| 043              | Diane Lewis               | Committee Administrator. Gives background information on HB 3339.                                                                                  |
| 051              | Chair Kruse               | Explains that the -1 amendments are to "gut and stuff" the bill                                                                                    |
|                  |                           | (EXHIBIT A).                                                                                                                                       |
| 060              | Andrea Easton             | Legislative Assistant to Chair Kruse. Testifies in favor of HB                                                                                     |
|                  |                           | 3339 and the –1 amendments. Explains that the bill is the outcome of the 2000 and 2001 flu seasons and the delay in the obtaining of vaccinations. |

| 087 | Katy King                | Intergovernmental Relations Liaison for the Oregon Health Division. Submits written testimony in support of HB 3339 (EXHIBIT B). Believes that the bill assures access to flu vaccines, immune products and other medications for high-risk |

| 126 | Chair Kruse              | groups.  Notes that the Child Development Clinic of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention requires the Health Division to                                                                                                          |
| 129 | Bruce Bishop             | do pandemic planning. Aventis Pasteur, Vaccine and Biological Product Manufacturer. Submits and presents written testimony in favor of HB 3339 (EHXIBIT C).                                                                                 |
| 142 | Rep. Krummel             | Asks about what constitutes "shortages" and "emergencies".                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 159 | Bishop                   | Responds that the original bill would have established standards but that the -1 amendments authorize the Health Division to come up with a flexible plan that would fit each crisis situation.                                             |
| 175 | Rep. Walker              | Speaks directly to Section 2 of the -1 amendments and asks for clarification of the description of the vaccine and whether or not they are the 'antiviral' type of medications.                                                             |
| 187 | King                     | Responds that HB 3339 was developed to include many different vaccines, and not just vaccines for the flu.                                                                                                                                  |
| 196 | Rep. Walker              | Shares concern that the broad definition of vaccines may not include every patient's ailment.                                                                                                                                               |
| 202 | King                     | Responds that the provisions in the bill would only be implemented in the case of an extreme shortage or delay in vaccines.                                                                                                                 |
| 213 | Rep. Walker              | Believes that the terms "immune products" and "chemoproflactic medications" are too broad.                                                                                                                                                  |
| 218 | Rep. Monnes-Anderson | Comments that she likes the -1 amendments more than the original bill. Asks who will be responsible for "imposing civil penalties".                                                                                                         |
| 234 | King                     | Responds that the Health Division will develop these penalties along with other stakeholders and will only be used in extreme cases.                                                                                                        |
| 256 | Rep. Monnes-Anderson | Offers personal anecdote to describe the difficulty of the flu vaccine shortage during the 2001 flu season.                                                                                                                                 |
| 272 | King                     | Notes that there was a crisis across the entire country and that people pulled together in order to deal most effectively with the problem.                                                                                                 |
| 290 | Chair Kruse              | Points out that HB 3339 is for purpose of implementing an early warning system.                                                                                                                                                             |
| 299 | Rep. Lee                 | Comments that clinics were not able to obtain the vaccines because large chain-store pharmacies were buying up all the vaccines.                                                                                                            |
| 304 | Rep. Barnhart            | Speaks to the importance of proper implementation and asks ifthis may be a solution that is worse than the problem it is tryingto solve.                                                                                            |
| 318 | King                     | Responds that the intent of the Health Division is a proper implementation that will not result in the necessity of the civil penalties.                                                                                                    |
| 337 | Chair Kruse              | Comments that it is safe to assume that 99% of vaccine distributors will follow proper guidelines, but that punitive rules are important for 1% of the time.                                                                                |
| 344 | Lewis                    | Asks how many people die from influenza each year.                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 342 | King                     | Responds that 20,000 persons die each year nationally.                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|     |                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

| Responds that the 1918 flu pandemic took 20,000,000 lives worldwide.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 361         | Rep. Barnhart   | Remarks that influenza has the potential for being a huge problem in a given year and reminds the committee of the 1918 flu pandemic. |

| presents written testimony in favor of SB 162A (EXHIBIT D).  Asks what is "the emergency".  Responds that there is no emergency but she feels all members of the board should be paid the same amount, and hopes that this change can be made promptly.  Comments that without the emergency clause, action is not taken on a 'new law' until January 1 of the year after the legislature meets.  Rep. Lee  Asks where the money comes from that will pay the board members more equitably.  Responds that the money comes from the licensing fees. | 348           | Rep. Barnhart | Asks if the amendments make a "practical change" to the board's authority.                                                                                                                             |
| 346           | Bigger        | Responds that the amendments just "affirm current law".                                                                                                                                                |
| 360           | Rep. Tomei    | Refers to lines 12-17 of the original bill and asks if someone has let their license lapse but have paid their fees before a 12-month period occurs, they do not have to take the test.                |
| 381           | McTeague      | Responds affirmatively.                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 383           | Rep. Tomei    | Asks if the bill actually addresses the necessity of a test "after 12 months".                                                                                                                         |
| 388           | McTeague      | Responds that the second line in Second 3 addresses this issue.                                                                                                                                        |
