a Reinstatement of a Contract in accordance with this Rule, Retroactive Approvals of that Contract in accordance with OAR 125-246-0570, and its Amendment in accordance with 125-247-0805, as needed.

(1) Any violation of ORS 279A.140, 279A.280, or 279B.270 must be punished as described in 291.990, pursuant to 279A.990(1).

(2) Upon notice to the Department of an alleged violation pursuant to ORS 279A.990(1), the Department, at its own discretion, may provide to an individual of an Agency or an Agency an optional administrative process with an opportunity for remedy prior or parallel to a legal process leading to conviction or a Department certification leading to other penalties provided by ORS 291.990. This Rule and administrative process may address related considerations, including but not limited to:

(a) What specific actions are interpreted as violations giving rise to penalties;

(b) Applicability to individuals of Agencies and Agencies, regardless of whether delegated authority existed pursuant to OAR 125-246-0170; and

Life Cycle Costing

(1) Policy.

(a) Analysis. Life Cycle Costing provides a method of analysis, considering Sustainability and analyzing total cost of ownership as part of the best value of the purchased Goods (Products). The method applies to the development of Life Cycle Costing criteria for a Solicitation, collection of Product information about Life Cycle, evaluation of Offers, selection of Contractor(s), and award of Contract(s). Using this method, Agency does not award a Contract based solely on the lowest price, and a low Bid would include Life Cycle Costing.

(b) Planning. Agency must consider using Life Cycle Costing during planning for Competitive Sealed Bidding or Proposals. Life Cycle Costing is optional for other sourcing methods under this Division 247.

(c) Services Related to the Product. Agency may also consider the costs of Services related to a Product, including other Sustainability criteria.

(2) Definitions:

(a) "Life Cycle" means the life cycle of a Product, including conception, design, manufacture, service, and disposal. The design of the Product may allow for a repetitive lifecycle: material extraction, manufacturing/production, transportation, utilization/reuse, and disposal/recycling, which leads to the beginning of a new cycle.

(b) "Life Cycle Cost" means the total cost of acquiring, operating, supporting and (if applicable) disposing of the Product being acquired.

(c) "Life Cycle Costing" means an analysis method that quantifies Life Cycle Costs, including the costs of acquiring, operating, supporting and disposing of a Product. The method may also include any additional Costs that relate to adverse impacts of a Product, for example, impacts to the environment or public health.

(d) "Products" means goods, supplies, equipment, or materials.

(3) Life Cycle Costs. Life Cycle Costing considers the acquisition costs of a Product, and includes all associated costs of ownership, such as purchase price, shipping, maintenance and repair, longevity, and disposition costs at the end of life. For complex Products, several Contracts may be required and acquisition costs may involve research and development as well as production, delivery, and installation of the Product. Other costs expected to occur over the anticipated life of the Product may be added to the acquisition costs, based upon a reasonable determination by the Agency. Examples of other typical Life Cycle Costs include the following:

(a) Switching costs associated with changing from the current Product to another model or brand of the Product. Typically, such costs may include: removal, shipping, training, and replacement of peripheral equipment and consumables that support the Product. The Agency may also consider increased project management or additional transition time.

(b) Operating and support costs, including third party contract costs, associated with equipment, supplies, utilities, fuel, and services needed to operate and maintain an operational system.

(c) Disposal costs, including third party contract costs, associated with removing equipment from service and disposing of it. Evaluations that consider Life Cycle Cost should also consider any significant salvage, reuse, or resale value at the time of disposal.

(4) Solicitation Requirements. The Solicitation must:

(a) Describe to prospective Offerors how Life Cycle Costing will be considered and applied in the evaluation process and award decision.

(A) If the Agency plans to make an Award based solely on the lowest evaluated cost resulting from Life Cycle Costing, the Solicitation must describe an evaluation process that includes Life Cycle Costing. For example, an Invitation to Bid must include quantifiable total Life Cycle Costs as a part of the bid evaluation methodology and award, and the lowest total Life Cycle Cost would be considered the low Bid.

(B) If the Agency plans to make an Award based on an evaluation of other factors than the lowest cost, the Solicitation for Proposals or Quotes must describe an evaluation process that includes Life Cycle Costing.

For example: (i) A Request for Proposals may include Life Cycle Costs as a part of the total points awarded for costs. All Life Cycle Costs will be calculated, and the lowest total Life Cycle Cost is awarded the maximum points allocated for cost in the Solicitation; or (ii) A Request for Proposals may separate Life Cycle Costs and assign to them a weight or points in addition to other defined costs and non-cost criteria in the evaluation process.

(b) Provide relevant information for the evaluation of the Offer; for example, projected Product usage, operating environment, and operating period.

(c) Describe the information that an Offeror must provide in the Offer, including relevant Life Cycle Costs and supporting information. Examples include:

(A) Average unit price, including production and operational costs,

(B) Delivery, shipping and transportation costs,

(C) Any response to switching costs identified in the Solicitation,

(D) Unit operating and support costs (for example, staffing and technical assistance, energy, parts requirements, scheduled maintenance, and training),

(E) Unit disposal costs (for example, the cost of removing equipment from the State facility),

(F) Unit salvage, reuse, or residual value,

(G) Any information related to testing, demonstrations, or interviews, and

(H) Other Product information related to Life Cycle and Sustainability.

(5) Solicitation Options. The Solicitation may:

(a) Provide for adjustments to the Life Cycle Costs if the costs continue over a period of years, for example, inflation or cost uncertainty, and

(b) Include third party estimates of a Product's Life Cycle.

(6) Award Decision.

(a) If Agency uses Life Cycle Costing, an Award resulting from Competitive Sealed Bidding must be made to the Responsible Offeror whose Responsive Offer provides the lowest overall cost of ownership in accordance with the Life Cycle Costing described in the Solicitation.

(b) If Agency uses Life Cycle Costing, an Award resulting from Competitive Sealed Proposals with Life Cycle Costing must be made to the Responsible Offeror whose Responsive Offer is determined to be the most Advantageous or best Proposal in accordance with the Life Cycle Costing described in the Solicitation.

Buy Decision and Methods of Source Selection

(1) Buy Decision. The Buy Decision means the decision to buy Supplies and Services through socio-economic programs, agreements, or the open market (Source). Agency is not required to make a Buy Decision based on the lowest price. See the specific Statute or Rules for the authority to use each Source.

(2) Priority. Agencies must make their Buy Decision in the priority order set forth in Subsections (a) through (d) (Priority). If a higher Priority Source satisfies a Procurement, the Agency must procure through that higher Priority Source and may not elect to procure through a lower Priority Source.

(a) Surplus Property. Procuring from surplus property promotes the efficient use of existing resources (see OAR 125-050-0100 through 125-050-0400).

(b) Qualified Rehabilitation Facilities (QRFs). Assists individuals with disabilities through gainful employment (see ORS 279.835 through 279.855 and OAR 125-055-0005 through 125-055-0045).

(c) Inmate Labor. See the Oregon Constitution, Article I, Section 41.

(d) Statewide DAS Price Agreement. Promotes economy and efficiency through volume and strategic purchases (see OAR 125-247-0296). To determine if a price agreement exists go to ORPIN and perform a "Statewide Contract Search" or an "Award Search" for "active" Contracts. Under ORS 279A.140, DAS has the procurement authority to establish and administer statewide Price Agreements, and according to the terms of each Price Agreement, DAS delegates the procurement authority to the Agencies to use these Price Agreements.

(3) ORS 190 Agreement. Section (2) does not apply to ORS 190 Agreements that promote the use of existing state resources, including an Interagency Agreement, Intergovernmental Agreement, Interstate Agreement, International Agreement, or Tribal Agreement (see OAR 125-246-0365). An Agency may elect to use an ORS 190 Agreement at any time.

(4) Open Market. If Sections (2) and (3) do not apply, the Agency may procure Supplies and Services through the open market, using the methods provided under the Public Contracting Code, related Rules, and policies. See ORS 279AB, OAR 125-246 and 247.

(5) Methods of Source Selection. An Authorized Agency must award a Contract for Supplies and Services by one of the following seven sourcing methods in accordance with the Code and related Rules:

(a) Competitive Sealed Bidding according to ORS 279B.055;

(b) Competitive Sealed Proposals according to ORS 279B.060;

(c) Small Procurement according to ORS 279B.065;

(d) Intermediate Procurement according to ORS 279B.070;

(e) Sole-Source Procurement according to ORS 279B.075;

(f) Emergency Procurement according to ORS 279B.080; or

(g) Special Procurement according to ORS 279B.085.

(6) A Cooperative Procurement in accordance with OAR 125-246-0400 through 125-246-0470 substantially uses a Competitive Sealed Bidding or Competitive Sealed Proposals method.

Small Procurements

(1) Generally. For Procurements of Goods or Services less than or equal to $10,000 an Authorized Agency may Award a Contract as a Small Procurement pursuant to ORS 279B.065.

(2) Amendments. An Authorized Agency may amend:

(a) A Contract Awarded as a Small Procurement before January 1, 2014 in accordance with OAR 125-247-0805, but the cumulative amendments must not increase the total Contract Price to a sum greater than $6,000; and

(b) A Contract Awarded as a Small Procurement on or after January 1, 2014 in accordance with OAR 125-247-0805, but the cumulative amendments must not increase the total Contract Price to a sum greater than $12,500.

Intermediate Procurements

(1) See OAR 137-047-0270.

(2) Regardless of OAR 137-047-0270, Authorized Agencies must comply with the following provisions:

(a) Amendments. If the cumulative value of the original Contract Price and all Amendments exceeds $150,000.00, or one hundred twenty-five percent (125%) of the original Contract Price, whichever is greater, then the Authorized Agency must request and obtain prior approval of a Special Procurement in accordance with OAR 125-247-0287.

(b) Written Solicitation. Authorized Agencies are not required to use a Written Solicitation, unless an Agency's Designated Procurement Officer requires a Written Solicitation. This Written Solicitation may allow revisions to the Solicitation and opportunity for protests, at the discretion of the Agency.

(c) Documentation. Authorized Agencies must document:

(A) The method used by the Agency; and

(B) Communications between the Agency and prospective Offerors.

(d) Borderline Procurements. If an Authorized Agency's Designated Procurement Officer in good faith estimated that the Procurement would be equal to or less than $150,000, and learned thereafter that all of the Offers were minimally exceeding $150,000, this Procurement complies with ORS 279B.070 and this Rule upon the following conditions:

(A) The Designated Procurement Officer must document in the Procurement File the basis for the original estimate under $150,000 and the process used; and

(B) The Agency must comply with the remainder of ORS 279B.070 and this Rule.

(e) Notice on ORPIN. The Agency must post on ORPIN a notice that it is seeking at least three Offers.

(A) The Notice must provide:

(i) A general description of the Supplies and Services to be acquired;

(ii) Contact information;

(iii) An adequate time period in accordance with the DAS MWESB Policy; and

(iv) For Intermediate Procurements exceeding $100,000, the Time Period must be a reasonable interval of at least seven (7) calendar Days. Despite this Time Period, Authorized Agencies may determine that a shorter Time Period is in the public's interest and that a shorter Time Period will not substantially affect competition. The Authorized Agency must document the specific reason for the shorter Time Period in the Procurement File in accordance with OAR 125-246-0556.

(B) OAR 125-247-0305 (Public Notice of Solicitation Documents) does not apply to Intermediate Procurements.

(f) Negotiations. An Authorized Agency may negotiate with an Offeror.

(g) Nothing in this Rule waives the Department of Justice legal sufficiency review if applicable under ORS 291.047.

Amendments to Contracts and Price Agreements

(1) See OAR 137-047-0800.

(2) Regardless of OAR 137-047-0800, Authorized Agencies must comply with the following provisions:

(a) Authority. All Amendments to Contracts must be signed by the authorized representatives of the parties to the Contracts, except that Amendments to Ordering Instruments may be accepted by the action of the Provider in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Ordering Instruments. All Amendments must receive all required approvals before the Amendments become binding on the Authorized Agency and before any service may be performed or payment made, including but not limited to the Department of Justice legal sufficiency review according to ORS 291.047.

(b) Approval.

(A) Authorized Agencies must obtain prior Written approval of the Amendment by the Designated Procurement Officer or delegate, or the Chief Procurement Officer or delegate, if the cumulative value of the original Contract Price and all Amendments exceeds $150,000.00, or one hundred twenty-five percent (125%) of the original Contract Price, whichever is greater.

(i) Is not a material change of the essential identity or main purpose of the Original Contract; and

(ii) Does not constitute a new undertaking that should result in a new Procurement. The determination and approval must be included in the Procurement File.

(c) Price Agreements. The Department or its delegate may amend a Price Agreement as permitted by the Price Agreement or applicable law.

(d) Intermediate Procurement. See OAR 125-247-0270.

Terminal Dispositions of State Real Property Interests (Offers to Other Individuals or Entities)

(1) This rule applies to sales and leases of State Real Property Interests only.

(2) If a Disposing Agency does not sell or transfer a State Real Property Interest to either an Agency or a Political Subdivision or to a party that has been granted a Right of First Refusal, then the Disposing Agency may dispose of the State Real Property Interest to any other party subject to the rules and procedures described in this rule.

(3) The Disposing Agency shall publish notice of the proposed Terminal Disposition of the State Real Property Interest. The notice must be published not less than once a week for three successive weeks in one or more newspapers of general circulation in the county or counties in which the State Real Property Interest is located. In addition, the Disposing Agency may provide notice on its website. The published notice must include the following:

(a) A general description of the State Real Property Interest, including a legal description, if any;

(b) The asking price;

(c) The name and address of the person to contact to obtain any additional information concerning the State Real Property Interest;

(d) A Request for Proposals, including the address to which the Proposal must be delivered and the date and time the Proposal is due, which may not be less than 30 days from the date of the first notice;

(e) If applicable, a notice that the Terminal Disposition of the State Real Property Interest may be subject to a Right of First Refusal;

(f) If not previously published, an invitation for public comment on the State Real Property Interest values defined in OAR 125 045-0215(7) if the Appraised Fair Market Value is more than $100,000;

(g) A reservation of the right of the Disposing Agency or the Division to accept or reject any Proposal; and

(h) Any other information the Disposing Agency elects to include.

(4) The Disposing Agency may use a multi-stage process, which may include, but need not be limited to, a Solicitation of Interest (SOI), a Request for Qualifications (RFQ), a Request for Proposals (RFP), a straight offer to purchase, or a combination of these. These documents must describe the process by which the Disposing Agency shall market the property, and may direct interested parties to the Disposing Agency's website for information.

(5) The Division may post the current status of Surplus State Real Property Interests available for Terminal Disposition on its website.

(6) All Proposals submitted in response to the published notice described in this rule must be in writing and signed by a person authorized to enter into a real estate transaction on behalf of the purchaser and be received by the close of the proposal period. A proposing entity is expected to enter into a Pre-purchase Agreement or Memorandum of Understanding within 60 days of acceptance of proposal.

(7) Each Proposal must clearly identify the amount offered for the purchase of the State Real Property Interest, and must include the following additional information:

(a) Any conditions upon the Proposer's offer to acquire the State Real Property Interest;

(b) A detailed statement explaining the Proposer's proposed use for the State Real Property Interest; and

(c) Any other information the Proposer believes is relevant to its Proposal.

(8) After the date and time for submitting Proposals has passed, the Disposing Agency shall open all Proposals that have been timely delivered. The Disposing Agency shall evaluate all responsive Proposals to determine the Proposal most advantageous to the State. The determination of the most advantageous Proposal will be final and conclusive and is not subject to review by any court.

(9) The Disposing Agency shall notify the apparent successful Proposer and shall negotiate to determine if the transfer can be consummated and a final agreement reached. If negotiations are unsuccessful, the Disposing Agency may:

(a) Notify the next highest ranking acceptable Proposal and shall similarly attempt to negotiate the Terminal Disposition of the State Real Property Interest; and

(b) Continue the negotiation process until the Disposing Agency has exhausted the field of all Proposers; or

(c) Reject remaining Proposals.

(10) If the Disposing Agency and a Proposer reach a final agreement on the Terminal Disposition of the State Real Property Interest and this agreement, where required, is approved by the Attorney General pursuant to ORS 291.047, the Disposing Agency must transfer the State Real Property Interest to the successful Proposer in accordance with the terms of the agreement.

(11) The Disposing Agency, in its sole discretion, may reject any or all Proposals.

(12) If all Proposals are rejected, the Disposing Agency may market and sell the Real Property Interest in any manner the Disposing Agency deems appropriate, including but not limited to auction, direct negotiation with potential buyers, announcing a new RFQ or RFP process, and acting through a real estate licensee, provided that:

(a) If required by ORS 291.047, any resulting agreement of sale must be approved by the Attorney General;

(b) If no agreement of sale is executed within 18 months of the publication of the first public notice of sale described in this rule, no agreement of sale may be accepted without again first publishing a public notice of sale and complying with the provisions of this rule; and

(c) The Disposing Agency shall publish the process selected in this subsection on its website.

Adm. Order No.: DOA 1-2014
Filed with Sec. of State: 1-15-2014

Certified to be Effective: 1-15-14
Notice Publication Date: 11-1-2013
Rules Adopted: 603-052-1241
Subject: This rule establishes a quarantine against Rathayibacter Toxicus , the cause of bacterial Gummosis of seed heads. This Bacterium causes a disease that infects ryegrass and other grass species, severely limiting seed production. The bacterium also produces a toxin that can contaminate grass seeds, hay, and other plant parts; the toxin can be fatal to mammals. Methods for exclusion of commodities potentially infected with this bacterium and procedures for eradication of incipient infections are prescribed in this quarantine.
Rules Coordinator: Sue Gooch—(503) 986-4583

603-052-1241
Quarantine: Rathayibacter toxicus

(1) Establishing a quarantine. A quarantine is established against Rathayibacter toxicus, the cause of bacterial gummosis of seed heads. This quarantine is established under ORS 561.510 and 561.540 to protect Oregon's agricultural industries and natural resources from the artificial spread of R. toxicus. This bacterium causes a disease that infects ryegrass and other grass species, severely limiting seed production. Rathayibacter toxicus also produces a toxin that can contaminate grass seeds, hay, and other plant parts; this toxin can be fatal to mammals. Methods for exclusion of commodities potentially infected with this disease and procedures for eradication of incipient infections are prescribed in this quarantine.

(2) Area under quarantine. All areas outside of the State of Oregon where R. toxicus is known to occur and any property within the State of Oregon where R. toxicus is detected;

(3) Commodities regulated. All plants and plant parts including seed of the following regulated commodities: species of grass known to be hosts for Anguina seed gall nematodes, including Lolium species, Dactylis species, and Agrostis species, and all known hosts of R. toxicus, including Phalaris species, Vulpia myuros (Rat's tail fescue), Austrodanthonia caespitosa (=Danthonia caespitosa, common wallaby-grass), Avena sativa (common oat), and A. caespitosa (= Deschampia cespitosa, tufted hairgrass). All life stages of R. toxicus.

(4) Provisions of the quarantine. Regulated commodities originating from the area under quarantine, and any other area found to be infested with R. toxicus during the life of this quarantine, are prohibited unless one of the following requirements has been met:

(a) The regulated commodity originates from an area that is free from R. toxicus based on official surveys conducted by an official entity recognized by a National Plant Protection Organization. The regulated commodity must be accompanied by an official certificate that includes the following additional declaration: "The shipment originates from an area known to be free from Rathayibacter toxicus based on official survey." Official survey data supporting this statement must be presented to the Oregon Department of Agriculture upon request.

(b) The regulated commodity has been tested in an official laboratory recognized by a National Plant Protection Organization using a protocol approved by the Department and has tested free from R. toxicus. The regulated commodity must be accompanied by an official certificate that includes the following additional declaration: "The shipment is free from Rathayibacter toxicus based on official laboratory testing." An official laboratory test report must be presented to the Oregon Department of Agriculture upon request.

(NOTE: A list of laboratory testing protocols approved by the Department is available from the Oregon Department of Agriculture, 635 Capitol St. NE, Salem, OR 97301, telephone 503-986-4620.)

(5) The Oregon Department of Agriculture may require additional sampling and testing of covered commodities imported from an area or areas where R. toxicus is known to occur, including all areas described in Section (2). The party in possession of said seed lot(s) while in the State of Oregon shall be responsible for all fees for sample collection and testing. Fees shall be applied as described in OAR 603-052-1150 and 603-056-0305.

(6) Infested properties in Oregon: Confirmation of a R. toxicus infection must be made by the Department or an official cooperator. Affected property owners will be issued treatment requirements for the known infested area in the form of an Administrative Directive. The treatment requirements may include, but not be limited to, the following activities:

(a) Mandatory crop rotation;

(b) Herbicide treatments;

(c) Field burning;

(d) Field inspections, including testing;

(e) Planting of certified seed;

(f) Equipment sanitation;

(g) Mandatory official sampling and testing of grass seed lots from future production within infected properties.

(7) Special permits: The Department, upon receipt of an application in writing, may issue a Special Permit allowing movement into this state, or movement within this state, of regulated commodities not otherwise eligible for movement under the provisions of this quarantine order. Movement of such commodities will be subject to any conditions or restrictions stipulated in the Special Permit, and these conditions and restrictions may vary depending upon the intended use of the commodity and the potential risk of escape or spread of R. toxicus.

(8) Violation of quarantine: Violation of this quarantine may result in a fine, if convicted, of not less than $500 no more than $5,000, as provided by ORS 561.990. In addition, violators may be subject to civil penalties of up to $10,000 as provided by ORS 561.995. Any seed lots found to contain R. toxicus must be treated, destroyed or returned to their point of origin at the owner's expense without expense or indemnity paid by the state.

Notice Publication Date:
Rules Amended: 589-002-0120
Subject: Authority for distribution of the Community College Support Fund (CCSF) is granted by OAR 589-002-0120. This rule amendment allows the allocation provided to community college districts for Contracted-Out-of-District programs to be paid in the same fiscal year as the year the Contracted-Out-of-District services are provided.
Rules Coordinator: Linda Hutchins—(503) 947-2456

589-002-0120
Community College Support Fund Distribution Methodology

(1) The Community College Support Fund shall be distributed in equal payments as follows:

(a) For the first year of the biennium, August 15, October 15, January 15, and April 15;

(b) For the second year of the biennium, August 15, October 15, and January 15;

(c) The final payment of each biennium is deferred until July 15 of the following biennium as directed by the 71st Oregon Legislative Assembly.

(d) Should any of the dates set forth above occur on a weekend, payment shall be made on the next business day.

(e) All payments, made before actual property taxes imposed by each district are certified by the Oregon Department of Revenue, shall be based on the department's best estimate of quarterly entitlement using property tax revenue projections. Payments shall be recalculated each year as actual property tax revenues become available from the Oregon Department of Revenue and any adjustments will be made in the final payment(s) of the fiscal year.

(2) Community college districts shall be required to submit enrollment reports in the format specified by the Commissioner, including numbers of clock hours realized for all coursework, in a term-end enrollment report by the Friday of the sixth week following the close of each term. If reports are outstanding at the time of the quarterly payments, payment to the district(s) not reporting may be delayed at the discretion of the Commissioner.

(a) All payments, made before actual Full-Time Equivalent student enrollment data are available shall be based on the department's best estimate of quarterly entitlement using student enrollment data from previous years.

(b) Payments shall be recalculated each year as Full-Time Equivalent student enrollment data become available and any adjustments will be made in the fiscal year.

(3) Reimbursement from the Community College Support Fund shall be made for career technical, lower-division collegiate, developmental education and other courses approved by the State Board in accordance with OAR 589-006-0100 through 589-006-0400. State reimbursement is not available for hobby and recreation courses as defined in 589-006-0400.

(4) Residents of the State of Oregon and the states of Idaho, Washington, Nevada, and California shall be counted as part of each community college district's CCSF reimbursable FTE, but only for those students who take part in coursework offered within Oregon's boundaries.

(5) State funding for community college district operations is appropriated by the legislature on a biennial basis to the Community College Support Fund. The amount of state funds available for each biennium and for distribution through the funding formula shall be calculated based on the following:

(a) Funds to support services provided to inmates of state penitentiary and correctional institutions by community college districts shall be subtracted from the amount allocated to the Community College Support Fund before the formula is calculated. The amount available for services provided to inmates shall be equal to the funding amount in the preceding biennium, except as adjusted to reflect the same percentage increase or decrease realized in the overall Community College Support Fund appropriation. The distribution method of CCSF funding for individual state penitentiary and correction institution programs provided by community college districts will be determined in consultation between the agency and the Department of Corrections.

(b) Funds to support contracted out-of-district (COD) programs described in OAR 589-002-0600 shall be subtracted from the amount allocated to the Community College Support Fund before the formula is calculated.

(A) A community college district providing contracted out-of-district services will receive an allocation equal to the college's number of reimbursable COD FTE multiplied by the statewide average of non-base community college support funds per total funded FTE. The average funds per total funded FTE is based on the same year COD services are provided.

(B) The allocation is distributed after the reimbursable COD FTE has been reported to CCWD for the full academic year. An adjustment to the allocation may be made if the final audited FTE is significantly different than the COD FTE from which the allocation was made.

(C) Beginning July 1, 2014, to be eligible for a COD allocation, each participating community college district must:

(i) Provide the department with a copy of the agreement between the community college district and the local participating entity by October 1st of each service year.

(ii) Enter into a contract with the department by January 1st of the service year for a COD allocation payment.

(iii) Follow all requirements found in OAR 589-002-0600.

(D) Section (5)(b)(A) and (B) of this rule applies to COD contracts that were in effect starting with the 2012–13 fiscal year.

(c) Funds to support targeted investments such as distributed learning shall be subtracted from the amount allocated to the Community College Support Fund before the formula is calculated. The amount available for these investments shall be equal to the funding amount in the preceding biennium, except as adjusted to reflect the same percentage change to the current biennium's total Community College Support Fund appropriation.

(d) Funds remaining in the Community College Support Fund shall be distributed through the formula as described in Section 6.

(e) State general fund and local property taxes for territories annexed or formed effective June 1, 1996 or later shall not be included in the funding formula for the first three years of service. Additionally, the FTE generated in newly annexed territories shall not impact the funding formula during the first three years of service. Beginning in the fourth year, funding will be distributed through the formula as outlined in this rule.

(6) Distribution of funds to community college districts from the Community College Support Fund shall be accomplished through a formula, based on the following factors:

(a) Base Payment: Each community college district shall receive a base payment of $720 for each Weighted Reimbursable FTE up to 1,100 and $360 per FTE for unrealized enrollments between actual Weighted Reimbursable FTE and 1,100 FTE. The base payment for each community college district will be adjusted according to the size of the district. Community college district size for purposes of this adjustment will be determined each year by the FTE set forth in section (8)(b) of this rule. The base payment adjustments shall be:

(A) 0 – 750 FTE 1.3513;
(B) 751 – 1,250 FTE 1.2784;
(C) 1,251 – 1,750 FTE 1.2062;
(D) 1,751 – 2,250 FTE 1.1347;
(E) 2,251 – 2,750 FTE 1.0641;
(F) 2,751 – 3,250 FTE 1.0108;
(G) 3,251 – 3,750 FTE 1.0081;
(H) 3,751 – 4,250 FTE 1.0054;
(I) 4,251 – 4,999 FTE 1.0027;
(J) 5,000 or more FTE 1.000.

(b) Student-Centered Funding: The formula is designed to distribute the Community College Support Fund based on each community college district's FTE.

(A) The equalized amount per FTE is determined by dividing Total Public Resources — excluding base payments, contracted out-of-district payments, and any other payments directed by the State Board or the legislature — by funded FTE. The department shall make the calculation based on submission of FTE reports by community college districts and in accordance with established FTE principles.

(B) To determine the number of funded FTE for each community college district, a three-year weighted average of fundable FTE for each community college district will be used with the first year prior to current fundable FTE weighted at 40%, second year prior to current fundable FTE weighted at 30%, and third year prior to current fundable FTE weighted at 30%.

(c) Beginning with the 2011-13 biennium, a Biennial Growth Management Component is added to the calculation of each community college district's funded FTE. The purpose of the Biennial Growth Management Component is to manage the level of total public resource available per FTE within the total public resources available.

(A) The methodology for calculating the base year and subsequent biennial growth management component is displayed in Table 1 "Community College Support Fund Growth Management Calculation Tables" and is available through the following hyperlink. [Table not included. See ED. NOTE.]

(B) The calculations that will implement the Growth Management Component in the CCSF Distribution Formula Model are available in Table 2. Formula Calculation of Fundable FTE by Community College District." [Table not included. See ED. NOTE.]

(C) The State Board of Education (SBE) has authority, on a biennial basis to, set the "quality growth factor" that may increase or decrease the number of FTE that will be counted for funding purposes above or below the Biennial Growth Management Component. The SBE will consider the following principles as guidelines for setting the "quality growth factor":

(i) Balance the desire to support growth beyond that which is funded through the funding formula distribution model with the desire to enhance quality by increasing the level of funding provided on a per-student FTE basis.

(ii) The Total Public Resources (TPR) per FTE should not erode by more than 5% on an annual basis.

(iii) Where current TPR per FTE is determined to be insufficient to support the "quality of education" desired, a growth factor could be established that would increase the TPR per FTE.

(iv) If revenue is significantly reduced during a biennium, the Board may reduce the "quality growth factor."

(d) Account for all revenues collected and expenditures made relating to administration and enforcement of the building inspection program, and account for the electrical program revenues and expenditures separately when administered by the municipality.

(A) Prepare income and expense projections for each code program it will administer and enforce during the reporting period; and

(B) Describe how general administrative overhead costs and losses or surpluses, if any, will be allocated.

(e) Establish policies and procedures for the retention and retrieval of records relating to the administration and enforcement of the specialty codes it administers and enforces;

(f) Make its operating plan available to the public;

(g) Establish a process to receive public inquiries, comments, and complaints;

(h) Adopt a process to receive and respond to customers' questions regarding permitting, plan review, and inspections;

(i) Set reasonable time periods between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on days its permit office is open, weekends and holidays excluded, when it will receive and respond to customers' questions;

(j) Post its jurisdictional boundary, types of permits sold and hours of operation at each permit office it operates; and

(k) Identify all persons in addition to the building official to whom notices issued pursuant to these rules should be sent.

(2) Permitting Standards. A building inspection program must:

(a) Provide at least one office within its jurisdictional boundary where permits may be purchased;

(b) Set reasonable time periods between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on days its permit office is open, weekends and holidays excluded, when it will make permits available for purchase;

(c) Establish policies and procedures for receiving permit applications, determining whether permit applications are complete and notifying applicants what information, if any, is required to complete an application;

(d) Set reasonable time periods within which the municipality will:

(A) Advise permit applicants whether an application is complete or requires additional information; and

(B) Generally issue a permit after an application has been submitted and approved.

(e) Establish policies and procedure for issuing permits not requiring plan review, emergency permits, temporary permits, master permits, and minor labels;

(f) Provide a means to receive permit applications via facsimile; and

(g) Require proof of licensing, registration, and certification of any person who proposes to engage in any activity regulated by ORS chapters 446, 447, 455, 479, 693, and 701 prior to issuing any permit.

(3) Plan Review Standards. A building inspection program must:

(a) Establish policies and procedures for its plan review process to:

(A) Assure compliance with the specialty codes it is responsible for administering and enforcing, including any current interpretive rulings adopted pursuant to ORS 455.060 or 455.475;

(B) Make available checklists or other materials at each permitting office it operates that reasonably apprises persons of the information required to constitute a complete permit application or set of plans;

(C) Inform applicants within three working days of receiving an application, whether or not the application is complete and if it is for a simple residential plan. For the purposes of this rule and ORS 455.467, a "complete application" is defined by the division, taking into consideration the regional procedures in OAR chapter 918, division 50. If deemed a simple residential plan, the jurisdiction must also inform the applicant of the time period in which the plan review will generally be completed;

(D) Establish a process that includes phased permitting and deferred submittals for plan review of commercial projects for all assumed specialty codes, taking into consideration the regional procedures in OAR chapter 918, division 50. The process may not allow a project to proceed beyond the level of approval authorized by the building official. The process must:

(i) Require the building official to issue permits in accordance with the state building code as defined in ORS 455.010 provided that adequate information and detailed statements have been submitted and approved with pertinent requirements of the appropriate code. Permits may include, but not be limited to: excavation, shoring, grading and site utilities, construction of foundations, structural frame, shell, or any other part of a building or structure.

(ii) Allow deferred submittals to be permitted within each phase with the approval of the building official; and

(iii) Require the applicant to be notified of the estimated timelines for phased plan reviews and that the applicant is proceeding without assurance that a permit for the entire structure will be granted when a phased permit is issued.

(E) Verify that all plans have been stamped by a registered design professional and licensed plan reviewer where required;

(F) Verify for those architects and engineers requesting the use of alternative one and two family dwelling plan review program that all plans have been stamped by a registered professional who is also a residential plans examiner. This process must require the building official to:

(i) Establish policies and procedures in their operating plan for this process;

(ii) Waive building inspection program plan review requirements for conventional light frame construction for detached one and two family dwellings; and

(iii) Establish an appropriate fee for processing plans submitted under this rule.

(G) Establish a process for plan review if non-certified individuals review permit applications under OAR 918-098-1010.

(b) Employ or contract with a person licensed, registered, or certified to provide consultation and advice on plan reviews as deemed necessary by the building official based on the complexity and scope of its customers' needs;

(c) Maintain a list of all persons it employs or contracts with to provide plan review services including licenses, registrations, and certifications held by each plan reviewer and evidence of compliance with all applicable statutory or professional continuing education requirements;

(d) Designate at least three licensed plan reviewers from whom the municipality will accept plan reviews when the time periods in subsection (e) of this section cannot be met; and

(e) Allow an applicant to use a plan reviewer licensed under OAR 918-090-0210 and approved by the building official when the time period for review of "simple one- or two-family dwelling plans" exceeds 10 days where the population served is less than 300,000, or 15 days where the population served is 300,000 or greater.

(4) For the purposes of these rules, "simple one- or two-family dwelling plans" must:

(a) Comply with the requirements for prescriptive construction under the Oregon Residential Specialty Code; or

(5) "Simple one- or two-family dwelling plans" may:

(a) Include pre-engineered systems listed and approved by nationally accredited agencies in accordance with the appropriate specialty code, or by state interpretive rulings approved by the appropriate specialty board, that require no additional analysis; and

(b) Be designed by an architect or engineer and be considered a simple one- and two-family dwelling if all other criteria in this rule are met.

(6) The following are considered "simple one- or two-family dwelling plans":

(a) Master plans approved by the division or municipality or under ORS 455.685, which require no additional analysis; and

(b) Plans that include an engineering soil report if the report allows prescriptive building construction and requires no special systems or additional analysis.

(7) A plan that does not meet the definition of "simple" in this rule is deemed "complex". In order to provide timely customer service, a building official may accept a plan review performed by a licensed plan reviewer for a complex one- or two-family dwelling.

(8) Inspection Standards. A building inspection program must:

(a) Set reasonable time periods between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on days its permit office is open, weekends and holidays excluded, when it will provide inspection services or alternative inspection schedules agreed to by the municipality and permittee;

(b) Unless otherwise specified by statute or specialty code, establish reasonable time periods when inspection services will be provided following requests for inspections;

(e) Make available any inspection checklists;

(f) Maintain a list of all persons it employs or contracts with to provide inspection services including licenses, registrations, and certifications held by persons performing inspection services and evidence of compliance with all applicable statutory or professional continuing education requirements;

(g) Vest the building official with authority to issue stop work orders for failure to comply with the specialty codes the municipality is responsible for administering and enforcing; and

(h) Require inspectors to perform license enforcement inspections as part of routine installation inspections.

(i) Where a municipality investigates and enforces violations under ORS 455.156 or in accordance with the municipality's local compliance program, the municipality's inspectors must require proof of compliance with the licensing, permitting, registration, and certification requirements of persons engaged in any activity regulated by ORS Chapters 446, 447, 455, 479, 693, and 701. Inspectors must report any violation of a licensing, permitting, registration, or certification requirement to the appropriate enforcement agency.

(9) Compliance Programs. A municipality administering a building inspection program may enact local regulations to create its own enforcement program with local procedures and penalties; utilize the division's compliance program by submitting compliance reports to the division; elect to act as an agent of a division board pursuant to ORS 455.156; or develop a program that may include, but not be limited to, a combination thereof. A building inspection program must establish in its operating plan:

(a) Procedures to respond to public complaints regarding work performed without a license or permit or in violation of the specialty codes the municipality is responsible for administering and enforcing;

(b) Procedures requiring proof of licensure for work being performed under the state building code utilizing the approved citation process and procedures in OAR 918-020-0091.

(c) Policies and procedures to implement their compliance program;

(d) Policies and procedures regarding investigation of complaints, where the municipality chooses to investigate and enforce violations pursuant to ORS 455.156; and

(e) Policies and procedures regarding issuance of notices of proposed assessments of civil penalties, where the municipality chooses to act as an agent of a board pursuant to ORS 455.156. Penalties under such a program are subject to the limitations set in 455.156 and 455.895.

Rules Coordinator: Holly A. Tucker—(503) 378-5331

918-020-0370
Local Amendment Requests

(1) A local municipality may request under ORS 455.040 a local amendment relating to matters covered under the building code, by submitting to the division, in writing, a local amendment application. The application must include:

(a) The reason for the request;

(b) The name of, and contact information for, the building official responsible for submitting the request and enforcing and interpreting the local amendment if approved;

(c) A copy of the municipality's proposed local ordinance or administrative rule; and

(d) A copy of the report required by section (2)(b) of this rule.

(2) Prior to submitting a request for a local amendment under ORS 455.040, a municipality must:

(a) Provide for a public hearing or public meeting in the manner required by applicable municipal or state law; and

(b) Submit a report to the division. The report must:

(A) Summarize comments received;

(B) Outline the impacts of the local amendment;

(C) Explain how the municipality responded to the substantive concerns and issues raised during the public input period;

(D) Identify the financial or regulatory incentives provided by the municipality to businesses or contractors impacted by the local amendment request;

(E) Estimate the fiscal impact of the local amendment.

(i) If the proposed amendment impacts residential construction, identify the additional construction cost per square foot to develop a 6,000 square foot parcel and to construct a 1,200 square foot detached single family dwelling on that parcel; or

(ii) If the proposed amendment impacts commercial construction, identify the additional construction cost per square foot to develop a 20,000 square foot parcel and to construct a 10,000 square foot B or M occupancy type. If the proposed amendment does not impact B or M occupancy structures, then the local jurisdiction shall identify the structure type and provide similar construction cost information for the impacted type of structure to the extent it applies to the above parameters.

(F) Describe the stakeholder outreach, summarize groups communicated with and the result of that communication; and

(G) Identify any other communities the municipality discussed the proposed amendment with and whether a regional solution was considered.

(3) Local amendments shall not contain a severance clause. The content of the local amendment as interpreted and approved by the division represents the terms and conditions of the approval. Where one or more provisions are deemed invalid, the entire local amendment is invalidated.

(4) Once the local amendment request is received, the division will review the request and the municipality's proposed amendment, and either approve the proposed local amendment in whole or in part, or deny the request. The division may approve the local amendment with conditions.

(5) Once the local amendment's provisions are approved by the division they cannot be changed. If a municipality wishes to change the provisions, they must submit a new amendment request for the division's approval.

(6) The building official for the municipality, identified in subsection (1)(b) of this rule, requesting the local amendment will be responsible for enforcing and interpreting the amendment once it is approved.

(7) The division may, upon written request, issue a directive to the building official to ensure that the local amendment is being administered according to the terms and conditions of the approval.

(8) A local amendment may be reviewed occasionally by the division to determine if it continues to be viable.

(9) The division reserves the right to terminate approval of the local amendment based on new information, including but not limited to, changes in technology, conflicts with model codes, changes in accepted practices under the applicable model codes, and failure of the building official to uphold the terms, conditions, or any directives related to the local amendment.

Department of Consumer and Business Services, Division of Finance and Corporate Securities
Chapter 441

Rule Caption: Establishes the process for accepting consumer finance licensing applications, renewals, and administrative actions via NMLS
Adm. Order No.: FCS 7-2013(Temp)
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-31-2013
Certified to be Effective: 1-1-14 thru 6-30-14
Notice Publication Date:
Rules Amended: 441-730-0010, 441-730-0025, 441-730-0030
Subject: This temporary rule establishes the process by which licensees and prospective applicants must submit applications, renewals, and other administrative actions through the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry (NMLS). At present, consumer finance lending licensees and prospective applicants submit licensing materials via paper documentation or by the state's own online system. This rule modifies the present licensing and application procedures and makes mandatory the transition of all licensing activity for consumer finance lenders to NMLS. A temporary rule is necessary to avoid missing key mandatory deadlines with NMLS that would allow for implementation and result in greater costs to the state and industry.
Rules Coordinator: Shelley Greiner—(503) 947-7484

License Applications

(1) For purposes of the investigation described in ORS 725.140(1), an applicant for a license must submit the application via the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry, attested to by an authorized owner or officer of the applicant.

(2)(a) An applicant, including a person that currently has a license, must provide the employment history for the proposed manager of the licensed office for the five years immediately preceding the date of the application. A licensee employing a new manager may be required to submit a resume to meet the requirements of this section.

(b) The employment history for a license applicant's proposed manager must demonstrate verifiable recent experience in traditional lending, including but not limited to, experience obtained in banking, consumer finance, or mortgage lending. For purposes of this rule, "recent" means no less than three years out of the five years immediately preceding the date of application. Short-term lending experience alone is not a sufficient substitute for the required experience.

(c) At the request of the applicant and in the sole discretion of the director, education, extensive training, or other business experience may be substituted for the three out of five years of traditional lending experience. Factors that the director may consider include relevance of the education, or the number, complexity and types of transactions handled in the substituted business experience. Short-term lending experience alone is not a sufficient substitute for the required experience.

(3) A person that is not currently licensed with the director to make loans must submit:

(a) The employment history for all executive officers, owners, directors, or managing partners. A resume may be required to meet this requirement. At least one-half of the executive officers, owners, directors, or managing partners must have verifiable recent lending experience in banking, consumer finance, or mortgage lending;

(b) A business plan, including but not limited to:

(A) Financial and operational history of the applicant, if any;

(B) Copies of any loan documents that are proposed to be used;

(C) A description of the types of loans and the percentage of the different types of loans the applicant proposes to make, the length of the loans the applicant proposes to make, the interest rates or range of rates the applicant proposes to charge, and any other business activities the licensee will engage in at the location;

(D) The process by which the applicant will determine that loans to be made comply with requirements in OAR 441-730-0015(1); and

(E) Funding sources for the loans, including third-party financial institutions.

(4) Applicants and licensees must comply with the application and licensing process set forth through NMLS.

(5) A consumer finance lending license shall expire on December 31 of each calendar year. At least 30 days prior to the expiration of the license, the licensee shall submit a complete renewal request and all prescribed renewal fees at OAR 441-730-0030 via NMLS. The renewal is not deemed effective until approved by the Director.

(6) In the event a licensee does not receive renewal approval from the Director by December 31, the license is deemed to have lapsed in NMLS. In order to reinstate the license, the licensee must apply for a license reinstatement using NMLS. Reinstatement is available through NMLS through the last day of February of the renewal year.

(7) For purposes of ORS 725.140 and this rule, the filing date of an application is the date the application is complete. An application is deemed complete on the date:

(a) All required fees have been paid; and

(b) All fully completed documents that are part of an application or required to be submitted by this rule have been received.

(8) An initial application for licensing is deemed abandoned if:

Rule Caption: Revisions to Administrative Streamlining and Simplification Rules
Adm. Order No.: ID 11-2013
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-31-2013
Certified to be Effective: 1-1-14
Notice Publication Date: 11-1-2013
Rules Amended: 836-100-0100, 836-100-0105, 836-100-0110, 836-100-0115
Subject: These rules adopt two newly developed Oregon Companion Guides X12N/005010X221 Health Care Payment/Advice (835) and X12N/005010X212 Claim Status Request and Response (276/277). The Oregon Health Authority recommends adoption of these Companion Guides in furtherance of the state's goal of administrative streamlining in health care transactions as required under ORS 743.062. In addition to adding these new Companion Guides, these rules eliminate a waiver provision that becomes obsolete on January 1, 2014. The requirement to comply now specifies that use of the companion guides is required to the extent possible, thus eliminating the need for the waiver provision. The rules also make minor, technical corrections to the rules.

The amendments to these rules will apply on and after January 1, 2014.

(a) Establish a uniform order of benefit determination under which plans pay claims;

(b) Reduce duplication of benefits by permitting a reduction of the benefits to be paid by plans that, as provided in OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806, do not have to pay their benefits first; and

(c) Provide greater efficiency in the processing of claims when a person is covered under more than one plan.

Definitions

As used in OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806:

(1) "Allowable expense," except as otherwise provided in this rule or as otherwise used in a statute, is defined and its use is governed by the following:

(a) The term means any health care expense, including coinsurance or copayments and without reduction for any applicable deductible, that is covered in full or in part by any of the plans covering the person.

(b) If a plan is advised by a covered person that all plans covering the person are high-deductible health plans and the person intends to contribute to a health savings account established in accordance with Section 223 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, the primary high-deductible health plan's deductible is not an allowable expense, except for any health care expense incurred that may not be subject to the deductible as described in section 223(c)(2)(C) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(c) An expense or a portion of an expense that is not covered by any of the plans is not an allowable expense.

(d) Any expense that a provider by law or in accordance with a contractual agreement is prohibited from charging a covered person is not an allowable expense.

(e) The following are examples of expenses that are not allowable expenses:

(A) If a person is confined in a private hospital room, the difference between the cost of a semi-private room in the hospital and the private room is not an allowable expense, unless one of the plans provides coverage for private hospital room expenses.

(B) If a person is covered by two or more plans that compute their benefit payments on the basis of usual and customary fees or relative value schedule reimbursement or other similar reimbursement methodology, any amount charged by the provider in excess of the highest reimbursement amount for a specified benefit is not an allowable expense.

(C) If a person is covered by two or more plans that provide benefits or services on the basis of negotiated fees, any amount in excess of the highest of the negotiated fees is not an allowable expense.

(D) If a person is covered by one plan that calculates its benefits or services on the basis of usual and customary fees or relative value schedule reimbursement or other similar reimbursement methodology and another plan that provides its benefits or services on the basis of negotiated fees, the primary plan's payment arrangement shall be the allowable expense for all plans. However, if the provider has contracted with the secondary plan to provide the benefit or service for a specific negotiated fee or payment amount that is different than the primary plan's payment arrangement and if the provider's contract permits, that negotiated fee or payment shall be the allowable expense used by the secondary plan to determine its benefits.

(f) The definition of "allowable expense" may exclude certain types of coverage or benefits such as dental care, vision care, prescription drug or hearing aids. A plan that limits the application of COB to certain coverages or benefits may limit the definition of allowable expense in its contract to expenses that are similar to the expenses that it provides. When COB is restricted to specific coverages or benefits in a contract, the definition of allowable expense shall include similar expenses to which COB applies.

(g) When a plan provides benefits in the form of services, the reasonable cash value of each service is considered an allowable expense and a benefit paid.

(h) The amount of the reduction may be excluded from allowable expense when a covered person's benefits are reduced under a primary plan:

(A) Because the covered person does not comply with the plan provisions concerning second surgical opinions or precertification of admissions or services; or

(B) Because the covered person has a lower benefit for the reason that the covered person did not use a preferred provider.

(2) "Birthday" refers only to month and day in a calendar year and does not include the year in which the individual is born.

(3) "Claim" means a request that benefits of a plan be provided or paid. The benefits claimed may be in the form of:

(a) Services, including supplies;

(b) Payment for all or a portion of the expenses incurred;

(c) A combination of subsections (a) and (b) of this section; or

(d) An indemnification.

(4) "Closed panel plan" means a plan that provides health benefits to covered persons primarily in the form of services through a panel of providers that have contracted with or are employed by the plan, and that excludes benefits for services provided by other providers, except in cases of emergency or referral by a panel member.

(5) "Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985" or "COBRA" means coverage provided under a right of continuation pursuant to federal law.

(6) "Coordination of benefits" or "COB" means a provision establishing an order in which plans pay their claims, and permitting secondary plans to reduce their benefits so that the combined benefits of all plans do not exceed total allowable expenses.

(7) "Custodial parent" means:

(a) The parent awarded custody of a child by a court decree; or

(b) In the absence of a court decree, the parent with whom the child resides more than one half of the calendar year without regard to any temporary visitation.

(8) "Group-type contract:"

(a) Means a contract that is not available to the general public and is obtained and maintained only because of membership in or a connection with a particular organization or group, including blanket coverage; and.

(b) Does not include an individually underwritten and issued guaranteed renewable policy even if the policy is purchased through payroll deduction at a premium savings to the insured since the insured would have the right to maintain or renew the policy independently of continued employment with the employer.

(9) "High-deductible health plan" has the meaning given the term under section 223 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended by the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003.

(10) "Hospital indemnity benefits:"

(a) Means benefits not related to expenses incurred; and

(b) "Hospital indemnity benefits" does not include reimbursement-type benefits even if they are designed or administered to give the insured the right to elect indemnity-type benefits at the time of claim.

(11) "Plan" is defined and its use is governed by the following:

(a) "Plan" means a form of coverage with which coordination is allowed. Separate parts of a plan for members of a group that are provided through alternative contracts that are intended to be part of a coordinated package of benefits are considered one plan and there is no COB among the separate parts of the plan.

(b) If a plan coordinates benefits, its contract shall state the types of coverage that will be considered in applying the COB provision of that contract. Whether the contract uses the term "plan" or some other term such as "program," the contractual definition may be no broader than the definition of "plan" in this subsection. The definition of "plan" in the model COB provision in Appendix A (Exhibit 1 to OAR 836-020-0780) is an example.

(c) "Plan" includes:

(A) Group and individual insurance contracts and subscriber contracts;

(B) Uninsured arrangements of group or group-type coverage;

(C) Group and individual coverage through closed panel plans;

(D) Group-type contracts;

(E) The medical care components of group long-term care contracts, such as skilled nursing care; and

(E) The medical care components of group long-term care contracts, such as skilled nursing care; and

(F) Medicare or other governmental benefits, as permitted by law, except as provided in subsection (d)(H) of this section. That part of the definition of plan may be limited to the hospital, medical and surgical benefits of the governmental program;and

(G) Group and individual insurance contracts and subscriber contracts that pay or reimburse for the cost of dental care.

(d) "Plan" does not include:

(A) Independent, noncoordinated hospital indemnity coverage benefits or other fixed indemnity coverage;

(B) Accident only coverage;

(C) Specified disease or specified accident coverage;

(D) School accident-type coverages that cover students for accidents only, including athletic injuries, either on a twenty-four-hour basis or on a "to and from school" basis;

(E) Benefits provided in group long-term care insurance policies for non-medical services, including for example, personal care, adult day care, homemaker services, assistance with activities of daily living, respite care and custodial care or for contracts that pay a fixed daily benefit without regard to expenses incurred or the receipt of services;

(F) Medicare supplement policies;

(G) A state plan under Medicaid; or

(H) A governmental plan, that by law provides benefits that are in excess of those of any private insurance plan or other non-governmental plan.

(12) "Primary plan" means a plan whose benefits for a person's health care coverage must be determined without taking the existence of any other plan into consideration. A plan is a primary plan if:

(a) The plan has no order of benefit determination rules or its rules differ from those permitted by OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806; or

(b) All plans that cover the person use the order of benefit determination rules required by OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806, and under those rules the plan determines its benefits first.

(13) "Secondary plan" means a plan that is not a primary plan.

Use of Model COB Contract Provision

(1) Appendix A (Exhibit 1 to this rule) contains a model COB provision for use in contracts. The use of this model COB provision is subject to OAR 836-020-0785(1), (2) and (3).

(2) Appendix B (Exhibit 2 to this rule) is a plain language description of the COB process that explains to the covered person how health plans will implement coordination of benefits. It is not intended to replace or change the provisions that are set forth in the contract. Its purpose is to explain the process by which the two or more plans will pay for or provide benefits.

(3) The COB provision contained in Appendix A and the plain language explanation in Appendix B do not have to use the specific words and format shown in Appendix A or Appendix B. Changes may be made to fit the language and style of the rest of the contract or to reflect differences among plans that provide services, that pay benefits for expenses incurred and that indemnify. No substantive changes are permitted.

(4) A COB provision may not be used that permits a plan to reduce its benefits on the basis that:

(a) Another plan exists and the covered person did not enroll in that plan;

(b) A person is eligible or could have been covered under another plan, except with respect to Part B of Medicare; or

(c) A person has elected an option under another plan providing a lower level of benefits than another option that could have been elected.

(5) A plan may not contain a provision that its benefits are "always excess" or "always secondary" except in accordance with the rules permitted by OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806.

(6) Under the terms of a closed panel plan, benefits are not payable if the covered person does not use the services of a closed panel provider. In most instances, COB does not occur if a covered person is enrolled in two or more closed panel plans and obtains services from a provider in one of the closed panel plans because the other closed panel plan (the one whose providers were not used) has no liability. However, COB may occur during the plan year when the covered person receives emergency services that would have been covered by both plans. Then the secondary plan shall use OAR 836-020-0790 to determine the amount it should pay for the benefit.

(7) A plan may not use a COB provision, or any other provision that allows it to reduce its benefits with respect to any other coverage its insured may have, that does not meet the definition of plan in OAR 836-020-0775.

Rules for Coordination of Benefits

When a person is covered by two or more plans, the rules for determining the order of benefit payments are as follows:

(1)(a) The primary plan shall pay or provide its benefits as if the secondary plan or plans did not exist.

(b) If the primary plan is a closed panel plan and the secondary plan is not a closed panel plan, the secondary plan shall pay or provide benefits as if it were the primary plan when a covered person uses a non-panel provider, except for emergency services or authorized referrals that are paid or provided by the primary plan.

(c) When multiple contracts providing coordinated coverage are treated as a single plan under OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806, this rule applies only to the plan as a whole, and coordination among the component contracts is governed by the terms of the contracts. If more than one carrier pays or provides benefits under the plan, the carrier designated as primary within the plan shall be responsible for the plan's compliance with 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806.

(d) If a person is covered by more than one secondary plan, the order of benefit determination rules of OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806 decide the order in which secondary plans benefits are determined in relation to each other. Each secondary plan shall take into consideration the benefits of the primary plan or plans and the benefits of any other plan that, under the rules of 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806, has its benefits determined before those of that secondary plan.

(2)(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a plan that does not contain order of benefit determination provisions that are consistent with OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806 is always the primary plan unless the provisions of both plans, regardless of the provisions of this subsection, state that the complying plan is primary.

(b) Coverage that is obtained by virtue of membership in a group and designed to supplement a part of a basic package of benefits may provide that the supplementary coverage shall be excess to any other parts of the plan provided by the contract holder. Examples of these types of situations are major medical coverages that are superimposed over base plan hospital and surgical benefits, and insurance type coverages that are written in connection with a closed panel plan to provide out-of-network benefits.

(3) A plan may take into consideration the benefits paid or provided by another plan only when, under the rules of OAR 836-020-0770 to 836-020-0806, it is secondary to that other plan.

(4) Order of benefit determination: Each plan must determine its order of benefits using the first of the following rules that applies:

(a) Rule regarding non-dependent or dependent:

(A) Subject to paragraph (B) of this subsection, the plan that covers the person other than as a dependent, for example as an employee, member, subscriber or retiree, is the primary plan and the plan that covers the person as a dependent is the secondary plan.

(B)(i) If the person is a Medicare beneficiary, and, as a result of the provisions of Title XVIII of the Social Security Act and implementing regulations, Medicare is:

(I) Secondary to the plan covering the person as a dependent; and

(II) Primary to the plan covering the person as other than a dependent (e.g. a retired employee),

(C) Then the order of benefits is reversed so that the plan covering the person as an employee, member, subscriber or retiree is the secondary plan and the other plan covering the person as a dependent is the primary plan.

(b) Rule regarding dependent child covered under more than one plan. Unless there is a court decree stating otherwise, plans covering a dependent child shall determine the order of benefits as follows:

(A) For a dependent child whose parents are married or are living together, whether or not they have ever been married:

(i) The plan of the parent whose birthday falls earlier in the calendar year is the primary plan; or

(ii) If both parents have the same birthday, the plan that has covered the parent longest is the primary plan.

(B) For a dependent child whose parents are divorced or separated or are not living together, whether or not they have ever been married:

(i) If a court decree states that one of the parents is responsible for the dependent child's health care expenses or health care coverage and the plan of that parent has actual knowledge of those terms, that plan is primary. If the parent with responsibility has no health care coverage for the dependent child's health care expenses, but that parent's spouse does, that parent's spouse's plan is the primary plan. This subparagraph does not apply with respect to any plan year during which benefits are paid or provided before the entity has actual knowledge of the court decree provision;

(ii) If a court decree states that both parents are responsible for the dependent child's health care expenses or health care coverage, the provisions of paragraph (A) of this subsection determines the order of benefits;

(iii) If a court decree states that the parents have joint custody without specifying that one parent has responsibility for the health care expenses or health care coverage of the dependent child, the provisions of paragraph (A) of this subsection determines the order of benefits; or

(iv) If there is no court decree allocating responsibility for the child's health care expenses or health care coverage, the order of benefits for the child are as follows:

(I) The plan covering the custodial parent;

(II) The plan covering the custodial parent's spouse;

(III) The plan covering the non-custodial parent; and then

(IV) The plan covering the non-custodial parent's spouse.

(C) For a dependent child covered under more than one plan of individuals who are not the parents of the child, the order of benefits shall be determined, as applicable, under paragraph (A) or (B) of this subsection as if those individuals were parents of the child.

(D) For a dependent child:

(i) Who has coverage under either or both parents' plans and who also has coverage as a dependent under a spouse's plan, the rule in subsection (e) of this section applies.

(ii) In the event the dependent child's coverage under the spouse's plan began on the same date as the dependent child's coverage under either or both parents' plans, the order of benefits shall be determined by applying the birthday rule in paragraph (A) of this subsection to the dependent child's parent and the dependent's spouse.

(c) Rule regarding active employee or retired or laid-off employee:

(A) The plan that covers a person as an active employee that is, an employee who is neither laid off nor retired or as a dependent of an active employee is the primary plan. The plan covering that same person as a retired or laid-off employee or as a dependent of a retired or laid-off employee is the secondary plan.

(B) If the other plan does not have this rule, and as a result, the plans do not agree on the order of benefits, this rule is ignored.

(C) This rule does not apply if the rule in subsection (a) of this section can determine the order of benefits.

(d) Rule regarding COBRA or state continuation coverage:

(A) If a person whose coverage is provided pursuant to COBRA or under a right of continuation pursuant to state or other federal law is covered under another plan, the plan covering the person as an employee, member, subscriber or retiree or covering the person as a dependent of an employee, member, subscriber or retiree is the primary plan and the plan covering that same person pursuant to COBRA or under a right of continuation pursuant to state or other federal law is the secondary plan.

(B) If the other plan does not have this rule, and if, as a result, the plans do not agree on the order of benefits, this rule is ignored.

(C) This rule does not apply if the rule in subsection (a) of this section can determine the order of benefits

(e) Rule regarding longer or shorter length of coverage:

(A) If the preceding rules in this section do not determine the order of benefits, the plan that covered the person for the longer period of time is the primary plan and the plan that covered the person for the shorter period of time is the secondary plan.

(B) To determine the length of time a person has been covered under a plan, two successive plans shall be treated as one if the covered person was eligible under the second plan within 24 hours after coverage under the first plan ended.

(C) The start of a new plan does not include:

(i) A change in the amount or scope of a plan's benefits;

(ii) A change in the entity that pays, provides or administers the plan's benefits; or

(iii) A change from one type of plan to another, such as from a single employer plan to a multiple employer plan.

(D) The person's length of time covered under a plan is measured from the person's first date of coverage under that plan. If that date is not readily available for a group plan, the date the person first became a member of the group shall be used as the date from which to determine the length of time the person's coverage under the present plan has been in force.

(f) If none of the preceding rules of this section determines the order of benefits, the allowable expenses shall be shared equally between the plans.

836-052-0676
Premium Rate Schedule Increases

(1) This rule applies as follows:

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, this rule applies to any long-term care insurance policy or certificate issued in this state on or after March 1, 2006.

(b) For certificates issued on or after March 1, 2005 under a group long-term care insurance policy as defined in ORS 743.652(3)(a) that was in force on March 1, 2005, this rule applies on the policy anniversary following March 1, 2006.

(2) An insurer shall obtain approval of a premium rate schedule increase from the Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services, including an exceptional increase as defined in section (3) of this rule, prior to the notice to the policyholders and shall include the following in the submission to the director:

(a) Information required by OAR 836-052-0556;

(b) Certification by a qualified actuary that:

(A) If the requested premium rate schedule increase is implemented and the underlying assumptions that reflect moderately adverse conditions are realized, no further premium rate schedule increases are anticipated; and

(B) The premium rate filing is in compliance with this rule.

(c) An actuarial memorandum justifying the rate schedule change request that includes:

(A) Lifetime projections of earned premiums and incurred claims based on the filed premium rate schedule increase; and the method and assumptions used in determining the projected values, including reflection of any assumptions that deviate from those used for pricing other forms currently available for sale, as follows:

(i) Annual values for the five years preceding and the three years following the valuation date shall be provided separately;

(ii) The projections shall include the development of the lifetime loss ratio according to OAR 836-052-0666, unless the rate increase is an exceptional increase;

(iii) The projections shall demonstrate compliance with section (3) of this rule; and

(iv) For exceptional increases:

(I) The projected experience must be limited to the increases in claims expenses attributable to the approved reasons for the exceptional increase; and

(II) In the event the director determines as provided in OAR 836-052-0508(1)(d) that offsets may exist, the insurer shall use appropriate net projected experience.

(B) Disclosure of how reserves have been incorporated in this rate increase whenever the rate increase will trigger contingent benefit upon lapse;

(C) Disclosure of the analysis performed to determine why a rate adjustment is necessary, which pricing assumptions were not realized and why, and what other actions taken by the insurer have been relied on by the actuary;

(D) A statement that policy design, underwriting and claims adjudication practices have been taken into consideration; and

(E) Composite rates reflecting projections of new certificates, in the event that it is necessary to maintain consistent premium rates for new certificates and certificates receiving a rate increase.

(d) A statement that renewal premium rate schedules are not greater than new business premium rate schedules except for differences attributable to benefits, unless sufficient justification is provided to the director; and

(e) Sufficient information for review and approval of the premium rate schedule increase by the director.

(3) As used in this rule, "exceptional increase" means only those increases filed by an insurer as exceptional for which the director determines the need for the premium rate increase is justified, owing to changes in statutes or rules applicable to long-term care insurance in this state or owing to increased and unexpected utilization that affects the majority of insurers of similar products. An exceptional increase is subject to the following provisions:

(a) Except as provided in this rule, an exceptional increase is subject to the same requirements as other premium rate schedule increases.

(b) The director may request a review by an independent actuary or a professional actuarial body of the basis for a request that an increase be considered an exceptional increase.

(c) The director, in determining that the necessary basis for an exceptional increase exists, shall also determine any potential offsets to higher claims costs.

(4) All premium rate schedule increases shall be determined in accordance with the following requirements:

(a) Each exceptional increase shall provide that 70 percent of the present value of projected additional premiums from the exceptional increase will be returned to policyholders in benefits;

(b) Each premium rate schedule increase shall be calculated such that the sum of the accumulated value of incurred claims, without the inclusion of active life reserves, and the present value of future projected incurred claims, without the inclusion of active life reserves, will not be less than the sum of the following:

(A) The accumulated value of the initial earned premium times 58 percent;

(B) 85 percent of the accumulated value of prior premium rate schedule increases on an earned basis;

(C) The present value of future projected initial earned premiums times 58 percent; and

(D) 85 percent of the present value of future projected premiums not in paragraph (C) of this subsection on an earned basis.

(c) In the event that a policy form has both exceptional and other increases, the values in subsection (b)(B) and (D) of this section will also include 70 percent for exceptional rate increase amounts; and

(d) All present and accumulated values used to determine rate increases shall use the maximum valuation interest rate specified in ORS 733.310 for the valuation of life insurance issued on the same date as the long-term care insurance. The actuary shall disclose as part of the actuarial memorandum the use of any appropriate averages.

(5) For each rate increase that is implemented, the insurer shall file for review and approval by the director updated projections, as defined in section (2)(c)(A) of this rule, annually for the next three years and include a comparison of actual results to projected values. The director may extend the period to greater than three years if actual results are not consistent with projections values from prior projections. For group insurance policies that meet the conditions in section (12) of this rule, the projections required by this section shall be provided to the policyholder in lieu of filing with the director.

(6) If any premium rate in the revised premium rate schedule is greater than 200 percent of the comparable rate in the initial premium schedule, lifetime projections, as defined in section (2)(c)(A) of this rule, shall be filed for review and approval by the director every five years following the end of the required period in section (5) of this rule. For group insurance policies that meet the conditions in section (12) of this rule, the projections required by this section shall be provided to the policyholder in lieu of filing with the director.

(7)(a) If the director has determined that the actual experience following a rate increase does not adequately match the projected experience and that the current projection under moderately adverse conditions demonstrates that incurred claims will not exceed proportions of premiums specified in section (4) of this rule, the director may require the insurer to implement any of the following:

(A) Premium rate schedule adjustments; or

(B) Other methods to reduce the difference between the projected and actual experience.

(b) In determining whether the actual experience adequately matches the projected experience, consideration shall be given to section (2)(c)(E) of this rule, if applicable.

(8) If the majority of the policies or certificates to which the increase is applicable are eligible for the contingent benefit upon lapse, the insurer shall file:

(a) A plan, subject to director approval, for improved administration or claims processing designed to eliminate the potential for further deterioration of the policy form requiring further premium rate schedule increase, or both, or to demonstrate that appropriate administration and claims processing have been implemented or are in effect, otherwise the director may impose the condition in section (9) of this rule; and

(b) The original anticipated lifetime loss ratio and the premium rate schedule increase that would have been calculated according to section (4) of this rule had the greater of the original anticipated lifetime loss ratio or 58 percent been used in the calculations described in section (4)(a)(A) and (C) of this rule.

(9)(a) For a rate increase filing that meets the following criteria, the director shall review, for all policies included in the filing, the projected lapse rates and past lapse rates during the 12 months following each increase to determine if a significant adverse lapse has occurred or is anticipated:

(A) The rate increase is not the first rate increase requested for the specific policy form or forms;

(B) The rate increase is not an exceptional increase; and

(C) The majority of the policies or certificates to which the increase is applicable are eligible for the contingent benefit upon lapse.

(b) In the event significant adverse lapse has occurred, is anticipated in the filing or is evidenced in the actual results as presented in the updated projections provided by the insurer following the requested rate increase, the director may determine that a rate spiral exists. Following the determination that a rate spiral exists:

(A) The director may require the insurer to offer, without underwriting, to all in force insureds subjected to the rate increase the option to replace existing coverage with one or more reasonably comparable products being offered by the insurer or its affiliates.

(B) An offer under paragraph (A) of this subsection shall:

(i) Be subject to the approval of the director;

(ii) Be based on actuarially sound principles, but not be based on attained age;

(iii) Provide that maximum benefits under any new policy accepted by an insured shall be reduced by comparable benefits already paid under the existing policy; and

(iv) Shall credit any unearned premium to the new coverage.

(C) The insurer shall maintain the experience of all the replacement insureds separate from the experience of insureds originally issued the policy forms. In the event of a request for a rate increase on the policy form, the rate increase shall be limited to the lesser of:

(i) The maximum rate increase determined based on the combined experience; and

(ii) The maximum rate increase determined based only on the experience of the insureds originally issued the form plus ten percent.

(10) If the director determines that the insurer has exhibited a persistent practice of filing inadequate initial premium rates for long-term care insurance, the director may, in addition to the provisions of section (9) of this rule, prohibit the insurer from doing either of the following:

(a) Filing and marketing comparable coverage for a period of up to five years; or

(b) Offering all other similar coverages and limiting marketing of new applications to the products subject to recent premium rate schedule increases.

(11) Sections (1) to (10) of this rule do not apply to policies for which long-term care benefits provided by the policy are incidental if the policy complies with all of the provisions of this section. For the purpose of this section, "incidental" means that the value of the long-term care benefits provided is less than ten percent of the total value of the benefits provided over the life of the policy. These values shall be measured as of the date of issue. The provisions are as follows:

(a) The interest credited internally to determine cash value accumulations, including long-term care, if any, must be guaranteed not to be less than the minimum guaranteed interest rate for cash value accumulations without long-term care set forth in the policy.

(b) The portion of the policy that provides insurance benefits other than long-term care coverage must meet the nonforfeiture requirements for those benefits.

(c) The policy must meet the disclosure requirements under OAR 836-052-0706 for long-term care insurance policies.

(d) The portion of the policy that provides insurance benefits other than long term care coverage must meet the requirements as applicable for life and annuity policies.

(e) An actuarial memorandum that includes the following items must be filed with the director:

(A) A description of the basis on which the long term care rates were determined.

(B) A description of the basis for the reserves.

(C) A summary of the type of policy, benefits, renewability, general marketing method and limits on ages of issuance.

(D) A description and a table of each actuarial assumption used. For expenses, an insurer must include percent of premium dollars per policy and dollars per unit of benefits, if any.

(E) A description and a table of the anticipated policy reserves and additional reserves to be held in each future year for active lives.

(F) The estimated average annual premium per policy and the average issue age.

(G) A statement as to whether underwriting is performed at the time of application. The statement must indicate whether underwriting is used and, if used, the statement must include a description of the type or types of underwriting used, such as medical underwriting or functional assessment underwriting. Concerning a group policy, the statement shall indicate whether the enrollee or any dependent will be underwritten and when underwriting occurs.

(H) A description of the effect of the long term care policy provision on the required premiums, nonforfeiture values and reserves on the underlying insurance policy, both for active lives and those in long term care claim status.

(12) Sections (6) and (8) of this rule do not apply to group insurance policies as defined in ORS 743.652(3)(a) when:

(a) The policies insure 250 or more persons and the policyholder has 5,000 or more eligible employees of a single employer; or

(b) The policyholder and not the certificate holders pays a material portion of the premium, which shall not be less than 20 percent of the total premium for the group in the calendar year prior to the year a rate increase is filed.

This section applies to a decrease or increase that:

Plans Offered to Oregon Small Employers

(1) A small employer carrier shall issue a plan to a small employer if the employee eligibility criteria established by the small employer meet the requirements of this section. Except when coverage is obtained through the Oregon Health Insurance Exchange Corporation, a carrier must use the form entitled "Oregon Standardized Group Profile Form" set forth on the website of the Insurance Division of the Department of Consumer and Business Services to collect data to determine the applicable type of group coverage for an employer and to provide disclosure notices as required for small employers. The eligibility criteria must be based solely on weekly work hours and completion of a group eligibility waiting period, if applicable, and those criteria must meet the following standards:

(a) The work hours requirement may range from 17.5 to 40 hours per week, but a single, uniform requirement must apply to all employees of the employer; and

(b) A waiting period requirement may not exceed 90 days and a single, uniform requirement must apply to all employees of the employer.

(2) For purposes of determining whether an employer is a small employer a carrier may not count as an employee:

(a) A sole proprietor;

(b) A partner of a partnership;

(c) The owner of more than two percent of the shares of:

(A) An S corporation; or

(B) Limited liability company;

(d) The owner of a corporation wholly owned by the individual or the individual and the individual's spouse; or

(e) The spouse of a person described in subsections (a) to (d) of this section.

(3) Employee eligibility criteria must be limited to those described in section (1) of this rule. Impermissible criteria include:

(a) Health status;

(b) Disability; and

(c) A requirement that an employee be actively at work when coverage would otherwise begin.

(4) A small employer carrier may provide different health benefit plans to different categories of employees of an employer, as determined by the employer only if based on bona fide employment-based classifications that are consistent with the employer's usual business practice. The categories may not relate to the actual or expected health status of the employees or their dependents

Marketing of a Health Benefit Plan to Small Employers

(1) A carrier may offer different small employer health benefit plans in different geographic areas. The bronze and silver plan required to be offered under ORS 743.822 and a point-of-service plan required under ORS 743.808 must be offered in every geographic area in which the carrier offers or renews its small employer health benefit plans. A carrier may not cease offering or renewing, or offering and renewing, the bronze or silver small group health benefit plan required to be offered under ORS 743.822 or a point-of -service plan required under ORS 743.808 in a geographic area unless the carrier discontinues all plans in the geographic area as provided in 743.737(3)(e).

(2) A carrier must offer all of its approved nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans and plan options, including small employer health benefit plans offered through an association, to all small employers on a guaranteed issue basis without regard to health status, claims experience or industry except that a carrier may limit enrollment to the period from November 15 to December 15 of each calendar year for small employers that fail to meet the carrier's reasonable participation or contribution requirements. A carrier may not serve only a portion of the small employer market, such as employers with more than 25 employees, and a carrier may not establish or maintain a closed plan or plan option or a closed book of business in the small employer market. For purposes of this section, a "closed" arrangement is one in which coverage is maintained and renewed for currently enrolled small employers, but the coverage is not offered or issued to other small employers.

(3) A carrier may not require a small employer to purchase or maintain other lines of coverage, such as group life insurance, in order to purchase or maintain a small employer health benefit plan. However, a small group carrier may require reasonable assurance of pediatric dental coverage consistent with Essential Health Benefits, Final Rule, 78 Fed. Reg. 12853 (February 25, 2013).

(4) A carrier must market fairly all of its small employer health benefit plans and plan options and shall not engage in any practice that:

(a) Restricts a small employer's choice of such plans and plan options; or

(b) Has the effect or is intended to influence a small employer's choice of such plans and plan options for reasons of risk selection.

(5) A carrier shall not provide to any insurance producer any financial or other incentive that conflicts with the requirements of section (4) of this rule.

(6) A carrier must use the same sales compensation methodology for all small employer health benefit plans offered by the carrier.

(7) A small employer carrier may not terminate, fail to renew, or limit its contract or agreement of representation with an insurance producer for any reason related to the following: the health status, claims experience, occupation, geographic location of small employer groups, or the type of small employer plans placed by the insurance producer with the carrier.

Trade Practices Relating to Small Employer Health Benefit Plans

(1) When offering plans to small employers, a carrier must briefly describe the variety of small employer plans and plan options that are available from the carrier and must specify that:

(a) Nongrandfathered plans and plan options are available without regard to health status, claims experience or industry and are offered on a guaranteed issue basis; and

(b) Grandfathered plans and plan options are available under limited circumstances to a small employer that has existing grandfathered coverage.

(2) Subject to requirements established by the Oregon Health Insurance Exchange Corporation pursuant to 45 CFR 155.720(b) for small employer health benefit plans offered through the Oregon Health Insurance Exchange Corporation, a small employer health benefit plan must be issued with an effective date no later than 31 days after the carrier actually receives the application, and if required by the carrier, the premium.

(3) Neither a carrier nor an insurance producer may encourage or direct a small employer to seek coverage from another carrier because of the small employer's health status, claims experience, industry occupation or geographic location, if within the carrier's service area.

(4) Neither a carrier nor an insurance producer may induce or otherwise encourage a small employer to separate or otherwise exclude an eligible employee from employment or from health coverage or benefits provided in connection with the employee's employment.

(5) A small employer health benefit plan may specify that an enrolled small employer may replace its current coverage with another small employer plan offered by the carrier only on the anniversary date of the current coverage. This limitation also applies to a small employer that discontinues coverage with a carrier, or forfeits coverage because of non-payment of premiums and then requests new coverage with the same carrier.

(6) A small employer carrier that also issues individual health benefit plans may not include with an invoice for small employer coverage, individual health benefit plan premiums for employees of the employer or otherwise bill a small employer for such premiums.

Rating for Nongrandfathered Small Group Plans

The following provisions relating to rating apply to nongrandfathered health benefit plans offered to small employers:

(1) A small employer carrier shall file a single geographic average rate for each nongrandfathered health benefit plan that is offered to small employers within a geographic area and for each category of family composition. The geographic rate must be determined on a pooled basis and the pool shall only include all of the carrier's nongrandfathered business in the small employer market.

(2) There shall be one rating class for each small employer carrier. All nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans of the carrier shall be rated in that class. A rating of a health benefit plan is subject to adjustments reflecting age, tobacco use and differences in family composition.

(3) The variation in geographic average rates among different nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans offered by a carrier must be based solely on objective differences in plan design or coverage. The variation shall not include differences based on the risk characteristics or claims experience of the actual or expected enrollees in a particular plan.

(4) A small employer carrier shall file its geographic average rates for nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans in accordance with the rate filing requirements of OAR 836-053-0910.

(5) A small employer carrier shall assess administrative expenses in a uniform manner to all nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans. Administrative expenses shall be expressed as a percentage of premium and the percentage may not vary with the size of the small employer.

(6) Nongrandfathered small group plans shall be rated within the following geographic areas comprising counties as follows:

(a) Area 1 shall include: Clackamas, Multnomah, Washington and Yamhill.

(b) Area 2 shall include: Benton, Lane and Linn.

(c) Area 3 shall include: Marion and Polk.

(d) Area 4 shall include: Deschutes, Klamath and Lake.

(e) Area 5 shall include: Clatsop, Columbia, Coos, Curry, Lincoln and Tillamook.

(f) Area 6 shall include: Baker, Crook, Gilliam, Grant, Harney, Hood River, Jefferson, Malheur, Morrow, Sherman, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wasco and Wheeler.

(g) Area 7 shall include: Douglas, Jackson and Josephine.

(7) For nongrandgathered small group plans, a small employer carrier may use the same geographic average rate for multiple rating areas.

(8) Premium rates for nongrandfathered small employer health benefit plans:

(a) For each group, shall total the sum of the product of the base rate and the applicable factors in section (9) of this rule for each employee and dependent 21 years of age and older and the sum of the product of the base rate and the applicable factors in section (9) of this rule for each of the three oldest dependent children under the age of 21 within each family in the group.

(b) Shall be allocated to an employee by dividing the total premium described in subsection (a) of this section by the sum of the products of the number of employees and the applicable tier factors specified in paragraphs (A) through (D) of this subsection, and multiplying the quotient by the applicable tier factor for the employee as specified in paragraphs (A) through (D) of this subsection. The tier factors are:

(A) 1.00 for an employee only;

(B) 1.85 for an employee and one or more children age 25 or younger;

(C) 2.00 for an employee and spouse; and

(D) 2.85 for an employee and family.

(9) The variations in rates described in this rule may be based on one or more of the following factors as determined by the carrier:

(a) The ages of enrolled employees and their dependents according to Exhibit 1 to this rule. Variations in rates based on age may not exceed a ratio of three to one.

(b) A tobacco use factor of no more than 1.5 times the non-tobacco use rate for persons 18 years or older except that the factor may not be applied when the person is enrolled in a tobacco cessation program.

Rating for Grandfathered Small Group Plans

The following provisions relating to rating apply to grandfathered health benefit plans offered to small employers:

(1) A small employer carrier shall file a single geographic average rate for each grandfathered health benefit plan that is offered to small employers within a geographic area and for each category of family composition. The geographic average rate must be determined on a pooled basis and the pool shall include all of the carrier's grandfathered business in the small employer market.

(2) There shall be one rating class for each small employer carrier. All grandfathered small employer health benefit plans of the carrier shall be rated in that class. A rating of a grandfathered health benefit plan is subject to adjustments reflecting the level of benefits provided and differences in family composition and age.

(3) The variation in geographic average rates among different grandfathered small employer health benefit plans offered by a carrier must be based solely on objective differences in plan design or coverage. The variation shall not include differences based on the risk characteristics or claims experience of the actual or expected enrollees in a particular plan, except that a carrier may make further adjustment at renewal to reflect the expected claims experience of the covered small employer; however, this adjustment may not exceed five percent of the annual premium otherwise payable by the small employer, is not cumulative year to year, and may be based only on the carrier's claims experience with the small employer. A variation based on the level of contribution by the small employer or on the level of participation by eligible employees, or on both, must be actuarially sound.

(4) A small employer carrier shall file its geographic average rates for grandfathered small employer health benefit plans in accordance with the rate filing requirements of OAR 836-053-0910.

(5) A small employer carrier shall assess administrative expenses in a uniform manner to all grandfathered small employer health benefit plans. Administrative expenses shall be expressed as a percentage of premium and the percentage may not vary with the size of the small employer.

(6) Grandfathered small employer plans shall be rated within the following geographic areas comprising counties as follows:

(a) Area 1 shall include: Clackamas, Multnomah, Washington and Yamhill.

(b) Area 2 shall include: Benton, Lane and Linn.

(c) Area 3 shall include: Marion and Polk.

(d) Area 4 shall include: Deschutes, Klamath and Lake.

(e) Area 5 shall include: Clatsop, Columbia, Coos, Curry, Lincoln and Tillamook.

(f) Area 6 shall include: Baker, Crook, Gilliam, Grant, Harney, Hood River, Jefferson, Malheur, Morrow, Sherman, Umatilla, Union, Wallowa, Wasco and Wheeler.

(g) Area 7 shall include: Douglas, Jackson and Josephine.

(7) For grandfathered small employer plans, a small employer carrier may use five digit zip code groupings to define the carrier's geographic areas. The zip code groupings may vary from the county areas defined in section (6) of this rule by no more than ten percent of the population of a county. The small employer carrier must use either the zip code system or the county system and shall not modify the geographic areas in any other manner.

(8) For grandfathered small employer plans, a small employer carrier may use the same geographic average rate for multiple rating areas.

(9) For grandfathered small employer plans, a small employer carrier may deviate from the variation described in section (1) of this rule for coverage that extends to a geographic area outside the state of Oregon. The carrier must do so in a reasonable fashion and maintain records regarding the basis for the rate charged in the small employer's file.

(10) The premium rates charged during a rating period for a grandfathered health benefit plan issued to a small employer may not vary from the geographic average rate by more than 50 percent

(11) The variations in premium rates described in section (10) of this rule may be based on one or more of the following factors as determined by the carrier:

(a) The ages of enrolled employees and their dependents;

(b) The level at which the small employer contributes to the premiums payable for enrolled employees and their dependents;

(c) The level at which eligible employees participate in the health benefit plan;

(d) The level at which enrolled employees and their dependents engage in tobacco use;

(e) The level at which enrolled employees and their dependents engage in health promotion, disease prevention or wellness programs;

(f) The period of time during which a small employer retains uninterrupted coverage in force with the same small employer carrier; and

(g) Adjustments to reflect the level of benefits provided and differences in family composition.

(12) The premium rate determined in accordance with this rule may be further adjusted to reflect expected claims experience of a small employer but may not exceed five percent of the annual premium rate. The adjustment is not cumulative year to year.

Multiple Employer Welfare Arrangements

For purposes of determining whether a multiple employer welfare arrangement is exempt from the requirements of the Insurance Code that apply to a small employer carrier, the director must consider the following factors:

(1) Whether all of the benefits that are provided under the arrangement are guaranteed by policies of insurance issued by an authorized insurer.

(2) Whether the arrangement consists of an employee welfare benefit plan for employees of two or more employers or their beneficiaries as defined in ERISA sections 3 (5) and (40).

(3) Whether the arrangement is essentially controlled by an insurer, benefit service organization or individual for the purpose of creating a market for furnishing benefits to diverse individuals or groups rather than a bona fide multiple employer welfare arrangement.

The effective date of coverage for the loss of minimum essential must be consistent with the requirements of 45 CFR 155.420(b)(1).

(b) Gains a dependent or becomes a dependent through marriage, birth, adoption or placement for adoption or foster care. The effective date for coverage for enrollment under this paragraph must be:

(B) In the case of birth, on the date of birth.

(C), In the case of adoption or placement for adoption or foster care no later than the date of adoption or placement for adoption or foster care.

(c) Experiences a qualifying event as defined under section 603 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended.

The effective date of coverage for enrollment under this paragraph must be consistent with the requirements of 45 CFR 155.420(b)(1).

(3) Notwithstanding section (1)(a)(A) of this rule, a carrier must enroll an individual who is enrolled in an individual health benefit plan with a policy year that terminates after March 31, 2014 if the individual applies for coverage within 30 calendar days before the end of the individual's individual health benefit plan policy year. This subsection does not require a carrier to enroll an individual enrolled in an individual health benefit plan with a policy year that ends after December 31, 2014 if enrollment is not otherwise required under section (1) or (2) of this rule. The effective date of coverage for enrollment under this subsection must be effective consistent with the requirements of 45 CFR 155.420(b)(1).

(4) Except as permitted under a preexisting condition provision of a grandfathered individual plan, a carrier may not modify the benefit provisions of an individual health benefit plan for any enrollee by means of a rider, endorsement or otherwise for the purpose of restricting or excluding coverage for medical services or conditions that are otherwise covered by the plan.

(5) A carrier may offer wrap-around occupational coverage to an accepted individual health benefit plan applicant.

(6) A carrier may impose an individual coverage waiting period on the coverage of certain new enrollees in a grandfathered individual health benefit plan in accordance with ORS 743.766. The terms of the waiting period must be specified in the policy form and enrollee summary. The waiting period may apply only when the carrier has determined that the enrollee has a preexisting health condition warranting the application of a waiting period through evaluation of the form entitled "Oregon Individual Standard Health Statement" as set forth on the website of the Insurance Division of the Department of Consumer and Business Services at www.insurance.oregon.gov.

(7) A carrier may treat a request by an enrollee in an individual health benefit plan to enroll in another individual plan as a new application for coverage.

(8) Unless otherwise required by law, a carrier must implement a modification of a nongrandfathered individual health benefit plan required by statute on the next anniversary or fixed renewal date of the plan that occurs on or after the operative date of the statutory provision requiring the modification.

(9) For a grandfathered individual health benefit plan:

(a) Unless otherwise required by law, a carrier must implement a modification required by statute on the first day of the calendar year that occurs on or after the operative date of the statutory provision requiring the modification.

(b) A carrier must eliminate and deem ineffective a rider or endorsement in effect for an enrollee based on the actual or expected health status of the enrollee and that excludes coverage for diseases or medical conditions otherwise covered by the plan as of the next renewal date;

(c) If an enrollee who is subject to a preexisting condition provision has a rider or endorsement eliminated in accordance with subsection (a) of this section, the enrollee's medical condition that is subject to the rider or endorsement may be subject to the preexisting conditions provision of the plan, including the prior coverage credit provisions;

(10) In accordance with applicable federal law, a carrier may not deny continuation or renewal of an individual health benefit plan based on Medicare eligibility of an individual but an individual health benefit plan may contain a Medicare non-duplication provision.

Rating for Individual Health Benefit Plans

(1) Individual health benefit plans must be rated in accordance with the geographic areas specified in OAR 836-053-0065. A carrier must file a single geographic average rate for each health benefit plan that is offered to individuals within a geographic area. The geographic average rate must be determined on a pooled basis, and the pool shall include all of the carrier's business in the Oregon individual market.

(2) The variation in geographic average rates among different individual health benefit plans offered by a carrier must be based solely on objective differences in plan design or coverage. The variation shall not include differences based on the risk characteristics or claims experience of the actual or expected enrollees in a particular plan.

(3) A carrier may use the same geographic average rate for multiple rating areas.

(4) For a nongrandfathered health benefit plan:

(a) A carrier must implement premium rate increases on a fixed schedule that applies concurrently to all enrollees in a plan. A carrier may adjust an enrollee's premium during the rating period if the enrollee has a change in family composition.

(b) Premium rates must total the sum of the product of the applicable factors in subsection (c) of this section for each enrollee and dependent 21 years of age and older and the sum of the product of the applicable factors in section (7) of this rule for each of the three oldest dependent children under the age of 21.

(c) As determined by a carrier, variations in rates may be based on one or both of the following factors:

(A) The ages of enrollees and their dependents according to Exhibit 1 to this rule. Variations in rates based on age may not exceed a ratio of three to one; or

(B) A tobacco use factor of no more than one and one-half times the non-tobacco use rate for persons 18 years of age or older except that the factor may not be applied when the person is enrolled in a tobacco cessation program.

(5) For a grandfathered health benefit plan, a carrier must:

(a) Implement premium rate increases in a consistent manner for all enrollees in a plan. A carrier may use either of the following methods to schedule premium rate increases for all enrollees in a grandfathered health benefit plan:

(A) A rolling schedule that is based on the anniversary of the date of coverage issued to each enrollee or on another anniversary date established by the carrier; or

(B) A fixed schedule that applies concurrently to all enrollees in a plan. If a fixed schedule is used, a carrier may adjust the premium of an enrollee during the rating period if the enrollee moves into a higher age bracket or has a change in family composition.

(6) In addition to other bases offered by a carrier, an enrollee of an individual health benefit plan must be offered the opportunity to pay premium on a monthly basis.

The procedure must describe how the insurer determines the content of the mandatory closed formulary. (5) An insurer must furnish a copy of the procedures it has adopted under section (2), (3), or (4) of this rule to a provider with authority to prescribe drugs and medications, upon the request of the provider.

(6) Except as provided in section (7) of this rule, a formulary must comply with the requirements of 45 CFR 156.122 and include the greater of:

An insurer:

(a) Must furnish the information regarding an individual health insurance policy to each policyholder; and

(b) Must furnish the information regarding a group health insurance policy to the group policyholder for distribution to enrollees of the group policy.

(2)(a) The written information described in section (1) of this rule must be included either in the policy or in other evidence of coverage that is delivered to the individual policyholder by the insurer, or in the case of a group health insurance policy, that is delivered by the insurer to the group policyholder for distribution to enrollees.

(b) Any limitation on referrals if a plan has a defined network of participating providers and if referrals for specialty care may be limited to a portion of the network, such as to those specialists who contract with an enrollee's primary care group.

(4) The information required by ORS 743.804 must include the information required by ORS 743A.012, relating to coverage of emergency medical conditions and obtaining emergency services, including a statement of the prudent layperson standard for an emergency medical condition, as that term is defined in 743A.012. An insurer may meet the requirement of providing information in 743A.012 by providing adequate disclosure in the information required by 743.804(1) and this rule. An insurer may use the following statement regarding the use of the emergency telephone number 9-1-1, or other wording that appropriately discloses its use:

(6) The information required by ORS 743.804(1)(b) and (4) must include a notice that states the right of an enrollee to file a complaint with or seek assistance from the Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services. An insurer may use the following statement or other appropriate wording for this purpose:

"You have the right to file a complaint or seek other assistance from the Oregon Insurance Division. Assistance is available:
By calling (503) 947-7984 or the toll free message line at (888) 877-4894;

The notice to enrollees must include the name and telephone number of the administrative section of the insurer that handles enrollee requests for information.

(9) If a plan has a defined network of participating providers, the information required by ORS 743.804 must include a list of all participating primary care providers, direct access providers and all specialty care providers. For the purposes of this section, a primary care provider or direct access provider is a participating provider under the terms of the plan who an enrollee may designate as the primary care provider for the enrollee or from whom an enrollee may obtain services without referral. The list of providers must include for each provider the provider's name, professional designation, category of practice and the city in which the practice of the provider is located.

(10) If a plan includes risk-sharing arrangements with physicians or other providers, the information required by ORS 743.804 must contain a statement to that effect, including a brief description of risk-sharing in general and must notify enrollees that additional information is available upon request. For the purpose of this requirement, a risk-sharing arrangement does not include a fee-for-service arrangement or a discounted fee-for-service arrangement. An insurer may use the following statement or other appropriate wording to describe risk-sharing:

"This plan includes "risk-sharing" arrangements with physicians who provide services to the members of this plan. Under a risk-sharing arrangement, the providers that are responsible for delivering health care services are subject to some financial risk or reward for the services they deliver. An example of a risk-sharing arrangement is a contract between an insurer and a group of heart surgeons in which the surgeons agree to provide all of the heart operations needed by plan members and the insurer agrees to pay a fixed monthly amount for those services."

(11) If the insurer of a plan uses a mandatory closed formulary, the information required by ORS 743.804 for that plan must prominently disclose and explain the formulary provision. The disclosure and explanation must be in boldfaced type or otherwise emphasized.

(12) An insurer that issues a health benefit plan must include a notice with the information required by ORS 743.804 that discloses that additional information is available to enrollees upon request]. Performance Criteria

The following are performance criteria that an independent review organization must satisfy when demonstrating its eligibility for contracting with the Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services to perform independent review responsibilities under ORS 743.862, and in order to continue performing those responsibilities under the contract with the director. For purposes of this rule, an independent review organization must:

(1) Demonstrate its capability of and expertise in reviewing health care, and a history of such review, in terms of the coverage issues that are subject to independent review pursuant to ORS 743.857, in terms of the application of other health plan coverage provisions and in terms of health insurance contract law.

(2) Demonstrate the ability to handle a full range of review cases occurring in this state. An independent review organization may contract with a more specialized review organization, but the independent review organization must ensure that each review conducted meets all the requirements of ORS 743.857, 743.858 and 743.862 and OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365.

(3) Comply with all conflict of interest provisions in OAR 836-053-1320.

(4) Maintain and assign an adequate number and range of qualified medical reviewers in compliance with OAR 836-053-1310 and 836-053-1315 in order to:

(a) Make determinations regarding the full range of independent review cases occurring in this state under ORS 743.857; and

(b) Meet timelines specified in ORS 743.862 and OAR 836-053-1340, including timelines for expedited review.

Conflict of Interest

(1) An independent review organization:

(a) Must not be a subsidiary of, or in any way owned or controlled by, an insurer or an association of insurers or of doctors, providers or other health care professionals;

(b) Must provide information to the Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services on its own organizational affiliations and potential conflicts of interest at the time of its response to the director's request for proposals and thereafter when material changes occur;

(c) Must immediately turn down a case referred by the director if accepting it would constitute an organizational conflict of interest; and

(d) Must ensure that medical reviewers are free from any actual or potential conflict of interest in assigned cases.

(2) In connection with a case, neither an independent review organization nor any of its medical reviewers may have any material professional, familial or financial affiliation with the health insurer, enrollee, enrollee's provider, that provider's medical or practice group, the facility at which the service would be provided or the developer or manufacturer of a drug or device under review. For the purpose of this section, an affiliation with any director, officer or executive of an independent review organization shall be considered to be an affiliation with the independent review organization.

(3) Except as provided in section (4) of this rule, the following do not constitute violations of this rule:

(a) Staff affiliation with an academic medical center or National Cancer Institute-designated clinical cancer research center;

(b) Staff privileges at a health facility; or

(c) An independent review organization's receipt of an insurer's payment for independent reviews assigned by the director.

(4) A potential medical reviewer shall be considered to have a conflict of interest in connection with a case with regard to a facility or health plan, regardless of revenue from that source, if the potential reviewer is a member of a standing committee of the facility or the health plan, or a provider or other health care professional network that contracts with the health plan.

(5) A conflict of interest may be waived only if both the enrollee and the health plan agree in writing after receiving full disclosure of the conflict, and only if:

(a) The conflict involves a medical reviewer, and no alternate reviewer with necessary special expertise is available; or

(b) The conflict involves an independent review organization and the director determines that seeking a waiver of conflict is preferable to reassigning the dispute to a different independent review organization.

Procedures for Conducting External Reviews

(1) An independent review organization is subject to the following decision-making standards and procedures:

(a) The independent review process is intended to be neutral and independent of influence by any affected party or by state government. The Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services may conduct investigations as authorized by law but has no involvement in the disposition of specific cases.

(b) Independent review is a document review process. An enrollee, a health plan or an attending provider may not participate in or attend an independent review in person or obtain reconsideration of a decision by an independent review organization.

(c) An independent review organization shall present cases to medical reviewers in a way that maximizes the likelihood of a clear, unambiguous decision. This may involve stating or restating the questions for review in a clear and precise manner that encourages yes or no answers.

(d) An independent review organization may uphold an adverse determination if the patient or any provider refuses or fails to provide in a timely manner relevant medical records that are available and have been requested pursuant to ORS 743.862. . Pursuant to ORS 743.857, an independent review organization may overturn an adverse determination if the insurer refuses or fails to provide in a timely manner relevant medical records that are available and have been requested.

(e) An independent review organization must maintain written policies and procedures covering all aspects of review.

(2) Once the director refers a dispute, the independent review organization must proceed to a final decision in accordance with the procedural requirements of ORS 743.857 and 743.862 and OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365 unless requested otherwise by both the insurer and the enrollee.

(3) An independent review organization must decide whether or not the dispute pertains to an adverse benefit determination as described in ORS 743.857(1). If the dispute is covered, it is eligible for external review. An independent review organization must also decide whether the dispute concerns a covered benefit in the health benefit plan. If the dispute concerns a non-covered benefit, the dispute does not qualify for external review.

(4) An independent review organization is subject to the following standards with respect to information to be considered for reviews:

(a) An independent review organization must request as necessary and must accept and consider the following information as relevant to a case referred:

(A) Medical records and other materials that the insurer is required to submit to the independent review organization under ORS 743.857(3), including information identified in that section that is initially missing or incomplete as submitted by the insurer.

(B) For cases in which the insurer's decision addressed whether a course or plan of treatment was medically necessary:

(i) A copy of the definition of medical necessity from the relevant health insurance policy;

(ii) An explanation of how the insurer's decision conformed to the definition of medical necessity; and

(iii) An explanation of how the insurer's decision conformed to the requirement that the definition of medical necessity be uniformly applied.

(C) For cases in which the insurer's decision addressed whether a course or plan of treatment was experimental or investigational:

(i) A copy of the definition of experimental or investigational from the relevant health insurance policy;

(ii) An explanation of how the insurer's decision conformed to that definition of experimental or investigational; and

(iii) An explanation of how the insurer's decision conformed to the requirement that the definition of experimental or investigational be uniformly applied.

(D) Other medical, scientific and cost-effectiveness evidence, as described in section (5) of this rule, that is relevant to the case.

(b) After referral of a case, an independent review organization must accept additional information from the enrollee, the insurer or a provider acting on behalf of the enrollee at the enrollee's request if the information is submitted within five business days of the independent review organization after the enrollee's receipt of notification of the appointment of the independent review organization or, in the case of an expedited referral, within 24 hours. The additional information must be related to the case and relevant to statutory criteria contained in ORS 743.857.

(c) An independent review organization must ensure the confidentiality of medical records and other personal health information received for use in reviews, in accordance with applicable federal and state laws.

(5) If a course or plan of treatment is determined to be subject to independent review, a determination of whether the adverse decision of an insurer should be upheld or not must be based upon expert clinical judgment, after consideration of relevant medical, scientific and cost-effectiveness evidence and medical standards of practice in the United States. As used in this section:

(a) "Medical, scientific, and cost-effectiveness evidence" means published evidence on results of clinical practice of any health profession that complies with one or more of the following requirements:

(A) Peer-reviewed scientific studies published in or accepted for publication by medical journals that meet nationally recognized requirements for scientific manuscripts and that submit most of their published articles for review by experts who are not part of the editorial staff;

(B) Peer-reviewed literature, biomedical compendia, and other medical literature that meet the criteria of the National Institute of Health's National Library of Medicine for indexing in Index Medicus, Excerpta Medica, Embase, Medline, Medical Literature Analysis and Retrieval System or Health Services Technology Assessment Texts;

(C) Medical journals recognized by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, under Section 1861(t)(2) of the Social Security Act;

(D) The American Hospital Formulary Service-Drug Information, the American Medical Association Drug Evaluation, the American Dental Association Accepted Dental Therapeutics, and the United States Pharmacopoeia-Drug Information;

(E) Findings, studies or research conducted by or under the auspices of a federal government agency or a nationally recognized federal research institute, including the Federal Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, National Institutes of Health, National Cancer Institute, National Academy of Sciences, Center for Medicaid and Medicare Services, Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, and any national board recognized by the National Institutes of Health for the purpose of evaluating the medical value of health services;

(F) Clinical practice guidelines that meet Institute of Medicine criteria; or

(G) In conjunction with other evidence, peer-reviewed abstracts accepted for presentation at major scientific or clinical meetings.

(b) Medical standards of practice include the standards appropriately applied to physicians or other providers or health care professionals, as pertinent to the case.

(6) The following standards govern the assignment by an independent review organization of appropriate medical reviewers to a case:

(a) A medical reviewer assigned to a case must comply with the conflict of interest provisions in OAR 836-053-1320.

(b) An independent review organization shall assign one or more medical reviewers to each case as necessary to meet the requirements of this subsection. The medical reviewer assigned to a case, or the medical reviewers assigned to a case together, must meet each of the following requirements:

(A) Have expertise to address each of the issues that are the source of the dispute.

(B) Be a clinical peer. For purposes of this paragraph, a clinical peer is a physician or other medical reviewer who is in the same or similar specialty that typically manages the medical condition, procedures or treatment under review. In a profession that has organized, board-certified specialties, a clinical peer generally will be in the same formal specialty.

(C) Have the ability to evaluate alternatives to the proposed treatment.

(c) Each independent review organization must have a policy specifying the methodology for determining the number and qualifications of medical reviewers to be assigned to each case. The number of reviewers shall be governed by the following requirements:

(B) The independent review organization may consider, but shall not be bound by, recommendations regarding complexity from the insurer or attending provider.

(C) The independent review organization shall consider situations such as review of experimental and investigational treatments that may benefit from an expanded panel.

(7) An independent review organization shall notify the enrollee and the insurer of its decision on the enrollee's case and provide documentation and reasons for the , decision including the clinical basis for the decision unless the decision is wholly based on application of coverage provisions.

(a) Documentation of the basis for the decision shall include references to supporting evidence, and if applicable, the reasons for any interpretation regarding the application of health benefit plan coverage provisions, but shall not recommend a course of treatment or otherwise engage in the practice of medicine.

(b) If the decision overrides the health benefit plan's standards governing the coverage issues that are subject to independent review, the reasons shall document why the health benefit plan's standards are unreasonable or inconsistent with sound, evidence-based medical practice.

(c) The written report shall include the qualifications of each medical reviewer but shall not disclose the identity of the reviewer.

(d) Notification of the decision shall be provided initially by phone, e-mail or fax, followed by a written report by mail. In the case of expedited reviews, the initial notification shall be immediate and by phone, followed by a written report.

(8) An independent review organization's decision shall be final unless, within seven business days of an enrollee's receipt of the written report of the independent review organization's decision, the enrollee submits information to the director that the independent review organization failed to materially comply with the procedural requirements of ORS 743.858 or 743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365. If the enrollee is satisfied with the independent review organization's decision, the enrollee may notify the independent review organization and insurer by electronic mail, fax or telephone, followed by a written notice, stating that the enrollee waives the seven business days before the independent review organization decision is final.

(9) The director shall review the information submitted by the enrollee and, within seven business days, make a written determination whether:

(a) The director is reasonably satisfied that the independent review organization failed to materially comply with the procedural requirements of ORS 743.858 or 743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365; and

(b) The independent review organization's failure to materially comply with the procedural requirements of ORS 743.858 or743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365 materially affected the independent review organization's decision.

(10) The director shall send a written notification of the determination to the enrollee and the independent review organization. The independent review organization's decision will be final if the director is reasonably satisfied that the independent review organization complied with the procedural requirements in ORS 743.858 or743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365.

(11) If an independent review organization failed to materially comply with the procedural requirements in ORS 743.858 or 743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365, the independent review organization shall correct the failure to materially comply by conducting a new external review, at the independent review organization's cost, and issuing a new decision within ten business days.

(a) Within 24 hours of receipt of the written notification from the director described in section (10) of this rule, the independent review organization shall:

(A) Notify the enrollee and the insurer via electronic mail, fax or telephone that the independent review organization will be conducting a new external review, and

(B) Request from the enrollee or the insurer via electronic mail or fax any information not already provided to the independent review organization that is necessary to correct the material failure to comply with the procedural requirements of ORS 743.858, or743.862 or OAR 836-053-1330 to 836-053-1365.

(12) The enrollee or insurer must provide to the independent review organization any requested information in section (11) of this rule within 48 hours after receipt of the request.

(13) Notification of the independent review organization's new decision shall be provided to the enrollee and insurer initially via electronic mail, fax or telephone, followed by a written report by mail.

(14) For the purposes of sections (8) to (13) of this rule, "procedural requirements" does not include requirements related to the exercising of medical judgment or decision making by the independent review organization.

(15) The independent review organization's decision based on the new external review shall be final as of the date of the decision.

(16) Except as provided in this section, an independent review organization shall not disclose the identity of a medical reviewer unless otherwise required by state or federal law. The director shall not require reviewers' identities as part of the contracting process but may examine identified information about reviewers as part of enforcement activities. The identity of the medical director of an independent review organization shall be disclosed upon request of any person.

(17) An independent review organization shall promptly report to the director any attempt by any party, including a state agency, to interfere with the carrying out of the independent review organization's duties under ORS 743.858 or 743.862 or OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365.

(18) An independent review organization must maintain business hours, methods of contact (including telephone contact), procedures for after-hours requests and other relevant procedures to ensure timely availability to conduct expedited as well as regular reviews.

(C) Whether a course or plan of treatment that an enrollee is undergoing is an active course of treatment for purposes of continuity of care under ORS 743.854; and

(b) The decision by the independent review organization is made in accordance with the coverage described in the health benefit plan, including limitations and exclusions expressed in the plan, except that the independent review organization may override the insurer's standards for medically necessary or experimental or investigational treatment, if the independent review organization determines that:

(A) The standards of the insurer are unreasonable or are inconsistent with sound medical practice; or

(B) For cases in which the insurer's decision addressed whether a course or plan of treatment was medically necessary:

(i) The insurer's decision did not conform to the insurer's definition of medically necessary in the relevant health insurance policy, or

(ii) The insurer's decision did not conform to the requirement that the definition of medical necessity be uniformly applied; or

(C) For cases in which the insurer's decision addressed whether a course or plan of treatment was experimental or investigational:

(i) The insurer's decision did not conform to the insurer's definition of experimental or investigational in the relevant health insurance policy, or

(ii) The insurer's decision did not conform to the requirement that the definition of experimental or investigational be uniformly applied.

(3) No provision of OAR 836-053-1300 to 836-053-1365 establishes a standard of medical care or creates or eliminates any cause of action.

Timelines and Notice for Dispute That is Not Expedited

(1) An insurer shall give the Director of the Department of Consumer and Business Services notice of an enrollee's request for independent review by delivering a copy of the request to the director not later than the second business day of the insurer after the insurer receives the request for the independent review. In the event the enrollee applies to the director rather than to the insurer for independent review, the director shall provide the insurer notice of the enrollee's request for independent review by delivering a copy of the request to the insurer not later than the next business day of the department after the director receives the request for independent review.

(2) If an insurer reverses its final adverse determination before expiration of the deadline for sending the notice to the director under section (1) of this rule, the insurer must notify the enrollee not later than the next business day of the insurer after the insurer's reversal. The notice to the enrollee may be given by electronic mail, facsimile or by telephone, followed by a written confirmation within two business days of the insurer.

(3) Not later than the next business day of the department after the director has received a request for independent review from an insurer or an enrollee, the director shall assign the review to one of the independent review organizations with whom the director has contracted. The director shall notify the insurer in writing of the name and address of the independent review organization to which the request for the independent review should be sent. If sending written notice will unduly delay notification, the director shall give the notice by electronic mail, facsimile or by telephone, followed by a written confirmation within two business days of the department.

(4) The director shall notify the enrollee of the assignment of the request, not later than the second business day of the department after the director gave notice under section (3) of this rule. The notice must include a written description of the independent review organization selected to conduct the independent review and information explaining how the enrollee may provide the director with documentation regarding any potential conflict of interest of the independent review organization as described in OAR 836-053-1320.

(5) Not later than the third calendar day following receipt of notice from the director under section (4) of this rule, or the subsequent business day of the department if any of the days is not a normal business day of the department, the enrollee may provide the director with documentation in writing regarding a potential conflict of interest of the independent review organization. If sending written documentation will unduly delay the process, the enrollee shall give the notice by electronic mail, facsimileor by telephone, followed by a written confirmation within two business days of the department. If the director determines that the independent review organization presents a conflict of interest as described in OAR 836-053-1320, the director shall assign another independent review organization not later than the next business day of the department. The director shall notify the insurer of the new independent review organization to which the request for the independent review should be sent. The director shall also notify the enrollee of the director's determination regarding the potential conflict of interest and the name and address of the new independent review organization.

(6) Not later than the fifth business day of the insurer after the date on which the insurer received notice from the director under section (3) of this rule, the insurer shall deliver to the assigned independent review organization the following documents and information considered in making the insurer's final adverse decision, including the following:

(a) Information submitted to the insurer by a provider or the enrollee in support of the request for coverage under the health benefit plan's procedures.

(b) Information used by the health benefit plan during the internal appeal process to determine whether the course or plan of treatment is:

(A) Medically necessary;

(B) Experimental or investigational; or

(C) An active course of treatment for purposes of continuity of care.

(c) A copy of all denial letters issued by the plan concerning the case under review.

(d) A copy of the signed waiver form, or a waiver, authorization or consent that is otherwise permitted under the federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act or other state or federal law, authorizing the insurer to disclose protected health information, including medical records, concerning the enrollee that is pertinent to the independent review.

(e) An index of all submitted documents.

(7) Not later than the second business day of the independent review organization after receiving the material specified in section (6) of this rule, the independent review organization shall deliver to the enrollee the index of all materials that the insurer has submitted to the independent review organization. Upon request of the enrollee, the independent review organization shall provide to the enrollee all relevant information supplied to the independent review organization that is not confidential or privileged under state or federal law concerning the case under review.

(8) After receipt of the notice from the director under section (4) of this rule, the enrollee, the insurer or a provider acting on behalf of the enrollee or at the enrollee's request may submit additional information to the independent review organization. In accordance with OAR 836-053-1325(4)(b) the independent review organization must consider this additional information if the information is related to the case and relevant to the statutory criteria for external review contained in ORS 743.857. The independent review organization is not required to consider this information if the information is submitted after the fifth business day of the independent review organization following the enrollee's receipt of notice from the director under section (4) of this rule. Upon receiving information under this section the independent review organization must:

(a) Forward any information provided by the insurer to the enrollee within one business day after the independent review organization receives the information; and

(b) Forward any information provided by the enrollee or a provider acting on behalf of the enrollee or at the enrollee's request to the insurer within one business day after the independent review organization receives the information.

(9) The independent review organization shall notify the enrollee, the provider of the enrollee and the insurer of any additional medical information required to conduct the review after receipt of the documentation under section (7) of this rule. Not later than the fifth business day after such a request, the enrollee or the provider of the enrollee shall submit to the independent review organization the additional information or an explanation of why the additional information is not being submitted. If the enrollee or the provider of the enrollee fails to provide the additional information or the explanation of why additional information is not being submitted within the timeline specified in this subsection, the assigned independent review organization shall make a decision based on the information submitted by the insurer as required by section (6) of this rule. Except as provided in this section, failure by the insurer to provide the documents and information within the time specified in section (6) of this rule shall not delay the external review.

(10) An independent review organization must provide notice to enrollees and the insurer of the result and basis for the decision as provided in OAR 836-053-1325 not later than the fifth day after the independent review organization makes a decision in a nonexpedited case.

836-082-0055
Continuance of Group Health Insurance Coverage in Situations Involving Replacement

(1) This rule:

(a) Establishes the liable insurer when one insurer's group health policy or contract providing coverage for hospital or medical services or expenses replaces a policy or contract of similar benefits of another insurer;

(b) Establishes which policy or contract provides coverage for a policyholder when an insurer replaces a group health insurance policy or contract with a policy or contract of similar benefits.

(2) An insurer of a prior policy or contract is liable as follows:

(a) If the insurer of the prior policy or contract is not the insurer of the succeeding policy, the insurer of the prior policy or contract remains liable as provided in ORS 743.529 with respect to an individual who is hospitalized on the date of termination of a prior policy or contract only to the extent of its accrued liabilities and extensions of benefits;

(b) If the insurer of the prior policy or contract and the succeeding policy or contract is the same, the insurer remains liable under the prior policy or contract only to the extent of its accrued liabilities and extensions of benefits.

(3) Except as ORS 743.529 otherwise applies to an individual who is hospitalized on the date of termination of the prior policy, if an individual was validly covered under the prior plan on the date of discontinuance and is a member of the class or classes of individuals eligible for coverage under the succeeding plan, the individual is eligible for coverage under the succeeding plan without regard to actively-at-work or nonconfinement provisions. Any reference under this section to an individual who was or was not totally disabled is a reference to the individual's status immediately prior to the date the succeeding plan's coverage becomes effective. The following provisions govern such coverage:

(a) The minimum level of benefits to be provided by a succeeding plan is the applicable level of benefits of the succeeding plan reduced by any benefits payable by the prior plan;

(b) Such coverage must be provided under the succeeding plan until the date on which the individual's coverage would terminate in accordance with the succeeding plan provisions applicable to individual termination of coverage, such as termination of employment or eligibility as a dependent.

(4) Section (3) of this rule does not apply with respect to an individual who is excluded under the succeeding policy because the individual is otherwise covered under another policy with similar benefits.

(5) In applying deductibles or waiting periods, the insurer of a succeeding plan must give credit for the satisfaction or partial satisfaction of the same or similar provisions under a prior plan providing similar benefits, whether the prior plan is its own or was issued by another insurer. In the case of deductible provisions, the credit must apply for the same or overlapping benefit periods and must be given for expenses actually incurred and applied against the deductible provisions of the prior plan during the calendar year in which the succeeding plan becomes effective. However, the credit applies or must be given only to the extent the expenses are recognized under the terms of the succeeding plan and are subject to a similar deductible provision.

(6) In any situation in which a determination of the prior insurer's benefit is required, it is the responsibility of the claimant to furnish evidence of the terms of the prior plan and of claim payments by the prior insurer.

(1) If a risk sharing plan exists under ORS Chapter 735 for the kind of coverage cancelled or nonrenewed, notice of cancellation or nonrenewal required under OAR 836-085-0010(2) is not effective unless the notice contains adequate instructions to the policyholder and the insurance producer, if any, for applying for insurance through a risk sharing plan under ORS Chapter 735.

(2) Adequate instructions under section (1) of this rule must direct the policyholder to the agent of the notifying insurer for assistance or, if no agent exists, must provide that the insurer will directly assist in submission of the application.

(3) Block Cancellations or Nonrenewals of entire lines of insurance or withdrawal of classes of business are presumed to be unfairly discriminatory and constitute an unfair trade practice under ORS 746.240, unless prior authorization is received.

(4) Termination of an appointed insurance producer, or an attempt to terminate an appointed insurance producer solely to achieve block cancellation or nonrenewal of entire lines of insurance or other such instant reunderwriting of an insurance producer book of business is presumed to constitute an unfair trade practice under ORS 746.240 and an unfair trade practice detrimental to free competition under 746.160.

(5) Any nonrenewal must be for justifiable cause.

The major changes are to adopt the forms and requirements for an annual enterprise report for holding companies and the pre-acquisition notification required to be filed by a domestic insurer that is proposing a merger or acquisition or by a non-domiciliary insurer licensed to do business in this state. The rules are based on the National Conference of Insurance Commissioners' Model Regulation #450, Insurance Holding Company System Model Regulation with Reporting Forms and Instructions. The proposed rules include the two new forms as exhibits.

These rules were originally filed on December 26, 2013, but were refiled on January 8, 2014 due to a filing error.

Rule Caption: Non-Cash Incentives for Inmates in Department of Corrections Institutions
Adm. Order No.: DOC 2-2014
Filed with Sec. of State: 1-14-2014
Certified to be Effective: 1-14-14
Notice Publication Date: 9-1-2013
Rules Amended: 291-077-0035
Subject: The department has developed non-cash incentives to encourage pro-social behavior among inmates and to motivate inmates toward positive institutional behavior and program compliance. These modifications update the privileges and services available to inmates to decrease the effectiveness of the use of the incentives in managing inmate behavior. Note: This is being refiled to correct a filing error.
Rules Coordinator: Janet R. Worley—(503) 945-0933

291-077-0035
Non-Monetary Incentives (Non-Cash Incentives)

The purpose of non-cash incentives is to enhance cost effective inmate management by providing tiered access to services and privileges at department facilities. Non-cash incentives encourage pro-social behavior among inmates consistent with good correctional practices and the mission of the department. Functional unit managers may limit an inmate's access to services and privileges available within the incentive level attained by the inmate, as necessary, to ensure the safe and secure operation of the facility and within resources available to and physical plant limitations of the facility.

(1) General:

(a) Functional unit managers will develop a list of services and privileges specific to their facility as part of the DOC non-cash incentives program (institution incentive level matrix).

(b) Specific services and privileges available to inmates may differ between facilities depending on size and configuration of space and availability of resources.

(c) Some incentive services and privileges will be offered consistently throughout the department at each facility, when possible, as outlined in Appendix C.

(d) There will be three incentive levels (Level I, Level II, and Level III) available to inmates.

(e) Incentive Level I is a restricted level statewide. Restrictions imposed may differ between facilities due to the size and configuration of each facility. Level I inmates are identified with an orange identification card.

(f) Incentive Level II offers more services and privileges than Level I. Level II inmates are identified with the standard identification card (red fading into white).

(g) Incentive Level III is the highest attainable incentive level. Level III inmates are identified with a silver, holographic tamper resistant "NCI 3" sticker placed on their identification.

(h) Incentive levels will be calculated electronically at the end of each business day and made available to staff the following business day.

(2) Inmate Eligibility:

(a) All general population inmates will be eligible to earn services and privileges identified as non-cash incentives. Inmates who are not in general population will be ineligible to participate in the non-cash incentive program within the context of this rule. A non-cash incentive program may be developed and implemented in select special housing assignments as recommended by the functional unit manager and approved by the Assistant Director for Operations or designee.

(b) All department facilities will share a single set of inmate eligibility criteria.

(c) The incentive levels and corresponding eligibility are shown in Appendix B. Functional unit managers may develop additional criteria to manage services and privileges specific to the institution within the framework of Appendix B (e.g., waiting lists).

(d) New or returning commitments to the department will be placed at incentive Level II if they have not had a major misconduct in the last 180 incarcerated days or program fail in the last 90 incarcerated days.

(e) If an inmate has segregation time to complete from a prior incarceration period with the department. Upon readmission, once segregation time is completed, the inmate will be placed at the proper incentive level as outlined in Appendix B.

(f) The time period necessary to attain eligibility to promote to a higher incentive level will not start until an inmate is released from special housing and after all disciplinary sanctions (segregation and loss of privileges) are satisfied.

(g) The time an inmate spends in the infirmary or mental health infirmary, for non-disciplinary reasons and while not serving any disciplinary sanctions, will not negatively impact their incentive level. Time spent in these units will count toward eligibility to promote to the next incentive level so long as these criteria are met.

(h) Inmates may earn promotion to higher incentive levels by compliance with prescribed programming and good institutional behavior.

(i) Alternatively, an inmate's incentive level may be lowered as a consequence of noncompliance with prescribed programming or engaging in prohibited conduct.

(j) The functional unit manager or designee may adjust an inmate's incentive level by two levels, up or down, as necessary to promote good institutional conduct and program compliance.

(k) An inmate's incentive level will be lowered no more than one level as a result of a disciplinary sanction and program failure arising out of a single act of prohibited conduct except when the inmate receives a sanction of more than 21 days in segregation. When the sanction is greater than 21 days in segregation, the inmate will be placed at the lowest incentive level available at the facility. An inmate whose incentive level has been reduced one level as a result of a disciplinary sanction will be considered as meeting all the eligibility criteria of the reduced incentive level.

(l) An inmate's incentive level will be adjusted once the inmate is found in violation of a major misconduct or a program failure is upheld.

(m) The functional unit manager or designee may waive the non-cash incentive system for a specific event(s) to allow all general population inmates to participate.

(3) Transfers:

(a) Inmates will retain the incentive level they have earned and any time accrued towards promotion to the next incentive level upon transfer to another facility.

(b) Inmates transferred to another facility will retain incentive property and commissary spending limit privileges earned prior to the transfer. Access to institution-specific services and privileges available at the receiving facility may be subject to waiting periods established by the functional unit manager or designee.

(4) Property:

(a) Inmates will retain property purchased (e.g.., television, CD player, CDs) prior to the adoption of this rule subject to limitations on use established by the functional unit manager or designee.

(b) Property items offered as part of the non-cash incentive program (incentive property) will be offered department wide unless the property is part of a limited duration pilot project approved by the Assistant Director of Operations or designee.

(c) Once purchased, incentive property will be handled in accordance with the rule on Personal Property (Inmate) (OAR 291-117).

(d) When access to property is restricted by a disciplinary sanction (loss of privileges or assignment to special housing), incentive property will be stored at the direction of the functional unit manager/designee.

(e) Inmates will not be required to send incentive property home as a result of disciplinary infractions.

(f) The use of specific property, including but not limited to personal electronics, may be restricted until the proper incentive level is achieved. Select incentive property and the manner in which the property is restricted will be at the functional unit manger's/designee's discretion and may differ by institution. The property may be stored or disabled until the proper incentive level is achieved.

(g) Certain property sold prior to implementation of this rule will not transfer to the receiving facility; e.g., 13-inch television (box or CRT).

(5) The functional unit manager or designee will create a matrix of non-cash incentives detailing services and privileges available to inmates at each incentive level within the facility. The matrix will be updated and made available to inmates at least annually. Any restrictions or additional eligibility criteria for institution-specific services and privileges (e.g., waiting lists) will be included in the matrix.

(6) Miscellaneous:

(a) Any inmate, regardless of incentive level, may be placed on the Security Threat Management caseload.

(b) The use of some or all of an inmate's incentive property and non-mandated services and privileges may be authorized or restricted by the functional unit manager or designee regardless of the inmate's incentive level.

Subject: These permanent rule amendments for the Biomass Producer or Collector Tax Credit program implement changes providing additional details about the application contents and clarify the eligibility of biomass feedstocks and activities. The rule adds clarity and transparency for applicants and assists the Oregon Department of Energy in administering the certification process. ORS 315.141(5)(b) directs the department to collect a fee not to exceed the cost of administering the program. The rule increases the application fee. (f) An application fee of $100 plus 2.5 percent of the total amount of tax credit.

(g) If eligible biomass is stored or aggregated with other biomass or materials after the initial production or collection activities and prior to delivery to a biofuel producer, the biomass producer or collector must provide detailed records certifying the amount and source of each type of biomass.

(h) Agricultural producers or biomass collectors that produce or collect animal manure must use the department approved worksheet or the following formula to calculate the amount of eligible manure:

(A) A x b x c / 2000; where:

(i) A is equal to the number of 1,000 pound animal units contributing manure during the period,

(ii) B is equal to the average animal manure production value from the Natural Resources Conservation Service Agricultural Waste Management Field Handbook Revision 2, March 2008, and

(iii) C is equal to the number of days in the period.

(B) The following documentation must be included with the application:

(i) The log of animal numbers and calculation of 1,000 pound animal units: [Number of animals contributing manure, by classification, (conduct a separate calculation for milkers, dry cows, heifers, calves)] multiplied by [the average lbs./1,000] = number of 1,000 pound animal units;

(B) Receipts or equivalent documentation indicating the biomass was used or is to be used as biofuel in Oregon, or to produce biofuel.

(j) If the applicant is transferring biomass that cannot be weighed or calculated, the applicant must supply documentation indicating the amount of biomass as measured by metering equipment or a similar device.

(A) Applicants must provide documentation, including manufacturer's specifications that indicate the measurements are accurate and reliable.

(B) Metering equipment or similar devices must be calibrated according to the manufacturer's specifications and the calibration records must be maintained for a period of no less than five years.

(3) The department may require the applicant to provide further information to complete a review of the application and verify compliance with statute and these rules. This information may include, but is not limited to, demonstration that the biomass is used as biofuel in an eligible manner. The department will notify the applicant in writing requesting additional information. If the department does not receive the requested information within 30 calendar days of the date of the notice, the department may deny the application.

(4) If a biomass collector requests a tax credit in place of the agricultural producer that produced the biomass, the application must include a signed statement from the agricultural producer that they are aware the biomass collector will be applying for the credit and that the agricultural producer will not apply for a tax credit for the same unit of biomass.

(5) Applications must be received within 60 days following the end of the applicant's tax year during which the biomass is delivered to a biofuel producer. Applications received after this date will be returned and any application fee will be fully refunded.

(6) The department may refund up to 75 percent of the application fee if the application is withdrawn prior to review by the department. Only refunds that are $100 or greater will be issued.

(7) The department may require the applicant to pay reasonable costs, not to exceed actual costs, incurred in connection with reviewing the application that exceed the original application fee and which the Director determines are incurred solely in connection with processing the application. The department shall advise the applicant of any additional costs the applicant must pay before the department incurs the costs.

Certification and Denial

(1) If the department approves an application, the Director will issue a Certificate to the applicant identifying the name of the Certificate holder, the biomass, and the amount of the tax credit certified.

(a) The amount of tax credit certified will be determined by multiplying the amount of eligible biomass delivered to a biofuel producer by the applicable tax credit rate found in ORS 469B.403.

(b) Except for oil seed crops, tax credit certificates will be issued for the tax year the biomass is delivered to a biofuel producer for use in Oregon. Tax credit certificates for the production of oil seed crops used to produce biofuel will be issued for the tax year in which the oil seeds are delivered to an oil seed processor. The department will not certify tax credits for agricultural producers that produce oil seeds until documentation indicating the oil has been used in Oregon to produce biofuel is provided in accordance with these rules.

(2) The department may adjust the amount of tax credit certified from the applied amount if miscalculations, inconsistencies or errors are found during the technical review.

(3) If multiple types of eligible biomass are included in a load that is appropriately documented under these rules, the department will apply the lowest credit rate associated with the biomass in determining the amount of certified credit for the entire load of eligible biomass.

(4) The department may review the biomass origination, production or collection activities, or the operating activities of the biofuel producer. The information gathered during a review may be used to determine if the application complies with applicable statutory provisions and rules.

(5) If the department does not approve an application, the Director will provide written notice of denial, including a statement of the findings and reasons for the denial, by mail. The department may deny the application if:

(a) The application does not comply with applicable statutory provisions and rules;

(b) The applicant does not provide information requested by the department within 30 days from date of request;

(c) The application is for biomass that is not eligible for the tax credit, or the department cannot determine the amount of eligible biomass that is co-mingled or combined with biomass that is not eligible; or

(d) The department is unable to determine whether the application complies with applicable statutory provisions and rules based on the information provided by the applicant or gathered during the review process.

(6) The applicant may request reconsideration in writing no later than 60 days after the Director issues a decision denying an application.

Determination of Compliance

(1) Products for which the Oregon minimum energy efficiency standards are identical to or lower than standards adopted in California, and that have been approved by the California Energy Commission, will automatically be certified as compliant for sale and installation in Oregon.

(2) Products for which Oregon minimum energy efficiency standards are not identical to standards adopted in California, or that have not been approved by the California Energy Commission, must be approved by the Oregon Department of Energy and will be designated in the M-SCS database as "Needing Attestation" until they are approved.

(3) Products which do not comply with the appliance efficiency standards set forth in ORS 469.233 will be designated in the M-SCS database as "Non-Compliant."

(4) A manufacturer may request the Department to change the status of a product in the M-SCS database from "Needing Attestation" or "Non-Compliant" to "Compliant" if it believes the product is incorrectly listed. The Department may require the manufacturer to submit or resubmit certification pursuant to OAR 330-092-0035 and any other documentation demonstrating that the product meets the applicable minimum energy efficiency standard.

(5) The Department may require the manufacturer to provide test results or other documentation verifying that a product meets Oregon's minimum energy efficiency standards for that category of equipment.

(3) The Department may waive marking, labeling or tagging requirements for products marked, labeled or tagged in compliance with federal requirements.

(4) The Department may grant a waiver from these labeling requirements on a case-by-case basis for a category of equipment if it determines:

(a) Oregon's labeling requirements would be different and more burdensome than requirements in other states with similar standards.

(b) Current labeling materially complies with the intent of Oregon's labeling requirements.

Alternative Financing

(1) Alternative financing arrangements to allow leveraging of federal, state, utility and other incentives, including but not limited to, lease-purchase agreements, power purchase agreements or energy savings performance contracts qualify under this program if the contracting agency documents that the costs of the green energy system meets or exceeds 1.5 percent of the total contract price.

(2) The minimum term of the agreement between the owner of the green energy system and the contracting agency must be at least ten years, unless ownership of the green energy system reverts to the contracting agency before that time.

(3) The agreement between the owner of the green energy system and the contracting agency must be exclusive to the green energy system required under the provisions of ORS 279C.527 through 279C.528 and Oregon Laws 2013, chapter 612. It may not include terms relating to operation and maintenance or capital equipment purchase of any other equipment or services. Determination Whether Green Energy Technology is Appropriate

(1) The contracting agency must determine whether constructing green energy technology at the site of the public building is appropriate. In making its determination, the contracting agency may consider factors including but not limited to:

(a) Whether there is opportunity to use photovoltaic or geothermal electric, solar thermal, passive solar heating systems or the direct use of geothermal energy in building systems

(b) Whether green energy technology can be installed in a manner that meets the minimum performance requirements of OAR 330-135-0030;

(c) Whether the building is listed or eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places and the green energy technology installation would be disruptive to the historic character of the building;

(d) Whether the installation of green energy technology would create security risks for staff or inhabitants of the building.

(2)(a) The contracting agency must also determine whether constructing green energy technology away from the site is appropriate if the contracting agency:

(A) Determines that constructing green energy technology at the public building site is not appropriate; or

(B) Prefers to construct the green energy technology away from the public building site instead of at the public building site.

(b) In making its determination, the contracting agency must consider whether green energy technology installed away from the public building site meets the factors listed in subsection (1) of this section and the requirements of ORS 279C.527(2)(b) and (c).

(3) If a contracting agency intends to install green energy technology away from the site, the contracting agency must request from the department, in accordance with OAR 330-135-0052, a technical review of its determination that an away-from-the-site installation is appropriate.

(4) The contracting agency must report its determination to the department in accordance with the reporting requirements in OAR 330-135-0055.

The rule also clarifies pass-through requirements, updates rule language to disallow multiple incentives from the department, defines a single system and repeals and deletes sections of rule no longer applicable. For solar photovoltaic projects, the rule requires a retail-pricing breakout for material and labor/installation, adds a requirement for the department to verify the project's inverters and modules are listed on the California Electric Commission's list and adds an allowance for a third-party reservation to be transferred in limited situations. Lastly, the rule includes housekeeping amendments to correct terminology, simplifies language and updates statutory references.

Amount of Tax Credit

(1) The amount of the AED tax credit is based on the first-year energy yield of an eligible AED. The department has determined first-year energy yield estimates for eligible AEDs and associated tax credit amounts, which are listed in the RETC Rate Chart. The energy yield basis for a solar tax credit may be adjusted by the department to account for less than optimal solar access.

(2) The amount of the AED tax credit must not exceed the lesser of:

(a) $1,500 or the first-year energy yield of the AED in kWh multiplied by 60 cents for AEDs used for space heating, cooling, electrical energy or domestic water heating for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1998. The amount of the credit may not exceed 100 percent of the cost of the system components and their installation. Only one tax credit for ground source heat pump systems will be issued per year per residence.

(b) For an alternative energy device used for swimming pool, spa or hot tub heating, 50 percent of the cost of the device or the first year's energy yield in kilowatt hours per year multiplied by 15 cents, up to maximum credit amounts set in subsections (a) through (c) of this section.

(c) For each alternative fuel device, 25 percent of the eligible cost of the alternative fuel device or $750.

(d) For fuel cell systems placed in service on or after January 1, 2007, $3.00 per watt of the installed capacity or $6,000, and not to exceed 50 percent of the cost of the system. One tax credit may be issued per year, per residence, and the maximum credit claimed per year will not exceed $1,500.

(e) For photovoltaic systems installed on or after November 4, 2005, one $6,000 tax credit not to exceed 50 percent of the cost of the system as defined in OAR 330-070-0022(4). One tax credit may be issued per year, per residence, and the maximum credit claimed per year will not exceed $1,500, over a four year period.

(f) For wind AEDs installed on or after January 1, 2007, the first-year energy yield of the AED in kWh multiplied by $2.00, not to exceed the lesser of $6,000 or 50 percent of the cost of the system. One tax credit may be issued per year, per residence, and the maximum credit claimed per year will not exceed $1,500, over a four year period.

(g) For premium efficiency biomass combustion devices, the average heating need times the stove efficiency improvement times 60 cents, up to $1,500. The department will use the EPA default efficiency as of January 1, 2014 when calculating the stove efficiency improvement for:

(A) Wood or pellet stoves without full efficiency testing listed on the EPA list of EPA Certified Wood Stoves,

(B) Wood or pellet stoves without full efficiency testing with the testing data submitted and approved by EPA, or

(C) Pellet stoves on the List of EPA Exempt Wood Heating Appliances that submitted testing certificates to the department.

(3) For photovoltaic systems:

(a) Installed on or after November 4, 2005 and prior to January 1, 2011, the credit allowed under this section is equal to $3 per watt of the installed capacity measured in watts of direct current at industry standard test conditions.

(b) Installed on or after January 1, 2011 and before January 1, 2012, the credit allowed under this section is equal to $3 per watt of the installed output. This is equal to $2.10 per watt of the installed capacity measured in watts of direct current at industry standard test conditions.

(c) On or after January 1, 2012 and before January 1, 2014, the credit allowed under this section is equal to $2.10 per watt of the installed capacity measured in watts of direct current at industry standard test conditions; the tax credit is claimed according to OAR 330-070-0024.

(d) On or after January 1, 2014, the credit allowed under this section is equal to $1.90 per watt of the installed capacity measured in watts of direct current at industry standard test conditions; the tax credit is claimed according to OAR 330-070-0024.

(B) The department may find an AED to be too large for a dwelling. In such case the system cost must be prorated. System cost must be based on the largest useful size of an AED for the dwelling. The department will determine largest useful size based on the energy needs of the building; and

(C) The amount of credit for the original system and any addition may not exceed $1,500 per year. (6) For purposes of the tax credit, the eligible system cost of the AED is only those costs necessary for the system to yield energy savings and does not include:

(a) Unpaid labor (including the applicant's labor);

(b) Operating and maintenance costs;

(c) Land costs;

(d) Legal and court costs;

(e) Patent search fees;

(f) Fees for use permits or variances;

(g) Loan interest;

Third-Party Alternative Energy Device Installations

(1) A third-party who intends to complete a third-party alternative energy device installation must obtain a reservation before commencing installation.

(2) The third-party must apply to reserve potential tax credits by submitting a completed reservation request to the department. A reservation request may only be submitted after the owner of the residential property has entered into a contract for a third-party alternative energy device installation. The reservation request must contain the information required by the department on its form, but may be submitted in an alternative format.

(3) The department may require the third-party to provide a copy of the signed contract at any time after the submission of a reservation request. Failure to provide requested documents within 30 calendar days may result in the loss of reservations made by the third-party.

(4) A third-party may request the reservation of up to 25 potential tax credits in each reservation request, and may submit one request each week.

(5) The department will reserve the requested potential tax credits from the amount allowed by Oregon Laws 2011, chapter 730, section 75 and will provide the third-party with a reference number for each potential tax credit. The owner of the residential property at which the alternative energy device is installed must include the reference number on their tax credit application.

(6) A third-party may release a reservation by submitting a written request, including the reference number, to the department. If reservations are released in the same tax year they are reserved the department will reallocate the potential tax credits to new reservation requests in the order the requests are received. Reservations of potential tax credits may not be transferred, except to a purchaser or owner of the residential site address where the AED is located.

(7) The department will continually monitor the rate of allocation of tax credits to ensure that the total amount of tax credits do not exceed the amounts specified in Oregon Laws 2011, chapter 730, section 75. The department will allocate potential tax credits according to these rules and in the order in which requests are received. The department will return any excess reservation requests. A third-party may not commence installation until a reservation reference number is issued by the department.

(8) The department will issue tax credits based on the year the potential tax credit is reserved if the installation is completed, as verified by an approved final inspection issued by the local jurisdiction, before April 1 of the following tax year. Tax credits for installations completed after April 1 of the tax year following reservation will be issued for the tax year in which the installation is completed.

(9) Reservation of potential tax credits does not guarantee approval of tax credit applications.

Department of Environmental Quality
Chapter 340

Rule Caption: Portland Area Transportation Control Measure
Adm. Order No.: DEQ 12-2013
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-19-2013
Certified to be Effective: 12-19-13
Notice Publication Date: 8-1-2013
Rules Amended: 340-200-0040
Subject: The Environmental Quality Commission approved an amendment to the Portland Area Carbon Monoxide Maintenance Plan that DEQ will submit to the Environmental Protection Agency.

The plan update substitutes a new transportation control measure for increasing regional transit service to replace the original transit service control measure. Both the new and the old measures require transit service in the Portland area to be expanded one percent per year. The new measure assesses the average transit service increase over the cumulative life of the ten-year Portland area's plan to improve air quality, instead of a five-year rolling average. By operation of law under 42 USC § 7506(c)(8), the substitute transportation control measure becomes part of the Oregon State Implementation Plan and will be federally enforceable. U.S. EPA will not conduct a separate public notice process.

Rules Coordinator: Maggie Vandehey—(503) 229-6878

State of Oregon Clean Air Act Implementation Plan

(1) This implementation plan, consisting of Volumes 2 and 3 of the State of Oregon Air Quality Control Program, contains control strategies, rules and standards prepared by DEQ and is adopted as the state implementation plan (SIP) of the State of Oregon pursuant to the federal Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C.A 7401 to 7671q.

(2) Except as provided in section (3), revisions to the SIP will be made pursuant to the Commission's rulemaking procedures in division 11 of this chapter and any other requirements contained in the SIP and will be submitted to the United States Environmental Protection Agency for approval. The State Implementation Plan was last modified by the Commission on December 11, 2013.

(3) Notwithstanding any other requirement contained in the SIP, DEQ may:

(a) Submit to the Environmental Protection Agency any permit condition implementing a rule that is part of the federally-approved SIP as a source-specific SIP revision after DEQ has complied with the public hearings provisions of 40 CFR 51.102 (July 1, 2002); and

(b) Approve the standards submitted by a regional authority if the regional authority adopts verbatim any standard that the Commission has adopted, and submit the standards to EPA for approval as a SIP revision.

NOTE: Revisions to the State of Oregon Clean Air Act Implementation Plan become federally enforceable upon approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency. If any provision of the federally approved Implementation Plan conflicts with any provision adopted by the Commission, DEQ shall enforce the more stringent provision.

Rule Caption: Oregon Low Emission Vehicles — 2013 Update
Adm. Order No.: DEQ 13-2013
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-19-2013
Certified to be Effective: 12-19-13
Notice Publication Date: 10-1-2013
Rules Amended: 340-257-0010, 340-257-0020, 340-257-0030, 340-257-0050, 340-257-0070, 340-257-0080, 340-257-0090, 340-257-0100, 340-257-0110, 340-257-0120
Subject: The Environmental Quality Commission amended Low and Zero Emission Vehicle Program rules to match revisions adopted by California in 2012. Oregon has opted-in to California's emission standards. Under the federal Clean Air Act, states that choose to apply emission limits that are more stringent than federal standards for new vehicles must adopt California's vehicle emission standards.

There are two major portions of the updated rules: Low Emission Vehicles III and Zero Emission Vehicles 2.0. The LEV III rules are largely the same as the federal Greenhouse Gas and Tier 3 motor vehicle emission rules. This alignment between state and federal regulations is the result of a negotiated agreement among automakers, state and federal regulators to harmonize requirements. Both the California LEV III and federal regulations would cut fleet-average greenhouse gas emissions of new vehicles between 2017 and 2025 to half of 2008 levels. Both sets of rules would also cut smog-forming compounds by approximately 70 percent. These measures would continue to apply primarily to auto manufacturers who must deliver compliant vehicles for sale in Oregon. Auto dealers would continue to be prohibited from importing noncompliant vehicles for use in the state.

Adopting the LEV III rules would keep Oregon's rules identical to California's rules. If the federal government weakens or repeals the federal Greenhouse Gas rules in the future, Oregon's LEV III rules ensure these requirements would continue to apply to new vehicles sold in Oregon.

These rules also update Oregon's existing Zero Emission Vehicle Program by incorporating California's 2012 amendments known as the ZEV 2.0 regulations. The ZEV 2.0 rule amendments increase the percentage of new cars and trucks that are pollution-free vehicles, such as all-electric vehicles and plug-in hybrids. The amendments also provide greater flexibility for manufacturers to choose among compliance options.

Fleet Average Non-Methane Organic Gas (NMOG) Exhaust Emission Requirements, Reporting, and Compliance.

(1) Fleet average requirement.

(a) Effective model year 2009 through 2014, except as provided in this subsection, each motor vehicle manufacturer's NMOG fleet average emissions from passenger cars, light-duty trucks and medium-duty vehicles delivered for sale in Oregon must not exceed the fleet average NMOG Exhaust Emission Requirement set forth in CCR, Title 13, section 1961(b). For the 2014 model year only, a manufacturer may comply with the fleet average NMOG + NOx values in subsection (b) of this section in lieu of complying with the NMOG fleet average emissions in this subsection. A manufacturer must either comply with the NMOG + NOx fleet average requirements for both its PC/LDT1 fleet and its LDT2/MDPV fleet or comply with the NMOG fleet average requirements for both its PC/LDT1 fleet and its LDT2/MDPV fleet. A manufacturer must calculate its fleet average NMOG + NOx values using the applicable full useful life standards. Compliance will be based on the number of vehicles subject to this regulation, delivered for sale in Oregon.

(b) Effective model year 2015, each motor vehicle manufacturer's NMOG + NOx fleet average emissions from passenger cars, light duty trucks and medium duty vehicles delivered for sale to Oregon must not exceed the Fleet Average NMOG + NOx Exhaust Emission Requirement set forth in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.2. Compliance will be based on the number of vehicles subject to this regulation, delivered for sale in Oregon.

(2) Fleet average NMOG and NMOG plus NOx exhaust emission credits and debits.

(a) Effective model year 2009 through 2014, except as provided in this subsection each vehicle manufacturer may accrue NMOG emission credits and debits and use credits in accordance with the procedures in California Code of Regulations, Title 13, section 1961(b). For the 2014 model year only, a manufacturer may comply with the fleet average NMOG + NOx values in subsection (b) of this section in lieu of complying with the NMOG fleet average emissions in this subsection. A manufacturer must either comply with the NMOG + NOx fleet average requirements for both its PC/LDT1 fleet and its LDT2/MDPV fleet or comply with the NMOG fleet average requirements for both its PC/LDT1 fleet and its LDT2/MDPV fleet. A manufacturer must calculate its fleet average NMOG + NOx values using the applicable full useful life standards. . Debits and credits accrued and used will be based on the number of vehicles subject to this division, produced and delivered for sale by each manufacturer in Oregon.

(b) Effective model year 2015, each vehicle manufacturer may accrue NMOG + NOx emission credits and debits and use credits in accordance with the procedures in California Code of Regulations, Title 13, section 1961.2. Debits and credits accrued and used will be based on the number of vehicles subject to this division, produced and delivered for sale by each manufacturer in Oregon.

(3) Reporting.

(a) Effective model year 2009 through model year 2014 except as provided in this subsection, each manufacturer must report to DEQ by March 1 data that calculates the fleet average NMOG exhaust emissions for the model year just ended. The report must follow the procedures in CCR, Title 13, section 1961, and be in the same format used to report such information to the California Air Resources Board. Manufacturers that elect to comply with the NMOG + NOx fleet average emission limit for 2014 must report as provided in subsection (b) of this section.

(b) Effective model year 2015 and each model year thereafter, each manufacturer must report to DEQ by March 1 data that calculates the fleet average NMOG + NOx exhaust emissions for the model year just ended. The report must follow the procedures in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.2 and be in the same format used to report such information to the California Air Resources Board.

(4) Compliance with fleet average NMOG requirement. Effective model year 2012 through 2014, if a report submitted by the manufacturer under subsection (3)(a) of this rule demonstrates that the manufacturer is not in compliance with the fleet average emission standard, the manufacturer must submit to DEQ within 60 days a Fleet Average Remediation Report. The Fleet Average Remediation Report must:

(a) Describe how the manufacturer intends to equalize any accrued debits, as required in CCR, Title 13, section 1961(c)(3);

(b) Identify all vehicle models delivered for sale in Oregon, their corresponding certification standards, and the percentage of each model delivered for sale in Oregon and California in relation to total fleet sales in the respective state; and

(c) Describe how the manufacturer plans to achieve compliance with the fleet average in future model years.

(5) Compliance with fleet average NMOG plus NOx requirement. Effective model year 2015, if a report submitted by the manufacturer under subsection (3)(b) of this rule demonstrates that the manufacturer is not in compliance with the fleet average emission standard, the manufacturer must submit to DEQ within 60 days a Fleet Average Remediation Report. The Fleet Average Remediation Report must:

(a) Describe how the manufacturer intends to equalize any accrued debits, as required in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.2(c)(3);

(b) Identify all vehicle models delivered for sale in Oregon, their corresponding certification standards, and the percentage of each model delivered for sale in Oregon and California in relation to total fleet sales in the respective state; and

(c) Describe how the manufacturer plans to achieve compliance with the fleet average in future model years.

(6) For model years 2009 through 2011, manufacturers must submit the Fleet Average Remediation Report, if needed, to DEQ by March 1, 2012. If debits are accrued in all three years, one year of debits must be equalized by the end of the 2012 model year.

ZEV Credit Bank and Reporting

(1) Beginning model year 2009, each intermediate volume and large volume manufacturer of ZEVs, ATPZEVs, and PZEVs may open an account in the ZEV Credit Bank operated by DEQ.

(2) In order to generate and deposit credits for vehicles delivered for sale in Oregon during the 1999 through 2005 model years, a manufacturer must open an account with the ZEV Credit Bank and submit an appropriate Notice of Generation to DEQ on or before September 1, 2006.

(3) Manufacturers wishing to claim ZEV credits must use the format and process contained in CARB's Manufacturer's Advisory Correspondence (MAC) 2011-02 for reporting and tracking ZEV deliveries and placements, unless this division specifies different requirements. DEQ will follow CARB's procedures contained in that MAC for tracking and recording ZEV sales and credits.

(4) Except as provided in section (2) of this rule, annually each manufacturer must submit to DEQ a Notice of Credit Generation or Notice of Credit Transfer to or from another manufacturer. Credits generated or acquired must be reported to DEQ on or before September 1 following the close of the model year in which the qualifying vehicle was produced and delivered for sale in Oregon.

(5) To deposit credits into the ZEV Credit Bank, a manufacturer must submit a Notice of Credit Generation to DEQ. The Notice of Generation must include the following:

(a) For ZEVs delivered for sale in Oregon:

(A) Manufacturer's ZEV Credit Bank account identifier;

(B) Model year of vehicle qualifying for credit;

(C) CARB Executive Order number;

(D) ZEV Tier type (NEV, 0, I, II, III for California, III for Section 177 states);

(E) Vehicle identification number; and

(F) Date the vehicle was delivered for sale in Oregon.

(b) For ZEVs placed in service in Oregon, all information listed under subsection (6)(a) of this rule, plus the following:

(A) Date the vehicle was placed in service, and

(B) Whether the vehicle was placed in service with an option to purchase or lease the vehicle.

(c) For ATPZEVs and PZEVs delivered for sale in Oregon:

(A) Vehicle certification class (ATPZEV or PZEV);

(B) Manufacturer's ZEV Credit Bank account identification;

(C) Model year of vehicle(s);

(D) For ATPZEVs, the Federal test group;

(E) The CARB Executive Order number;

(F) Number of vehicles delivered; and

(6) The number of the credits generated and deposited for each qualifying vehicle must be the number of qualifying vehicles multiplied by the applicable multiplier specified in CCR, Title 13, sections 1962, 1962.1 or 1962.2 as appropriate, , except the multiplier applied to vehicles produced and delivered for sale in Oregon from January 1, 1999 to January 13, 2004 will be the highest applicable multiplier used by the CARB for the period January 1, 1999 to January 13, 2004.

(7) A vehicle equivalent credit does not constitute or convey a property right.

(8) A manufacturer with an account in the ZEV Credit Bank may acquire credits from another manufacturer with an account in the ZEV Credit Bank. However, if the credits are to be used for future compliance with the ZEV sales requirement at CCR Title 13, section 1962.1, the transaction must be recorded in the ZEV Credit Bank and certified by both parties to the transaction.

(9) A manufacturer may deposit into its account in the ZEV Credit Bank a number of credits equal to its California credit balance at the beginning of the 2009 model year. The transferred credit balance will be multiplied by the number of new motor vehicles registered in Oregon, and divided by the number of new motor vehicles registered in California. The proportion of new motor vehicles in Oregon and California will be determined by the average number of vehicles registered in model years 2003 through 2005, or by the average number of vehicles registered in model year 2009. The deposit may be made only after all credit obligations for model years 2008 and earlier have been satisfied in California.

(10) Each manufacturer with a ZEV Credit Bank account under this rule must report to the Department the following information:

(a) By May 1, 2009, the total number of PC and LDT1 vehicles produced and delivered for sale in Oregon and California for 2003 through 2005 model years; or

(b) By May 1, 2009, the total projected number of PC and LDT1 vehicles to be produced and delivered for sale in Oregon and California during model year 2009 and, by March 1, 2010, the actual number of 2009 model year PC and LDT1 vehicles produced and delivered for sale in Oregon and California; and

(c) By May 1, 2009, provide the Department with the total number of banked California credits after all 2008 model year and earlier obligations have been met.

(11) A manufacturer electing to deposit credits under section (9) of this rule must offer for sale in Oregon in model years 2009 through 2011 any PZEV, ATPZEV or ZEV, except Type III ZEVs, that it offers for sale in California during the same period.

Fleet Average Greenhouse Gas Exhaust Emission Requirements, Reporting and Compliance

(1) Each manufacturer subject to the greenhouse gas provisions of this regulation must comply with emissions standards, fleet average greenhouse gas exhaust mass emission requirements for passenger car, light duty truck, medium duty passenger vehicle weight classes, and other requirements of CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 and 1961.3.

(2) Requirements for Large Volume Manufacturers. The fleet average greenhouse gas exhaust emission standards for passenger cars, light-duty trucks, and medium-duty passenger vehicles produced and delivered for sale in the State of Oregon by a large volume manufacturer for each 2009 and subsequent model year are established in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 and 1961.3.

(3) Requirements for Small, Intermediate, and Independent Manufacturers. The fleet average greenhouse gas exhaust emission requirements for passenger cars, light-duty trucks, and medium-duty passenger vehicles delivered for sale in the State of Oregon by small volume, intermediate volume and independent low volume manufacturers are set forth in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1, which specifies that requirements for these manufacturers are waived before the 2016 model year, and CCR, Title 13, section 1961.3, which specifies the requirements that apply for the 2017 and each subsequent model year.

(4) Greenhouse gas emission credits and debits. Greenhouse gas credits and debits may be accrued and used based on each manufacturer's sale of vehicles in Oregon in accordance with CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 and 1961.3.

(5) Optional alternative compliance with greenhouse gas emission standards. Greenhouse gas vehicle test groups that are certified pursuant to CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1(a)(1)(B)2.a in the State of California may receive equivalent credit if delivered for sale and use in the State of Oregon.

(6) Alternative compliance credit. A manufacturer must submit to the Department the data set forth in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1(a)(1)(B)2.a.i for Oregon-specific sale and use in order to receive the credit identified in (5) above.

(7) Reporting on greenhouse gas requirements. Effective model year 2009 and for each model year thereafter, each manufacturer must report to the Department by May 1, end-of-model year data that calculates the fleet average greenhouse gas emissions for the model year just ended. The report must include the number of greenhouse gas vehicle test groups, delineated by model type, certified pursuant to CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 or 1961.3 as appropriate. The report must follow the procedures in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 or 1961.3 and be in the same format used to report such information to the California Air Resources Board.

(8) Compliance with fleet average greenhouse gas requirements. Effective model year 2009, if the report submitted by the manufacturer under subsection (7)(b) of this rule demonstrates that the manufacturer is not in compliance with the fleet average emission standards, the manufacturer must submit to the Department within 60 days a Fleet Average Remediation Report. The Fleet Average Remediation Report must:

(a) Describe how the manufacturer intends to equalize any accrued debits, as required in CCR, Title 13, section 1961.1 or 1961.3 as appropriate; (b) Identify all vehicle models delivered for sale in Oregon, their corresponding certification standards, and the percentage of each model delivered for sale in Oregon and California in relation to total fleet sales in the respective state; and

(c) Describe how the manufacturer plans to achieve compliance with the fleet average in future model years.

(1) The manufacturer must submit to DEQ one copy of the California Executive Order and Certificate of Conformity for certification of new motor vehicles for each engine family to be sold in the State of Oregon within thirty (30) days of DEQ's request. If such reports are available electronically, the manufacturer must send the record in an electronic format acceptable to the director or the director's designee.

(2) To determine compliance with this division, DEQ may require any vehicle manufacturer to submit any documentation DEQ deems necessary to the effective administration and enforcement of this division, including all certification materials submitted to CARB.

(3) Upon request, dealers must report to DEQ the sale of each previously-titled light-duty and medium-duty motor vehicle subject to this division. The report must include the following information and be submitted in a manner DEQ prescribes:

(a) The dealer's name and address;

(b) Vehicle description including make and model year;

(c) The vehicle identification number;

(d) Date of sale;

(e) The California or federal emission category to which the vehicle is certified; and

Warranty Requirements

(1) For all 2009 and subsequent model year vehicles subject to the provisions of this division, each manufacturer must provide, to the ultimate purchaser and each subsequent purchaser, a warranty that complies with the requirements contained in CCR, Title 13, sections 2035 through 2038, 2040, and 2046.

(2) The 15-year or 150,000-mile extended warranty specified in CCR, Title 13, section 1962.1(c)(2)(D) for PZEVs is not included as a requirement of this rule or OAR 340-257-0050, for the period 2009 through 2017 provided that PZEVs delivered for sale to Oregon are equipped with the same quality components as PZEVs supplied to areas where the full 15-year or 150,000-mile warranty remains in effect. The provisions of this section do not amend the requirements of CCR, Title 13, section 1962.1(c)(2)(D) that indicate the warranty period for a zero emission energy storage device used for traction power will be 10 years or 150,000 miles, whichever occurs first.

(3) For all 2009 and subsequent model year vehicles subject to the provisions of this division, each manufacturer must include the emission control system warranty statement that complies with the requirements in CCR, Title 13, section 2039. Manufacturers must submit the documents required by subsections (a) and (b) of section 2039 only upon the Department's request. Manufacturers may modify this statement as necessary to inform Oregon vehicle owners of the warranty's applicability. The manufacturer must provide a telephone number that Oregon consumers can use to learn answers to warranty questions.

(4) Upon the Department's request, any manufacturer must submit to the Department Failure of Emission-Related Components reports as defined in CCR, Title 13, section 2144, for vehicles subject to this regulation. For purposes of compliance with this requirement, manufacturers may submit copies of the Failure of Emission-Related Components reports that are submitted to the California Air Resources Board in lieu of submitting reports for vehicles subject to this division.

Rules Repealed: 340-071-0131, 340-071-0270
Subject: Short summary:

These Onsite Program rules:

Implement 2011 and 2013 legislatively-approved fees, including establishing a land use review fee, compliance recovery fee and increases to the surcharge fee and license fees.

Implement changes to alternative treatment technologies, or ATT, product approval based on 2009 Onsite Advisory Committee recommendations. This includes establishing an ATT system product approval process that provides for performance testing of systems to verify that they are meeting defined treatment standards in the environment and a system to track installations.

Require that newly-permitted sand filters and pressurized distribution systems have a service contract with ongoing maintenance similar to ATT systems.

Streamline rules to make it easier for the public to comply.

Correct errors in the rules and update some sections to contemporary rule standards.

Remove the site evaluation confirmation application and fee from the rules because anticipated efficiencies were not realized and very few applications were submitted.

Remove evapotranspiration-absorption systems from the rules. These systems were primarily used in Jackson County and have not been as successful as sand filter systems. DEQ has not issued new permits for these systems in decades.

Brief history:

The 2009 Onsite Advisory Committee recommended improvements to the onsite program. Recommendations included requiring owners of certain types of systems to contract with certified maintenance providers and submit annual reports and establishing various fees or fee increases to provide sustainable funding source for the program. DEQ formed the committee in 2009 in response to a dramatic drop in the number of applications in 2008 and the related drop in program revenue.

Regulated parties:

These rules affect septic system owners, manufacturers, certified service providers, county and city onsite agents, system designers and licensed sewage disposal services.

(147) "Soil Texture" means the amount of each soil separate in a soil mixture. Field methods for judging the texture of a soil consist of forming a cast of soil, both dry and moist, in the hand and pressing a ball of moist soil between thumb and finger.

(a) The major textural classifications are defined as follows and shown in Table 6.

(A) Sand: Individual grains can be seen and felt readily. Squeezed in the hand when dry, this soil will fall apart when the pressure is released. Squeezed when moist, it will form a cast that will hold its shape when the pressure is released but will crumble when touched.

(B) Loamy Sand: Consists primarily of sand, but has enough silt and clay to make it somewhat cohesive. The individual sand grains can readily be seen and felt. Squeezed when dry, the soil will form a cast that will readily fall apart, but if squeezed when moist, a cast can be formed that will withstand careful handling without breaking.

(C) Sandy Loam: Consists largely of sand, but has enough silt and clay present to give it a small amount of stability. Individual sand grains can be readily seen and felt. Squeezed in the hand when dry, this soil will readily fall apart when the pressure is released. Squeezed when moist, it forms a cast that will not only hold its shape when the pressure is released but will withstand careful handling without breaking. The stability of the moist cast differentiates this soil from sand.

(D) Loam: Consists of an even mixture of the different sizes of sand and of silt and clay. It is easily crumbled when dry and has a slightly gritty, yet fairly smooth feel. It is slightly plastic. Squeezed in the hand when dry, it will form a cast that will withstand careful handling. The cast formed of moist soil can be handled freely without breaking.

(E) Silt Loam: Consists of a moderate amount of fine grades of sand, a small amount of clay, and a large quantity of silt particles. Lumps in a dry, undisturbed state appear quite cloddy, but they can be pulverized readily; the soil then feels soft and floury. When wet, silt loam runs together in puddles. Either dry or moist, casts can be handled freely without breaking. When a ball of moist soil is passing between thumb and finger, it will not press out into a smooth, unbroken ribbon but will have a broken appearance.

(F) Clay Loam: Consists of an even mixture of sand, silt, and clay that breaks into clods or lumps when dry. When a ball of moist soil is pressed between the thumb and finger, it will form a thin ribbon that will readily break, barely sustaining its own weight. The moist soil is plastic and will form a cast that will withstand considerable handling.

(G) Silty Clay Loam: Consists of a moderate amount of clay, a large amount of silt, and a small amount of sand. It breaks into moderately hard clods or lumps when dry. When moist, a thin ribbon or 1/8-inch wire can be formed between thumb and finger that will sustain its weight and will withstand gentle movement.

(H) Silty Clay: Consists of even amounts of silt and clay and very small amounts of sand. It breaks into hard clods or lumps when dry. When moist, a thin ribbon or 1/8 inch or smaller wire formed between thumb and finger will withstand considerable movement and deformation.

(I) Clay: Consists of large amounts of clay and moderate to small amounts of sand and silt. It breaks into very hard clods or lumps when dry. When moist, a thin, long ribbon or 1/16-inch wire can be molded with ease. Fingerprints will show on the soil, and a dull to bright polish is made on the soil by a shovel.

(b) Soil textural characteristics described in the United States Department of Agriculture Textural Classification Chart are incorporated herein by reference. This textural classification chart is based on the Standard Pipette Analysis as defined in the United States Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service Soil Survey Investigations Report No. 1 (See Table 6).

(148) "Soil with Rapid or Very Rapid Permeability" means:

(a) Soil that contains 35 percent or more of coarse fragments 2 millimeters in diameter or larger by volume with interstitial soil of sandy loam texture or coarser;

(b) Coarse textured soil defined as loamy sand or sand in this rule; or

(c) Stones, cobbles, gravel, and rock fragments with too little soil material to fill interstices larger than 1 millimeter in diameter.

(149) "Split Waste Method" means a process where black waste sewage and graywater from the same dwelling or building are managed by separate systems.

(150) "Stabilized Dune" means a sand dune that is similar to an active dune except that vegetative growth is dense enough to prevent blowing of sand. The surface horizon is either covered by a mat of decomposed and partially decomposed leaves, needles, roots, twigs, moss, or other vegetative material or contains roots to a depth of at least 6 inches and has a color value of 3 or less.

(151) "Standard Subsurface System" means an onsite wastewater treatment system consisting of a septic tank, distribution unit, and absorption facility constructed in accordance with OAR 340-071-0220.

(152) "Steep Slope System" means a seepage trench system installed on slopes greater than 30 percent and less than or equal to 45 percent.

(153) "Subsurface Absorption System" means the combination of a septic tank or other treatment unit and an effluent sewer and absorption facility.

(154) "Subsurface Sewage Disposal" means "subsurface wastewater treatment."

(155) "Subsurface Disposal System" means "subsurface absorption system."

(156) "Subsurface Wastewater Treatment" means the dispersal of wastewater from a septic tank or other treatment unit into the zone of aeration to be further treated through physical, chemical, or biological processes.

(157) "System" or "onsite system" means "onsite wastewater treatment system."

(158) "Temporary Groundwater Table" means the upper surface of a saturated zone that exists only on a seasonal or periodic basis. Like a permanent groundwater table, the elevation of a temporary groundwater table may fluctuate, but a temporary groundwater table and associated saturated zone will dry up for a period of time each year.

(159) "Test Pit" means an open pit dug to sufficient size and depth to permit thorough examination of the soil to evaluate its suitability for subsurface wastewater treatment.

(160) "Third-Party" means a consulting firm, research institute, academic institute, or other similar entity with no vested interest in the outcome of test results of a material, design, or technology under evaluation.

(161) "Tile Dewatering System" means an alternative system in which the absorption facility is encompassed with field collection drainage tile to reduce and control a groundwater table and create a zone of aeration below the bottom of the absorption facility.

(162) "Toilet Facility" means a fixture housed within a toilet room or shelter to receive black waste.

(163) "Total Kjeldahl Nitrogen" (TKN) means the combination of ammonia and organic nitrogen, excluding nitrate and nitrite nitrogen.

(164) "Total Nitrogen" (TN) means the sum of all nitrogen forms.

(165) "Total Suspended Solids" (TSS) means solids in wastewater that can be removed readily by standard filtering procedures in a laboratory and reported as milligrams per liter (mg/L).

(166) "Treatment" means the alteration of the quality of wastewaters by physical, chemical, or biological means or combination thereof to reduce potential degradation of water quality or the environment and risk to public health.

(167) "Treatment Standard 1" means a 30-day average of less than 20 mg/L of BOD5 and 20 mg/L of TSS. A 30-day average of less than 17 mg/L of CBOD5 is acceptable in lieu of the BOD5 value.

(168) "Treatment Standard 2" means a 30-day average of less than 20 mg/L of BOD5 and 20 mg/L of TSS, a 30-day geometric mean of less than 400 fecal coliform per 100 milliliters, and a 30-day average of 30 mg/L of TN. A 30-day average of less than 17 mg/L of CBOD5 is acceptable in lieu of the BOD5 value.

(169) "Turbidity" means the optical condition of waters caused by suspended or dissolved particles or colloids that scatter and absorb light rays instead of transmitting light in straight lines through the water column. Turbidity may be expressed as nephelometric turbidity units (NTU) measured with a calibrated turbidimeter.

(170) "Underdrain Media" means the material placed under the sand filter media in a sand filter and consists of clean, washed pea gravel with 100 percent passing the 1/2 inch sieve, 18 to 100 percent passing the 1/4 inch sieve, 5 to 75 percent passing the No. 4 sieve, 24 percent or less passing the No. 10 sieve, 2 percent or less passing the No. 16 sieve, and 1 percent or less passing the No. 100 sieve.

(171) "Unstable Landforms" means areas showing evidence of mass downslope movement such as debris flow, landslides, rockfall, and hummock hill slopes with undrained depressions upslope. Examples are landforms exhibiting slip surfaces roughly parallel to the hillside; landslide scars and curving debris ridges; fences, trees, and telephone poles that appear tilted; and tree trunks that bend uniformly as they enter the ground. Active sand dunes are unstable landforms.

(172) "Vertisols" means a mineral soil characterized by a high content of swelling-type clays that in dry seasons cause the soils to develop deep, wide cracks.

(173) "WPCF Permit" means a Water Pollution Control Facilities permit that has been issued under OAR chapter 340, divisions 045 or 071.

(174) "Wastewater" means "sewage."

(175) "Zone of Aeration" means the unsaturated zone that occurs below the ground surface and above the point at which the upper limit of the water table exists.

Jurisdiction and Policy

(1) DEQ may enter agreements with local governmental units authorizing those units to become DEQ's agents for permitting onsite systems, including receiving and processing applications, issuing permits, enforcing, and performing required inspections for onsite systems that do not require WPCF permits. DEQ retains those responsibilities for systems in nonagreement counties and for all systems that require WPCF permits.

(2) Each owner of real property is jointly and severally responsible for:

(a) Treating wastewater generated on that property in conformance with the rules adopted by the commission;

(b) Connecting all plumbing fixtures from which wastewater is or may be discharged to a sewerage facility or onsite system approved by DEQ or an agent;

(c) Maintaining, repairing, and replacing the onsite system on that property as necessary to ensure proper operation of the system; and

(d) Complying with all requirements for construction, installation, maintenance, replacement, and repair of onsite systems required in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073.

General Standards, Prohibitions and Requirements

(1) Protection of public waters from public health hazards. An agent may not authorize installation or use of a system that is likely to pollute public waters or create a public health hazard. If, in the judgment of the agent, the minimum standards in this division will not adequately protect public waters or public health on a particular site, the agent must require a system to meet requirements that are protective. This may include but is not limited to increasing setbacks, increasing drainfield sizing, or using an alternative system. The agent must provide the applicant with a written statement of the specific reasons why more stringent requirements are necessary.

(2) Approved treatment and dispersal required. All wastewater must be treated and dispersed in a manner approved in accordance with these rules.

(3) Prohibited discharges of wastewater. A person may not discharge untreated or partially treated wastewater or septic tank effluent directly or indirectly onto the ground surface or into public waters. Such discharge constitutes a public health hazard and is prohibited.

(4) Prohibited discharges to systems. A person may not discharge into any system cooling water, air conditioning water, water softener brine, groundwater, oil, hazardous materials, roof drainage, or other aqueous or nonaqueous substances that are detrimental to the performance of the system or to groundwater.

(5) Increased flows prohibited. Except where specifically allowed by this division, a person may not connect a dwelling or commercial facility to a system if the total projected sewage flow would be greater than that allowed under the original system construction-installation permit.

(6) System capacity. Each system must have adequate capacity to properly treat and disperse the maximum projected daily sewage flow. The projected quantity of sewage flow must be determined from Table 2 or other information the agent determines to be valid.

(7) Material standards. All materials used in onsite systems must comply with standards in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073.

(8) Encumbrances. Before a permit to install a new system may be issued, the site for the new system must be approved pursuant to OAR 340-071-0150 and be free of encumbrances (such as easements or deed restrictions) that could prevent the installation or operation of the system from conforming with the rules of this division.

(9) Plumbing fixtures connected. All plumbing fixtures in dwellings, commercial facilities, and other structures from which sewage is or may be discharged must be connected to and discharge into an approved area-wide sewerage system or an approved onsite system that is not failing.

(10) Future connection to sewerage system. Placement of plumbing in buildings to facilitate connection to a sewerage system is encouraged in areas where a district has been formed to provide sewerage facilities.

(11) Property lines crossed: All or part of an onsite system, including areas for future repair or replacement, may be located on one or more lots or parcels different from the lot or parcel on which the facility the system serves is located. The lots and parcels may be under the same or different ownership:

(a) For each lot or parcel different from and under different ownership than the lot or parcel served, the owner of the lot or parcel served must ensure that a utility easement and covenant against conflicting uses is executed and recorded in such owner's favor, on a form approved by the agent, in the county land title records. The easements and covenants must accommodate the parts of the system, including a 10-foot setback surrounding the areas for future repair or replacement, that lie beyond the property line of the facility served and must allow entry by the grantee, successor, or assigns to install, maintain, and repair the system;

(b) For each lot or parcel different from but under the same ownership as the lot or parcel served, the owner of the property must execute and record in the county land title records, on a form approved by DEQ, an easement and a covenant in favor of the State of Oregon:

(A) Allowing the state's officers, agents, employees, and representatives to enter and inspect, including by excavation, that portion of the system, including setbacks, on the servient lot or parcel;

(B) Agreeing not to put that portion of the servient lot or parcel to a conflicting use; and

(C) Agreeing, upon severance of the lots or parcels, to grant or reserve and record a utility easement and covenant against conflicting uses, in a form approved by DEQ, in favor of the owner of the lot or parcel served by the system in accordance with subsection (a) of this section.

(12) Initial and replacement absorption area. Except as provided in specific rules, the absorption area, including installed system and replacement area, must not be subject to activity that is likely, in the opinion of the agent, to adversely affect the soil or the functioning of the system. This may include but is not limited to vehicular traffic, covering the area with asphalt or concrete, filling, cutting, or other soil modification.

(13) Operation and maintenance. Owners of onsite systems must operate and maintain their systems in compliance with all permit conditions and applicable requirements in this division and must not create a public health hazard or pollute public waters. Operation and maintenance requirements for systems under WPCF permits are established by the WPCF permits required in this division.

(14) Construction. An agent may limit the time period during which a system can be constructed to ensure that soil conditions, weather, groundwater, or other conditions do not adversely affect the reliability of the system.

(15) Permit requirements:

(a) A person may not cause or allow construction, alteration, or repair of a system or any part thereof without a WPCF permit issued under OAR 340-071-0162 or a construction-installation, alteration, or repair permit under 340-071-0160, 340-071-0210, and 340-071-0215 except for emergency repairs authorized under 340-071-0215(1) and (2);

(b) The following systems must be constructed and operated under a renewable WPCF permit issued pursuant to OAR 340-071-0162:

(A) Any system or combination of systems located on the same property or serving the same facility and having a total sewage flow design capacity greater than 2,500 gpd. Flows from single family residences or equivalent flows on separate systems incidental to the purpose of the large system or combination of systems (e.g., caretaker residence for a mobile home park) need not be included;

(B) A system of any size, if the septic tank effluent produced is greater than residential strength wastewater as defined in OAR 340-071-0100 or systems using pretreatment methods other than grease traps and grease interceptor tanks to achieve residential strength wastewater;

(C) Except as provided for in section (16)(d) of this rule, other systems that are not described in this division and do not discharge to surface public waters or the ground surface.

(16) WPCF permits for existing facilities:

(a) The owner of an existing system required to have a WPCF permit under subsection (15)(b) of this rule is not required to obtain a WPCF permit until a system major repair or major alteration of a system, or facility expansion, is necessary;

(b) The permittee of an existing aerobic treatment unit, recirculating gravel filter, commercial sand filter, or alternative treatment technology system constructed or operating under a WPCF permit that is no longer required under section (15) of this rule may request DEQ to terminate the permit:

(A) The permittee must submit, on a form approved by DEQ:

(i) A copy of the service contract required in OAR 340-071-0290, 340-071-0302, or 340-071-0345; and

(ii) A written statement from a maintenance provider certifying that the system is not failing.

(B) DEQ will send a letter to the permittee to terminate a WPCF permit. The letter will be deemed a Certificate of Satisfactory Completion for the permitted system.

(c) DEQ may terminate WPCF permits for existing holding tanks for which permits are no longer required under section (15) of this rule. DEQ will send a letter to the permittee to terminate the permit. The letter will be deemed a Certificate of Satisfactory Completion for the permitted system;

(d) Permittees of other existing systems or combination of systems constructed or operating under a WPCF permit may request DEQ terminate the permit if all of the following conditions are met:

(A) The system or combination of systems located on the same property or serving the same facility must have a total sewage flow design capacity of 2,500 gpd or less; and

(B) The system or combination of systems must not produce septic tank effluent greater than residential strength wastewater as defined in OAR 340-071-100; and

(C) The system or combination of systems must have been operating under a WPCF permit prior to July 1, 2007; and

(D) The absorption facility is described in this division and does not discharge to surface public waters or the ground surface; and

(E) DEQ determines that the system or combination of systems is in compliance with the waste disposal limitations specified in the WPCF permit; and

(F) The permittee submits a copy of a service contract that meets the requirements of OAR 340-071-0302(6); and

(G) The permittee submits a written statement from a maintenance provider certifying that the system is not failing;

(H) Owners of and maintenance providers for these systems must operate and maintain the system in accordance with the requirements described for recirculating gravel filter systems in OAR 340-071-0302(4), (5), and (6). DEQ will send a letter to the permittee to terminate the WPCF permit. The letter will be deemed a Certificate of Satisfactory Completion for the permitted system. Conditions specified in the Certificate of Satisfactory Completion continue in force as long as the system is in use.

(17) Annual permit fees and reports:

(a) Owners of pressurized distribution, sand filter, recirculating gravel filter, and alternative treatment technology systems and those systems described in section (16)(d) of this rule not under WPCF permits must submit annual fees and reports as follows:

(A) Owners must pay the annual report evaluation fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3) by the date specified by DEQ for each year the system is in operation. A system is placed in operation when it first receives wastewater and remains in operation until DEQ receives notice the system has been decommissioned;

(B) Owners must submit written certification prepared by a maintenance provider on a DEQ-approved form that:

(i) The system has been maintained in accordance with the requirements of the rules in this division during the reporting year and is operating in accordance with the agent-approved design specifications; or

(ii) The owner has applied for a repair permit under OAR 340-071-0215.

(C) Owners are not required to submit fees or reports under this subsection that a maintenance provider has submitted on behalf of the owner in accordance with this section.

(b) Owners of holding tanks not under WPCF permits. Owners of holding tanks not under WPCF permits must pay annual fees and reports as follows:

(A) Owners must pay the annual report evaluation fee in 340-071-0140(3) by the date specified by DEQ for each calendar year the tank is in operation;

(B) Owners must submit written certification on a DEQ-approved form that the holding tank has been regularly inspected and pumped during the reporting year and that the year's service log for the holding tank is available for inspection by the agent.

(c) Fees for systems under WPCF permits. Permittees of onsite systems under WPCF permits must pay the annual compliance determination fee in OAR 340-071-0140(4) by the date specified by DEQ for each year the system is in operation.

(18) Engineering plan review. Unless specifically exempted in this division, all plans and specifications for the construction, installation, or modification of onsite systems must be submitted to the agent for approval or denial. The design criteria and rules governing the plan review are as follows:

(a) The agent must review all plans and specifications for WPCF permits in accordance with OAR chapter 340, division 052;

(b) Plans and specifications for construction-installation permits for commercial sand filter, recirculating gravel filter, and advanced treatment technology systems with design capacities greater than 600 gpd must be signed by a person registered in accordance with ORS 672 or 700.

(19) Criteria and standards for design and construction. The criteria and standards for design and construction in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073 apply to all onsite systems:

(a) For onsite systems subject to WPCF onsite permits, DEQ may allow variations of the criteria, standards, and technologies in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073 based on adequate documentation of successful operation of the proposed technology or design. The system designer must demonstrate the performance of new processes, treatment systems, and technologies in accordance with OAR chapter 340, division 052;

(b) For systems not requiring WPCF permits, DEQ may authorize variances from the criteria, standards, and technologies in this division through the variance processes in OAR 340-071-0415 through 340-071-0445.

(20) Manufacturer's specifications. All materials and equipment, including but not limited to tanks, pipe, fittings, solvents, pumps, controls, and valves, must be installed, constructed, operated, and maintained in accordance with manufacturer's specifications.

(21) Sewer and water lines. Effluent sewer and water line piping constructed of materials that are approved for use within a building, as defined by the 2000 Edition of the Oregon State Plumbing Specialty Code, may be run in the same trench. Effluent sewer pipe of material not approved for use in a building must not be run or laid in the same trench as water pipe unless both of the following conditions are met:

(a) The bottom of the water pipe at all points is at least 12 inches above the top of the sewer pipe;

(b) The water pipe is placed on a solid shelf excavated at one side of the common trench with a minimum clear horizontal distance of at least 12 inches from the sewer pipe.

(22) Septage management. A person may not dispose of wastewater, septage, or sewage-contaminated materials in any location or manner not authorized by DEQ.

(23) Service Contracts. Service contracts for servicing and maintaining onsite systems must include:

(a) A schedule for the first two years of operation that directs the maintenance provider to inspect, adjust and service the system a minimum of once every six months,

(b) A schedule for subsequent years of operation that directs the maintenance provider to inspect, adjust and service the system:

(A) According to the manufacturer's specifications in the approved owner's manual; and

(B) At least once every 12 months.

(c) A clause stating that the maintenance provider must provide an effluent quality inspection that includes but is not limited to:

(A) A visual assessment for color, turbidity, and scum overflow,

(B) An olfactory assessment for odor, and

(C) Any other performance assessment or operational diagnosis, which may include sampling of treated effluent (post-disinfection if disinfection is used) necessary to determine or ensure proper operation of the facility.

(d) A clause stating that the maintenance provider must notify the system owner in writing about any improper system function that cannot be remedied during the time of inspection and include an estimated date of correction.

(e) Other information and conditions of the agreement such as:

(A) Owner's name and address;

(B) Property address and legal description;

(C) Permit requirements;

(D) Contact information for the owner, maintenance provider, and agent;

(E) Details of service to be provided, including the service required in this section;

(F) Schedule of maintenance provider duties;

(G) Cost and length of service contract and time period covered;

(H) Details of any warranty; and

(I) Owner's responsibilities under the contract for routine operation of the onsite system.

(24) A maintenance provider under a contract required in OAR 340-071-0275, 0290, 0302 & 0345 must:

(a) Observe and record conditions in the drainfield during all operation and maintenance activities for the system and report those observations to the system owner;

(b) Make repairs or alteration to comply with OAR 340-071-0215, 340-071-0210 and other applicable requirements in this division.

(c) Maintain accurate records of their service contracts, customers, performance data, and time lines for renewing the contracts. These records must be available for inspection upon request by the agent;

(d) Notify the agent of service contracts that are terminated or not renewed within 30 days of their termination or expiration,

(e) Make emergency service available within 48 hours of a service request,

(f) Submit the annual report required in section (17) and the annual evaluation fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3) for each system under contract to be serviced by the maintenance provider.

(g) System owners must report evidence of any system failures to the agent and take appropriate action approved by the agent to correct the problem.

(25) Groundwater levels. All groundwater levels must be predicted using conditions associated with saturation. In areas where conditions associated with saturation do not occur or are inconclusive, such as in soil with rapid or very rapid permeability, predictions of the high level of the water table must be based on past recorded observations of an agent. If such observations have not been made or are inconclusive, the application must be denied until observations can be made. Groundwater level observations must be made during the period of the year in which high groundwater normally occurs in an area. A properly installed nest of piezometers or other methods acceptable to DEQ must be used for making water table observations.

(26) A person may not submit information required by statute, rule, permit, or order that is false, inaccurate, or incomplete.

Approval of New or Innovative Technologies, Materials, or Designs for Onsite Systems

(1) DEQ approval.

(a) Coordination with listing of alternative treatment technologies, OAR 340-071-0345. Under OAR 340-071-0345, DEQ maintains a list of alternative treatment technologies (ATTs) that have been tested by an NSF/ANSI organization that meets the requirements of ISO/IEC 17025 – 2005. The ATT must meet the performance standards and other requirements in OAR 340-071-0345. ATTs are usually separate treatment units that are installed in onsite systems. Only listed ATTs may be installed under the siting criteria in OAR 340-071-0345. This rule provides a process for approving new or innovative technologies, materials, or designs for various components of onsite systems, such as drainfield products or appurtenances. Add-on treatment units, such as units to remove nitrogen following an ATT or sand filter, may also be approved under this rule. However, DEQ does not intend to approve alternatives to standard systems under this rule. Alternative systems will need to be listed as ATTs under OAR 340-071-0345 or approved under new rules in this division.

(b) DEQ may approve new or innovative technologies, materials, or designs for onsite systems pursuant to this rule if it determines they will protect public health, safety, and waters of the state as effectively as systems authorized in this division. DEQ must base approval on one or more of the following.

(A) A performance evaluation conducted in accordance with section (3) of this rule that demonstrates the technology, material, or design will achieve applicable performance standards in OAR chapter 340, divisions 071 and 073 and any additional standards DEQ determines are necessary to satisfy the requirements of subsection (1)(b) of this rule.

(B) Documentation that the alternative drainfield products are functionally equivalent to drainfield products approved by DEQ.

(C) Documentation that the material used as a substitute for drain media in absorption trenches will achieve the performance standards and design criteria in section (5) of this rule.

(D) Certification of the new material, technology, or design for proposed uses by NSF/ANSI, or another program providing equivalent performance demonstration required by this rule and approved by DEQ.

(c) DEQ may approve or deny a request for approval of a new or innovative technology, material, or design or may limit approval to those locations or conditions for which achievement of standards has been demonstrated.

(d) DEQ may amend or revoke approval of a new or innovative material, technology, or design if it determines:

(A) Approval was based on false or misleading information;

(B) The material, technology, or design no longer achieves performance standards for which it was approved; or

(C) The manufacturer is not meeting the requirements in this rule or conditions of the approval.

(2) Requests for approval.

(a) Any person may submit a completed application for approval of a new or innovative technology, material, or design for onsite systems to DEQ.

(b) The application must include the following:

(A) For approval based on a performance evaluation under paragraph (1)(b)(A) of this rule:

(i) A proposed evaluation protocol in accordance with section (3) of this rule and a proposed schedule for completing the proposed evaluation; and

(ii) At the conclusion of the performance evaluation, documentation demonstrating the technology, material, or design achieves applicable standards.

(B) For approval under paragraph (1)(b)(B) of this rule, documentation supporting a determination of functional equivalency.

(C) For approval under paragraph (1)(b)(C) of this rule, documentation supporting a determination that the applicable standards will be achieved.

(D) For approval under paragraph (1)(b)(D) of this rule, documentation of certification by an approved program.

(E) The Innovative or Alternative Technology, Material, or Design Review fee established in OAR 340-071-0140(5).

(3) Requirements for studies. Field or other studies used to demonstrate performance of technologies, materials, or designs under paragraph (1)(b)(A) of this rule must satisfy the following requirements.

(a) Be based on theory or applied research that supports the intended use of the technology, material, or design.

(b) Follow an evaluation protocol that has been peer reviewed and approved by DEQ and that clearly defines the number of systems for installation reasonably necessary for the study and performance objectives, including standards to be achieved; performance measurements to validate attainment of the objectives; and the variables to be considered, including climate, soil, waste characteristics such as flow and strength, and topography.

(c) Include controls that represent the standards to be achieved.

(d) Include sufficient monitoring and reporting of performance data on both the test product and control product to support direct comparisons to the standards to be achieved.

(e) Address system operations at maturity and relevant temporal variations to support comparison to the standards to be achieved.

(f) Be designed and conducted by a qualified third party approved by DEQ who certifies whether the installation, monitoring, and evaluation of the systems studied and reports submitted to DEQ satisfy the requirements of this rule.

(g) At the conclusion of the study, provide sufficient performance data to demonstrate standards are met. Data must be peer-reviewed, be scientifically defensible, and have sufficient replication to be representative and to address variations in climate, soil, topography, waste loading, and strength relevant to the proposed use.

(4) Installation of onsite systems for study. The following requirements must be met for each system incorporating unapproved new or innovative technologies, materials, or designs installed for study under this rule or OAR 340-071-0130, or former OAR 340-071-0116 or 340-071-0117 (replaced by this rule).

(a) Prior to installation, the system owner must obtain a WPCF permit under OAR 340-071-0162 or, for a system incorporating only unapproved drainfield materials and not otherwise requiring a WPCF permit, or a construction-installation permit under OAR 340-071-0160.

(b) Before installation, the system owner must provide legal and physical access for construction inspections and monitoring.

(c) The system owner must acknowledge that the system being installed is an unapproved technology and must agree in writing to hold the State of Oregon and its officers, employees, and agents harmless of any and all loss or damage caused by system failure or defective installation or operation of the proposed systems.

(d) Before transferring ownership of a system using an unapproved technology, the system owner must notify all transferees that the technology has not been approved, and the transferee must agree in writing to hold the state of Oregon and its officers, employees, and agents harmless of any and all loss or damage caused by system failure or defective installation or operation of the proposed systems.

(e) A site evaluation must be conducted in accordance with this division. Suitable area must be available for installation of both an initial onsite system and a full replacement system.

(5) Standards and design criteria for drain media substitutes. To be approved under (1)(b)(C) of this rule, substitutes for drain media used in absorption trenches, including seepage trenches, seepage beds, or other similar absorption facilities, must meet the following performance standards and design criteria.

(a) Performance standards. New or innovative materials to be used as a substitute for drain media must be structurally sound, durable, and inert in the environment they are placed. The substitute material must be capable of passing wastewater toward the infiltrative surfaces at a rate equal to or greater than gravel drain media.

(b) Design criteria for absorption trenches.

(A) The trench must be excavated in conformance with the trench standards described in this division. If warranted by the design configuration of the substitute material, the trench width may be less than 24 inches, provided the trench length is increased to compensate for the loss of the bottom surface area using the following formula: Adjusted Trench Length = (24 inches ÷ W) x L, where W = the reduced trench width in inches, and L = the original trench length as specified in paragraph (5)(b)(F) of this rule.

(B) The substitute material for the drain media must be placed in the trench and be in uniform contact with the trench bottom and both sidewalls. If voids larger than typically found with the use of drain media are present along the trench bottom after placement of the substitute material, steps must be taken to prevent the entry of burrowing rodents. If the substitute material for drain media is not in uniform contact with both sidewalls, drain media must be placed in the trench to provide that contact.

(C) The substitute material for drain media must be placed to provide a uniform sidewall infiltrative surface depth as measured along the trench sidewall from the bottom to the top of the drain media substitute in contact with the sidewall. In seepage trenches, the depth of the substitute material must be greater than 12 inches. If the substitute material provides less than 12 inches of sidewall contact depth, either drain media must be placed to accomplish the minimum sidewall contact depth, or the length of the absorption trench must be increased to compensate for the reduced sidewall seepage area depth using the following formula: Adjusted Trench Length = (12 inches ÷ D) x L, where D = the reduced sidewall seepage area depth in inches, and L = the original trench length as specified in paragraph (5)(b)(F) of this rule.

(D) If a substitute material is used in a trench that is both narrower than 24 inches and has a sidewall contact depth that is less than 12 inches, the adjusted trench length must be the longer of the adjusted trench lengths calculated using the formulae in paragraphs (A) and (C) of this section.

(E) The top surface of the substitute material for the drain media must be level across the trench and in contact with each side of the trench. The substitute material for drain media must have porosity at the top surface that is not appreciably different from the porosity of drain media. Drain media may be placed across the top of the substitute material to provide the level surface extending from sidewall to sidewall.

(F) The sizing for standard absorption trenches using a substitute material for drain media must conform to applicable criteria in OAR 340-071-0220(2), 340-071-0290(3), or 340-071-0360(2)(a). Seepage trenches using a substitute material for drain media must be sized in conformance with applicable criteria in OAR 340-071-0280(2), 340-071-0290(3), 340-071-0310(2), or 340-071-0360(2)(b).

(c) Design criteria for seepage beds.

(A) Beds must be excavated in conformance with the standards described in OAR 340-071-0275(4)(d).

(B) The substitute material for drain media must be placed in the excavation and in contact with the bottom and sidewalls of the bed. If voids larger than typically found with the use of drain media are present along the bottom or sidewalls after placement of the substitute material, steps must be taken to prevent entry of burrowing rodents.

(C) The substitute material for drain media must be placed to provide a substitute material depth of at least 12 inches, as measured from the bottom of the excavation to the top of the drain media substitute. If the depth of the media substitute is less than 12 inches, drain media must be placed within the excavation to provide this depth.

(D) The upper surface of the substitute material for drain media must be level from sidewall to sidewall. The porosity of the top surface of the substitute material must not appreciably differ from the porosity of drain media. Drain media may be placed across the top of the substitute material to provide the level surface extending from sidewall to sidewall.

(E) Seepage beds using a substitute material for drain media must be sized in conformance to OAR 340-071-0275(4)(d)(B).

(d) Distribution piping in absorption facilities using a substitute material for drain media must comply with the appropriate pipe standards in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073.

(6) Study protocols for substitutes for drain media -- example. This section provides an example study protocol to demonstrate substitute drain media under paragraph (1)(b)(C) of this rule. Proposed protocols must be approved for study under section (3) of this rule.

(a) A standard onsite system must be installed and sized for a given soil group according to Tables 4 and 5 of this division. The system must be designed to allow a side-by-side performance comparison of the substitute material with a standard absorption trench (the control). For this purpose, the drainfield must contain four small test cells, two of them containing the substitute material and two the standard drain media, which receive septic tank effluent before the remaining portion of the drainfield. The test cells must represent approximately one-third of the total drainfield. The cells containing the substitute material must be sized according to the manufacturer's claim for equivalence to the standard trench length.

(b) A drop box or similar monitoring box containing a sump must be placed at the end of each test cell. All drop boxes must be connected to the remaining portion of the drainfield.

(c) The test cells must be fed by a pump and a hydrosplitter to distribute the effluent equally to each test cell. Installation of a water meter or pump cycle-counter may be required.

(d) Observation ports must be installed in each test cell to allow measurement and recording of the effluent ponding depth.

(e) Domestic wastewater coming directly from a septic tank connected to a residence or facility must be used in the field study.

(f) The performance standard to be achieved is the acceptance rate of the effluent by the substitute material, measured by observing the time required for each test cell to overflow to the drop box.

(g) The test must conclude at the end of three years or when overflow is observed in one of each paired test cells, whichever occurs first. Observation of overflow or no overflow and of ponding must be recorded at least monthly.

(h) For approval for statewide use, the testing described in this section must be duplicated at sites within the two major climatic regimes of Oregon (west of the Cascade Mountain Range and east of the Cascade Mountain Range) and in each of the soil groups described in Tables 4 and 5 of this division. At least 18 duplicate sites are required, with 3 sites in each of 3 soil groups in the 2 major climatic regimes of Oregon. Studies may include additional sites.

(1) This rule establishes the fees for site evaluations, permits, reports, variances, licenses, and other services DEQ provides under this division.

(2) Site evaluation and existing system evaluation fees are listed in Table 9A.

(3) Permitting fees for systems not subject to WPCF permits are listed in Table 9B and Table 9C. Online submittals for annual report evaluation fees may apply upon DEQ implementation of online reporting.

(4) WPCF permit fees. Fees in this section apply to WPCF permits issued pursuant to OAR 340-071-0162. WPCF permit fees are listed in Table 9D.

(5) Innovative, Alternative Technology and Material Plan Review fees are listed in Table 9F.

(6) Sewage Disposal Service License and Truck Inspection fees are listed in Table 9E.

(7) Compliance Recovery Fee. When a violation results in an application in order to comply with the requirements in this division, the agent may require the applicant to pay a compliance recovery fee in addition to the application fee. The amount of the compliance recovery fee shall not exceed the application fee. Such violations include but are not limited to installing a system without a permit, performing sewage disposal services without a license, or failure to obtain an authorization notice when it is required.

(8) Land Use Review Fee. Land use review fees are listed in Table 9C and are assessed when an agent review is required in association with a land use action or building permit application and no approval is otherwise required in the division.

(9) Contract county fee schedules.

(a) Each county having an agreement with DEQ under ORS 454.725 must adopt a fee schedule for services rendered and permits issued. The county fee schedule may not include DEQ's surcharge established in section (10) of this rule unless identified as a DEQ surcharge.

(b) A copy of the fee schedule and any subsequent amendments to the schedule must be submitted to DEQ.

(c) Fees may not exceed actual costs for efficiently conducted services.

(10) DEQ surcharge.

(a) To offset a portion of the administrative and program oversight costs of the statewide onsite wastewater management program, DEQ and contract counties must levy a surcharge for each site evaluation, report permit, and other activity for which an application is required in this division. The surcharge fee is listed in Table 9F. This surcharge does not apply to pumper truck inspections, annual report evaluation fees, or certification of installers or maintenance providers.

(b) Proceeds from surcharges collected by DEQ and contract counties must be accounted for separately. Each contract county must forward the proceeds to DEQ in accordance with its agreement with the DEQ.

(11) Refunds. DEQ may refund all or a portion of a fee accompanying an application if the applicant withdraws the application before any field work or other substantial review of the application has been done.

Site Evaluation Procedures

(1) A site evaluation is the first step in the process of obtaining a construction-installation permit for an onsite system. Except as otherwise provided in these rules, before obtaining a permit to construct an onsite system, a person must obtain a site evaluation report finding the site suitable for an onsite system in accordance with this division.

(2) Completed applications for site evaluations must be submitted to the agent with all required exhibits and the applicable site evaluation fee in OAR 340-071-0140(2).

(a) Unless other procedures are approved by DEQ for a contract county, applicants must provide at least two test pits, with dimensions and configuration as directed by the agent, located approximately 75 feet apart and within the area of the proposed system, including the repair/replacement area.

(b) The fee paid for a site evaluation report covers as many site inspections within ninety days of the initial inspection as necessary to determine the suitability of a single lot or parcel for a single system. A site is considered to be suitable as soon as it is found to meet the criteria for any type of onsite system.

(3) Site evaluation report.

(a) The agent or, for WPCF permits, an agent or a qualified private contractor must evaluate the site of the proposed system, consider all system options, and provide a report of such evaluation.

(b) The site evaluation report must be on a form approved by DEQ.

(c) The report must contain, at a minimum, a site diagram and observations of the following site characteristics.

(A) Parcel size;

(B) Slope in absorption field and replacement areas (percent and direction);

(C) Surface streams, springs, other bodies of water;

(D) Existing and proposed wells;

(E) Escarpments;

(F) Cuts and fills;

(G) Unstable landforms;

(H) Soil profiles determined from test pits provided by applicant;

(I) Water table levels (as indicated by conditions associated with saturation or water table observations);

(J) Useable area for initial and replacement absorption areas;

(K) Encumbrances observed or listed on the application;

(L) Sewerage availability;

(M) Other observations including off-site features as appropriate.

(d) Site evaluation reports for subdivisions or other land divisions must be based on an evaluation of each lot.

(e) Specific conditions or limitations imposed on an approved site must be listed on the evaluation report.

(f) A site evaluation report approving a site for a system qualifies the property owner for a permit to construct a system on that property if other requirements for a permit are met.

(4) Approval or denial:

(a) A site must be approved for a system if the site evaluation report documents the following:

(A) The site evaluation report identifies the types of the initial and replacement systems for which the site is approved.

(B) All criteria for approval of a specific type or types of systems, as described in this division are satisfied.

(C) Each lot or parcel has sufficient usable area available to accommodate an initial and replacement system. The usable area may be located within the lot or parcel or within the bounds of another lot or parcel that is secured in accordance with OAR 340-071-0130(11). The initial and replacement systems may be of different types, e.g., a standard subsurface system as the initial system and an alternative system as the replacement system. The site evaluation report must indicate the types of the initial and replacement systems for which the site is approved.

(D) A replacement area is not required in areas under control of a legal entity such as a city, county, or sanitary district if the legal entity gives a written commitment that sewerage service will be provided within five years.

(b) A site must be denied if the conditions identified in section (4)(a) of this rule are not met.

(c) Changes in technical requirements in this division may not invalidate a site approval but may require design changes or use of a different type of system.

(5) Site evaluation report review. An applicant may request DEQ to review a site evaluation report issued by an agent. The application for review must be submitted to DEQ in writing within 60 days after the site evaluation report issue date and must include the site evaluation review fee in OAR 340-071-0140(2). DEQ will review and approve or disapprove the site evaluation report.

Permit Application Procedures — Construction, Installation, Alteration, and Repair Permits

(1) Permittees. A permit for construction of a system may be issued under this rule only to the owner of the real property that the system will serve.

(2) Application. A completed application for a construction -- installation, alteration, or repair permit must be submitted to the appropriate agent on approved forms with all required exhibits the applicable permit application fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3). Applications that are not completed in accordance with this section will not be accepted for filing. Except as otherwise allowed in this division, the exhibits must include:

(a) A site evaluation report approving the site for the type and quantity of waste to be disposed. Agents may waive the requirement for the report and fee for applications for repair or alteration permits.

(b) A land use compatibility statement from the appropriate land use authority as required in OAR chapter 340, division 018.

(c) Plans and specifications for the onsite system proposed for installation within the area identified and approved by the agent in a site evaluation report. The agent must determine and request the minimum level of detail necessary to insure proper system construction.

(d) Any other information the agent determines is necessary to complete the permit application.

(3) Deadlines for action. The agent must either issue or deny the permit within 20 days after receipt of the completed application unless weather conditions or distance and unavailability of transportation prevent the agent from timely action. The agent must notify the applicant in writing of any delay and the reason for delay and must either issue or deny the permit within 60 days after the mailing date of notification.

(4) Permit denial. The agent must deny a permit if any of the following occurs.

(a) The application contains false information.

(b) The application was wrongfully received by the agent.

(c) The proposed system would not comply with applicable requirements in this division or in OAR chapter 340, division 073.

(d) The proposed system, if constructed, would violate a commission moratorium under OAR 340-071-0460.

(e) The proposed system location is encumbered as described in OAR 340-071-0130(8).

(f) A sewerage system that can serve the proposed sewage flow is both legally and physically available, as described in paragraphs (A) and (B) of this subsection.

(A) Physical availability.

(i) A sewerage system is considered available if topographic or man-made features do not make connection physically impractical and one of the following applies.

(I) For a single family dwelling or other establishment with a maximum projected daily sewage flow not exceeding 899 gallons, the nearest sewerage connection point from the property to be served is within 300 feet.

(II) For a proposed subdivision or group of two to five single family dwellings or other establishment with the equivalent projected daily sewage flow, the nearest sewerage connection point from the property to be served is not further than 200 feet multiplied by the number of dwellings or dwelling equivalents.

(III) For proposed subdivisions or other developments with more than five single family dwellings or equivalent flows, the agent will determine sewerage availability.

(B) Legal availability. A sewerage system is deemed legally available if the system is not under a DEQ connection permit moratorium and the sewerage system owner is willing or obligated to provide sewer service.

(5) Permit effective dates. A permit issued for construction of a system pursuant to this rule is effective for one year from the date of issuance. After a system has been installed pursuant to the permit and a Certificate of Satisfactory Completion has been issued for the installation, conditions specified in the Certificate of Satisfactory Completion continue in force as long as the system is in use.

(6) Permit renewal, reinstatement, or transfer. An agent may renew, reinstate, or transfer a permit if the following conditions are met.

(a) The applicant submits a completed application for permit renewal before the permit expiration date or for reinstatement within one year after the permit expiration date.

(b) Applications for transfer of a permit from a permittee to another person must be filed before the permit expiration date. Only the name of the permittee may be changed in a transfer.

(c) Applications for permit renewal, reinstatement, or transfer must conform to the requirements of this rule and the permit will be issued or denied in accordance with this rule.

(7) Temporary holding tank. If a permit has been issued pursuant to these rules but existing soil moisture conditions preclude the construction of the soil absorption system, an agent may approve installation of a septic tank for use as a temporary holding tank for up to 12 months. Before approval, the permittee must demonstrate that the outlet of the tank has been sealed with a water tight seal and that the permittee has entered into a pumping contract for the tank. Unless otherwise authorized by the agent, the septic tank must be designed and constructed in accordance with OAR 340-071-0340.

Permit Application Procedures — WPCF Permits

(1) Procedures in this rule are for applications for WPCF permits for onsite systems.

(2) Any person may request a new, modified, or renewal WPCF permit by submitting an application on forms provided by DEQ with the specified number of copies of all required exhibits. The name of the applicant and permittee must be the legal name of the owner of the facilities served by the system or the lessee responsible for the operation and maintenance. Applications must be submitted at least 60 days before a permit is needed. Required exhibits include but are not limited to the following:

(a) A land use compatibility statement from the local land use planning agency indicating that the site is approved for the activity for which the applicant is applying. If the activity is approved only upon conditions in a conditional use permit, a copy of the conditional use permit must be provided;

(b) A copy of a site evaluation report approving the site for the type and quantity of wastes to be disposed;

(c) Evidence that the permit processing fees and the first year's annual compliance determination fee in OAR 340-071-0140(4) have been paid to DEQ or agent, as directed; and

(d) A site diagram meeting the requirements of OAR 340-071-0160(2)(c).

(3) Applications that are obviously incomplete, improperly signed, or lacking required exhibits clearly identified will not be accepted by DEQ for filing and will be returned for completion. Applications that are correctly signed and appear administratively complete will be considered timely upon receipt. A request for further information under section (4) of this rule will not affect the timeliness of an application.

(4) Within 45 days after receipt of an application, DEQ will preliminarily review the application to determine the adequacy of the information submitted. Failure to complete this review within 45 days does not preclude DEQ from later requesting additional information from the applicant as provided in this section.

(a) DEQ will request in writing from the applicant any additional information needed to review the application. The application will be considered withdrawn if the applicant fails to submit the requested information within 90 days of the request.

(b) If DEQ determines that additional measures are necessary to gather facts regarding the application, DEQ will notify the applicant of measures to be instituted and the timetable and procedures to be followed. The application will be considered withdrawn if the applicant fails to comply with the additional measures.

(5) Draft permit review. Before issuing a permit, DEQ will send a draft permit to the applicant for review. The applicant will have up to 14 calendar days to comment on the draft permit.

(6) Public participation. DEQ will provide for public participation in accordance with the requirements for WPCF permits in OAR chapter 340, division 045.

(7) Final DEQ action. DEQ must take final action on the permit application within 45 days of the close of the public comment period if a comment period is required. DEQ will consider all timely comments and other information obtained pertinent to the permit action. DEQ will notify the applicant of the action taken.

(8) Applicant's appeal rights. DEQ's final action is effective 20 days from the date of service of the notice to the applicant of DEQ's final action unless the applicant requests a hearing before the effective date. The request for a hearing must be in writing and state the grounds for the request. Any hearing will be conducted as a contested case hearing in accordance with ORS 183.413 through 183.470 and OAR chapter 340, division 011.

(9) Permit term. The term of a permit issued pursuant to this rule may not exceed ten years. The expiration date will be recorded on each permit issued.

(10) For systems that are proposed to be or are operating under a WPCF permit, a person may not construct, alter, or repair the system or any part thereof unless that person is licensed under ORS 454.695 or is the permittee.

(11) A person may not connect to or use any system authorized by a WPCF permit unless the system has been inspected and certified in accordance with OAR chapter 340, division 052 and DEQ has accepted that certification.

(12) Renewal of a permit. The procedures for issuance of a new WPCF permit apply to renewal of a permit. A permit may be renewed if a completed permit renewal application, on forms provided by DEQ, is filed with DEQ at least sixty days before the permit expires. The permit will not expire until final action has been taken on a timely renewal application.

(13) DEQ may terminate, revoke, modify, or transfer a permit in accordance with the rules in OAR chapter 340, division 045 applicable to WPCF permits.

(14) Rules which do not apply to WPCF applicants or permittees.

(a) Because the permit review, issuance, and appeal procedures for WPCF permits are different from those of other onsite permits in these rules, the following rules do not apply to WPCF applicants or permittees: OAR 340-071-0135; 340-071-0155; 340-071-0160(1), (2)(a), (b), and (d), (3), (5) and (6); 340-071-0165(1); 340-071-0170; 340-071-0175; 340-071-0185; 340-071-0200; 340-071-0205; 340-071-0210; 340-071-0215(1), (2), (3), and (5); 340-071-0275(4)(c)(A); 340-071-0290(7); 340-071-0295(1); 340-071-0302(6); 340-071-0330; 340-071-0345(1)-(7) and (9)-(14); 340-071-0360(2)(b)(B); 340-071-0410; 340-071-0415; 340-071-0420; 340-071-0425; 340-071-0430; 340-071- 0435; 340-071-0440; 340-071-0445; and 340-071-0500.

(b) WPCF permit applicants and permittees are not subject to any WPCF permit-related fees other than those specified in OAR 340-071-0140.

(c) The following rules in OAR chapter 340, division 073 do not apply to WPCF applicants or permittees: OAR 340-073-0030(1); 340-073-0065; 340-073-0070; and 340-073-0075.

Permit Denial Review — Construction-Installation, Repair, Alteration Permits

(1) Upon request of the applicant, DEQ must review a permit denied by an agent. The application for review must be submitted to DEQ in writing within 60 days of the date the agent issues the permit denial notice and must include the permit denial review fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3).

(2) Permit denials for systems proposed to serve commercial facilities intended for use in a commercial activity, trade, occupation, or profession may be appealed through the contested case hearing procedure set forth in ORS Chapter 183 and OAR chapter 340, division 011.

(3) If the agent intends to deny a permit for a parcel of ten acres or larger, the agent must:

(a) Provide the applicant with a Notice of Intent to Deny;

(b) Specify reasons for the intended denial; and

(c) Offer a contested case hearing in accordance with ORS chapter 183 and OAR chapter 340, division 011.

Pre-Cover Inspections

(1) System installers must request a pre-cover inspection when construction, alteration, or repair of a system is complete except for backfill (cover) and as otherwise required by a permit. The agent must inspect the installation to determine whether it complies with this division, unless the agent waives the inspection in accordance with section (2) of this rule or OAR 340-071-0400(6).

(2) The agent may waive inspections for a system proposed to serve a single family dwelling or for a system of similar flow and waste strength if:

(a) The system was installed by a sewage disposal service business licensed under ORS 454.695;

(b) The installer complies with all requirements of this rule; and

(c) Upon request by the agent, the installer submits to the agent photographs of those portions of the construction for which the inspection is waived.

(3) To request a pre-cover inspection, the installer must submit the following information to the agent at the time construction of the system is complete.

(a) A detailed and accurate as-built plan of the constructed system.

(b) A list of all materials used in the construction of the system.

(c) Certification on an approved form signed by the permittee who installed the system or an installer certified in accordance with OAR 340-071-0650 on a DEQ-approved form that the system was constructed in accordance with the permit, this division, and OAR chapter 340, division 073.

(4) An agent may require an owner to pay the reinspection fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3) when a pre-cover inspection correction notice requires correction of improper construction and, at a subsequent inspection, the agent finds system construction deficiencies have not been corrected.

Authorization to Use Existing Systems

(1) Authorization Notice required. Except as specifically allowed in this rule, a person may not place into service, reconnect to, change the use of, or increase the projected daily sewage flow into an existing onsite system without first obtaining an Authorization Notice, construction-installation permit, or alteration permit as appropriate.

(2) Exceptions.

(a) An Authorization Notice is not required to replace a mobile home with a similar mobile home in a mobile home park or a recreation vehicle with another recreation vehicle in a lawful recreation vehicle park if the onsite wastewater system has adequate capacity for safe treatment of wastewater generated within the park.

(b) An Authorization Notice is not required to place into service a previously unused system for which a Certificate of Satisfactory Completion has been issued within five years of the date such system is placed into service if the projected daily sewage flow does not exceed the design flow and the system is in compliance with the requirements of the Certificate of Satisfactory Completion and applicable requirements in this division.

(3) A completed application for the Authorization Notice must be submitted to an agent with all required exhibits and the authorization notice fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3). The exhibits must include:

(a) A land use compatibility statement from the appropriate land use authority as required in OAR chapter 340, division 018;

(b) An accurate property development plan;

(c) An onsite system description;

(d) A lot map or equivalent plat map for the property;

(e) Documentation of any hardship claimed;

(f) All other information the agent finds necessary to complete the application.

(4) An agent may issue an Authorization Notice valid for up to one year to place into service or change the use of an existing onsite system when no increase in sewage flow is projected and the design flow is not exceeded, if:

(a) The existing system is not failing;

(b) All set-backs between the existing system and the structure can be maintained; and

(c) In the opinion of the agent, the proposed use would not create a public health hazard on the ground surface or in public surface waters.

(5) An agent may issue an Authorization Notice valid for up to one year to place into service or change the use of an existing system when projected daily sewage flow would increase by not more than 300 gallons above the design capacity and not more than 50 percent of the design capacity for the system if:

(a) The existing system is not failing;

(b) All set-backs between the existing system and the structure can be maintained;

(c) A full system replacement area is available and meets all siting requirements in this division except those relating to soil conditions and groundwater; and

(d) In the opinion of the agent, the proposed increase in sewage flow would not create a public health hazard or pollute water.

(6) A construction-installation permit is required to place into service or change the use of a system when projected daily sewage flows would increase by more than 300 gallons above the design capacity or by more than 50 percent of the design capacity of the system.

(7) Personal hardship.

(a) The agent may issue an Authorization Notice allowing a temporary dwelling to use an existing system serving another single family dwelling to provide housing for a person suffering hardship or for an individual providing care for such a person if:

(A) The agent receives a hardship approval issued under local planning ordinances;

(B) The system is not failing; and

(C) The agent receives evidence that local zoning and land use planning regulations allow placement of a hardship temporary dwelling on the subject property.

(b) The Authorization Notice remains in effect for a specified period not to exceed 5 years, but may not exceed cessation of the hardship. The Authorization Notice may be extended for additional periods upon application in accordance with the requirements in section (3) of this rule.

(c) The agent must impose conditions in the Authorization Notice that are necessary to protect public health.

(8) Temporary placement.

(a) The agent may issue an Authorization Notice allowing a temporary dwelling to use an existing system serving another single family dwelling to provide temporary housing for a family member in need if:

(A) The agent receives evidence that the family member is in need of temporary housing;

(B) The system is not failing;

(C) A full system replacement area is available; and

(D) The agent receives evidence that local zoning and land use planning regulations allow placement of a temporary dwelling on the subject property.

(b) The Authorization Notice may authorize use for no more than 2 years and is not renewable. The agent must impose conditions in the Authorization Notice necessary to protect public health. If the system fails during the temporary placement and additional replacement area is no longer available, the owner must disconnect the temporary dwelling from the system.

(9) If the conditions of sections (4), (5), (6), (7), and (8) of this rule are not satisfied, the agent must either deny the Authorization Notice or withhold issuance until necessary alterations or repairs to the system are made.

(a) Alteration or repair requires a permit in accordance with OAR 340-071-0160, 340-071-0210, or 340-071-0215. The agent must credit the Authorization Notice fee submitted with the Authorization Notice application toward the permit fee.

(b) The agent may require submittal of the exhibits described in OAR 340-071-0160(2) to complete the permit application and must issue or deny the permit in accordance with OAR 340-071-0160.

(10) Upon request of the applicant, DEQ will review an Authorization Notice denied by an agent. The application for review must be submitted to DEQ in writing within 45 days of the Authorization Notice denial along with the denial review fee in OAR 340-071-0140(3) and other information DEQ finds necessary to complete the review. DEQ will prepare a report of the review.

Repair of Existing Systems

(1) A failing system must be immediately repaired unless, in the opinion of the agent, adverse soil conditions resulting from climatic conditions would likely preclude a successful repair. In that circumstance, the agent may allow a delay in commencing or completing repairs until the soil conditions improve. If a delay is authorized, the agent must issue a notice of noncompliance to the system owner specifying a compliance date and any interim provisions required to prevent a public health hazard and protect public waters.

(2) Except for emergency repairs, a person may not repair a failing system without first obtaining a repair permit in accordance with this rule. Emergency repairs may be made without first obtaining a permit if a repair permit application is submitted to the agent within three working days after the emergency repairs are begun. The permit application procedure is described in OAR 340-071-0160.

(3) Certificate of Satisfactory Completion. Upon completion of installation of that part of a system for which a repair permit has been issued, the system installer must comply with the requirements for pre-cover inspections in OAR 340-071-0170. The agent must issue or deny the Certificate of Satisfactory Completion in accordance with OAR 340-071-0175.

(4) Criteria for permit issuance.

(a) If the site characteristics and standards in OAR 340-071-0220 can be met, the repair installation must conform to the requirements.

(b) If the site characteristics or standards in OAR 340-071-0220 cannot be met, the agent may allow a reasonable repair installation to eliminate a public health hazard, including the installation of an alternative system as necessary.

(5) Notwithstanding the permit duration specified in OAR 340-071-0160(5), a permit issued pursuant to this rule may be effective for a period of less than one year from the date of issue if specified by the agent.

(6) System owners must decommission failing systems in accordance with OAR 340-071-0185 if the systems cannot be repaired.

Standard Subsurface Systems

(1) Criteria For standard subsurface systems. Each site must meet all of the conditions in this section to be approved for a standard subsurface system.

(a) Effective soil depth must extend 30 inches or more below the ground surface as shown in Table 3. A minimum 6-inch separation must be maintained between the layer that limits effective soil depth and the bottom of the absorption facility.

(b) Water table levels must be predicted using standards in OAR 340-071-0130(23).

(A) The permanent water table must be at least 4 feet below the bottom of the absorption facility, except in defined geographic areas where DEQ has determined through a groundwater study that less separation will not degrade groundwater or threaten public health. In these exception areas, the permanent water table must be at least 24 inches below the ground surface.

(B) A temporary water table must be 24 inches or more below the ground surface. An absorption facility may not be installed deeper than the top of the temporary water table.

(C) A groundwater interceptor may be used to intercept or drain water from an absorption area on sites with adequate slope to permit proper drainage. An agent may require a demonstration that the site can be dewatered before issuing a site evaluation report approving the site. Where required, groundwater interceptors are an integral part of the system but do not need to meet setback requirements to property lines, wells, streams, lakes, ponds, or other surface water bodies that are required for the wastewater absorption area.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (d) of this section, soil with rapid or very rapid permeability must be 36 inches or more below the ground surface. A minimum 18-inch separation must be maintained between soil with rapid or very rapid permeability and the bottom of absorption trenches.

(d) Sites may be approved with no separation between the bottom of absorption trenches and soil with rapid or very rapid permeability as defined in OAR 340-071-0100(148)(a) and (b) and absorption trenches may be placed into such soil if any of the following conditions occur.

(A) A confining layer occurs between the bottom of absorption trenches and the groundwater table and a minimum 6-inch separation is maintained between the bottom of absorption trenches and the top of the confining layer.

(B) A layer of nongravelly (less than 15 percent gravel) soil with sandy loam or finer texture at least 18 inches thick occurs between the bottom of the absorption trenches and the groundwater table.

(C) The projected daily sewage flow does not exceed a loading rate of 450 gallons per acre per day.

(e) Slopes do not exceed 30 percent or the slope/effective soil depth relationship set forth in Table 3.

(f) The site has not been filled or the soil has not been modified in a way that would in the opinion of the agent, adversely affect functioning of the system.

(g) The site is not on an unstable land form that might adversely affect operation of the system.

(h) The site of the initial and replacement absorption facility is not covered by asphalt or concrete or subject to vehicular traffic, livestock, or other activity that would adversely affect the soil.

(i) The site of the initial and replacement absorption facility will not be subjected to excessive saturation from artificial drainage of ground surfaces, driveways, roads, roof drains, or other circumstances.

(j) Setbacks in Table 1 except as modified by this subsection can be met.

(A) Surface waters setbacks. Setback from streams or other surface waters must be measured from bank drop-off or mean yearly high water mark, whichever provides the greatest separation distance.

(B) Lots created before May 1, 1973. For lots or parcels legally created before May 1, 1973, the agent may approve installation of a standard or alternative system with a setback from surface waters of less than 100 feet but not less than 50 feet if all other applicable provisions of this rule can be met.

(C) Water lines and sewer lines. Effluent sewer and water line piping constructed of materials that are approved for use within a building in the 2000 Edition of the Oregon State Plumbing Specialty Code may be run in the same trench or may cross. Where the effluent sewer pipe material is not approved for use in a building, it may not be run or laid in the same trench as water pipe unless:

(i) The bottom of the water pipe at all points is set at least 12 inches above the top of the sewer pipe; and

(ii) The water pipe is placed on a solid shelf excavated at one side of the common trench with a minimum, clear, horizontal distance of at least 12 inches from the sewer pipe.

(D) Septic tank setbacks. The agent must encourage the placement of septic tanks and other treatment units as close as feasible to the minimum separation from the building foundation to minimize clogging of the building sewer.

(E) Pressure transport pipe setback to well. Notwithstanding the setback distance in Table 1, the agent may allow the separation distance between a pressure transport pipe and a well to be less than 50 feet but no less than 25 feet when:

(i) The pressure transport pipe is PVC Sch. 40 or heavier pressure-rated piping meeting ASTM Specification D-2241;

(ii) The pressure transport pipe is placed within a larger diameter PVC or ABS Sch. 40 or heavier encasement pipe, with the pipe ends located at least 50 feet away from the well; and

(iii) All pipe joints in the pressure transport pipe and encasement pipe are solvent-welded.

(2) Criteria for sizing absorption fields. Absorption fields must be designed and sized based on the criteria in this section.

(a) Table 2, specifying quantities of sewage flows, or other information the agent determines is reliable with the following exception. A system must be sized on the basis of 300 gallons sewage flow per day plus 75 gallons per day for the third bedroom when the system:

(A) Is proposed to serve a single family dwelling on a lot of record created before March 1, 1978, that is too small to accommodate a system sized for a daily sewage flow of 450 gallons; or

(B) Serves specifically planned developments with living units of three or fewer bedrooms and deed restrictions prohibit an increase in the number of bedrooms.

(b) Table 4, specifying the minimum length of absorption trenches based on soil texture and effective soil depth.

(c) Table 5, specifying the minimum length of absorption trenches based on soil texture and depth to temporary water.

(d) Strength of the wastewater. If the strength of the wastewater exceeds the maximum limits for residential strength wastewater or the contents of the wastewater are atypical of residential strength wastewater or pose a threat to groundwater, public health, or the environment, the wastewater must be pretreated to acceptable levels before being discharged into a standard or alternative system.

(3) Septic tank.

(a) Liquid capacity.

(A) The quantity of daily sewage flow projected for a facility must be estimated from Table 2. The agent must determine the projected daily sewage flow for establishments not listed in Table 2.

(B) A septic tank that serves a commercial facility must have a liquid capacity of at least two times the projected daily sewage flow unless otherwise authorized by the agent. In all cases the capacity must be at least 1,000 gallons.

(C) The capacity of a septic tank that serves a single family dwelling must be based on the number of bedrooms in the dwelling. For a dwelling with 4 or fewer bedrooms, the tank capacity must be at least 1,000 gallons. Septic tank capacity must be at least 1,500 gallons for dwellings with more than 4 bedrooms.

(D) The agent may require a larger capacity than specified in this subsection as needed for special or unique waste characteristics, such as flow patterns, volumes, waste strength, or facility operation.

(b) Installation requirements.

(A) Septic tanks must be installed on a level, stable base that will not settle.

(B) Septic tanks located in high groundwater area must be weighted or provided with an antibuoyancy device to prevent flotation in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions.

(C) Tanks must be installed with at least one watertight riser extending to the ground surface or above. The riser must have a minimum diameter of 20 inches when the soil cover above the tank does not exceed 36 inches. The riser must have a minimum diameter of 30 inches when the soil cover above the tank exceeds 36 inches or when the tank capacity exceeds 3,000 gallons. A gasketed cover must be provided and securely fastened or weighted to prevent unauthorized access.

(D) Tanks must be installed in a location that provides access for maintenance.

(E) Where practicable, the sewage flow from an establishment must be consolidated into one septic tank.

(F) The agent may allow a removable plug to be placed in the top of a septic tank inlet sanitary tee if the septic tank discharges directly into a gravity-fed absorption facility.

(G) A demonstration of watertightness is required for all tanks after installation in accordance with OAR 340-073-0025.

(H) Unless otherwise allowed by the agent, an effluent filter meeting the requirements of OAR 340-073-0056 must be installed at the septic tank outlet if a tank serves a commercial facility. A service access riser and cover meeting the requirements of 340-071-0220(3)(b)(C) must be placed above the effluent filter.

(c) Construction. Tank construction must comply with minimum standards in OAR chapter 340, division 073, unless otherwise authorized in writing by DEQ.

(d) Multi-compartment tank requirement.

(A) With the exception in paragraph (B) of this subsection, if a septic tank is preceded by a sewage ejector pump, the tank must be manufactured as a multi-compartment tank in accordance with requirements in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 073. An effluent filter must be installed unless the agent allows other methods with equal or better performance in preventing the passage of suspended solids to the drainfield.

(B) If the sewage ejector pump preceding the septic tank at a single family residence receives wastewater from only a clothes washing machine and a sink, a single-compartment septic tank may be used in lieu of a multi-compartment septic tank. The tank must meet the minimum capacity requirement in subsection (a) of this section, and an effluent filter must be installed in the tank's outlet tee fitting. Alternatively, the agent may allow the filter to be placed in a separate vault and riser located just outside the septic tank or may authorize other alternatives as appropriate.

(4) Distribution techniques. Absorption trenches must be constructed according to one of the methods in this section.

(a) Gravity-fed equal distribution (including loop).

(A) Equal distribution must be used on generally level ground. All trenches and piping must be level within a tolerance of plus or minus 1 inch. All lateral piping must be at the same elevation.

(B) A pressure-operated hydrosplitter may be used to achieve equal distribution.

(C) To determine the total useable area of a looped soil absorption facility, the agent must add the sum of the lengths of the parallel absorption trenches and the lengths of up to two absorption trenches intersecting the parallel trenches.

(b) Serial distribution. Serial distribution is generally used on sloping ground. Each trench must be level within a tolerance of plus or minus 1 inch. Serial distribution may be a combination of equal distribution and serial distribution.

(c) Pressurized distribution systems. Pressurized distribution must satisfy the requirements in OAR 340-071-0275.

(1) Criteria for approval. Each site approved for a capping fill system must meet all the following conditions.

(a) Slope does not exceed 12 percent.

(b) Temporary water table is not closer than 18 inches to the ground surface at anytime during the year. A 6-inch minimum separation must be maintained between the bottom of the absorption trench and the temporary water table.

(c) Where a permanent water table is present, a minimum 4-foot separation must be maintained between the bottom of the absorption trench and the water table.

(d) Except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, where material with rapid or very rapid permeability is present, a minimum 18-inch separation must be maintained between the bottom of the absorption trench and soil with rapid or very rapid permeability.

(e) Sites may be approved with no separation between the bottom of the absorption trenches and soil with rapid or very rapid permeability (as defined in OAR 340-071-0100(148)(a) or (b)), and absorption trenches may be placed into such soil if any of the following conditions occur.

(A) A confining layer occurs between the bottom of absorption trenches and the temporary groundwater table and a minimum 6-inch separation is main-tained between the bottom of absorption trenches and the top of the confining layer.

(B) A layer of non-gravelly (less than 15 percent gravel) soil with sandy loam or finer texture at least 18 inches thick occurs between the bottom of the absorption trenches and the groundwater table.

(C) The projected daily sewage flow does not exceed a loading rate of 450 gallons per acre per day.

(f) Effective soil depth is 18 inches or more below the natural soil surface.

(g) Soil texture from the ground surface to the layer that limits effective soil depth is no finer than silty clay loam.

(b) Construction of capping fills must occur between June 1 and October 1 unless otherwise allowed by the agent. The upper 18 inches of natural soil must not be saturated or have a moisture content that causes loss of soil structure and porosity when worked.

(c) The absorption area and the borrow site must be scarified to destroy the vegetative mat.

(d) The system must be installed as specified in the construction-installation permit with a minimum 10-foot separation between the edge of the fill and the absorption facility.

(e) Filter fabric must be used between the drain media and the soil cap, unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(f) Fill must be applied to the fill site and worked in so that the two contact layers, native soil and fill, are mixed. Fill material must be evenly graded to a final depth of 10 inches over the drain media for an equal system or 16 inches over the drain media for a serial system to allow for appropriate settled depths. Both initial cap and repair cap may be constructed at the same time.

Pressurized Distribution Systems

(1) Pressurized distribution systems receiving residential strength wastewater may be permitted on any site meeting the requirements for installation of a standard onsite system and on other sites where this method of effluent distribution is preferable and the site conditions in this rule can be met.

(2) Except as allowed in OAR 340-071-0220(1)(d), pressurized distribution systems must be used where depth to soil with rapid or very rapid permeability as defined in OAR 340-071-0100(148)(a) and (b) is less than 36 inches and the minimum separation distance between the bottom of the absorption trench and such soil is less than 18 inches.

(3) Pressurized distribution systems installed in soil with rapid or very rapid permeability as defined in OAR 340-071-0100(148)(a) and (b) in areas with permanent water tables may not discharge more than 450 gallons of effluent per 1/2 acre per day except where:

(a) Groundwater is degraded and designated as a non-developable resource by the Oregon Water Resources Department; or

(b) A detailed hydrogeological study discloses loading rates exceeding 450 gallons per 1/2 acre per day would not increase the nitrate-nitrogen concentration in the groundwater beneath the site or at any down gradient location to above 5 mg/L.

(4) Materials and construction.

(a) General.

(A) All materials used in pressurized systems must be structurally sound, durable, and capable of withstanding normal stresses incidental to installation and operation.

(B) Pump wiring must comply with applicable building, electrical, or other codes. An electrical permit and inspection from the Department of Consumer and Business Services, Building Codes Division or the municipality with jurisdiction is required for pump wiring installation.

(C) A single compartment dosing septic tank may not be used in a system with pressurized distribution laterals unless the tank is partitioned with a flow-through below the tank's lowest liquid level. The flow through port must be at 65 to 75 percent of the minimum liquid level and be at least 4" in diameter.

(b) Pressurized distribution piping. Piping, valves, and fittings for pressurized systems must meet the following minimum requirements.

(A) All pressure transport, manifold, lateral piping, and fittings must meet the requirements in OAR 340-073-0060(3).

(B) Pressure transport piping must be uniformly supported along the trench bottom. The agent may require the piping to be bedded in sand or other material approved by the agent. A minimum 18 gauge, green-jacketed tracer wire or green color-coded metallic locate tape must be placed above piping.

(C) Orifices must be located on top of the pipe, except as noted in paragraph 4(b)(I) of this section.

(D) The ends of lateral piping must be constructed with long sweep elbows or an equivalent method to bring the end of the pipe to finished grade. The ends of the pipe must be provided with threaded plugs, caps, or other devices acceptable to the agent to allow for access and flushing of the lateral.

(E) All joints in the manifold, lateral piping, and fittings must be solvent-welded using the appropriate joint compound for the pipe material. Pressure transport piping may be solvent-welded or rubber-ring jointed.

(F) A shut off valve must be placed on the pressure transport pipe in or near the dosing tank when appropriate.

(G) A check valve must be placed between the pump and the shut off valve when appropriate.

(H) All orifices must be covered by a protective, durable, noncorrosive orifice shield designed to keep orifices from being blocked by drain media or other system components. The shields or piping must be removable for access to the orifices.

(I) The agent may specify alternate orifice orientation and valve arrangements for conditions such as extended freezing temperatures, temporary or seasonal use, or effluent characteristics.

(J) Where the operation of a pump could result in siphonage of effluent to below the normal off level of the pump, an anti-siphon measure in the form of a non-discharging valve designed for the specific purpose must be used. The anti-siphon valve must be installed and operated in accordance with manufacturer's specifications.

(c) Absorption trench sizing and construction.

(A) A system using absorption trenches must be designed and sized in accordance with the requirements of OAR 340-071-0220(2).

(B) Absorption trenches must be constructed using the specifications for the standard disposal trench unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(C) The trench must contain drain media at least 12 inches deep, with at least 6 inches of media under the pressure distribution laterals and sufficient media above the laterals to meet or cover the orifice shields to provide a smooth, even cover.

(D) The top of the drain media must be covered with filter fabric or other nondegradable material permeable to fluids that will not allow passage of soil particles coarser than very fine sand. In unstable soils, sidewall lining may be required.

(d) Seepage bed construction.

(A) Seepage beds may be used instead of absorption trenches in soil as defined in OAR 340-071-0100(148)(b) if flows do not exceed 600 gpd.

(B) The effective seepage area must be based on the bottom area of the seepage bed. The area must be at least 200 square feet per 150 gallons per day waste flow.

(C) Beds must be installed at least 18 inches deep (12 inches with a capping fill) but not deeper than 36 inches into the natural soil. The seepage bed bottom must be level.

(D) The top of the drain media must be covered with filter fabric or other nondegradable material that is permeable to fluids but will not allow passage of soil particles coarser than very fine sand.

(E) The bed must contain drain media at least 12 inches deep with at least 6 inches of media under the pressure distribution laterals and sufficient media above the laterals to meet or cover the orifice shields to provide a smooth, even cover.

(F) Pressurized distribution piping must be horizontally spaced not more than 4 feet apart and not more than 2 feet away from the seepage bed sidewall. At least 2 parallel pressurized distribution pipes must be placed in the seepage bed.

(G) A minimum of 10 feet of undisturbed earth must be maintained between seepage beds.

(5) Hydraulic design criteria. Pressurized distribution systems must be designed for appropriate head and capacity.

(a) Head calculations must include maximum static lift, pipe friction, and orifice head requirements.

(A) Static lift where pumps are used must be measured from the minimum dosing tank level to the level of the perforated distribution piping.

(B) Pipe friction must be based upon a Hazen Williams coefficient of smoothness of 150. All pressure piping and fittings on laterals must have a minimum diameter of 2 inches unless submitted plans and specifications show a smaller diameter pipe is adequate.

(C) A minimum head of 5 feet at the remotest orifice and no more than a 10 percent flow variation between the nearest and remotest orifice in an individual unit are required.

(b) The capacity of a pressurized distribution system refers to the rate of flow given in gallons per minute (gpm).

(A) Lateral piping must have discharge orifices drilled a minimum diameter of 1/8 inch and evenly spaced no more than 24 inches apart in coarse textured soils or no more than 4 feet apart in finer textured soils.

(B) The system must be dosed at a rate not to exceed 20 percent of the projected daily sewage flow.

(C) The effect of back drainage of the total volume of effluent within the pressure distribution system must be evaluated for its impact upon the dosing tank and system operation.

(6) Service contracts. The owner of a pressurized distribution system must maintain a contract, in accordance with OAR 340-071-0130(23), with a maintenance provider to serve, maintain and adjust the onsite system. A service contract must be entered before the system is installed and must be maintained until the system is decommissioned.

(A) For gravel and Soil Group A: sand, loamy sand, sandy loam — 35 linear feet;

(B) For Soil Group B: loam, silt loam, sandy clay loam, clay loam -- 45 linear feet;

(C) For Soil Group C: silty clay loam, silty clay, sandy clay, clay — 50 linear feet;

(D) For permeable saprolite or fractured bedrock — 50 linear feet;

(E) For high shrink-swell clays (Vertisols) — 75 linear feet.

(b) On lots created before January 1, 1974, which do not have sufficient, suitable area for an absorption facility sized in accordance with this section, the agent may allow seepage trenches if:

(A) The design criteria and limitations in OAR 340-071-0280(2) are met;

(B) The soil is not a high shrink-swell clay;

(C) The temporary water table is at least 30 inches below the ground surface; and

(D) All other requirements of this rule are met.

(c) Trench designs in Vertisols.

(A) Absorption trenches in Vertisols must contain 24 inches of drain media and 24 inches of soil backfill in areas with an annual rainfall of 25 inches or less, minimum slopes of 5 percent, and a temporary water table at least 48 inches below the ground surface.

(B) Seepage trenches in Vertisols containing less than 24 inches of drain media may be used if designed in accordance with the criteria and limitations in OAR 340-071-0280 in areas with an annual rainfall of 25 inches or less, minimum slopes of 5 percent, and a temporary water table at least 48 inches below the ground surface.

(4) Bottomless sand filter. Sites may use a bottomless sand filter if the site meets the criteria in this section and section (3) of this rule.

(a) Saprolite; fractured bedrock; gravel; or soil textures of sand, loamy sand, or sandy loam occur in a continuous section at least 2 feet thick in contact with and below the bottom of the sand filter.

(b) The agent determines the saprolite, fractured bedrock, gravel, or soil is permeable over the basal area to the extent that effluent will absorb adequately and not hinder the performance of the filter. The agent may require that an absorption test be conducted to determine the permeability of the basal area. Test methods must be acceptable to DEQ.

(c) The application rate is based on the design sewage flow in OAR 340-071-0220(2)(a) and the basal area of the sand.

(d) The water table is at least 24 inches below the ground surface throughout the year, and a minimum 24-inch separation is maintained between a water table and the bottom of the sand filter.

(5) Materials and construction.

(a) All materials used in sand filter system construction must be structurally sound, durable, and capable of withstanding normal installation and operation stresses. Component parts subject to malfunction or excessive wear must be readily accessible for repair and replacement.

(b) All filter containers must be placed over a stable, level base.

(c) In a gravity-operated distribution system, the invert elevation of the outlet end of the underdrain pipe must be at or above the final settled ground elevation of the highest absorption trench.

(d) Piping and fittings for the sand filter distribution system must comply with the requirements for pressure distribution systems in OAR 340-071-0275.

(e) Septic tanks, dosing tanks, and other components must comply with the requirements in OAR 340-071-0220 unless this rule specifies different requirements.

(f) The design and construction requirements in OAR 340-071-0295 must be met. A bottomless sand filter unit does not require a watertight floor, but does require watertight walls unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(g) A bottomless sand filter unit does not require a minimum 10-foot separation between the original and replacement unit.

(6) Gravelless absorption method.

(a) Absorption trenches following a sand filter may be constructed without the use of drain media if they meet the criteria in this section.

(A) Absorption trenches must be 12 inches wide by 10 inches deep and incorporate pressurized distribution and a chamber constructed of half sections of 12-inch diameter plastic irrigation pipes (PIP). DEQ may consider deviations to the depth requirement in this rule for alternative drainfield products.

(B) Trenches must be level end to end and across their width.

(C) The agent may allow trenches on minimum 3-foot centers maintaining at least 2 feet of undisturbed earth between parallel trench sidewalls.

(D) Pressurized distribution piping must meet the requirements of OAR 340-071-0275(4)(b), except that orifice shields are not required.

(E) Distribution piping must be perforated with 1/8 inch diameter orifices on maximum 2-foot centers at the 12 o'clock position. The hydraulic design must provide at least a 2-foot residual head at the distal orifice.

(F) The chambers must have an adequate footing to support the soil cover and all normal activity and at a minimum must be constructed of 12-inch PIP rated at 43 pounds per square inch and meeting the appendix standards of ASTM D-2241. Each line must be equipped with a minimum 6-inch diameter inspection port.

(b) Except as noted in subsection (a) of this section, all construction and siting criteria for conventional sand filter systems in this division must be met. This includes but is not limited to the absorption field sizing for sand filter systems in OAR 340-071-0290(3) and area sizing for an initial and replacement absorption facility meeting standard trench separations in OAR 340-071-0220(7)(a)(E). Plans must verify that a system can be installed on the parcel that will meet the requirements in OAR 340-071-0290(3) and 340-071-0220(7)(a)(E) and all other applicable rules before a gravelless absorption method is approved.

(c) A gravelless absorption method may be used wherever this division allows a standard or alternative-type absorption trench for sand filter systems, except in Vertisols.

(d) A method to prevent burrowing animals from entering the chamber must be provided in areas where this is likely to occur.

(7) Operation and maintenance. Owners of conventional and other sand filter systems must ensure the sand filter and all other components of the system are continuously operated and timely maintained in accordance with the requirements on the Certificate of Satisfactory Completion and this rule.

(a) Owners of conventional and other sand filter systems must comply with the operation and maintenance requirements in this section. The owner of a sand filter system must inspect the septic tank and other components of the system at least annually for sludge accumulation, pump calibration, and cleaning of the laterals. Tanks must be pumped when there is an accumulation of floating scum less than 3 inches above the bottom of the outlet tee fitting, holes or ports, or an accumulation of sludge less than 6 inches below the bottom of the outlet tee fitting, holes or ports. Pump calibration, cleaning of the laterals, and other maintenance must be completed as necessary.

(b) Service Contracts. The owner of a residential sand filter system and all sand filter systems serving commercial facilities must maintain a contract, in accordance with OAR 340-071-0130(23), with a maintenance provider to serve and maintain the onsite system. A service contract must be entered before the system is installed and must be maintained until the system is decommissioned.

Conventional Sand Filter Design and Construction

(1) Criteria for sizing. Systems must be sized based on quantities of sewage flow in accordance with OAR 340-071-0220(2)(a).

(2) Minimum filter area:

(a) A sand filter proposed to serve a single family dwelling must have an effective medium sand surface area of at least 360 square feet. If the design sewage flow exceeds 450 gallons per day, the medium sand surface area must be determined with the following equation: Area = projected daily sewage flow divided by 1.25 gallons per square foot.

(b) A bottomless sand filter following an ATT system must have an effective medium sand surface area of at least 250 square feet. If the design sewage flow exceeds 450 gallons per day, the medium sand surface area must be determined with the following equation: Area = projected daily sewage flow divided by 1.80 gallons per square foot.

(c) Sand filter influent may not exceed concentrations of 300 mg/L BOD5, 150 mg/L TSS, or 25 mg/L oil and grease.

(3) Design criteria.

(a) The interior base of the filter container must be level or constructed at a grade of 1 percent or less to the underdrain piping elevation.

(b) Except for sand filters without a bottom, underdrain piping must meet the requirements in OAR 340-073-0060(2) and must be installed in the interior of the filter container at the lowest elevation. The piping must be level or on a grade of 1 percent or less to the point of passage through the filter container. The pipe perforations or slots must be oriented in the upright or sideways position.

(c) The base of the filter container with the underdrain piping in place must be covered with a minimum of 6 inches of drain media or underdrain media. Unless waived by the agent, the underdrain media proposed for a sand filter must be sieved to determine conformance with the criteria in OAR 340-071-0100(170) and a report of the analysis must be provided to the agent. Where underdrain media is used, the underdrain piping must be enveloped in an amount and depth of drain media to prevent migration of the underdrain media to the pipe perforations.

(d) Where drain media is used at the base of the filter, it must be covered by a layer of filter fabric meeting the specifications in OAR 340-073-0041. Where underdrain media is used, filter fabric is not required.

(e) A minimum of 24 inches of approved sand filter media must be installed over the filter fabric or underdrain media. The sand filter media must be damp at the time of installation. The top surface of the media must be level. Unless waived by the agent, the sand filter media proposed for each sand filter must be sieve-tested to determine conformance with the criteria in OAR 340-071-0100(124), and a report of the analysis must be provided to the agent.

(f) A minimum of 3 inches of clean drain or underdrain media is required below the distribution laterals, and sufficient media is required above the laterals to meet or cover the orifice shields to provide a smooth, even cover.

(g) A pressurized distribution system meeting the requirements of OAR 340-071-0275(4) and (5) must be constructed as described in subsection (f) of this section.

(A) Distribution laterals must be spaced a maximum of 30 inches center to center. Orifices must be spaced no more than 30 inches apart.

(B) The ends of the distribution laterals must be designed and constructed to allow flushing of the piping, collectively or individually, using a corrosion-resistant and accessible valve or threaded endcap. The flushed effluent may be discharged to the septic tank or into the sand filter.

(C) The diameters of the distribution manifold and laterals must be at least 1/2 inch in diameter.

(D) A sand filter must be dosed at a rate not to exceed 10 percent of the projected daily sewage flow.

(h) The top of the media in which the pressure distribution system is installed must be covered with filter fabric meeting the specifications in OAR 340-073-0041.

(i) The top of the sand filter area must be backfilled with a soil cover free of rock, vegetation, wood waste, and other materials that may harm the filter. The soil cover must have a textural class no finer than loam unless otherwise authorized by the agent. The soil cover must be at least 6 inches and no more than 12 inches deep.

(j) All piping passing through the sand filter container must be watertight.

(4) Container design and construction.

(a) A reinforced concrete container with watertight walls and floors must be used where watertightness is necessary to prevent groundwater from infiltrating into the filter or to prevent the effluent from exfiltrating from the filter except as otherwise allowed in this division or OAR chapter 340, division 073. The container structure may require a building permit for construction.

(b) The container may be constructed of materials other than concrete where equivalent function, workmanship, watertightness, and at least a 20-year service life can be documented.

(A) Flexible membrane liner (FML) materials must have properties at least equivalent to 30 mil unreinforced polyvinyl chloride (PVC) described in OAR 340-073-0085. For FML materials to be approved for installation:

(i) Field repair instructions and materials must be provided to the purchaser with the liner; and

(ii) The final materials must have factory-fabricated boots suitable for field bonding onto the liner to facilitate the passage of piping through the liner in a waterproof manner.

(B) Where accepted for use, flexible sheet membrane liners must be installed in accordance with OAR 340-073-0085.

(C) The backfill around the container must be no steeper than a 3:1 slope (3 feet for every vertical foot) unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(5) Internal pump option. Where a pump is used to discharge effluent from a sand filter to another treatment unit, a distribution unit, or an absorption facility, the design and construction of the filter may include an internal pump station if the following conditions are met.

(a) The location, design, and construction of the pump station must not conflict with design, construction, and operation of the sand filter system.

(b) The design and construction of the pump, discharge plumbing, controls, and alarm must meet the requirements in OAR 340-073-0055 except subsections (4)(d) and (4)(h).

(c) The pump and related apparatus must be housed in a corrosion-resistant vault designed to withstand stresses and prevent the migration of drain media, sand, or underdrain media to its interior. The vault must have a durable, affixed floor. The vault must provide watertight access to finished grade with a diameter equal to that of the vault and designed to receive treated effluent from the bottom of the sand filter.

(d) The depth of underdrain media and the operating level of the pump cycle and alarm may not allow effluent to come within 2 inches of the bottom of the sand filter media. The pump off-level may be no lower than the invert of the perforations of the underdrain piping.

(e) The internal sand filter pump must be electrically linked to the sand filter dosing apparatus to prevent effluent from entering the sand filter if the internal sand filter pump fails.

340-071-0302
Recirculating Gravel Filter (RGF)

(1) Siting and absorption area construction criteria.

(a) RGFs approved for treatment standard 1 may be sited and sized as follows.

(A) In areas with a temporary water table, in accordance with specifications for sand filters in areas with temporary groundwater in OAR 340-071-0290.

(B) In areas with permanent groundwater, where 4 feet of separation can be maintained between the bottom of the trench and groundwater and the other criteria in OAR 340-071-0290 can be met.

(C) On sites meeting criteria for standard onsite systems in OAR 340-071-0220 or for pressurized systems in OAR 340-071-0275.

(b) RGFs used in conjunction with approved disinfection and approved nitrogen reduction processes and expected to meet treatment standard 2 may be sited and sized as follows.

(A) On sites meeting the criteria for treatment standard 1 in subsection (a) of this section.

(B) In areas with a permanent water table, in accordance with specifications for sand filters in areas with a permanent water table in OAR 340-071-0290.

(c) Any type of absorption area permitted for a sand filter system, including the gravel-less absorption method, may be permitted for an RGF system.

(2) Design criteria.

(a) Filter design and dosing.

(A) The basal or bottom area of the filter must be sized based on a maximum organic load. For residential strength wastewater that has been pretreated through a septic tank, the maximum hydraulic load allowable is 5 gal/ft2/day.

(B) For BOD5 waste strengths stronger than residential strength wastewater but not exceeding 400 mg/L, the filter size must be increased proportionately.

(C) Higher strength wastewaters must be pretreated or will require special consideration. In no case may the concentration of greases and oil applied exceed 30 mg/L.

(b) Filter media.

(A) Where CBOD5 removal must be at least 85 percent based upon the raw sewage concentration applied to the septic tank and nitrification of wastewater is necessary, a filter media must consist of 3 feet of very fine washed gravel, 100 percent passing a 3/8-inch sieve with an effective size between 3 and 5 millimeters and a uniformity coefficient of 2 or less. Washed means that negligible fines (less than 1.0 percent) pass a No. 10 sieve.

(B) Where additional removal of BOD5 and denitrification is intended or required, a treatment media may consist of 2 feet of very coarse washed sand, 100 percent passing a 3/8-inch sieve with an effective size between 1.5 and 2.5 millimeters and a uniformity coefficient of 2 or less. Washed means that negligible fines (less than 4.0 percent) pass the No. 100 sieve.

(C) Sieves of 3/8 inch, 1/4 inch, and Nos. 4, 6, 8, 10, 50, and 100 must be used in gradation analysis.

(D) The permittee must provide fresh samples of the intended media for each project before shipment to the project site. A laboratory gradation analysis must be performed and the gradation data plotted on semi-log paper as a gradation curve. Lab data, gradation curve, and a 5-pound sample of the media must be submitted to the agent for approval. Only approved media may be used.

(c) Filter media must be overlain by a 3-inch bed of 1/2-inch to 3/4-inch washed gravel. The media and gravel may only lightly cover the distribution piping. Unless otherwise authorized, each orifice must be covered by an orifice shield to prevent aerial spray drift.

(d) Filter dosing must use a low pressure distribution piping system operating under adequate head to pressurize the system. The operating head must be a minimum of 5 feet at the remotest orifice and have no more than 10 percent flow variation between the nearest and remotest orifice in an individual unit. Each lateral pipe end must terminate with a screwed plug or cap accessible for removal and flushing. Wherever practical, a valved backflush system must be installed to flush groups of laterals back to a septic tank or elsewhere.

(e) Pressure-distribution piping must be spaced 2 feet center to center in a parallel grid. Orifice spacing must be every 2 feet on laterals. Piping grid edges should be within 1 foot of the filter basal edge.

(f) Filter media must be underlain by a 6-inch bed of a 1/2 to 3/4-inch washed gravel underdrain media. No filter fabric may cover the underdrain media.

(g) Perforated collection pipes must meet requirements in OAR 340-073-0060(2) and be bedded in the underdrain media. Pipes must be at least 4 inches in diameter with no filter fabric wrap. At least 15 lineal feet of collection pipe is required for each 225 square feet of filter basal area.

(h) The filter container must be watertight to suit the design conditions. Underflow must be contained. Groundwater must be excluded. A concrete container may be used. Other materials may be used if equivalent function, workmanship, watertightness, and at least a 20-year service life can be expected.

(3) Recirculation/dilution tank.

(a) A recirculation tank receives septic tank effluent and underflow from the filter. A pumping system at this tank delivers flow to the filter dose piping network according to a project design. The recirculation tank volume measured from tank floor to tank soffit must be at least equal to the projected daily sewage flow volume.

(b) The recirculation ratio at design flow must be at least 4. Recirculation ratio is the daily volume of recycle divided by design daily volume of the wastewater. A fabricated "T" or "Splitter T" float valve located in the recirculation tank must be used whenever possible. Minimum recirculation tank liquid volume must be at least 80 percent of the gross tank volume when a float valve is used. Alternatively, where required and reasonable, a splitter basin using orifice or weir control may be used to divide underflow 20 percent to the absorption field and 80 percent to recycle on a daily basis. This alternative must use orifice control wherever possible. Minimum recirculation tank liquid volume must be at least 50 percent of the required tank volume when a splitter basin is used.

(c) Evaluation of and design for overflow and surge control at the recirculation tank must be included in the design plans.

(d) An audible or visual high water alarm must be included in the recirculation tank immediately below the overflow level. A latching electrical relay must retain the audible or visual alarm until acknowledged by a site attendant.

(e) Parallel pump start/stop electric controls (usually floats) must be installed to correct any unforeseen high liquid level event and keep sewage contained. This pump start function precludes overflow and must operate in parallel with the start/stop function of a timer and must not interfere with or depend upon a timer position.

(f) All areas of the filter must be wetted 48 times a day or every 30 minutes to achieve the recirculation ratio of at least 4 unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(g) Testing must demonstrate the recirculation tank is watertight. Testing must be witnessed by the designer. Test protocol must be included in the design plans.

(h) Access onto the filter must be restricted by a fence or other effective means. Surface water entry onto the filter must be prevented by design and construction.

(i) Access openings to the recirculation tank must be provided at each end. Larger tanks must have additional openings. The smallest dimension of any access must be 18 inches. Larger openings must be provided if partially obstructed with piping or other objects. Provisions must be made to remove dregs (settleable solids). Pumps must be readily removable and replaceable without demolition of piping or other components.

(4) Operation and Maintenance standards. The owner of an onsite system using an RGF must ensure the RGF and all other components of the onsite system are properly operated and timely maintained or decommissioned.

(5) Operation and maintenance manual. The designer of an RGF system must ensure that comprehensive and detailed operation and maintenance instructions are provided to the onsite system owner at the time of installation. The instructions must emphasize operating and maintaining the entire system within the parameter ranges for which it is designed. The information must be presented in a manner that can be easily under-stood by the owner and include at a minimum:

(a) As-built plans with the name and contact number of the installer;

(b) A description of how the process functions, including diagrams illustrating basic system design and flow path;

(c) A maintenance schedule for all critical components;

(d) Requirements and recommended procedures for periodic removal of residuals from the system;

(e) A detailed procedure for visually evaluating the function of system components;

(f) A description of olfactory and visual techniques for confirming correct process parameters and system performance;

(g) A recommended method for collecting and transporting effluent samples;

(h) Safety concerns that may need to be addressed; and

(i) Emergency contact numbers for maintenance providers and pumpers.

(6) Service contracts. The owner of an RGF system must maintain a contract, in accordance with OAR 340-071-0130(23), with a maintenance provider to serve and maintain the onsite system. A service contract must be entered before the system is installed and must be maintained until the system is decommissioned.

Gray Water Waste Disposal Sumps

(1) Criteria for approval.

(a) Hand-carried graywater may be disposed of in graywater waste disposal sumps that serve facilities, including but not limited to recreation parks, camp sites, or construction sites, if the projected daily graywater flow does not exceed 10 gallons per unit. Graywater or other sewage may not be piped to the graywater waste disposal sump. Where projected daily sewage flow exceeds 10 gallons per unit, graywater must be disposed of in facilities meeting requirements of OAR 340-071-0320(2).

(b) Graywater sumps may be used where the agent determines they will not create a nuisance or public health hazard.

(c) Up to four graywater waste disposal sumps may be constructed on the same property and at the same time for each construction permit. The sumps must meet minimum separation distances in Table 8.

(2) In campgrounds or other public use areas, graywater waste disposal sumps must be identified as "sink waste disposal" by placard or sign in letters at least 3 inches in height and in a color contrasting with the background.

(3) Design and construction details for the graywater waste disposal sumps must be submitted with the permit application. At a minimum, the sump design concepts must include a receiving chamber with screen, settling chamber with tee fitting that extends about a third of the depth of the clear zone, and an absorption facility. The absorption facility may be a shallow seepage chamber or absorption trench, depending on site conditions or other considerations.

Holding Tanks

(1) Criteria for approval. Except as provided in section (5) of this rule, installation of a holding tank system requires a construction-installation or WPCF permit. A construction-installation permit may be issued for sites that meet all the following conditions.

(a) Permanent use.

(A) The site cannot be approved for installation of a standard subsurface system.

(B) No community or areawide sewerage system is available or expected to be available within five years.

(C) The tank is intended to serve a small industrial or commercial building or an occasional use facility such as a county fair or a rodeo.

(a) At a minimum, the ATT must have ground-level access ports sized and located to facilitate installation, removal, sampling, examination, maintenance, and servicing of components or compartments that require routine maintenance or inspection. Access ports must facilitate:

(A) Visually inspecting and removing mechanical or electrical components;

(B) Removing components that require periodic cleaning or replacement;

(C) Visually inspecting and collecting samples; and

(D) Removing (manual or pumping) accumulated residuals.

(b) Access ports must be protected against unauthorized intrusion. Acceptable protective measures include but are not limited to padlocks or covers that can be removed only with tools.

(b) The ATT must possess a mechanism or process capable of detecting:

(A) Failure of electrical and mechanical components that are critical to the treatment process; and

(B) High liquid level conditions above the normal operating specifications.

(c) The ATT must possess a mechanism or process capable of notifying the system owner of failures. The mechanism must have circuits separate from pump circuits and deliver a visible and audible signal.

(A) The visual alarm signal must be conspicuous at a distance of 50 feet from the system and its appurtenances.

(B) The audible alarm signal strength must be between 70 and 90 dbA at 5 feet and discernible at a distance of 50 feet from the system and its appurtenances.

(C) The visual and auditory signals must continue to function in the event of electrical, mechanical equipment, or hydraulic malfunction of the system. The audible signal may be disabled for service as long as the visual signal remains active while cause for the alarm is identified and alleviated.

(d) A clearly visible label or plate with instructions for obtaining service must be permanently located near the failure signal.

(7) Data plate.

(a) The ATT must have permanent and legible data plates located on:

(A) On sites meeting the criteria for treatment standard 1 in subsection (a) of this section.

(B) In areas with a permanent water table, in accordance with specifications for sand filters in areas with a permanent water table in OAR 340-071-0290.

(c) Any type of absorption area permitted for a sand filter system, including the gravel-less absorption method, may be permitted for an ATT system.

(9) Limited warranty. The ATT manufacturer must:

(a) Warrant all components of the ATT to be free from defects in material and workmanship for a minimum of two years from the date of installation; and

(b) Fulfill the terms of the warranty by repairing or exchanging any components that the manufacturer determines may be defective.

(10) Installation. ATTs must be installed in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions and this division. The installer must be certified by the ATT manufacturer to install the system and provide written certification to the agent that the ATT component was installed in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions and this rule.

(11) Sampling ports. A sampling port must be designed, constructed, and installed to provide easy access for collecting a free falling or undisturbed sample from the effluent stream. The sampling port may be located within the ATT or other system component (such as a pump chamber) if the wastewater stream being sampled is representative of the effluent stream from the ATT.

(12) Operation and maintenance standards. The owner of an ATT system must ensure the ATT and all components of the onsite system are properly operated and timely maintained or decommissioned and the effluent standards in section (3) of this rule are met.

(13) Owner's manual. The designer of each onsite system using an ATT must provide a comprehensive owner's manual prepared by the manufacturer or designer to the system owner, manufacturer's representative, installer, and if requested, the agent before or at the time of installation. The manual may be a collection of individual system component manuals and must include information on system specifications, system installation, operation and maintenance, and troubleshooting and repair. The information must be presented in a manner that can be easily under-stood by the owner.

(14) Service contracts.

(a) The owner of an ATT system must maintain a contract, in accordance with OAR 340-071-0130(23), with a maintenance provider to serve and maintain the onsite system. A service contract must be entered before the system is installed and must be maintained until the system is decommissioned.

(b) A maintenance provider must be certified by the manufacturer to provide service on an ATT.

(3) Lands overlaying the Alsea Dunal Aquifer.

(a) Within the area set forth in subsection (c) of this section, the agent may approve a site or issue a permit to construct a single onsite system on lots that were lots of record before January 1, 1981, or on lots in partitions or subdivisions that have received preliminary planning, zoning, and onsite wastewater treatment system approval before January 1, 1981, if one of the following can be met.

(A) At the time the site is approved or the permit is issued, the lot complies with OAR 340-071-0100 through 340-071-0360 and 340-071-0410 through 340-071-0520.

(B) The site meets all of the following conditions when a pressurized seepage bed is used.

(i) Groundwater levels are not closer than 4 feet from the ground surface or closer than 3 feet from the bottom of the seepage bed.

(ii) The seepage bed is constructed in accordance with OAR 340-071-0275(4) and (5).

(iii) The seepage bed is sized on the basis of 200 square feet of bottom area per 150 gallons projected daily sewage flow.

(iv) Projected daily sewage flows are limited to 375 gallons per lot, except for lots approved in a site evaluation for a larger flow.

(v) All setbacks identified in Table 1 can be met, except that lots of record before May 1, 1973, must maintain a minimum 50-feet separation to public surface waters.

(vi) Sufficient area exists on the lot to install a seepage bed and a replacement seepage bed, or the area reserved for replacement is waived pursuant to the exception in OAR 340-071-0150(4)(a)(C).

(C) The site meets all of the following conditions when a bottomless sand filter is used.

(i) Groundwater levels are not closer than 1 foot from the ground surface and not closer than 1 foot from the bottom of the sand filter.

(ii) Sewage flows are limited to 375 gallons per day per lot, except for lots approved in a site evaluation for larger flows.

(iii) The sand filter is sized at 1 square foot of bottom area for each gallon of projected daily sewage flow.

(iv) The design and construction requirements in OAR 340-071-0295(3) and (4) must be met. A bottomless sand filter unit does not require a watertight floor, but does require watertight walls unless otherwise authorized by the agent.

(v) All setbacks identified in Table 1 can be met, except that lots of record before May 1, 1973, must maintain a minimum 50 feet separation to public surface waters.

(vi) Sufficient area exists on the lot to install an initial and replacement bottomless conventional sand filter, or the area for replacement is not required under OAR 340-071-0150(4)(a)(C).

(b) An agent may approve a site or issue a construction-installation permit for a new onsite system within the area set forth in subsection (c) of this section on lots created on or after January 1, 1981, if all rules in this division can be met.

(c) The Alsea Dunal Aquifer is defined as all the land bounded on the East by Highway 101, on the west by the Pacific Ocean, and from Driftwood Beach Wayside South to the southern tip of the Alsea Bay Spit.

(d) If groundwater monitoring in the Alsea Dunal Aquifer indicates unacceptable levels of degradation or if development of the aquifer as a source of drinking water is necessary or desirable, sewage collection and off-site treatment facilities must be installed unless further study demonstrates that such facilities are not necessary or effective to protect the beneficial use.

(4) Christmas Valley Townsite, Lake County.

(a) Within the area set forth in subsection (b) of this section, the agent may consider the shallow groundwater table, if present, in the same manner as a temporary water table when issuing site evaluation reports and construction-installation permits.

(b) The Christmas Valley Townsite is defined as all land within the Christmas Valley Townsite plat located within Sections 9, 10, 11, 14, 15 and 16 of Township 27 South, Range 17 East, Willamette Meridian, in Lake County.

(5) Clatsop Plains Aquifer, Clatsop County. The Clatsop Plains Groundwater Protection Plan, prepared by R.W. Beck and Associates and adopted by Clatsop County, provides a basis for continued use of onsite wastewater treatment systems while protecting the quality of groundwater for future water supplies. For the plan to be successful, the following components must be accomplished.

(a) By January 1, 1983, Clatsop County must identify and set aside aquifer reserve areas for future water supply development containing a minimum of 2-1/2 square miles. The reserve areas must be controlled so that the potential for groundwater contamination from nitrogen and other possible pollutants is kept to a minimum;

(b) The agent may approve sites and issue construction permits for new onsite systems within the area generally known as the Clatsop Plains as described in subsection (c) of this section if the conditions in paragraph (A) and paragraph (B), (C), or (D) of this subsection are met.

(A) The lot or parcel was created in compliance with the appropriate comprehensive plan for Gearhart (adopted by County Ordinance 80-3), Seaside (adopted by County Ordinance 80-10), Warrenton (adopted by County Ordinance 82-15), or Clatsop County (adopted through Ordinance No. 79-10).

(B) The lot or parcel does not violate any rule of this division.

(C) Lot or parcel does not violate DEQ's Water Quality Management Plan or any rule in this division, except that the projected maximum sewage loading rate may exceed the ratio of 450 gallons per 1/2 acre per day. In this case, the onsite system must be either a sand filter system or a pressurized distribution system with a design sewage flow not to exceed 450 gallons per day.

(D) Use of standard onsite systems to serve single family dwellings within planned developments or clustered-lot subdivisions complies with the following requirements:

(i) The planned development or clustered-lot subdivision is not located within Gearhart, Seaside, Warrenton, or their urban growth boundaries.

(ii) The lots do not violate any rule of this division, except the projected maximum sewage loading rate may exceed the ratio of 450 gallons per acre per day.

(iii) DEQ is provided satisfactory evidence through a detailed groundwater study that the use of standard systems will not constitute a greater threat to groundwater quality than would occur with the use of sand filter systems or pressurized distribution systems.

(c) The area generally known as Clatsop Plains is bounded by the Columbia River to the North; the Pacific Ocean to the west; the Necanicum River, Neawanna Creek, and County Road 157 on the south; and the Carnahan Ditch-Skipanon River and the foothills of the Coast Range to the east.

(6) Within areas east of the Cascade Range where the annual precipitation does not exceed 20 inches, the agent may issue a construction-installation permit authorizing installation of a standard system to serve a single family dwelling if the requirements in subsections (a) and (b) of this section are met.

(a) Minimum site criteria.

(A) The parcel or lot is 10 acres or larger.

(B) The slope gradient does not exceed 30 percent.

(C) The soils are diggable with a backhoe to a depth of at least 24 inches.

(D) The site complies with the provisions of OAR 340-071-0220(1)(b), (f), (g), (h), (i), and (j).

(b) Minimum construction requirements.

(A) The system must contain at least 225 linear feet of absorption trench for projected sewage flows not exceeding 450 gallons per day. Larger sewage flows must be sized on the basis of 75 linear feet per each 150 gallons of projected flow.

(B) The system must be constructed and backfilled in compliance with OAR 340-071-0220(3), (4), (5), (7), (8), (9), (10), (11), and (12).

(c) The owner or owner's authorized representative may submit a single application to the agent for both a site evaluation report and a construction-installation permit. Such application must be submitted in accordance with OAR 340-071-0160 or 340-071-0162 and include the applicable evaluation and permit fees in OAR 340-071-0140.

(d) The agent may waive the pre-cover inspection for a system installed pursuant to this section if the system installer submits the following information to the agent at the time construction of the system is complete:

(A) A detailed, accurate as-built plan of the constructed system;

(B) A list of all material used in the construction of the system; and

(C) A written certification on a form acceptable to DEQ that the construction was in accordance with the permit and rules in this division and OAR chapter 340, division 73.

(e) The Agent may waive the site evaluation for a single family dwelling if the requirements in this subsection are met. These conditions are set forth in an addendum to the memorandum of agreement (contract) between the County and DEQ.

(A) Minimum site criteria.

(i) The lot or parcel is 80 acres or larger.

(ii) The separation distance between the proposed onsite system and the nearest dwelling not served by the proposed system is at least 1/4 mile.

(iii) The nearest property line to the proposed system is at least 100 feet; the nearest domestic water source is at least 200 feet; and the nearest public surface water is at least 200 feet.

(iv) In the opinion of the agent, topographical and soils information submitted with the application, including but not limited to slope, terrain, landform, and rock outcrops, demonstrates that the property can be approved for an onsite system in accordance with this division.

(B) Minimum construction requirements.

(i) Sizing requirements of Tables 4 and 5 must be followed as closely as possible. In all cases the system must contain at least 225 linear feet of absorption trench for projected sewage flows not exceeding 450 gallons per day. Larger sewage flows must be sized on the basis of 75 linear feet per each 150 gallons of projected flow.

(ii) The system must be constructed and backfilled as closely as possible to the requirements in OAR 340-071-0220. The agent may waive watertight testing of tanks in the system.

Sewage Disposal Service Licenses

(1) License required. A person may not perform sewage disposal services or advertise or represent himself as being in the business of performing such services without a valid license issued by DEQ to perform those services. A separate license is required for each business, organization, or other person conducting sewage disposal services.

(2) Types of licenses. DEQ may issue three types of sewage disposal service licenses.

(a) Installer license. An installer license is required for any person to construct or install onsite systems or parts of onsite systems or to perform the grading, excavating, or earth-moving work associated with the construction or installation of onsite systems.

(b) Pumper license. A pumper license is required for any person to pump out or clean onsite systems, including portable toilets or any part thereof, and to dispose of the material derived from the pumping out or cleaning of onsite systems or portable toilets.

(c) Installer/pumper license. The combined installer/pumper license authorizes a person to perform the work authorized by the installer and the pumper licenses.

(3) Duration of license. The duration of a sewage disposal service license may not exceed three years following the date of issuance. DEQ may issue licenses for periods of less than three years to stagger expiration dates. DEQ will provide licensees written notice of the expiration date assigned and date application for renewal is due.

(4) Certification requirement.

(a) Each business with an installer or installer/pumper license must identify at least one person certified under OAR 340-071-0650 who will supervise installation of onsite systems for the licensee.

(A) The court judgment or order requiring payment of the claim; or

(B) Written authority by the depositor for DEQ to pay the claim.

(c) When proceedings under ORS 454.705 have been commenced while the security required is in effect, such security must be held until final disposition of the proceedings is made. At that time claims will be referred for consideration of payment from the security so held.

(8) Licensee responsibilities. Each licensee:

(a) Is responsible for violations of any statute, rule, or order of the commission or DEQ pertaining to the licensed business.

(C) The party applies for and obtains DEQ approval under OAR 340-253-0450.

(c) New fuel or feedstock. A regulated or opt-in party must obtain approval for an individual carbon intensity value under OAR 340-253-0450 for any fuel not included in Table 1 or 2 under OAR 340-253-3010 or -3020 and for any fuel made from a feedstock not represented in a carbon intensity value in Table 1 or 2 under OAR 340-253-3010 or -3020. The party must submit a modification to the original registration under OAR 340-253-0500(5) within 30 days,

(d) Process change notification. The regulated or opt-in party must notify DEQ and obtain approval for an individual carbon intensity value under OAR 340-253-0450 for any changes to the fuel production process, if the fuel's carbon intensity value changes by more than 5.0 gCO2e per MJ or 10 percent. The party must submit a modification to the original registration under OAR 340-253-0500(5) within 30 days.

(4) OR-GREET. The regulated or opt-in party must calculate all carbon intensity values using the approved version of OR-GREET, or a DEQ-approved comparable model for any fuel that cannot be modeled with OR-GREET. Any variations from the approved version of OR-GREET must be documented as described under OAR 340-253-0450(1) and submitted to DEQ for approval.

(5) Calculation requirements. When a regulated or opt-in party calculates a carbon intensity value of:

(a) Fuels made from biomass feedstock, the party may assume that the combustion and growing components of the fuel's lifecycle greenhouse gas emissions have net zero lifecycle carbon dioxide emissions.

(b) Fuels made from petroleum feedstock, including waste petroleum feedstock, the party may not assume that the combustion of the fuel has net zero carbon dioxide emissions.

(c) Fuels made from waste feedstock, the party may assume that the lifecycle greenhouse gas emissions analysis of the carbon intensity value begins when the original product becomes waste.

Rule Caption: Corrections and Clarifications to Toxics Water Quality Standards
Adm. Order No.: DEQ 16-2013
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-23-2013
Certified to be Effective: 12-23-13
Notice Publication Date: 9-1-2013
Rules Amended: 340-040-0020, 340-040-0080, 340-041-0009
Subject: The EQC amended Bacteria and Groundwater rules to correct reference errors based on the repeal of Table 20. These rules now generally reference the toxics criteria values contained in the Toxic Substances rule rather than citing specific table numbers.

Rules Coordinator: Maggie Vandehey—(503) 229-6878

340-040-0020
General Policies

(1) Groundwater is a critical natural resource providing domestic, industrial, and agricultural water supply; and other legitimate beneficial uses; and also providing base flow for rivers, lakes, streams, and wetlands.

(2) Groundwater, once polluted, is difficult and sometimes impossible to clean up. Therefore, the EQC shall employ an anti-degradation policy to emphasize the prevention of groundwater pollution, and to control waste discharges to groundwater so that the highest possible water quality is maintained.

(3) All groundwaters of the state shall be protected from pollution that could impair existing or potential beneficial uses for which the natural water quality of the groundwater is adequate. Among the recognized beneficial uses of groundwater, domestic water supply is recognized as being the use that would usually require the highest level of water quality. Existing high quality groundwaters which exceed those levels necessary to support recognized and legitimate beneficial uses shall be maintained except as provided for in these rules.

(4) Numerical groundwater quality reference levels and guidance levels are listed in Tables 1 through 3 of this Division. These levels have been obtained from the Safe Drinking Water Act, and indicate when groundwater may not be suitable for human consumption or when the aesthetic quality of groundwater may be impaired. They will be used by the Department and the public to evaluate the significance of a particular contaminant concentration, and will trigger necessary regulatory action. These levels should not be construed as acceptable groundwater quality goals because it is the policy of the EQC to maintain and preserve the highest possible water quality.

(5) For pollutant parameters for which numerical groundwater quality reference levels or guidance levels have not been established, or for evaluating adverse impacts on beneficial uses other than human consumption, the Department shall make use of the most current and scientifically valid information available in determining at what levels pollutants may affect present or potential beneficial uses. Such information shall include, but not be limited to, values set forth in OAR 340-041-0033.

(6) The Department shall develop, implement and conduct a comprehensive groundwater quality protection program. The program shall contain strategies and methods for problem prevention, problem abatement and the control of both point and nonpoint sources of groundwater pollution. The Department shall seek the assistance of federal, state, and local governments in implementing the program.

(7) In order to assure maximum reasonable protection of public health, the public shall be informed that groundwater, and most particularly local flow systems or water table aquifers, may not be suitable for human consumption due either to natural or human-caused pollution problems, and shall not be assumed to be safe for domestic use unless quality testing demonstrates a safe supply. The Department shall work cooperatively with the Water Resources Department and the Health Division in identifying areas where groundwater pollution may affect beneficial uses.

(8) It is the policy of the EQC that groundwater quality be protected throughout the state. The Department will concentrate its groundwater quality protection implementation efforts in areas where practices and activities have the greatest potential for degrading groundwater quality, and where potential groundwater quality pollution would have the greatest adverse impact on beneficial uses.

(9) The Department, as lead agency for groundwater quality protection, shall work cooperatively with the Water Resources Department, the lead agency for groundwater quantity management, to characterize the physical and chemical characteristics of the aquifers of the state. The Department will seek the assistance and cooperation of the Water Resources Department to design an ambient monitoring program adequate to determine representative groundwater quality for significant groundwater flow systems. The Department shall assist and cooperate with the Water Resources Department in its groundwater studies. The Department shall also seek the advice, assistance, and cooperation of local, state, and federal agencies to identify and resolve ground-water quality problems.

(10) It is the intent of the EQC to see that groundwater problems associated with areawide on-site sewage disposal are corrected by developing and implementing areawide abatement plans. In order to accomplish this, all available and appropriate statutory and administrative authorities will be utilized, including but not limited to: permits, special permit conditions, penalties, fines, EQC orders, compliance schedules, moratoriums, Department orders, and geographic area rules (OAR 340-071-0400). It is recognized, however, that in some cases the identification, evaluation and implementation of abatement measures may take time and that continued degradation may occur while the plan is being developed and implemented. The EQC may allow short-term continued degradation only if the beneficial uses, public health, and groundwater resources are not significantly affected, and only if the approved abatement plan is being implemented on a schedule approved by the Department.

(11) In order to minimize groundwater quality degradation potentially resulting from point source activities, point sources shall employ the highest and best practicable methods to prevent the movement of pollutants to groundwater. Among other factors, available technologies for treatment and waste reduction, cost effectiveness, site characteristics, pollutant toxicity and persistence, and state and federal regulations shall be considered in arriving at a case-by-case determination of highest and best practicable methods that protect public health and the environment.

(12) In regulating point source activities that could result in the disposal of wastes onto or into the ground in a manner which allows potential movement of pollutants to groundwater, the Department shall utilize all available and appropriate statutory and administrative authorities, including but not limited to: permits, fines, EQC orders, compliance schedules, moratoriums, Department orders, and geographic area rules. Groundwater quality protection requirements shall be implemented through the Department's Water Pollution Control Program, Solid Waste Disposal Program, On-Site Sewage Disposal System Construction Program, Hazardous Waste Facility (RCRA) Program, Underground Injection Control Program, Emergency Spill Response Program, or other programs, whichever is appropriate.

Numerical Groundwater Quality Reference Levels and Guidance Levels

(1) The numerical groundwater quality reference levels and guidance levels contained in Tables 1 through 3 of this Division are to be considered by the Department and the public in weighing the significance of a particular chemical concentration, and in determining the level of remedial action necessary to restore contaminated groundwater for human consumption. They are not to be construed as acceptable groundwater quality management goals. They are to be used by the Director and the EQC in establishing permit-specific and remedial action concentration limits according to the requirements of OAR 340-040-0030 through 340-040-0060.

(2) The Department shall periodically review information as it becomes available for establishing new numerical groundwater quality reference levels and guidance levels, and to ensure consistency with other statutorily mandated standards.

(3) Human consumption is recognized as the highest and best use of groundwater, and the use which usually requires the highest level of water quality. The numerical groundwater quality reference levels listed in Tables 1 and 2 of this Division reflect the suitability of groundwater for human consumption.

(4) The numerical groundwater quality guidance levels listed in Table 3 of this Division are for contaminants which do not adversely impact human health at the given concentrations. At considerably higher concentrations, human health implications may exist. These guidance levels are for contaminants that primarily affect the aesthetic qualities relating to the public acceptance of drinking water. The aesthetic degradation of groundwater may impair its beneficial use.

(5) For pollutant parameters for which numerical groundwater quality reference levels or guidance levels have not been established and listed in Tables 1 through 3, or for evaluating adverse impacts on beneficial uses other than human consumption, the Department shall make use of the most current and scientifically valid information available in determining at what levels pollutants may affect present or potential beneficial uses. Such information shall include, but not be limited to, values set forth in OAR 340-041-0033.

Bacteria

(1) Numeric Criteria: Organisms of the coliform group commonly associated with fecal sources (MPN or equivalent membrane filtration using a representative number of samples) may not exceed the criteria described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph:

(a) Freshwaters and Estuarine Waters Other than Shellfish Growing Waters:

(A) A 30-day log mean of 126 E. coli organisms per 100 milliliters, based on a minimum of five (5) samples;

(B) No single sample may exceed 406 E. coli organisms per 100 milliliters.

(b) Marine Waters and Estuarine Shellfish Growing Waters: A fecal coliform median concentration of 14 organisms per 100 milliliters, with not more than ten percent of the samples exceeding 43 organisms per 100 ml.

(2) Raw Sewage Prohibition: No sewage may be discharged into or in any other manner be allowed to enter the waters of the State, unless such sewage has been treated in a manner approved by the Department or otherwise allowed by these rules;

(3) Animal Waste: Runoff contaminated with domesticated animal wastes must be minimized and treated to the maximum extent practicable before it is allowed to enter waters of the State;

(4) Bacterial pollution or other conditions deleterious to waters used for domestic purposes, livestock watering, irrigation, bathing, or shellfish propagation, or otherwise injurious to public health may not be allowed;

(5) Effluent Limitations for Bacteria: Except as allowed in subsection (c) of this section, upon NPDES permit renewal or issuance, or upon request for a permit modification by the permittee at an earlier date, effluent discharges to freshwaters, and estuarine waters other than shellfish growing waters may not exceed a monthly log mean of 126 E. coli organisms per 100 ml. No single sample may exceed 406 E. coli organisms per 100 ml. However, no violation will be found, for an exceedance if the permittee takes at least five consecutive re-samples at four-hour intervals beginning as soon as practicable (preferably within 28 hours) after the original sample was taken and the log mean of the five re-samples is less than or equal to 126 E. coli. The following conditions apply:

(a) If the Department finds that re-sampling within the timeframe outlined in this section would pose an undue hardship on a treatment facility, a more convenient schedule may be negotiated in the permit, provided that the permittee demonstrates that the sampling delay will result in no increase in the risk to water contact recreation in waters affected by the discharge;

(b) The aquatic life criteria for chlorine established in the water quality toxic substances rule under OAR 340-041-0033 must be met at all times outside the assigned mixing zone;

(c) For sewage treatment plants that are authorized to use recycled water pursuant to OAR 340, division 55, and that also use a storage pond as a means to dechlorinate their effluent prior to discharge to public waters, effluent limitations for bacteria may, upon request by the permittee, be based upon appropriate total coliform limits as required by OAR 340, division 55:

(i) Class C limitations: No two consecutive samples may exceed 240 total coliform per 100 milliliters.

(ii) Class A and Class B limitations: No single sample may exceed 23 total coliform per 100 milliliters.

(iii) No violation will be found for an exceedance under this paragraph if the permittee takes at least five consecutive re-samples at four hour intervals beginning as soon as practicable (preferably within 28 hours) after the original sample(s) were taken; and in the case of Class C recycled water, the log mean of the five re-samples is less than or equal to 23 total coliform per 100 milliliters or, in the case of Class A and Class B recycled water, if the log mean of the five re-samples is less than or equal to 2.2 total coliform per 100 milliliters.

(6) Sewer Overflows in winter: Domestic waste collection and treatment facilities are prohibited from discharging raw sewage to waters of the State during the period of November 1 through May 21, except during a storm event greater than the one-in-five-year, 24-hour duration storm. However, the following exceptions apply:

(a) The Commission may on a case-by-case basis approve a bacteria control management plan to be prepared by the permittee, for a basin or specified geographic area which describes hydrologic conditions under which the numeric bacteria criteria would be waived. These plans will identify the specific hydrologic conditions, identify the public notification and education processes that will be followed to inform the public about an event and the plan, describe the water quality assessment conducted to determine bacteria sources and loads associated with the specified hydrologic conditions, and describe the bacteria control program that is being implemented in the basin or specified geographic area for the identified sources;

(b) Facilities with separate sanitary and storm sewers existing on January 10, 1996, and which currently experience sanitary sewer overflows due to inflow and infiltration problems, must submit an acceptable plan to the Department at the first permit renewal, which describes actions that will be taken to assure compliance with the discharge prohibition by January 1, 2010. Where discharges occur to a receiving stream with sensitive beneficial uses, the Department may negotiate a more aggressive schedule for discharge elimination;

(c) On a case-by-case basis, the beginning of winter may be defined as October 15, if the permittee so requests and demonstrates to the Department's satisfaction that the risk to beneficial uses, including water contact recreation, will not be increased due to the date change.

(7) Sewer Overflows in summer: Domestic waste collection and treatment facilities are prohibited from discharging raw sewage to waters of the State during the period of May 22 through October 31, except during a storm event greater than the one-in-ten-year, 24-hour duration storm. The following exceptions apply:

(a) For facilities with combined sanitary and storm sewers, the Commission may on a case-by-case basis approve a bacteria control management plan such as that described in subsection (6)(a) of this rule;

(b) On a case-by-case basis, the beginning of summer may be defined as June 1 if the permittee so requests and demonstrates to the Department's satisfaction that the risk to beneficial uses, including water contact recreation, will not be increased due to the date change;

(c) For discharge sources whose permit identifies the beginning of summer as any date from May 22 through May 31: If the permittee demonstrates to the Department's satisfaction that an exceedance occurred between May 21 and June 1 because of a sewer overflow, and that no increase in risk to beneficial uses, including water contact recreation, occurred because of the exceedance, no violation may be triggered, if the storm associated with the overflow was greater than the one-in-five-year, 24-hour duration storm.

(8) Storm Sewers Systems Subject to Municipal NPDES Stormwater Permits: Best management practices must be implemented for permitted storm sewers to control bacteria to the maximum extent practicable. In addition, a collection-system evaluation must be performed prior to permit issuance or renewal so that illicit and cross connections are identified. Such connections must be removed upon identification. A collection system evaluation is not required where the Department determines that illicit and cross connections are unlikely to exist.

(9) Storm Sewers Systems Not Subject to Municipal NPDES Stormwater Permits: A collection system evaluation must be performed of non-permitted storm sewers by January 1, 2005, unless the Department determines that an evaluation is not necessary because illicit and cross connections are unlikely to exist. Illicit and cross-connections must be removed upon identification.

(10) Water Quality Limited for Bacteria: In those water bodies, or segments of water bodies identified by the Department as exceeding the relevant numeric criteria for bacteria in the basin standards and designated as water-quality limited under section 303(d) of the Clean Water Act, the requirements specified in section 11 of this rule and in OAR 340-041-0061(11) must apply.

(11) In water bodies designated by the Department as water-quality limited for bacteria, and in accordance with priorities established by the Department, development and implementation of a bacteria management plan may be required of those sources that the Department determines to be contributing to the problem. The Department may determine that a plan is not necessary for a particular stream segment or segments within a water-quality limited basin based on the contribution of the segment(s) to the problem. The bacteria management plans will identify the technologies, best management practices and/or measures and approaches to be implemented by point and nonpoint sources to limit bacterial contamination. For point sources, their National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permit is their bacteria management plan. For nonpoint sources, the bacteria management plan will be developed by designated management agencies (DMAs) which will identify the appropriate best management practices or measures and approaches.

Rule Caption: Corrections and Clarifications to Toxics Water Quality Standards
Adm. Order No.: DEQ 17-2013
Filed with Sec. of State: 12-23-2013
Certified to be Effective: 4-18-14
Notice Publication Date: 9-1-2013
Rules Amended: 340-041-0033
Subject: The EQC amended water quality standards rules for toxic substances to correct and clarify the standards. Revisions to water quality standards require EPA approval before the revisions become effective for Clean Water Act programs.

The rules include the following:

Correct several toxic pollutant criteria that EPA recently disapproved and address other minor revisions to the Toxic Substances rule. EPA disapproved criteria for 11 pesticides based on potentially conflicting information in regards to how the frequency and duration components of these criteria are expressed. DEQ expects that clarifying this aspect of the criteria will lead to EPA approval of 36 pesticide criteria values associated with 11 pesticides.

Correct an error in the expression of freshwater selenium criteria.

Re-propose freshwater and saltwater arsenic criteria and chromium VI saltwater criteria that were inadvertently left off the criteria table during a 2007 rulemaking.

Correct typographical errors made during the 2011 Human Health Toxics Rulemaking.

Move all effective aquatic life criteria from Tables 20, 33A, and 33B into a new aquatic life criteria table, Table 30, and to refer to the new table in the Toxic Substances rule language. As a result, Tables 20, 33A, and 33B are no longer needed and would be repealed under this proposal.

Delete aluminum from Table 30 to reflect EPA's disapproval of the freshwater criteria for aluminum because the disapproval renders the criteria ineffective and there are no other criteria for aluminum. DEQ anticipates adopting revised freshwater criteria for aluminum in a future rulemaking process.

Toxic Substances

(1) Amendments to sections (1-5) and (7) of this rule (OAR 340-041-0033) and associated revisions to Tables 20, 33A, 33B, 33C, and 40 become effective on April 18, 2014. The amendments do not become applicable for purposes of ORS chapter 468B or the federal Clean Water Act, however, unless approved by EPA pursuant to 40 CFR 131.21 (4/27/2000).

(2) Toxic Substances Narrative. Toxic substances may not be introduced above natural background levels in waters of the state in amounts, concentrations, or combinations that may be harmful, may chemically change to harmful forms in the environment, or may accumulate in sediments or bioaccumulate in aquatic life or wildlife to levels that adversely affect public health, safety, or welfare or aquatic life, wildlife, or other designated beneficial uses.

(3) Aquatic Life Numeric Criteria. Levels of toxic substances in waters of the state may not exceed the applicable aquatic life criteria listed in Table 30.

(4) Human Health Numeric Criteria. The criteria for waters of the state listed in Table 40 are established to protect Oregonians from potential adverse health effects associated with long-term exposure to toxic substances associated with consumption of fish, shellfish, and water.

(5) To establish permit or other regulatory limits for toxic substances for which criteria are not included in Table 30 or Table 40, the department may use the guidance values in Table 31, public health advisories, and other published scientific literature. The department may also require or conduct bio-assessment studies to monitor the toxicity to aquatic life of complex effluents, other suspected discharges, or chemical substances without numeric criteria.

(6) Establishing Site-Specific Background Pollutant Criteria: This provision is a performance based water quality standard that results in site-specific human health water quality criteria under the conditions and procedures specified in this rule section. It addresses existing permitted discharges of a pollutant removed from the same body of water. For waterbodies where a discharge does not increase the pollutant's mass and does not increase the pollutant concentration by more than 3%, and where the water body meets a pollutant concentration associated with a risk level of 1 x 10-4, DEQ concludes that the pollutant concentration continues to protect human health.

(a) Definitions: For the purpose of this section (OAR 340-041-0033(6)):

(A) "Background pollutant concentration" means the ambient water body concentration immediately upstream of the discharge, regardless of whether those pollutants are natural or result from upstream human activity.

(B) An "intake pollutant" is the amount of a pollutant that is present in public waters (including groundwater) as provided in subsection (C), below, at the time it is withdrawn from such waters by the discharger or other facility supplying the discharger with intake water.

(C) "Same body of water": An intake pollutant is considered to be from the "same body of water" as the discharge if the department finds that the intake pollutant would have reached the vicinity of the outfall point in the receiving water within a reasonable period had it not been removed by the permittee. This finding may be deemed established if:

(i) The background concentration of the pollutant in the receiving water (excluding any amount of the pollutant in the facility's discharge) is similar to that in the intake water;

(ii) There is a direct hydrological connection between the intake and discharge points; and

(I) The department may also consider other site-specific factors relevant to the transport and fate of the pollutant to make the finding in a particular case that a pollutant would or would not have reached the vicinity of the outfall point in the receiving water within a reasonable period had it not been removed by the permittee.

(II) An intake pollutant from groundwater may be considered to be from the "same body of water" if the department determines that the pollutant would have reached the vicinity of the outfall point in the receiving water within a reasonable period had it not been removed by the permittee, except that such a pollutant is not from the same body of water if the groundwater contains the pollutant partially or entirely due to past or present human activity, such as industrial, commercial, or municipal operations, disposal actions, or treatment processes.

(iii) Water quality characteristics (e.g., temperature, pH, hardness) are similar in the intake and receiving waters.

(b) Applicability

(A) Site-specific criteria may be established under this rule section only for carcinogenic pollutants.

(B) Site-specific criteria established under this rule section apply in the vicinity of the discharge for purposes of establishing permit limits for the specified permittee.

(C) The underlying waterbody criteria continue to apply for all other Clean Water Act programs.

(D) The site-specific background pollutant criterion will be effective upon department issuance of the permit for the specified permittee.

(E) Any site-specific criteria developed under this procedure will be re-evaluated upon permit renewal.

(c) A site-specific background pollutant criterion may be established where all of the following conditions are met:

(A) The discharger has a currently effective NPDES permit;

(B) The mass of the pollutant discharged to the receiving waterbody does not exceed the mass of the intake pollutant from the same body of water, as defined in section (6)(a)(C) above, and, therefore, does not increase the total mass load of the pollutant in the receiving water body;

(C) The discharger has not been assigned a TMDL wasteload allocation for the pollutant in question;

(D) The permittee uses any feasible pollutant reduction measures available and known to minimize the pollutant concentration in their discharge;

(E) The pollutant discharge has not been chemically or physically altered in a manner that causes adverse water quality impacts that would not occur if the intake pollutants were left in-stream; and,

(F) The timing and location of the pollutant discharge would not cause adverse water quality impacts that would not occur if the intake pollutant were left in-stream.

(d) The site-specific background pollutant criterion must be the most conservative of the following four values. The procedures deriving these values are described in the sections (6)(e) of this rule.

(A) The projected in-stream pollutant concentration resulting from the current discharge concentration and any feasible pollutant reduction measures under (c)(D) above, after mixing with the receiving stream.

(B) The projected in-stream pollutant concentration resulting from the portion of the current discharge concentration associated with the intake pollutant mass after mixing with the receiving stream. This analysis ensures that there will be no increase in the mass of the intake pollutant in the receiving water body as required by condition (c)(B) above.

(C) The projected in-stream pollutant concentration associated with a 3% increase above the background pollutant concentration as calculated:

(i) For the mainstem Willamette and Columbia Rivers, using 25% of the harmonic mean flow of the waterbody.

(ii) For all other waters, using 100% of the harmonic mean flow or similar critical flow value of the waterbody.

(D) A criterion concentration value representing a human health risk level of 1 x 10-4. This value is calculated using EPA's human health criteria derivation equation for carcinogens (EPA 2000), a risk level of 1 x 10-4, and the same values for the remaining calculation variables that were used to derive the underlying human health criterion.

(e) Procedure to derive a site-specific human health water quality criterion to address a background pollutant:

(A) The department will develop a flow-weighted characterization of the relevant flows and pollutant concentrations of the receiving waterbody, effluent and all facility intake pollutant sources to determine the fate and transport of the pollutant mass.

(i) The pollutant mass in the effluent discharged to a receiving waterbody may not exceed the mass of the intake pollutant from the same body of water.

(ii) Where a facility discharges intake pollutants from multiple sources that originate from the receiving waterbody and from other waterbodies, the department will calculate the flow-weighted amount of each source of the pollutant in the characterization.

(iii) Where intake water for a facility is provided by a municipal water supply system and the supplier provides treatment of the raw water that removes an intake water pollutant, the concentration and mass of the intake water pollutant shall be determined at the point where the water enters the water supplier's distribution system.

(B) Using the flow weighted characterization developed in Section (6)(e)(A), the department will calculate the in-stream pollutant concentration following mixing of the discharge into the receiving water. The resultant concentration will be used to determine the conditions in Section (6)(d)(A) and (B).

(C) Using the flow weighted characterization, the department will calculate the in-stream pollutant concentration based on an increase of 3% above background pollutant concentration. The resultant concentration will be used to determine the condition in Section (6)(d)(C).

(i) For the mainstem Willamette and Columbia Rivers, 25% of the harmonic mean flow of the waterbody will be used.

(ii) For all other waters, 100% of the harmonic mean flow or similar critical flow value of the waterbody will be used.

(D) The department will select the most conservative of the following values as the site-specific water quality criterion.

(i) The projected in-stream pollutant concentration described in Section 6(e)(B);

(ii) The in-stream pollutant concentration based on an increase of 3% above background described in Section (6)(e)(C); or

(iii) A water quality criterion based on a risk level of 1 x 10-4.

(f) Calculation of water quality based effluent limits based on a site-specific background pollutant criterion:

(A) For discharges to receiving waters with a site-specific background pollutant criterion, the department will use the site-specific criterion in the calculation of a numeric water quality based effluent limit.

(B) The department will compare the calculated water quality based effluent limits to any applicable aquatic toxicity or technology based effluent limits and select the most conservative for inclusion in the permit conditions.

(g) In addition to the water quality based effluent limits described in Section (6)(f), the department will calculate a mass-based limit where necessary to ensure that the condition described in Section (6)(c)(B) is met. Where mass-based limits are included, the permit shall specify how compliance with mass-based effluent limitations will be assessed.

(h) The permit shall include a provision requiring the department to consider the re-opening of the permit and re-evaluation of the site-specific background pollutant criterion if new information shows the discharger no longer meets the conditions described in subsections (6)(c) and (e).

(i) Public Notification Requirements.

(A) If the department proposes to grant a site-specific background pollutant criterion, it must provide public notice of the proposal and hold a public hearing. The public notice may be included in the public notification of a draft NPDES permit or other draft regulatory decision that would rely on the criterion and will also be published on the water quality standards website;

(B) The department will publish a list of all site-specific background pollutant criteria approved pursuant to this rule. A criterion will be added to this list within 30 days of its effective date. The list will identify: the permittee; the site-specific background pollutant criterion and the associated risk level; the waterbody to which the criterion applies; the allowable pollutant effluent limit; and how to obtain additional information about the criterion.

(7) Arsenic Reduction Policy: The inorganic arsenic criterion for the protection of human health from the combined consumption of organisms and drinking water is 2.1 micrograms per liter. While this criterion is protective of human health and more stringent than the federal maximum contaminant level (MCL) for arsenic in drinking water, which is 10 micrograms per liter, it nonetheless is based on a higher risk level than the Commission has used to establish other human health criteria. This higher risk level recognizes that much of the risk is due to naturally high levels of inorganic arsenic in Oregon's waterbodies. In order to maintain the lowest human health risk from inorganic arsenic in drinking water, the Commission has determined that it is appropriate to adopt the following policy to limit the human contribution to that risk.

(a) The arsenic reduction policy established by this rule section does not become applicable for purposes of ORS chapter 468B or the federal Clean Water Act unless and until the numeric arsenic criteria established by this rule are approved by EPA pursuant to 40 CFR 131.21 (4/27/2000).

(b) It is the policy of the Commission that the addition of inorganic arsenic from new or existing anthropogenic sources to waters of the state within a surface water drinking water protection area be reduced the maximum amount feasible. The requirements of this rule section (OAR 340-041-0033(7)) apply to sources that discharge to surface waters of the state with an ambient inorganic arsenic concentration equal to or lower than the applicable numeric inorganic arsenic criteria for the protection of human health.

(c) The following definitions apply to this section (OAR 340-041-0033(7)):

(A) "Add inorganic arsenic" means to discharge a net mass of inorganic arsenic from a point source (the mass of inorganic arsenic discharged minus the mass of inorganic arsenic taken into the facility from a surface water source).

(B) A "surface water drinking water protection area," for the purpose of this section, means an area delineated as such by DEQ under the source water assessment program of the federal Safe Drinking Water Act, 42 U.S.C.¦ 300j 13. The areas are delineated for the purpose of protecting public or community drinking water supplies that use surface water sources. These delineations can be found at DEQ's drinking water program website.

(C) "Potential to significantly increase inorganic arsenic concentrations in the public drinking water supply source water" means:

(i) to increase the concentration of inorganic arsenic in the receiving water for a discharge by 10 percent or more after mixing with the harmonic mean flow of the receiving water; or

(ii) as an alternative, if sufficient data are available, the discharge will increase the concentration of inorganic arsenic in the surface water intake water of a public water system by 0.021 micrograms per liter or more based on a mass balance calculation.

(d) Following the effective date of this rule, applications for an individual NPDES permit or permit renewal received from industrial dischargers located in a surface water drinking water protection area and identified by DEQ as likely to add inorganic arsenic to the receiving water must include sufficient data to enable DEQ to determine whether:

(A) The discharge in fact adds inorganic arsenic; and

(B) The discharge has the potential to significantly increase inorganic arsenic concentrations in the public drinking water supply source water.

(e) Where DEQ determines that both conditions in subsection (d) of this section (7) are true, the industrial discharger must develop an inorganic arsenic reduction plan and propose all feasible measures to reduce its inorganic arsenic loading to the receiving water. The proposed plan, including proposed measures, monitoring and reporting requirements, and a schedule for those actions, will be described in the fact sheet and incorporated into the source's NPDES permit after public comment and DEQ review and approval. In developing the plan, the source must:

(A) Identify how much it can minimize its inorganic arsenic discharge through pollution prevention measures, process changes, wastewater treatment, alternative water supply (for groundwater users) or other possible pollution prevention and/or control measures;

(B) Evaluate the costs, feasibility and environmental impacts of the potential inorganic arsenic reduction and control measures;

(C) Estimate the predicted reduction in inorganic arsenic and the reduced human health risk expected to result from the control measures;

(D) Propose specific inorganic arsenic reduction or control measures, if feasible, and an implementation schedule; and

(E) Propose monitoring and reporting requirements to document progress in plan implementation and the inorganic arsenic load reductions.

(f) In order to implement this section, DEQ will develop the following information and guidance within 120 days of the effective date of this rule and periodically update it as warranted by new information:

(A) A list of industrial sources or source categories, including industrial stormwater and sources covered by general permits, that are likely to add inorganic arsenic to surface waters of the State.

(i) For industrial sources or source categories permitted under a general permit that have been identified by DEQ as likely sources of inorganic arsenic, DEQ will evaluate options for reducing inorganic arsenic during permit renewal or evaluation of Stormwater Pollution Control Plans.

(B) Quantitation limits for monitoring inorganic arsenic concentrations.

(C) Information and guidance to assist sources in estimating, pursuant to subsection (e)(C) of this section, the reduced human health risk expected to result from inorganic arsenic control measures based on the most current EPA risk assessment.

(g) It is the policy of the Commission that landowners engaged in agricultural or development practices on land where pesticides, fertilizers, or soil amendments containing arsenic are currently being or have previously been applied, implement conservation practices to minimize the erosion and runoff of inorganic arsenic to waters of the State or to a location where such material could readily migrate into waters of the State.

Rules Repealed: 340-011-0605, 340-012-0027

Subject: The EQC adopted the following changes to chapter 340 of the Oregon Administrative Rules.

Division 011 amendments:

• Align with the Oregon Attorney General Model Rules under OAR 340-003-0501 through 0690. The Model Rules that apply to Environmental Quality Commission proceedings became effective Jan. 31, 2012.

• Address procedures for filing and serving documents in contested cases and other general contested case proceedings.

• Establish a new fee for onsite septic system program public records requests. This would allow DEQ to recover the costs of fulfilling such requests.

• Repeal OAR 340-011-0605 that became obsolete in 2007 with the passage of Measure 49. Measure 49 substantially reduced the impact of Measure 37 and the required director's review.

• Make minor housekeeping changes, including clarification of the lay representative rule at OAR 340-011-0510(1).

Division 012 amendments implement 2009 Oregon legislation that increased DEQ's civil penalty statutory maximums, many last updated in 1973. Other proposed changes include aligning violation classification and magnitudes with DEQ program priorities, providing greater mitigating credit for correcting violations, and housekeeping that includes eliminating duplicative text.

Division 200 amendments update the Oregon Clean Air Act State Implementation Plan. Section 110 of the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. §7410 requires state and local air

Oregon Department of Environmental Quality pollution control agencies to adopt federally-approved control strategies to minimize air pollution. The resulting body of regulations is a State Implementation Plan or SIP. By incorporating updated civil penalties and violations, these proposed rules would be a revision to Oregon's SIP. DEQ must submit rule changes to EPA and EPA must approve the rules as meeting the requirements of the Clean Air Act. If the Oregon Environmental Quality Commission amends the proposed rule, DEQ will submit SIP revisions to EPA for approval.

Key Amendments

Civil penalty matrices (OAR 340-012-0140)

• Increase the top base penalty in the current $8,000 penalty matrix to $12,000

• Increase the top base penalty in the current $6,000 penalty matrix to $8,000

• Increase the top base penalty in the current $2,500 penalty matrix to $3,000

• No changes to the current $1,000 penalty matrix

Change to factors in the civil penalty formula (OAR 340-012-0145) by:

• Increasing credit for the "C" factor to apply mitigating credit for a violator's efforts to correct violations

• Expanding the use of the "M" factor to assign a broader range of penalty aggravation when considering the mental state of the violator

Increase additional or alternate penalties for violations that pose an extreme hazard to public health or cause extensive environmental damage (OAR 340-012-0155)

• Base penalties in this category would increase from $50,000 to $100,000 to a new range of $100,000 to $200,000 depending on whether violations are caused intentionally, recklessly or flagrantly.

Increase administrative penalty maximums to $100,000 for certain spill violations of oil or hazardous materials

• Penalties for intentionally or negligently spilling hazardous materials into waters of the state, or intentionally or negligently failing to clean up spills of oil or hazardous materials would increase from a maximum of $10,000 per day to a maximum of $100,000 per day. Penalties for intentionally or negligently spilling oil into waters of the state would increase from a maximum of $20,000 per day to a maximum of $100,000 per day. Final penalties would be determined according to a new formula and additional factors not in the current rule.

Establish a base fee for onsite septic system program public records requests

Regulated parties

The rules do not impose new requirements upon regulated entities. Division 011 includes rules that supplement the Oregon Attorney General Model Rule for administrative procedures. Division 011 applies to any person involved in a contested case proceeding in front of the Environmental Quality Commission. The rules outline the contested case hearings processes. Division 012 outlines the processes

DEQ must follow in assessing penalties or issuing other formal enforcement actions. These rules do not contain any requirements for regulated entities.

Purpose

Increased public involvement and awareness of environmental issues has placed greater demands on viewing and copying DEQ records. OAR 340-011-0310 et seq. allows DEQ to recover its costs for providing these services, as authorized by Oregon statute. Furthermore, these rules serve to ensure that all DEQ records remain available for viewing and intact for future use.

Requests for Review or to Obtain Copies of Public Records

(1) The right to review records includes the right to review the original record where practicable. It does not provide the right to the requestor to locate the record himself or to review the original record when it contains exempt material.

(2) Request to review or copy public records should be made to, and will be handled by, the appropriate DEQ staff maintaining the records requested. For questions, contact DEQ's general information number listed in the phone book and website at www.oregon.gov/deq.

(3) Requests for DEQ records should be as specific as possible, including type of record, subject matter, approximate record date, and relevant names of parties. Whenever possible, the request should include the site location or county of the facility if known. If the request is unclear or overly burdensome, DEQ may request further clarification of the request. If DEQ cannot identify specific records responsive to a record request, DEQ may provide general files or distinct sections of records that are likely to contain the requested records.

(4) Requests to either review or obtain copies of records may be made in writing, by telephone or in-person. DEQ may require a request to be made in writing if needed for clarification or specification of the record request.

(a) Each DEQ office will establish daily hours during which the public may review DEQ's records. The hours maintained in each office will be determined by staff and equipment available to accommodate record review and reproduction.

(b) Pursuant to ORS 192.430(1) and this rule, each DEQ office shall designate and provide a supervised space, if available, for viewing records. This space will accommodate at least one reviewer at a time.

(c) DEQ accommodates public records requests from persons with disabilities in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

(d) DEQ's ability to accommodate in-person requests may be limited by staff and equipment availability. Additionally prior to making records available for public review, DEQ will ascertain whether the record requested is exempt from public disclosure under ORS chapter 192 and other applicable law.

(5) Time to provide requested records: DEQ will respond to a record request as quickly as reasonable. This time frame will vary depending on the volume of records requested, staff availability to respond to the record request, the difficulty in determining whether any of the records are exempt from disclosure, and the necessity of consulting with legal counsel. If DEQ determines that it will require more than 30 days to respond to a record request, it will inform the requestor of the estimated time necessary to comply with the record request.

Additional information may be requested by DEQ prior to granting any fee waiver.

(c) Even if a person has a fee waiver, DEQ may charge for either record review or copying based on the following factors:

(A) Any financial hardship on DEQ;

(B) The extent of time, expense and interference with DEQ's regular business;

(C) The volume of the records requested;

Requests for Hearing

(1) Unless a request for hearing is not required by statute or rule, or the requirement to file a request for hearing is waived in the formal enforcement action, a person has 20 calendar days from the date of service of the notice of a right to a contested case hearing in which to file a written request for hearing unless another timeframe is allowed by statute or rule.

(2) The request for hearing must include a written response that admits or denies all factual matters alleged in the notice, and alleges any and all affirmative defenses and the reasoning in support thereof. Due to the complexity, factual matters not denied will be considered admitted, and failure to raise a defense will be a waiver of the defense. New matters alleged in the request for hearing are denied by DEQ unless admitted in subsequent stipulation.

(3) An amended request for hearing may be accepted by DEQ if DEQ determines that the filing of an amended request will not unduly delay the proceeding or unfairly prejudice the participants. The participant must provide DEQ with a written explanation why an amended request for hearing is needed.

(4) A late request for hearing will be accepted by DEQ if:

(a) The request is postmarked within 20 calendar days of service of the notice, and;

(b) DEQ receives the late request for hearing within 60 days of the date the notice became final upon default.

(5) A late request for hearing may be accepted by DEQ if:

(a) Either the request is received by DEQ before entry of a default order or within 60 days of the date the notice became final upon default, and;

(b) There was good cause for the failure to timely request a hearing.

(6) The person must provide DEQ with a written explanation why the request for hearing was late. If the person fails to provide the written explanation, DEQ must not accept the late request for hearing. DEQ may require that the explanation be supported by an affidavit.

(7) The filing of a late request for hearing does not stay the effect of any final order.

(8) DEQ will deny a late request for hearing that is filed more than 60 days after the notice became final by default.

Final Orders by Default

(1) If a person fails to request a hearing within the time allowed and no further evidence is necessary to make a prima facie case, the notice of a right to a contested case hearing will become final by operation of law as provided in OAR 137-003-0672.

(2) If the person fails to request a hearing within the time allowed and DEQ determines that evidence, in addition to the evidence in DEQ's record, is necessary to make a prima facie case, DEQ will proceed to a contested case hearing for the purpose of establishing a prima facie case.

(3) If the participant files a timely request for hearing but either: withdraws the request; or, after being provided notice of the time and place of the hearing, either fails to appear at a hearing or notifies either the administrative law judge or DEQ, in writing, that the participant does not intend to appear at the hearing, DEQ will enter and serve a final order by default.

(4) If more than one person is named in the notice of a right to a contested case hearing and any person defaults as provided in this rule, the notice will become final as it pertains to any person in default.

Burden and Standard of Proof in Contested Case Hearings; DEQ Interpretation of Rules and Statutory Terms

(1) The participant who asserts a fact or position is the proponent of that fact or position and has the burden of presenting evidence to support that fact or position, unless the burden is specifically allocated differently by a statute or rule.

(2) All findings in a proposed or final order must be based on a preponderance of evidence in the record unless another standard is specifically required by statute or rule.

(3) In reviewing DEQ's interpretation of a DEQ rule as applied in a formal enforcement action, an administrative law judge must follow DEQ's interpretation if that interpretation is both plausible and reasonably consistent with the wording of the rule and the underlying statutes. The administrative law judge may state, on the record, an alternative interpretation for consideration on appeal.

(4) With the exception of exact terms that do not require interpretation, an administrative law judge shall give DEQ's interpretation of statutory terms the appropriate deference in light of DEQ's expertise with the subject matter, DEQ's experience with the statute, DEQ's involvement in the relevant legislative process, and the degree of discretion accorded DEQ by the legislature.

Discovery

(1) Motions for discovery will only be granted if the motion establishes that:

(a) The participant seeking the information attempted to obtain the information through an informal process. If the participant is seeking information from a public agency, the participant must make a public record request prior to petitioning for discovery; and

(b) The discovery request is reasonably likely to produce information that is generally relevant and necessary to the matters alleged in the notice of a right to a contested case hearing and the request for hearing, or is likely to facilitate resolution of the case.

(2) An administrative law judge is not authorized to order depositions, admissions, interrogatories or site visits unless DEQ authorizes the same in writing in the specific case.

(3) Service of a subpoena for the attendance of a witness must be completed by personal service unless the witness has indicated that he is willing to appear and the subpoena is mailed at least 10 days prior to the hearing. Personal service should be effected at least 7 days prior to the hearing.

(4) Service of a subpoena for the production of documents at a contested case hearing may be effected by regular mail provided that it is done sufficiently in advance of the hearing to allow reasonable time to produce the documents.

(5) Service of a subpoena for both the attendance of a witness and production of documents must be completed as provided under section (3) of this rule.

(6) Any witness who appears at a hearing under a subpoena will receive fees and mileage as set forth in ORS 44.415(2).

Proposed Orders in Contested Cases

(1) Following the close of the record for a contested case hearing, the administrative law judge will issue a proposed order. The administrative law judge will serve the proposed order on each participant.

(2) Within 15 days after a proposed contested case order is served, a participant in the contested case hearing may file a motion requesting that the administrative law judge clarify or supplement a proposed order. The motion must specify why the participant believes that the proposed order fails to conform to the requirements of OAR 137-003-0645 and recommend changes to the order. The motion must be filed with the administrative law judge and a copy provided to all participants.

(3) The administrative law judge may grant or deny a motion filed under section (2) of this rule within 15 days. If the motion is granted, the administrative law judge may take the matter under advisement and reissue the proposed order unchanged or may issue an amended proposed order. If the administrative law judge fails to act on the motion within 15 days, the motion is deemed denied by operation of law.

(4) The filing of a timely motion for clarification under section (2) of this rule tolls the period for filing a Petition for Commission Review of the proposed contested case order under OAR 340-011-0575. Tolling of the period begins on the day the motion is filed with the administrative law judge and ends on the day the motion is denied, deemed denied by operation of law, or the proposed order is reissued without changes. If the administrative law judge issues an amended proposed order, the amended order will be treated as a new proposed order for the purpose of filing a timely Petition for Commission Review under 340-011-0575.

(5) The motion for clarification authorized by this rule is intended to alter the provisions of OAR 137-003-0655 but not to eliminate the authority of the administrative law judge to correct a proposed order in the manner specified in section (2) of that rule.

(6) A motion for clarification and any response to a motion for clarification will be part of the record on appeal.

Review of Proposed Orders in Contested Cases

(1) For purposes of this rule, filing means receipt in the office of the director or other office of DEQ.

(2) Commencement of Review by the Commission: The proposed order will become final unless a participant or a member of the commission files a Petition for Commission Review within 30 days of service of the proposed order. The timely filing of a Petition is a jurisdictional requirement and cannot be waived. Any participant may file a petition whether or not another participant has filed a petition.

(3) Contents of the Petition for Commission Review. A petition must be in writing and need only state the participant's or a commissioner's intent that the commission review the proposed order. Each petition and subsequent brief must be captioned to indicate the participant filing the document and the type of document (for example: Respondents Exceptions and Brief; DEQ's Answer to Respondent's Exceptions and Brief).

(4) Procedures on Review:

(a) Exceptions and Brief: Within 30 days from the filing of a petition, the participant(s) filing the petition must file written exceptions and brief. The exceptions must specify those findings and conclusions objected to, and also include proposed alternative findings of fact, conclusions of law, and order with specific references to the parts of the record upon which the participant relies. The brief must include the arguments supporting these alternative findings of fact, conclusions of law and order. Failure to take an exception to a finding or conclusion in the brief, waives the participant's ability to later raise that exception.

(b) Answering Brief: Each participant, except for the participant(s) filing that exceptions and brief, will have 30 days from the date of filing of the exceptions and brief under subsection (4)(a), in which to file an answering brief.

(c) Reply Brief: If an answering brief is filed, the participant(s) who filed a petition will have 20 days from the date of filing of the answering brief under subsection (4)(b), in which to file a reply brief.

(d) Briefing on Commission Invoked Review: When one or more members of the commission wish to review the proposed order, and no participant has timely filed a Petition, the chair of the commission will promptly notify the participants of the issue that the commission desires the participants to brief. The participants must limit their briefs to those issues. The chair of the commission will also establish the schedule for filing of briefs. When the commission wishes to review the proposed order and a participant also requested review, briefing will follow the schedule set forth in subsections (a), (b) and (c) of this section.

(e) Extensions: The commission or director may extend any of the time limits contained in section (4) of this rule. Each extension request must be in writing and filed with the commission before the expiration of the time limit. Any request for an extension may be granted or denied in whole or in part.

(f) Dismissal: The commission may dismiss any petition, upon motion of any participant or on its own motion, if the participant(s) seeking review fails to timely file the exceptions or brief required under subsection (4)(a) of this rule. A motion to dismiss made by a participant must be filed within 45 days after the filing of the Petition. At the time of dismissal, the commission will also enter a final order upholding the proposed order.

(g) Oral Argument: Following the expiration of the time allowed the participants to present exceptions and briefs, the matter will be scheduled for oral argument before the commission.

(5) Additional Evidence: A request to present additional evidence must be submitted by motion and must be accompanied by a statement showing good cause for the failure to present the evidence to the administrative law judge. The motion must accompany the brief filed under subsection (4)(a) or (b) of this rule. If the commission grants the motion or decides on its own motion that additional evidence is necessary, the matter will be remanded to an administrative law judge for further proceedings.

(6) Scope of Review: The commission may substitute its judgment for that of the administrative law judge in making any particular finding of fact, conclusion of law, or order except as limited by ORS 183.650 and OAR 137-003-0665.

(7) All documents filed with the commission under this rule must also be copied upon each participant in the contested case hearing.

(3) A petition for a stay must contain all the elements set forth in OAR 137-003-0690 and be served upon all participants as set forth in 137-003-0690(4).

(4) Any participant may seek to intervene in the stay proceeding as set forth in OAR 137-003-0695 by filing a response to the petition for a stay with DEQ.

Warning Letters, Pre-Enforcement Notices, and Notices of Permit Violation

(1) A Warning Letter (WL) may contain an opportunity to correct noncompliance as a means of avoiding formal enforcement. A WL generally will identify the alleged violation(s) found, what needs to be done to comply, and the consequences of further noncompliance. WLs will be issued under the direction of a manager or authorized representative. A person receiving a WL may provide information to DEQ to clarify the facts surrounding the alleged violation(s). If DEQ determines that the conduct identified in the WL did not occur, DEQ will withdraw or amend the WL, as appropriate, within 30 days. A WL is not an FEA and does not afford any person a right to a contested case hearing.

(2) A Pre-Enforcement Notice (PEN) generally will identify the alleged violations found, what needs to be done to comply, the consequences of further noncompliance, and the formal enforcement process that may occur. PENs will be issued under the direction of a manager or authorized representative. A person receiving a PEN may provide information to DEQ to clarify the facts surrounding the alleged violations. If DEQ determines that the conduct identified in the PEN did not occur, DEQ will withdraw or amend the PEN, as appropriate, within 30 days. Failure to send a PEN does not preclude DEQ from issuing an FEA. A PEN is not a formal enforcement action and does not afford any person a right to a contested case hearing.

(3) Notice of Permit Violation (NPV):

(a) Except as provided in subsection (3)(e) below, an NPV will be issued for the first occurrence of an alleged Class I violation of an air, water or solid waste permit issued by DEQ, and for repeated or continuing alleged Class II or Class III violations of an air, water, or solid waste permit issued by DEQ when a WL has failed to achieve compliance or satisfactory progress toward compliance.

(b) An NPV must be in writing, specify the violation and state that a civil penalty will be imposed for the permit violation unless the permittee submits one of the following to DEQ within five working days of receipt of the NPV:

(A) A written response from the permittee certifying that the permittee is complying with all terms and conditions of the permit from which the violation is cited. The response must include a description of the information on which the permittee's certification relies sufficient to enable DEQ to determine that compliance has been achieved. The certification must be signed by a Responsible Official based on information and belief after making reasonable inquiry. For purposes of this rule, "Responsible Official" means one of the following:

(i) For a corporation: a president, secretary, treasurer, or vice-president of the corporation in charge of a principal business function, or any other person who performs similar policy- or decision-making functions for the corporation; or the manager of one or more manufacturing, production, or operating facilities if authority to sign documents has been assigned or delegated to the manager in accordance with corporate procedures.

(ii) For a partnership or sole proprietorship: a general partner or the proprietor, respectively.

(iii) For a municipality, state, federal, or other public agency: either a principal executive officer or appropriate elected official.

(B) A written proposal, acceptable to DEQ, describing how the permittee will bring the facility into compliance with the permit. At a minimum, an acceptable proposal must include the following:

(i) A detailed plan and time schedule for achieving compliance in the shortest practicable time;

(ii) A description of the interim steps that will be taken to reduce the impact of the permit violation until the permittee is in compliance with the permit; and

(iii) A statement that the permittee has reviewed all other conditions and limitations of the permit and no other violations of the permit were discovered; or

(C) For a water quality permit violation, a written request to DEQ that DEQ follow procedures described in ORS 468B.032. Notwithstanding the requirement for a response to DEQ within five working days, the permittee may file a request under this paragraph within 20 days from the date of service of the NPV.

(c) If a compliance schedule approved by DEQ under paragraph (3)(b)(B) provides for a compliance period of more than six months, the compliance schedule must be incorporated into a final order that provides for stipulated penalties in the event of any failure to comply with the approved schedule. The stipulated penalties may be set at amounts equivalent to the base penalty amount appropriate for the underlying violation as set forth in OAR 340-012-0140;

(d) If the NPV is issued by a regional authority, the regional authority may require that the permittee submit information in addition to that described in subsection (3)(b).

(e) DEQ may assess a penalty without first issuing an NPV if:

(A) The violation is intentional;

(B) The water or air violation would not normally occur for five consecutive days;

(C) The permittee has received an NPV or an FEA with respect to any violation of the permit within the 36 months immediately preceding the alleged violation;

(D) The permittee is subject to the Oregon Title V operating permit program and violates any rule or standard adopted under ORS Chapter 468A or any permit or order issued under Chapter 468A; or

(E) The requirement to provide an NPV would disqualify a state program from federal approval or delegation. The permits and permit conditions to which this NPV exception applies include:

(i) Air Contaminant Discharge Permit (ACDP) conditions that implement the State Implementation Plan under the federal Clean Air Act;

(ii) Water Pollution Control Facility (WPCF) permit or rule authorization conditions that implement the Underground Injection Control program under the federal Safe Drinking Water Act;

(iii) National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Permit conditions; and

(iv) Municipal Landfill Solid Waste Disposal Permit conditions that implement Subtitle D of the federal Solid Waste Disposal Act.

(f) For purposes of section (3), a permit renewal or modification does not result in the requirement that DEQ provide the permittee with an additional advance notice before formal enforcement if the permittee has received an NPV, or other FEA, with respect to the permit, within the 36 months immediately preceding the alleged violation.

Formal Enforcement Actions

(1) FEAs may require that the respondent take action within a specified timeframe or may assess civil penalties. DEQ may issue an NPV or FEA whether or not it has previously issued a WL or PEN related to the issue or violation. Unless specifically prohibited by statute or rule, DEQ may issue an FEA without first issuing an NPV.

(2) A Notice of Civil Penalty Assessment and Order may be issued for the occurrence of any class of violation that is not limited by the NPV requirement of OAR 340-012-0038(3).

(3) An Order may be in the form of a commission or department order, including any written order that has been consented to in writing by the parties thereto, including but not limited to, a Mutual Agreement and Order (MAO).

(4) A Final Order and Stipulated Penalty Demand Notice may be issued according to the terms of any written final order that has been consented to in writing by the parties thereto, including, but not limited to, a MAO.

(5) A pre-enforcement offer to settle may be made pursuant to DEQ's expedited enforcement procedures in OAR 340-012-0170(2) or Field Penalty procedures prescribed by OAR chapter 340, division 150.

(6) The enforcement actions described in sections (2) through (5) of this rule in no way limit DEQ or commission from seeking any other legal or equitable remedies, including revocation of any DEQ-issued license or permit, provided by ORS Chapters 183, 454, 459, 465, 466, 467, 468, 468A, and 468B.

Civil Penalty Determination Procedure

DEQ may assess a civil penalty for any violation, in addition to any other liability, duty, or other penalty provided by law. Except for civil penalties assessed under either OAR 340-012-0155 or OAR 340-012-0160, DEQ determines the amount of the civil penalty using the following formula: BP + [(0.1 x BP) x (P + H + O + M + C)] + EB.

(1) BP is the base penalty and is determined by the following procedure:

(a) The classification of each violation is determined according to OAR 340-012-0053 to 340-012-0097.

(b) The magnitude of the violation is determined according to OAR 340-012-0130 and 340-012-0135.

(c) The appropriate base penalty (BP) for each violation is determined by applying the classification and magnitude of each violation to the matrices in OAR 340-012-0140.

(2) The base penalty is adjusted by the application of aggravating or mitigating factors set forth in OAR 340-012-0145.

(3) The appropriate economic benefit (EB) is determined as set forth in OAR 340-012-0150.

Determination of Violation Magnitude

(1) The appropriate magnitude of each civil penalty is determined by first applying the selected magnitude in OAR 340-012-0135. If none is applicable, the magnitude is moderate unless evidence shows that the magnitude is major under paragraph (3) or minor under paragraph (4).

(2) The person against whom the violation is alleged has the opportunity and the burden to prove that a magnitude under paragraph (1), (3) or (4) of this rule is more probable than the alleged magnitude, regardless of whether the magnitude is alleged under OAR 340-012-0130 or 340-012-0135.

(3) The magnitude of the violation is major if DEQ finds that the violation had a significant adverse impact on human health or the environment. In making this finding, DEQ will consider all reasonably available information, including, but not limited to: the degree of deviation from applicable statutes or commission and DEQ rules, standards, permits or orders; the extent of actual effects of the violation; the concentration, volume, or toxicity of the materials involved; and the duration of the violation. In making this finding, DEQ may consider any single factor to be conclusive.

(4) The magnitude of the violation is minor if DEQ finds that the violation had no more than a de minimis adverse impact on human health or the environment, and posed no more than a de minimis threat to human health or the environment. In making this finding, DEQ will consider all reasonably available information including, but not limited to: the degree of deviation from applicable statutes or commission and DEQ rules, standards, permits or orders; the extent of actual or threatened effects of the violation; the concentration, volume, or toxicity of the materials involved; and the duration of the violation.

Determination of Aggravating or Mitigating Factors

(1) Each of the aggravating or mitigating factors is determined, as described below, and then applied to the civil penalty formula in OAR 340-012-0045.

(2) "P" is whether the respondent has any prior significant actions (PSAs). A violation becomes a PSA on the date the first formal enforcement action (FEA) in which it is cited is issued.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, the values for "P" and the finding that supports each are as follows:

(A) 0 if no PSAs or there is insufficient information on which to base a finding under this section.

(B) 1 if the PSAs included one Class II violation or two Class III violations; or

(C) 2 if the PSAs included one Class I violation or Class I equivalent.

(D) For each additional Class I violation or Class I equivalent, the value of "P" is increased by 1.

(b) The value of "P" will not exceed 10.

(c) If any of the PSAs were issued under ORS 468.996, the final value of "P" will be 10.

(d) In determining the value of "P," DEQ will:

(A) Reduce the value of "P" by:

(i) 2 if all the FEAs in which PSAs were cited were issued more than three years before the date the current violation occurred.

(ii) 4 if all the FEAs in which PSAs were cited were issued more than five years before the date the current violation occurred.

(B) Include the PSAs:

(i) At all facilities owned or operated by the same respondent within the state of Oregon; and

(ii) That involved the same media (air, water or land) as the violations that are the subject of the current FEA.

(e) In applying subsection (2)(d)(A), the value of "P" may not be reduced below zero.

(f) PSAs that are more than ten years old are not included in determining the value of "P."

(3) "H" is the respondent's history of correcting PSAs. The values for "H" and the finding that supports each are as follows:

(a) -2 if the respondent corrected all prior violations cited as PSAs.

(b) -1 if the violations were uncorrectable and the respondent took reasonable efforts to minimize the effects of the violations cited as PSAs; or

(c) 0 if there is no prior history or if there is insufficient information on which to base a finding under paragraphs (3)(a) or (b).

(d) The sum of values for "P" and "H" may not be less than 1 unless the respondent took extraordinary efforts to correct or minimize the effects of all PSAs. In no case may the sum of the values of "P" and "H" be less than zero.

(4) "O" is whether the violation was repeated or ongoing. A violation can be repeated independently on the same day, thus multiple occurrences may occur within one day. Each repeated occurrence of the same violation and each day of a violation with a duration of more than one day is a separate occurrence when determining the "O"factor. Each separate violation is also a separate occurrence when determining the "O" factor. The values for "O"and the finding that supports each are as follows:

(a) 0 if there was only one occurrence of the violation, or if there is insufficient information on which to base a finding under paragraphs (4)(b) through (4)(d).

(b) 2 if there were more than one but less than seven occurrences of the violation.

(c) 3 if there were from seven to 28 occurrences of the violation.

(d) 4 if there were more than 28 occurrences of the violation.

(e) DEQ may, at its discretion, assess separate penalties for each occurrence of a violation. If DEQ does so, the O factor for each affected violation will be set at 0. If DEQ assesses one penalty for multiple occurrences, the penalty will be based on the highest classification and magnitude applicable to any of the occurrences.

(5) "M" is the mental state of the respondent. For any violation where the findings support more than one mental state, the mental state with the highest value will apply. The values for "M" and the finding that supports each are as follows:

(a) 0 if there is insufficient information on which to base a finding under paragraphs (5)(b) through (5)(d).

(b) 2 if the respondent had constructive knowledge (reasonably should have known) of the requirement.

(c) 4 if the respondent's conduct was negligent.

(d) 8 if the respondent's conduct was reckless or the respondent acted or failed to act intentionally with actual knowledge of the requirement.

(e) 10 if respondent acted flagrantly.

(6) "C" is the respondent's efforts to correct or mitigate the violation. The values for "C" and the finding that supports each are as follows:

(a) -5 if the respondent made extraordinary efforts to correct the violation or to minimize the effects of the violation, and made extraordinary efforts to ensure the violation would not be repeated.

(b) -4 if the respondent made extraordinary efforts to ensure that the violation would not be repeated.

(c) -3 if the respondent made reasonable efforts to correct the violation, or took reasonable affirmative efforts to minimize the effects of the violation.

(d) -2 if the respondent eventually made some efforts to correct the violation, or to minimize the effects of the violation.

(e) -1 if the respondent made reasonable efforts to ensure that the violation would not be repeated.

(f) 0 if there is insufficient information to make a finding under paragraphs (6)(a) through (6)(e), or (6)(g) or if the violation or the effects of the violation could not be corrected or minimized.

(g) 2 if the respondent did not address the violation as described in paragraphs (6)(a) through (6)(e) and the facts do not support a finding under paragraph (6)(f).

Determination of Economic Benefit

(1) The Economic Benefit (EB) is the approximate dollar value of the benefit gained and the costs avoided or delayed (without duplication) as a result of the respondent's noncompliance. The EB will be determined using the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's BEN computer model. DEQ may make, for use in the model, a reasonable estimate of the benefits gained and the costs avoided or delayed by the respondent.

(2) Upon request of the respondent, DEQ will provide the name of the version of the model used and respond to any reasonable request for information about the content or operation of the model. The model's standard values for income tax rates, inflation rate and discount rate are presumed to apply to all respondents unless a specific respondent can demonstrate that the standard value does not reflect the respondent's actual circumstance.

(3) DEQ need not calculate EB if DEQ makes a reasonable determination that the EB is de minimis or if there is insufficient information on which to make an estimate under this rule.

(4) DEQ may assess EB whether or not it assesses any other portion of the civil penalty using the formula in OAR 340-012-0045.

(5) DEQ's calculation of EB may not result in a civil penalty for a violation that exceeds the maximum civil penalty allowed by rule or statute. However, when a violation has occurred or been repeated for more than one day, DEQ may treat the violation as extending over at least as many days as necessary to recover the economic benefit of the violation.

Additional or Alternate Civil Penalties

(1) DEQ may assess additional civil penalties for the following violations as specified below:

(a) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of up to $250,000 to any person who intentionally or recklessly violates any provisions of ORS 164.785, 459.205-459.426, 459.705–459.790, Chapters 465, 466, 467, 468, or 468A or 468B or any rule or standard or order of the commission adopted or issued pursuant to 459.205–459.426, 459.705–459.790, Chapters 465, 466, 467, 468, 468A, or 468B, that results in or creates the imminent likelihood for an extreme hazard to public health or that causes extensive damage to the environment. When determining the civil penalty to be assessed under this subsection, the director will use the procedures set out below:

(A) The following base penalties apply:

(i) $100,000 if the violation was caused intentionally;

(ii) $150,000 if the violation was caused recklessly;

(iii) $200,000 if the violation was caused flagrantly.

(B) The civil penalty is calculated using the following formula: BP + [(.1 x BP) (P + H + O + C)] + EB.

(b) Any person who intentionally or negligently causes or permits the discharge of oil or hazardous materials into waters of the state or intentionally or negligently fails to clean up a spill or release of oil or hazardous materials into waters of the state will incur a civil penalty not to exceed $100,000 dollars for each violation. The amount of the penalty is determined as follows:

(A) The class and magnitude of the violation are determined according to OAR 340-012-0045, then the base penalty is determined according to OAR 340-012-0140.

(B) The multiplier for the base penalty is determined by adding the following values:

(i) 2 points if the violation was caused negligently; or 3 points if the violation was caused recklessly; or 4 points if the violation was caused intentionally with actual knowledge that a violation would occur; and

(ii) 1 point if the oil or hazardous material is or contains any constituent listed as a "hazardous substance" in 40 CFR 302; or 2 points if the oil or hazardous material is or contains any constituent listed as an "extremely hazardous substance" under 40 CFR 355; and

(iii) 2 points if the volume of the oil or hazardous material spilled, lost to the environment, or not cleaned up exceeds 1,000 gallons; and

(iv) 1 point if the violation impacted an area of particular environmental value where oil or hazardous materials could pose a greater threat than in other non-sensitive areas, for example, sensitive environments such as those listed in OAR 340-122-0115(50), drinking water sources, and cultural sites.

(C) The base penalty from paragraph (A) is multiplied by the sum of the points from paragraph (B) to determine the adjusted base penalty. The civil penalty formula in OAR 340-012-0045 is applied using the adjusted base penalty for the BP factor.

(c) Any person who willfully or negligently causes or permits the discharge of oil to state waters will incur, in addition to any other penalty derived from application of the applicable penalty matrix in 340-012-0140(2) and the civil penalty formula contained in 340-012-0045, a civil penalty commensurate with the amount of damage incurred. The amount of the penalty will be determined by the director with the advice of the director of the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. In determining the amount of the penalty, the director may consider the gravity of the violation, the previous record of the violator in complying with the provisions of ORS 468B.450 to 468B.460, and such other considerations the director deems appropriate.

(d) Any person who has care, custody or control of a hazardous waste or a substance that would be a hazardous waste except for the fact that it is not discarded, useless or unwanted. will incur a civil penalty according to the schedule set forth in ORS 496.705 for the destruction, due to contamination of food or water supply by such waste or substance, of any of the wildlife referred to in ORS 496.705 that are property of the state.

(e) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of $500 to any owner or operator of a confined animal feeding operation that has not applied for or does not have a permit required by ORS 468B.050.

(2) Civil penalties for certain violations are subject to the following maximums in lieu of the maximum daily penalty provided in OAR 340-012-160(4):

(a) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of up to $1,000 for each day of violation to any person that fails to comply with the prohibitions on the sale or distribution of cleaning agents containing phosphorus in ORS 468B.130.

(b) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of up to $500 for each violation of each day to any person that fails to comply with Toxics Use Reduction and Hazardous Waste Reduction Act requirements of ORS 465.003 to 465.034.

(c) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of up to $500 for each violation of ORS 459.420 to 459.426. Each battery that is improperly disposed of is a separate violation, and each day an establishment fails to post the notice required by ORS 459.426 is a separate violation.

(d) DEQ may assess a civil penalty of up to $500 for each violation of the requirement to provide the opportunity to recycle as required by ORS 459A.005.

(3) DEQ may assess the civil penalties below in lieu of civil penalties calculated pursuant to OAR 340-012-0045:

(a) DEQ will assess a Field Penalty as specified under OAR 340-150-0250 unless DEQ determines that an owner, operator or permittee is not eligible for the Field Penalty.

(b) DEQ may assess Expedited Enforcement Offers as specified under OAR 340-012-0170(2).

DEQ Discretion Regarding Penalty Assessment

(1) In addition to the authority described in section (4) below, DEQ has the discretion to increase a base penalty determined under OAR 340-012-0140 to that derived using the next highest penalty matrix. Factors that may be taken into consideration in increasing a base penalty include the respondent's compliance history, the likelihood of future violations, the degree of environmental or human health impact, the deterrence impact and other similar factors.

(2) In determining a civil penalty, the director may reduce any penalty by any amount the director deems appropriate if the respondent has voluntarily disclosed the violation to DEQ. In deciding whether a violation has been voluntarily disclosed, the director may take into account any considerations the director deems appropriate, including whether the violation was:

(a) Discovered through an environmental auditing program or a systematic compliance program;

(b) Voluntarily discovered;

(c) Promptly disclosed;

(d) Discovered and disclosed independent of the government or a third party;

(e) Corrected and remedied;

(f) Prevented from recurring;

(g) Not repeated;

(h) Not the cause of significant harm to human health or the environment; and

(i) Disclosed and corrected in a cooperative manner.

(3) For the violation of spilling oil or hazardous materials into waters of the state, if the respondent exceeds relevant DEQ regulations pertaining to spill preparation and takes all other reasonably expected precautions to prevent spills and be prepared for spill response, DEQ may reduce the penalty for the spill by 10%. Depending on circumstances, such precautions may include, without limitation, employee safety training, company policies designed to reduce spill risks, availability of spill response equipment or staff, or use of alternative non-toxic oils.

(4) Regardless of any other penalty amount listed in this division, the director has the discretion to increase the penalty to $25,000 per violation per day of violation based upon the facts and circumstances of the individual case.

(5) DEQ may issue separate civil penalties to each potentially liable person for any violation or violations, regardless of whether the violations arise out of the same facts or circumstances, given compliance objectives, including the level of deterrence needed.

Inability to Pay the Penalty

(1) After a penalty is assessed, DEQ may reduce a penalty based on the respondent's inability to pay the full penalty amount. In order to do so, DEQ must receive information regarding the respondent's financial condition on a form required by DEQ along with any additional documentation requested by DEQ.

(2) If the respondent is currently unable to pay the full penalty amount, the first option is to place the respondent on a payment schedule with interest. DEQ may reduce the penalty only after determining that the respondent is unable to meet a payment schedule of a length DEQ determines is reasonable.

(3) In considering the respondent's ability to pay a civil penalty, DEQ may use the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's ABEL, INDIPAY or MUNIPAY computer models to evaluate a respondent's financial condition or ability to pay the full civil penalty amount. Upon request of the respondent, DEQ will provide the respondent the name of the version of the model used and respond to any reasonable request for information about the content or operation of the model;

(4) DEQ, at its discretion, may refuse to reduce an assessed civil penalty. In exercising this discretion, DEQ may take into consideration any factor related to the violations or the respondent, including but not limited to the respondent's mental state, whether the respondent has corrected the violation or taken efforts to ensure the violation will not be repeated, whether the respondent's financial condition poses a serious concern regarding the respondent's ability to remain in compliance, the respondent's future ability to pay, and the respondent's real property or other assets.

Stipulated Penalties

Nothing in OAR chapter 340, division 12 affects the ability of the commission or DEQ to include stipulated penalties in a Mutual Agreement and Order, Consent Order, Consent Judgment or any other order or agreement issued under ORS Chapters 183, 454, 459, 465, 466, 467, 468, 468A, or 468B.

Compromise or Settlement of Civil Penalty by DEQ

(1) DEQ may compromise or settle a civil penalty assessed in a formal enforcement action at any amount that DEQ deems appropriate. In determining whether a penalty should be compromised or settled, DEQ may take into account the following:

(a) New information obtained through further investigation or provided by the respondent that relates to the penalty determination factors contained in OAR 340-012-0045;

(b) The effect of compromise or settlement on deterrence;

(c) Whether the respondent has or is willing to employ extraordinary means to correct the violation or maintain compliance;

(d) Whether the respondent has had any previous penalties which have been compromised or settled;

(e) Whether the respondent has the ability to pay the civil penalty as determined by OAR 340-012-0162;

(f) Whether the compromise or settlement would be consistent with DEQ's goal of protecting human health and the environment; and

(g) The relative strength or weakness of DEQ's evidence.

(2) Expedited Enforcement Offers:

(a) DEQ may pursue informal disposition of any alleged violation by making an expedited enforcement offer.

(b) The decision as to whether to make an expedited enforcement offer with respect to any alleged violation is within DEQ's sole discretion, except as otherwise provided in this section (2).

(c) In determining whether to make an expedited enforcement offer, DEQ must consider the amount of the economic benefit gained by the alleged violator as a result of the noncompliance; whether the alleged violator has been the subject of a formal enforcement action or been issued a warning letter or pre-enforcement notice for the same or similar violations; whether the alleged violation is isolated or ongoing; and the mental state of the alleged violator.

(d) DEQ will not make an expedited enforcement offer to settle a Class I violation that has been repeated within the previous three years or to settle a violation that would be a major magnitude violation under OAR 340-012-0130(3) regardless of whether a selected magnitude under 340-012-0135 applies.

(e) The penalty amount for an alleged violation cited in an expedited enforcement offer will be 40% of the moderate base penalty listed in OAR 340-012-0140 under the applicable matrix and the applicable classification.

(f) Participation in the expedited enforcement program is voluntary. An alleged violator to whom DEQ makes an expedited enforcement offer is under no obligation to accept the offer.

(g) A person to whom an expedited enforcement offer is made has 30 calendar days from the date of the offer to accept the offer by paying the total amount stipulated in the expedited enforcement offer, or by making a payment toward the total amount if DEQ has approved a payment plan. The expedited enforcement offer payment and acceptance are deemed submitted when received by DEQ.

(h) By submitting payment to DEQ of the total amount stipulated in the expedited enforcement offer or a payment toward the total amount if DEQ has approved a payment plan, the alleged violator accepts the expedited enforcement offer, consents to the issuance of a final order of the commission which may include a compliance schedule, and agrees to waive any right to appeal or seek administrative or judicial review of the expedited enforcement offer, the final order, or any violation cited therein.

(i) Expedited enforcement offers incorporated into final orders of the commission will be treated as prior significant actions in accordance with OAR 340-012-0145.

(j) DEQ may initiate a formal enforcement action for any violation not settled by acceptance of the expedited enforcement offer.

State of Oregon Clean Air Act Implementation Plan

(1) This implementation plan, consisting of Volumes 2 and 3 of the State of Oregon Air Quality Control Program, contains control strategies, rules and standards prepared by DEQ and is adopted as the state implementation plan (SIP) of the State of Oregon pursuant to the federal Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C.A 7401 to 7671q.

(2) Except as provided in section (3), revisions to the SIP will be made pursuant to the Commission's rulemaking procedures in division 11 of this chapter and any other requirements contained in the SIP and will be submitted to the United States Environmental Protection Agency for approval. The State Implementation Plan was last modified by the Commission on December 11, 2013.

(3) Notwithstanding any other requirement contained in the SIP, DEQ may:

(a) Submit to the Environmental Protection Agency any permit condition implementing a rule that is part of the federally-approved SIP as a source-specific SIP revision after DEQ has complied with the public hearings provisions of 40 CFR 51.102 (July 1, 2002); and

(b) Approve the standards submitted by a regional authority if the regional authority adopts verbatim any standard that the Commission has adopted, and submit the standards to EPA for approval as a SIP revision.

NOTE: Revisions to the State of Oregon Clean Air Act Implementation Plan become federally enforceable upon approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency. If any provision of the federally approved Implementation Plan conflicts with any provision adopted by the Commission, DEQ shall enforce the more stringent provision.

Scope, Inclusion, and Modification of Rules

(1) The commercial groundfish fishery in the Pacific Ocean off Oregon is jointly managed by the state of Oregon and the federal government through the Pacific Fishery Management Council process. The Code of Federal Regulations provides federal requirements for this fishery, including but not limited to the time, place, and manner of taking groundfish. However, additional regulations may be promulgated subsequently by publication in the Federal Register, and these supersede, to the extent of any inconsistency, the Code of Federal Regulations. Therefore, the following publications are incorporated into Oregon Administrative Rule by reference:

(a) Code of Federal Regulations, Part 660, Subparts C, D, E and F (October 1, 2013 ed.);

(b) Federal Register Vol. 78, No. 2, dated January 3, 2013 (78 FR 580).

(2) Persons must consult the federal regulations in addition to Division 004 to determine all applicable groundfish fishing requirements. Where federal regulations refer to the fishery management area, that area is extended from shore to three nautical miles from shore coterminous with the Exclusive Economic Zone.

(3) The Commission may adopt additional or modified regulations that are more conservative than federal regulations, in which case Oregon Administrative Rule takes precedence. See OAR 635-004-0205 through 635-004-0235 and 635-004-0280 through 635-004-0365 for additions or modifications to federal groundfish regulations.

Renewal of Permit

(1) Black Rockfish/Blue Rockfish/Nearshore Fishery Permits may be renewed the following year:

(a) By submitting a $100.00 fee (plus $2.00 license agent fee) and a complete application to the Department date-stamped or postmarked by January 1 of the year the permit is sought for renewal; and

(b) If the provisions specified in ORS 508.957 have been met.

(2) An application for renewal of a Black Rockfish/Blue Rockfish/Nearshore Fishery Permit shall be considered complete if it is legible, has all information requested in the form, and is accompanied by the required fee in full.

(3) Permits issued under this rule expire on December 31 of each year. If an owner of a vessel with a permit does not submit a complete renewal application by January 1 of the permit year sought, the owner may renew the permit by submitting a complete renewal application after January 1 but before April 1 of the permit year sought if the owner pays a $150.00 late fee in addition to the fee required under section (1)(a) of this rule.

(4) It is the responsibility of the permittee to ensure that an application is complete and is filed in a timely manner. Failure of the Department to return an application for incompleteness or of an individual to receive a returned application may not be grounds for treating the application as having been filed in a timely and complete manner.

The black and blue rockfish landed under this subsection must be landed dead. A vessel that lands black rockfish or blue rockfish under this section may land up to 100 pounds of black and blue rockfish in aggregate, per landing. Inclusions and Modifications

(1) The 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations provide requirements for sport fisheries for marine fish, shellfish, and marine invertebrates in the Pacific Ocean, coastal bays, and beaches, commonly referred to as the Marine Zone. However, additional regulations may be adopted in this rule division from time to time and to the extent of any inconsistency, they supersede the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations.

(2) For the purposes of this rule, a "sport harvest cap" is defined as the amount that may be impacted (combined landings and other fishery related mortality) by the Oregon sport fishery in a single calendar year. The sport harvest caps are:

(a) Black rockfish, 440.8 metric tons.

(b) Cabezon, 16.8 metric tons.

(3) For the purposes of this rule, "Other nearshore rockfish" means the following rockfish species: black and yellow (Sebastes chrysolmelas); brown (S. auriculatus); calico (S. dalli); China (S. nebulosus); copper (S. caurinus); gopher (S. carnatus); grass (S. rastelliger); kelp (S. atrovirens); olive (S. serranoides); quillback (S. maliger); and treefish (S. serriceps).

(4) For the purposes of this rule a "sport landing cap" is defined as the total landings for a given species, or species group, that may be taken in a single calendar year by the ocean boat fishery. The sport landing caps are:

(a) Black rockfish and blue rockfish combined, 481.8 metric tons.

(b) Other nearshore rockfish, 13.6 metric tons.

(c) Greenling, 5.2 metric tons.

(5) In addition to the regulations for Marine Fish in the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations, the following apply for the sport fishery in the Marine Zone in 2014:

(a) Lingcod (including green colored lingcod): 2 fish daily bag limit.

(b) All rockfish ("sea bass" "snapper"), greenling ("sea trout"), cabezon, skates, and other marine fish species not listed in the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations in the Marine Zone, located under the category of Species Name, Marine Fish: 7 fish daily bag limit in aggregate (total sum or number), of which no more than one be a cabezon. Retention of the following species is prohibited:

(A) Yelloweye rockfish;

(B) Canary rockfish; and

(C) Cabezon from January 1 through June 30.

(c) Flatfish (flounder, sole, sanddabs, turbot, and all halibut species except Pacific halibut): 25 fish daily bag limit in aggregate (total sum or number).

(d) Retention of all marine fish listed under the category of Species Name, Marine Fish, except Pacific cod, sablefish, herring, anchovy, smelt, sardine, striped bass, hybrid bass, and offshore pelagic species (excluding leopard shark and soupfin shark), is prohibited when Pacific halibut is retained on the vessel during open days for the all-depth sport fishery for Pacific halibut north of Humbug Mountain. Persons must also consult all publications referenced in OAR 635-039-0080 to determine all rules applicable to the taking of Pacific halibut.

(e) Harvest methods and other specifications for marine fish in subsections (5)(a), (5)(b) and (5)(c) including the following:

(A) Minimum length for lingcod, 22 inches.

(B) Minimum length for cabezon, 16 inches.

(C) Minimum length for greenling, 10 inches.

(D) May be taken by angling, hand, bow and arrow, spear, gaff hook, snag hook and herring jigs.

(E) Mutilating the fish so the size or species cannot be determined prior to landing or transporting mutilated fish across state waters is prohibited.

(f) Sport fisheries for species in subsections (5)(a), (5)(b) and (5)(c) and including leopard shark and soupfin shark are open January 1 through December 31, twenty-four hours per day, except as provided in subsections (5)(a) and (5)(d), and ocean waters are closed for these species during April 1 through September 30, outside of the 30-fathom curve (defined by latitude and longitude) as shown on Title 50 Code of Federal Regulations Part 660 Section 71. A 20-fathom, 25-fathom, or 30-fathom curve, as shown on Title 50 Code of Federal Regulations Part 660 Section 71 may be implemented as the management line as in-season modifications necessitate. In addition, the following management lines may be used to set area specific regulations for inseason action only:

(A) Cape Lookout (45°20'30" N latitude); and

(B) Cape Blanco (42°50'20" N latitude).

(g) The Stonewall Bank Yelloweye Rockfish Conservation Area (YRCA) is defined by coordinates specified in Title 50 Code of Federal Regulations Part 660 Section 70 (October 1, 2013 ed.). Within the YRCA, it is unlawful to fish for, take, or retain species listed in subsections (5)(a), (5)(b) and (5)(c) of this rule, leopard shark, soupfin shark, and Pacific halibut using recreational fishing gear. A vessel engaged in recreational fishing within the YRCA is prohibited from possessing any species listed in subsections (5)(a), (5)(b) and (5)(c) of this rule, leopard shark, soupfin shark, and Pacific halibut. Recreational fishing vessels in possession of species listed in subsections (5)(a), (5)(b) and (5)(c) and including leopard shark, soupfin shark, and Pacific halibut may transit the YRCA without fishing gear in the water.

(h) Effective April 1, 2013, the annual bag and possession limit for white sturgeon is two (2) fish and catch-and-release angling for white sturgeon is allowed year-round. Effective January 1, 2014, all waters within the Marine Zone are closed to the retention of white sturgeon and catch-and-release angling is allowed year-round.

(6) Razor clams may be taken by hand, shovel, or cylindrical gun or tube. The opening of the gun/tube must be either circular or elliptical with the circular gun/tube opening having a minimum outside diameter of 4 inches and the elliptical gun/tube opening having minimum outside diameter dimensions of 4 inches long and 3 inches wide.

Inclusions and Modifications

(1) OAR 635-013-0005 through 635-013-0009 modify or are in addition to provisions contained in Code of Federal Regulations, Title 50, Part 660, Subparts A and H, and the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations.

(2) The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Title 50, Part 660, Subparts A and H, and the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations contain requirements for sport salmon angling in the Pacific Ocean off the Oregon coast. However, additional regulations may be adopted from time to time, and, to the extent of any inconsistency, they supersede the published federal regulations and the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations. This means that persons must consult not only the federal regulations and the published sport fishing regulations but also the Department's web page to determine all applicable sport fishing regulations.

(3) This rule contains requirements that modify sport salmon angling regulations off the Oregon coast. The following modifications are organized in sections that apply to the ocean sport salmon fishery in general and within management zones established by the Pacific Fishery Management Council and enacted by Federal Regulations (CFR, Title 50, Part 660, Subparts A and H).

Inclusions and Modifications

(1) The 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations provide requirements for the Southwest Zone. However, additional regulations may be adopted in this rule division from time to time and to the extent of any inconsistency, they supersede the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations.

(2) Notwithstanding all other requirements provided in the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations, the following restrictions apply to angling in waters of the Southwest Zone:

(a) Within the Umpqua River Basin the following additional rules apply: Open for non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in the Mainstem Umpqua River and Bay from the mouth to Scottsburg Bridge at RM 27.5 from September 15 through the earlier of November 30 or attainment of an adult coho quota of 3,000 non adipose fin-clipped coho. The daily catch limit may include one adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon per day and one non adipose fin-clipped jack coho per day, and no more than 2 total adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in the seasonal aggregate from all waters in the Northwest Zone and Southwest Zone with a 2 adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon seasonal aggregate limit (Siletz River, Yaquina River, Alsea River, Siuslaw River, Beaver Creek (Ona Beach), Floras Creek/New River, Coos River, and Coquille River).

(b) Within the Coos River Basin the following additional rules apply:

(A) All waters of the South Fork Coos River upstream from the head of tidewater at Dellwood at RM 10.0 are closed for all salmon angling from August 1 through December 31 and closed for steelhead from August 1 through November 14; and

(B) Open for non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon upstream to the head of tide at Dellwood at RM 10.0 on the South Coos River and to the East Fork/West Fork Millicoma confluence from September 15 through November 30. The daily catch limit may include one adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon per day and one non adipose fin-clipped jack coho salmon per day, and no more than 2 total adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in the seasonal aggregate from all waters in the Northwest Zone and Southwest Zone with a 2 adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon seasonal aggregate limit (Siletz River, Umpqua River, Yaquina River, Alsea River, Siuslaw River, Beaver Creek (Ona Beach), Floras Creek/New River, and Coquille River).

(c) Within the Coquille River Basin the following additional rules apply: Open for non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in Coquille River and Bay upstream to the Highway 42S bridge (Sturdivant Park) at RM 24.0 from September 15 through November 30. The daily catch limit may include one adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon per day and one non adipose fin-clipped jack coho salmon per day, and no more than 2 total adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in the seasonal aggregate from all waters in the Northwest Zone and Southwest Zone with a 2 adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon seasonal aggregate limit (Siletz River, Umpqua River, Yaquina River, Alsea River, Siuslaw River, Beaver Creek (Ona Beach), Floras Creek/New River, and Coos River).

(d) Within the Tenmile Lakes Basin the following additional rules apply: North and South Tenmile Lakes (Coos County) upstream from Hilltop Bridge are open for non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon from October 1 through December 31. The daily catch limit may include one adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon per day and one non adipose fin-clipped jack coho salmon, and no more than 5 total adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon in the seasonal aggregate from all waters in the Northwest Zone and Southwest Zone. Only one rod per angler may be used while angling for coho. Streams that empty into North and South Tenmile Lakes are not open to coho salmon angling, nor is the canal that connects North and South Tenmile Lakes.

(e) Within the Floras Creek/New River Basin the following additional rules apply:

(A) All waters of Floras Creek/New River Basin that are open for Chinook salmon are limited to no more than one adult non fin-clipped Chinook salmon per day and 10 adult non fin-clipped Chinook salmon in the seasonal aggregate when combined with waters of the Sixes River, Elk River, and Elk River Ocean Terminal Area. Seasonal aggregate applies to all adult non fin-clipped Chinook salmon retained between August 1 and December 31; and

(B) Floras Creek/New River from the Bureau of Land Management boat ramp at Storm Ranch upstream to the confluence with the Floras Lake outlet open on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays ONLY for non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon from November 1-30 or until attainment of an adult coho quota of 200 fish. The daily catch limit may include one adult non adipose fin-clipped coho salmon per day and one non adipose fin-clipped jack coho salmon, and no more than 2 non adipose fin-clipped salmon in the seasonal aggregate from all waters in the Northwest Zone and Southwest Zone with a 2 adult non adipose fin-clipped coho season aggregate limit (Siletz River, Yaquina River, Beaver Creek (Ona Beach), Alsea River, Siuslaw River, Umpqua River, Coos River, and Coquille River).

Sturgeon Season

(1) The 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations provide requirements for the Willamette Zone. However, additional regulations may be adopted in this rule division from time to time and to the extent of any inconsistency, they supersede the 2014 Oregon Sport Fishing Regulations.

(2) Effective January 1, 2014, all waters within the Willamette Zone are closed to the retention of white sturgeon, except for the Willamette River upstream of Willamette Falls.

(3) Catch-and-release angling for white sturgeon is allowed year-round except as described below in sections (4) and (6).

(4) Bank angling is prohibited from the east shore of the Willamette River the entire year in the area beginning west of Highway 99E, at the northern-most extent of the parking area near the intersection of 8th Street and Highway 99E in Oregon City, approximately 290 feet downstream of the Oregon City/West Linn bridge (Hwy 43) and extending upstream approximately 1715 feet to the retaining wall extending into the Willamette River at the NW corner of the Blue Heron Paper Mill.

(5) Retention of green sturgeon is prohibited all year in all areas.

(6) Angling for sturgeon, including catch-and-release, is prohibited seven days per week during May 1 through August 31 from Willamette Falls downstream to the Lake Oswego-Oak Grove Railroad Bridge.

Purpose and General Information

(1) The purpose of these rules is to establish license and tag requirements, limits, areas, methods and other restrictions for hunting game mammals pursuant to ORS Chapter 496.

(2) OAR chapter 635, division 65 incorporates, by reference, the requirements for hunting game mammals set out in the document entitled 2014 Oregon Big Game Regulations, into Oregon Administrative Rules. Therefore, persons must consult the "2014 Oregon Big Game Regulations" in addition to OAR chapter 635, to determine all applicable requirements for game mammals. The annual Oregon Big Game Regulations are available at hunting license agents and regional, district, and headquarters offices, and website of the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife.
